ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 1, 1900. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

COST OF WIDENING WESTFIELD AVENUE.

Report of Commissioners Filed With the County Clerk This Morning.

AWARDS OF ABOUT $74,000.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT LIKELY TO PROCEED AT ONCE.

The Avenue will be Widened Only as Far as the Cranford Township Line, Though—Senator Kean's Offer.

County Attorney Codington, of this city, went to Elizabeth this morning where he filed with County Clerk Howard the report of the commissioners appointed by the Supreme Court to appraise property and fix damages for the widening of Westfield avenue to a boulevard.

The improvement proposed has been widely discussed for months, but owing to the impossibility for a long time of getting property owners to agree to take what seemed reasonable compensation for their property, it looked as if the entire project would fall through.

The original plan was to widen Westfield avenue, from Orchard street in Elizabeth to Plainfield, to 100 feet, giving a double driveway (one of which would be the present telford pavement, which would not be disturbed), with a double track trolley road in the centre. For the franchise for this electric road Senator John Kean offered the county $250,000, which was to be expended in the work of widening the avenue.

The widening was to be done by taking the additional 33 1-3 feet required from the frontage of all the property on the north side of the street as it now is. It was soon found by a canvass that it would be impossible to get many of the property owners to agree to accept such compensation for the frontage and the moving of buildings, etc., as would come within the estimated cost of the improvement, and commissioners were therefore appointed by the court to fix fair valuations.

The commission consists of James O. Clark, Joseph A. Hubbard and F. C. Marsh. With the valuable assistance of County Attorney Codington, these gentlemen have listened to testimony, viewed the property, and altogether given much time and labor to the matter.

The report which they filed is voluminous, covering over 100 pages of typewritten copy, and is exhaustive in every detail. It, however, covers the ground only from Elizabeth to the easterly line of Cranford townspip, Cranford residents seemingly being averse to the extension of the great improvement through that township, and thus blocking the way, at least for a time, for the fulfilment of the project as at first proposed.

As Senator Kean agreed to the new arrangement, and offered to pay proportionately for the franchise as far as the right of way could be secured, it was deemed wise to file this report and thus prepare the way for the work as far as practicable under the abridged plans.

The awards to property owners will be generally satisfactory, and the amounts will aggregate between $73,000 and $74,000, Seator Kean agreed to give $73,000 for the franchise over this section of the route.

Judge VanSyckel will sign an order appointing a hearing, so that persons dissatisfied with their awards may state their objections.

Milkmen Under Arrest

There are three milkmen awaiting trial before Justice of the Peace W. R. Frazee in the Rahway courts, one of whom resides in Rahway, the others in Clark township. There were indications a couple of days ago that there would be at least a half-dozen more cases, but warnings seems to have been operated most effectually. The fine in case of conviction is $50 for the first offence, with a doubling of the penalty if the violation is repeated.

F. W. Honeycutt at West Point.

One of the cadets recently appointed by the President under the act of June 6, 1900, providing for the ten additional cadets to West Point from the United States at large, was Francis W. Honeycutt, son of J. T. Honeycutt, 6th artillery, who died in Florida in 1898. This young cadet, now at West Point, is a nephew of Martin I. Cooley, of Rock view avenue.

Hope for His Recovery.

Word was received this morning from Dr. Endicott that his son, George, who is very ill at Copake, N. Y., is now improving and hopes are entertained for his ultimate recovery.

FELL IN DITCH AND DIED

EMIL FUNGER'S LIFE ENDED BY AN APOPLETIC FIT.

When He Lived at Scotch Plains He Became Daft and Staid Out in the Woods for a Week.

Emil Funger, a farmer, who resided with his wife and family on the Springfield road at Mountainside, died in a ditch on his place Sunday. The man expired within a few feet of his home before assistance could arrive.

Funger conducted an extensive milk route at Westfield, and after finishing his route Sunday returned to his home about 10 o'clock. He unhitched his horse in the farmyard and the animal found its own way to the barn nearby. Funger started to walk toward the barn, when he fell in an apoplectic fit. His wife was looking for him to return, and, seeing the wagon standing in the yard, thought it peculiar that her husband did not come to breakfast. She went out into the yard to find her husband lying in the ditch and gasping his last breath.

Funger and his family went to Mountainside to live two years ago. Previous to that time they resided on the old Nodyne farm in Scotch Plains While living there Funger disappeared from home three years ago and was gone for over a week. He lived in the woods on berries and herbs, and when he returned to his wife his mind was in a dazed condition, and his body and clothing were torn by briars and undergrowth of the woods. When he came home he asked for work and did not know his wife. He was given work and eventually his senses returned to him.

County Physician Westcott has given a permit for burial.

REDUCING THE GRADE.

One Side of Watchung Avenue Now Fixed in Accordance With Lowering of Tracks.

The work of reducing the Watchung avenue grade under the railroad bridge is progressing rapidly. The east side of the roadway has been reduced to the new grade and only needs the top dressing of fine stone and plenty of rolling to complete it. The gang of laborers began yesterday to tear out the west side of the street, now that the other side was passible for traffic. The west side will be in shape for use before the week is over, although it will probably be two weeks before the work is completed.

At present the street is not in the most satisfactory condition for wheelmen as the crushed stone on the east side is apt to cut the tires. It is ridable, however, and no blockade to the regular traffic through that thoroughfare has yet been caused.

The flagging on the east sidewalk has been taken up and the grade of the sidewalk is being lowered to conform with that of the street. As soon as one side is completed, the other sidewalk will be lowered.

THE ABANDONED TOTS.

The One Found Yesterday Seems to be Improving—Other Little One Has Been Very Ill.

The city of Plainfield is now acting parent to two abandoned little tots. The negro boy baby, found in Minford's woods yesterday morning, is still at the hospital but seems to be improving. He has not yet recovered from the effects of the continued exposure to wind and weather but will undoubtedly live. The other tot, the white lad found in the hedge on Farragut road, has been very ill and is now but slightly improved. He is still in charge of Acting Overseer-of-the-Poor Houson but arrangements are being made to put the child in charge of a family in Brooklyn.

Took Grand Lodge Degree.

Past Grands James Brown and Alex. Muir, of Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., were present at the general sessions held at Newark last evening, and took the Grand Lodge degree. There were 147 past grands from all parts of the State who were initiated. John Becker, of the local lodge, took his degree yesterday afternoon.

BAD FALL FROM BICYCLE.

William Herling Injured so Badly That He Had to be Sent to the Hospital.

Shortly before 11 o'clock last night William Herling, a colored man living on West Third street, was seen riding down that street, near New street, on his bicycle. Just as he reached the corner a crash was heard and when several residents of the vicinity rushed to his assistance he was found lying tangled up in the wheel, unable to move or speak. He was bleeding profusely from a gash over the right temple. After placing him on the sidewalk, Joseph Noel telephoned for the ambulance and he was taken to the hospital. The gash was found to be the main injury and he will not be kept at the institution very long. Just how he fell is uncertain as he does not know. It was undoubtedly caused by by a dinner pail he was carrying catching between his knee and handlebars.

TROLLEY TO PERTH AMBOY.

Raritan Township Committee Pass the Ordinance.

At the meeting of the Raritan Township Committee recently right of way was granted to the Perth Amboy Traction Company from Perth Amboy to Metuchen through the township. The ordinance was taken up for final reading at this meeting and was passed unanimously.

This action gives the trolley company a franchise which will enable it to connect with the lines of the Somerset and Middlesex Traction Company at Metuchen, and will give New Brunswick direct connection with Perth Amboy, which is sure to be beneficial to both places. Work will be started on the line as soon as possible. The company is already operating a line in Perth Amboy, which has so far been very successful.

The chief opposition to the trolley that developed at the meeting was from Martin Schantz and the Pfeiffer family. Mr. Shantz wanted the south side of the road instead of the north. The only thing that is needed to go ahead is the consent of the Board of Freeholders to go over the county roads. The company thinks this consent will be given, and is going ahead with its plans and ordered material for the road.

A DEFICIT OF $85

Trinity Reformed Church Excursion Didn't Pay All Expenses

The excursion to Asbury Park yesterday under the auspices of Trinity Reformed church and Maroonnier chapel Sunday-schools was one of the most successful ever held, although they have an excursion deficit of about $85. The day was a delightful one at the shore, and the excursionists thoroughly enjoyed the strong invigorating sea breeze. Very fortunately not an accident of any kind happened throughout the day to mar the pleasure of a single person that went on the excursion, and everyone felt well repaid for the few days they had to wait, owing to the rain which caused a postponement of the excursion. The train reach home last night about 9 o'clock, bringing the tired, but happy crowd.

WORK ACTUALLY STARTED ON DEPOT.

Ground Broken Yesterday Afternoon for the Foundation of the New Structure.

TO MAKE PRETTY PARK ALSO

CONTRACTOR ALLOWED THREE MONTHS TO DO THE WORK

If Over Three Months is Consumed in the Work There Will be a Reduction in the Amount Paid—The Building Will be Pushed.

Ground was broken for the new eastbound depot of the Jersey Central Railroad yesterday afternoon. There wasn't a Plainfielder who saw the gang of men at work digging the excavation for the foundation but was well pleased that the long talked-of improvement to the railroad facilities in this city was finally begun. It has been talked of for years, and for two years, at least, the railroad officials have promised that it would surely come to pass.

The plan of the railroad company, in brief, is to erect waiting rooms and a long covered platform on the south side of tracks for the accommodation of the east bound passengers. Fences will separate the east bound from the west bound tracks and a subway will be used to connect the two stations. The ticket office and baggage rooms will continue in their present quarters.

The contract for the erection of the new station was given to the McMillen Construction Company, of New York, which has sublet the contract for the mason work to Titus H. Laury, of this city. A gang of ten men, in the employ of Contractor Laury, started work yesterday afternoon in making the excavation for the brick foundation. The location had already been staked out by the railroad company's engineers.

W. F. Stark, a civil engineer in the employ of the Central Railroad, was at work this morning, assisted by Oscar Runyon, of Dunellen, in taking levels of the approaches to the station. The railroad company intends to make a pretty little park in front of the new station, with well-kept roadways and paths leading to it. This work will be done as soon as the station is completed.

The principal contractor is allowed three months for the completion of the building. If it is finished before that time the payment will be slightly increased, depending on the number of days. If over three months are required there will be a deduction for the length of over time. By this means it is greatly to to the contractor's interests to complete the work as speedily as possible.

Superintendent George Fox, of the McMillen Construction Company, visited Building Inspector T. O. Doane yesterday and brought with him a set of plans of the new station for inspection. The structure is substantially built and more than answers the requirements of the building ordinance. Mr. Fox took a blank application for a permit with him and will make application tomorrow. There will be no delay in the granting of the permit so that the work of construction can start as soon as the excavation is completed.

CARRIERS' VACATIONS.

Changes on the Staff at the Postoffice—Hereafter Only Two Regular Men to be Away at Same Time.

There were a number of changes this morning in the carrier force of the Plainfield postoffice as a result of the beginning and ending of the summer vacations of several of the carriers. Carriers Charles Glentzer and William Demarest returned to duty this morning after their vacation of fifteen days. Carriers Edward Van Winkle and J. W. A. Bauersachs started this morning on their vacations. VanWinkle goes to Schenectady and Bauersachs to Newark. Carriers Phillip Guise and Edward T. Dunn return to duty tomorrow.

Hereafter only two of the carriers will be on their vacations at a time and Substitutes Frank Clarkson and William Thorn will carry the routes, the other two substitutes being laid off.

Hit by Ton Rail.

Daniel Sullivan, of West Third street, an employe of the Pond Tool Works, met with a rather serious accident while at work this morning. While standing near an inclined plane a large rail weighing nearly a ton which was resting on it, rolled down and struck him in the lower limbs. Although no bones were broken he was badly hurt. He was taken home in a carriage.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. McGee, of Orchard avenue, left yesterday for a trip to Nova Scotia.

A FARM SCHOOL PROJECT.

The Practical Scheme About To Be Put in Operation at Gladstone in Somerset County.

The proposed farm school, near Gladstone, to be supported by wealthy Bernardsville Episcopalians, is now taking concrete form. Its projector is the Rev. T. A. Conover, rector of St. Bernard's parish. It is to be modeled after English institutions of a similar character. The old Hilliard place, near Gladstone, containing 125 acres of land, has been rented and stocked. The farm work will be under the direction of a competent farmer. The rector of St. Bernard's will live on the farm and also conduct the school.

Of his plan he says: "In addition to the ordinary academic course, it is proposed to give the boys instructions and practical experience in farming, more especially in the department of dairying, poultry, fruit, vegetables and gardening, and later also in carpentering and other trades. In the department of farming named a boy should do as much as a man, if properly taught. The man's superior strength is not needed on a truck and poultry farm, and, therefore, a boy ought always to be able to pay for his board after a year's experience.

"The plan proposed is to credit a boy with as much as his work is worth, which amount shall go toward his board, and, in some cases, toward his tuition."

The rector has made an appeal for funds to carry on the work, and as St. Bernard's parish is one of the wealthiest in the State, there is every prospect of ample aid.

The experiment will be watched with great interest in Bernardsville, and, no doubt, throughout the State.

TROLLEY CREW POISONED.

Passengers on the Westfield-Elizabeth Line Run Car From Roselle to Westfield.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, August 1—A car on the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway was run into Westfield Monday night by two of the passengers. The motorman, Joseph Malone, and the conductor, George Mitchell, became very ill, with symptoms of poisoning, presumably the result of drinking root beer in Elizabeth. The men drank the beer just before leaving the city, and were taken sick as the car reached Roselle.

Both foamed at the mouth. The passengers became greatly excited, but one of them, who explained to the other passengers that he was an electrical engineer, took the motorman's place. The sick men were brought to the railroad office in this town and Dr. R R. Sinclair summoned. An examination showed they were poisoned. Later they were reported out of danger.

John Woodbury, of the Christian Alliance Mission at Tientsin, and Dr. Wang, a native convert, will make interesting addresses, telling about the condition of affairs in Pekin and Tientsin. Both Mr. Woodburry and Dr. Wang are talented speakers, and they will no doubt have something of intense interest to tell about the troubles in China, where the eyes of the world are now turned.

Mr. Morse, with his usual hospitality, extends a cordial and hearty invitation to all persons interested to attend the meeting. His residence is in Centre street, Garwood, and can easily be reached by trolley or steam road.

HELD BY ATTACHMENT.

WESLEY R. BROKAW HAS TROUBLE WITH A CREDITOR.

Was About to Move His Stock to New York When Constable Served the Document.

Yesterday morning Wesley R. Brokaw was in business on Park avenue, where he conducted a piano and general music store. Today he has the store, but the piano and music part of it has been transferred to Hand's storage warerooms. It will remain there until Mr. Brokaw is able to pay an alleged protested check held by Lockhardt & Belder, a piano firm doing business in New York. The check was given to the firm by Brokaw in payment for a piano. When it was refused at the bank they resolved to get paid for the instrument somehow, and accordingly their representative appeared before Justice Nash and had an attachment issued on Brokaw's goods. It was served by Constable Frank Vanderhoof. He was none too soon, however, as Brokaw had intended moving his goods to New York, and they were already loaded on Captain Hand's trucks. Instead of going to New York, however, the trucks were driven to the storage warerooms and placed therein.

If Brokaw makes a settlement they will be released, but if not they will be sold after due process of the law. William N. Runyon is Lockhardt & Belder's counsel.

FOR HEAVY TRAFFIC.

New Macadam to be Laid on Park Avenue Between Fourth and Front Streets.

The street committee is now about ready to commence operations on Park avenue, between Fourth street and Front street. The work will probably be started the last of this week. The committee intend to lay a very heavy piece of macadam road that will stand the travel which that road is subject to, and they believe that they can make the road very satisfactory. The heaviest materials will be used throughout and everything put in the macadam will be for hard wear. It is now believed that the street has been opened all that is necessary, all connections having been made. If the macadam is allowed to remain undisturbed there is no doubt but what travelers will be pleased with the job, but if it is to be torn up frequently it will not be long before the street will reach its present condition. At any rate any improvement over the present roadbed will be welcomed, and everyone hopes that the road will be a good one.

One of the most attractive sights to be witnessed about town is the green vine that is now in the height of its beauty and which covers the south end of the Walter Scott Printing Machine Works on South avenue. PLANS OF CAMPAIGN IN SOMERSET COUNTY

Speechmaking and Distribution of Literature Will Be Principal Eeatures.

WILL START IN SEPTEMBER.

ACTIVITY WILL NOT REACH HEIGHT UNTIL COUNTY CONVENTION.

Democrats Began Work Last Winter—Republican Plans—County Committee to Furnish Speakers—To Arrange Meetings.

Although Somerset county was ordinarily classed in the doubtful column by the Republican leaders there was no uncertain tone to its Republicanism at the election last fall. Four years ago it also gave a big majority to the Republican candidates. In the campaign that is soon to begin, it promises to be the scene of a hot fight. During the past year the Democrats of Somerset have shown unwonted activity and they are hoping that the factional differences that disturbed the Republican party last fall will aid their efforts in an attempt to swing Somerset into the Democratic line.

The campaign really began last winter when a series of political meetings were inaugurated by the Democratic organization at Nechanic. Other meetings were held throughout the outlying sections of the county. A few weeks ago the Democrats of Somerville held a ratification meeting. General activity under the direct supervision of the regular party organization will not begin before September and the fight is not likely to get well under way before a month later.

The Republican campaign in Somerset county will be conducted on the same lines as in the rest of the State. Speechmaking and the distribution of literature will be the chief parts, as the old-fashioned spectacular campaigning has largely passed away. The State committee will probably look to the furnishing of the literature and will depend on the local organizations to see that it is properly distributed. Those little "heart-to-heart" talks with the undecided ones will figure largely.

Not until the nominations for County Clerk and Assemblyman are made will the campaign reach its height. The candidates will cover the county as far as possible and will have a regular tour of the chief places made out. As far as the county committee is concerned it will allow the local organizations to take the initiative in arranging for mass-meetings, and will simply make provision for the speakers in connection with the State committee. The State committee has a number of the best campaign orators of the party in view, and will arrange a series of dates for them throughout the State. The doubtful counties will, of course, receive the most attention.

As far as campaign clubs are concerned the more there are the better pleased are the party leaders. North Plainfield has the old U. S. Grant Club, which will be put on a firm basis in a month or so. The borough's new organization, the North Plainfield Republican Club, will meet with no opposition from the county leaders despite the fact that those prominent in its formation were arrayed against the faction in power. Any effort in behalf of the Republican cause will be gladly welcomed. The success or failure of it will depend on those who are in control.

As far as the National campaign work is concerned, the residents of the borough will get the advantages of any of the mass meetings that may be held in this city. This will have its effect and there will be fewer meetings in the borough in consequence. The county ticket across the brook is a different one, however, and the county candidates will appear at a mass meeting there which will be in behalf of both National and county ticket. The Congressional campaign committee will also have to make different provisions for city and borough as they are in different districts.

Strikes at End.

The strike at the various mines in Morris county is practically over. Sheriff Baker has withdrawn all his deputies and no further trouble for the present is anticipated. The strike has proven a failure for the strikers, who now say they were lead into it by some hot-headed labor agitators. All the strikers have returned to work at the Hibernia mines and nearly all have gone back to work in Port Oram mining district.

NOTED HISTORIAN DEAD.

John Clark Ridpath Had Suffered Long In a New York Hospital.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—John Clark Ridpath, the historian, died in Presbyterian hospital last night at 5:30 o'clock from a complication of diseases. He had been a patient in the hospital since April 26.

John Clark Ridpath, LL. D., historian was born in Putnam county, Ind., in April, 1841. There was not at that time a wagon road within three miles of the log cabin in which he was born. His parents were from Christianburg, Va. His mother was a descendant of Samuel L. Matthews, one of the colonial governors of Virginia. He was graduated from Asbury (now De Pauw) university in 1863, taking first honors. After serving as principal of an academy at Thorntown, Ind., and as superintendent of public schools at Lawrenceburg, he was called in 1869 to the chair of English literature at De Pauw. He was transferred later to the chair of history and political philosophy. He became a conspicuous figure in the college world. He distinguished himself by his ability to think clearly, speak fluently and write masterly.

In 1875 he published his first book, an "Academic History of the United States." It was an immediate success. It still holds its place as a textbook in many schools.

In 1876 he published his "Popular History of the United States," a large octavo volume, of which more than 40,000 copies have been sold. It has been published also in German. He wrote the "Life and Work of Garfield," of which 85,000 copies were sold. His "Cyclopedia of Universal History" was published in 1885 in four octavo volumes.

In 1885 he resigned his professorship in De Pauw and the vice presidency of the university in order that he might devote his whole time to writing. In 1893 he published his "Life and Work of James G. Blaine" and in 1894 his most comprehensive and philosophical work entitled "Great Races of Mankind" in four volumes. He was engaged for ten years in preparing the material and four years in writing this work. In 1898 he published his "Life and Times of Gladstone" and a supplement to the "History of All Nations" for Webster's Dictionary. He was for a time editor of The Arena Magazine of Boston. His monographs are numerous. In 1896 he consented to run for congress on the Democratic ticket in his home district in Indiana. Though he ran ahead of his ticket, he was defeated by a small majority. In recent years he had been engaged in the preparation of a complete and elaborate history of the United States.

LEGATIONS ARE SAFE

Authentic News From Peking Removes All Doubt.

RELIEF FORCE ANXIOUSLY AWAITED.

Foreigners Blockaded Since June 13. Under Continuous Attacks Since the 20th—Sixty Europeans Killed—An Immediate Advance.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Doubt has given way to a feeling akin to certainty that the legationers at Peking and the gallant marines who managed to reach the Chinese capital just in the nick of time were not only alive on July 22, but in all probability are still alive and likely to remain so until they are released from their state siege.

Adjutant General Corbin received a dispatch from Lieutenant Colonel Coolidge, commanding the Ninth infantry at Tien-tsin. It came by way of Chefu and is as follows:

"Tien-tsin, July 27.—Following letter of Lieutenant Colonel Shiba, military attache at the legation of Peking, dated July 25, arrived at Tien-tsin the 25th at 9 o'clock in the evening:

"'Peking, July 22, Evening.—We are all awaiting impatiently arrival of re-enforcing army. When are you coming? All legations have been blockaded since 13th of last month, and since the 20th we have been attacked continually night and day by the Chinese soldiers from more than ten encampments. By a supreme effort we are still defending. We are daily awaiting with the greatest anxiety arrival of re-enforcing army, and if you can't reach here in less than a week's time it is probable that we will be unable to hold out any longer. Emperor and empress dowager appear to be still at Peking. Were our re-enforcements to arrive very probable that they would flee to Wan Shoshan. Killed and wounded up to date eight killed, one a captain of infantry and an embassador's attache; seven seriously wounded, the first secretary of the legation being one of 20 slightly wounded. The number of Europeans killed is 60 in all.'"

The war department last evening received two cablegrams from China. The first read:

"Tien-tsin, July 27.—Message just received from Conger says since 16th by agreement no firing. Have provisions several weeks, little ammunition, all safe, well.

"I (Daggett) report allied forces soon advance. Practically no looting by Americans, no unnecessary killing. Indiana arrived 26th. Order MacCann, Sladen, both Allens, Mitchell and Bryce join regiment here. DAGGETT."

The second read:

"Tien-tsin, July 30.—Flintshire arrived 27th. Two hundred and fifty-seven Ninth infantry sick; 10 doctors, 100 hospital corps men, 20 signal men needed. Unavoidable delay unloading transports. Foreign troops arriving.

"DAGGETT."

The Japanese consul at Tien-tsin telegraphed on the 27th inst. a dispatch dated the 19th from the Japanese minister at Peking to the foreign office at Tokyo which had reached Tien-tsin by special courier on the 25th. The minister says:

"The Japanese marines and others continue under the command of the military attache, Lieutenant Colonel Shiba, to resist the repeated attacks of Tung Fuh Siang's troops. I think we can hold out, though the task is by no means an easy one, until we are relieved by the division of Japanese troops which, I hear through a special messenger, will arrive at Tientsin by the end of this month. The Chinese have stopped firing since the 15th, and the Chinese authorities are apparently disposed to open negotiations.

"Attache Kojima, Captain Ando of the imperial army, Mr. H. Nakamura and five marines have been killed, while Narabara, second secretary of the legation, a student, and six marines have been wounded, though not mortally. Many others have also been slightly wounded."

The official confirmation of the news that Minister Conger is safe and well, coupled with the statement that he has provisions for several weeks and that the firing on the legation has ceased, was welcome intelligence, though not unexpected in view of recent news. The information from Colonel Daggett was promptly telegraphed to President McKinley at Canton, who has been advised of the receipt of messages always as soon as they reach here.

The last message which came from Minister Conger was that which was obtained through the intermediary of Mr. Wu and was supposed to be dated the 18th inst., before which time nothing had come since June 12, almost two months.

It is expected now that all the energies of the government as well as that of the other nations will be concentrated for the advance on Peking. Several of the reports which have come from China seem to indicate that this will occur very soon.

The officials here feel certain that the attack by the Chinese on the legations will not be renewed. They are convinced that the counsels of the viceroys in the great southern and central provinces and the advice of Li Hung Chang have had effect and that whoever is in power in Peking, whether emperor, empress, Ghing, Tuan or Tung, now have been made to see the necessity for the preservation of the legations. The officials here, while anxious that the movement on Peking should begin at once, do not attach credence to the rumor mentioned by General Chaffee that the forward march was to have begun yesterday.

There are two reasons for their incredulity. In the first place Chaffee's force, his splendid cavalry and his battery of artillery, are exactly what are needed to strengthen a weak spot in the international column. In the second place (and information on this point comes through European channels) some of the foreign commanders are still of the opinion that they cannot begin the campaign before the last week in August at the earliest. The United States government never has acceded to this view and is relaxing no effort to bring about a change of plans on this point. But our representations have been met by the almost unanswerable argument that the decision of this important question should be left to the military commanders on the spot, who must bear the responsibility for the outcome of the expedition.

It is evident from the dispatches received from General Chaffee that only a portion of his force can be utilized if any immediate advance is made. It is not believed that all of the equipments of the last expedition sent from Manila have been landed, and it is of course apparent that the horses and most of the equipment of the Sixth cavalry are still at sea. The Ninth infantry and the two battalions of the Fourteenth infantry, together with the marines, are the only troops of the United States actually available on Chinese soil at this time.

ON TO PEKING NOW.

Difficult and Hazardous Task Confronts the Allies.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—A sensational Shanghai correspondent still hints that the Chinese are juggling with dates, but in face of the constantly accumulating evidence that the ministers were safe on July 23 and despite the omission from all the dispatches of anxiously desired information regarding the real situation, political and otherwise, at Peking there are very few in London who do not believe the dispatches genuine and reliable.

The allies now confront a most difficult and dangerous problem. Without doubt the ministers are held by the Chinese as hostages, and the outcome of the advance on Peking, which in all probability has already begun, will be awaited with intense anxiety.

Today's dispatches show that the allies, notably the Japanese, have been pushing their preparations with feverish haste, organizing a service of pack carts, trains and junks. It is reported from Berlin that Lieutenant General von Lessel, commanding the German forces in China, whom Emperor William has just promoted to the rank of general commanding an army corps, has been selected as commander in chief of the allied forces.

The Chinese are strongly intrenched at Wang-tsun, from which position, however, it is believed they can be ejected without great difficulty. The danger is that if defeated there the Chinese will retire on Peking and put the remainder of the Europeans to death.

It is also possible that the advance of the allies will be the signal for the Chinese authorities to compel all foreigners to quit the capital, in which event they might become the prey of the fanatical Boxers.

The feeling of the newspapers here is that nothing whatever should now delay the advance and that no negotiations of any kind should be countenanced until the allied troops reach Peking and assure themselves regarding the fate of the foreigners.

The latest advices from Tien-tsin announce that the Russians and Japanese are scouting in the direction of Pietang. The Japanese commander, Yamachuchi, expects Yang-tsun to be taken within three days.

The governor of Shangtung says the British consul's message was sent to Sir Claude Macdonald, whose reply was handed to the tsung-li-yamen on July 25.

A special dispatch from Tien-tsin says the missionaries report that all the Americans in Peking and Tung-chau are safe, but their property has been destroyed.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Times says:

"The general aspect of the situation confirms the opinion that the Mantchoo party, fearing the effect of further violent measures, rely on Li Hung Chang's negotiations to prevail upon the powers to forego vengeance in return for the release of the survivors."

Germany Doubts No Longer.

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—Hope regarding the security of the foreigners in Peking now runs high in Berlin. The German foreign office no longer doubts the reports from various quarters that the ministers, with the exception of Baron von Ketteler, are alive. The papers take the same view and urge that there should be no delay in the advance upon Peking. The foreign office is deeply mortified at the failure to agree upon a commander in chief of the allied forces. A high official said: "The civilized world will look on with astonishment if the rescue of the members of the legations is delayed or perhaps frustrated by such a trifling matter. Germany is ready to march her troops under any commander acceptable to the powers."

ITALY UNDISTURBED.

Troops Swear Allegiance to the New King.

ROME, Aug. 1.—All the Italian troops have taken the oath of allegiance to the new king amid the applause of the people. Perfect tranquillity reigns throughout the country.

A deputation of senators and deputies had arranged to meet King Victor Emmanuel, but as in conformity with court etiquette the journey of his majesty to Monza was strictly private the idea was abandoned. For a similar reason the ministers decided not to go to Naples.

Late last evening it was reported that the body of King Humbert would be brought here on Sunday. Queen Margherita desires to accompany the remains.

Emperor William has notified the government of his intention to attend the funeral. A dispatch of condolence has been received from Li Hung Chang.

A Tuscan named Giusta, who lives in the house of Remala in Milan, and other suspects have been arrested there. The assassin speaks English, French and Spanish.

Bressi was born in Prato in 1869. He was denounced in 1895 as a dangerous rioter and deported to the island of Pantellaria. In 1896 he was liberated under the amnesty after the battle of Adowa, and in 1897 he went to the United States. As the facts develop it is seen that warnings of the crime had been given, and much indignation is felt at the failure of the police to take greater precautions. Signor Saracco questioned a number of witnesses of the crime. General Ponzio-Vaglia, King Humbert's premier aide-de-camp, testified that the shots were fired in such quick succession that he had no time to protect the king. A magistrate examined Bressi, who was sullen and defiant, replying: "I didn't kill Humbert. I killed the king." He admitted that he was in Monza park the previous day with a lady and angrily protested that what he had done was not a crime, but an act of justice. Among the persons arrested at Prato is a woman named Teresa Brugnoli, said to have been the mistress of the assassin.

Princess Cantacuzene Has a Son.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 1.—Princess Cantacuzene, granddaughter of the late ex-President Grant and daughter of Brigadier General Frederick Dent Grant, U. S. A., gave birth to a son weighing 11 pounds July 27.

Troops Off For China.

ALASKA'S BOUNDARY

Opposition to Proposed Line Result of Ignorance.

NO TERRITORY CEDED TO ENGLAND.

No Diminution of Rights or Privileges Suffered by Subjects of Either Power by the Temporary Settlement.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—None of the protests reported to have been made in Alaska against the definition of the provisional boundary line has reached Washington, and the impression prevails in the state department that the agitation of that subject is based upon a lack of knowledge of the exact nature of the agreement effected between the United States and Great Britain by which a most difficult and dangerous subject was removed from the current negotiations between the two countries. It is pointed out by the state department officials that this provisional boundary line, the running of which is said to have excited the American miners in the Porcupine region, is not in any sense binding upon either party to the modus vivendi, except as a purely temporary scheme designed to prevent hostile conflicts between the miners and the police forces through lack of knowledge as to their rights. The purpose of the arrangement as to that is fully disclosed by the inclusion in the modus vivendi of a provision in these terms:

"It is understood, as formally set forth in communications of the department of state of the United States, that the citizens or subjects of either power found by this arrangement within the temporary jurisdiction of the other shall suffer no diminution of the rights and privileges which they now enjoy."

Every American miner whose claim lies on the wrong side of the boundary line now being drawn, is, according to the official view here, holding his claim by quite as sound a tenure as he enjoyed before the provisional treaty was made. He has neither lost nor gained in strength of title by this arrangement; so he certainly has no cause for complaint, as he would have were the boundary line now being drawn a permanent one. The officials here, however, are fully prepared to defend the temporary boundary, pointing out that so far from having ceded to Great Britain an inch of territory, Great Britain temporarily yielded to the United States fully nineteen-twentieths of the territory in dispute and suffered her shipping to be kept ten miles from the boundary line at the nearest point, notwithstanding the Canadian ambition to get a port on the Lynn canal.

To Be a Wonderful Country.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—"Alaska is destined to be a wonderful country," says United States Consul McCook at Dawson City in a letter to the state department. The Lanana district, he says, is creating a stir and is dividing honors with the Koyukuk country. In the Tanana regions the miners claim they can get from 10 to 30 cents worth of pay dirt to the pan, and this in summer digging with only two or three feet of bed rock is equivalent to $1 a pan where one has to go 25 feet to bedrock. "The great necessity now in Alaska," says Consul McCook, "is good roads, good camps and the prospecting of comparatively unknown sections."

Boer Surrender Overstated.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—A dispatch received at the war office from Lord Roberts materially modifies the statement of the surrender of 5,000 federals under General Prinsloo. It now appears that Generals Prinsloo, Villiers and Crowther surrendered with 986 men, 1,432 horses, 955 rifles and a Krupp 9 pounder. Some of the leaders in more distant parts of the hills hesitate to come in on the plea that they are independent of General Prinsloo. The Lourenco Marques correspondent of The Daily Express says: "The Boers are preparing to retreat from Watervalboven. Frank Pettigrew, son of United States Senator Pettigrew, has arrived there and has joined Commandant General Botha's staff."

A Monument to Indians.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 1.—At Fort Mill, S. C., a monument was dedicated yesterday to the 17 Catawba Indians who served in the Seventeenth South Carolina Confederate regiment. Several of these braves were killed in battle. The widows of three are pensioned by the state of South Carolina. The Catawba Nation is a reservation of 3,000 acres given the Indians by the state. A great battle was fought between Cherokees and Catawbas in the seventeenth century, and 1,000 braves fell on each side. As one of the Indians said in his speech the Catawbas have always aided the whites in war and in commerce. The Catawbas came from Canada to South Carolina 300 years ago, numbering 12,000. Today they number but 75.

Manila Soldier Dies of Typhoid.

WEST POINT, Aug. 1.—Mrs. Spurgin, who has temporarily been occupying quarters here for the past few months and who was on the eve of starting for Manila to join her husband, Colonel William F. Spurgin, Sixteenth infantry, and her son, Lieutenant David G. Spurgin, Twenty-first infantry, received a cable message announcing the latter's death from typhoid fever. The father of the deceased, Colonel Spurgin, was treasurer of the Military academy for 20 years prior to 1898.

Government Pensioners.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The forthcoming annual report of the commissioner of pensions, Mr. Evans, will show a grand total of 993,529 pensioners on the rolls on July 1 last. The figures on which the report will be based are now complete and ready for incorporation in the report. They show that on July 1, 1899, there were 991,519 pensioners on the rolls. During the year 40,645 original pensions were granted and 4,699 names were restored to the rolls.

LITERARY.

The brilliant August number of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly, which is the regular midsummer fictia number of this periodical, may fairly be called an epoch-making achievement in ten-cent magazine literature. A summary glance at its table of contents serves to justify this claim. Here in a single number are included stories by F. Hopkinson Smith, A. Conan Doyle, Mary E. Wilkins, Edgar Fawcett, Alix John, Marietta Holly ("Josiah Allen's Wife"), and R. K. Munkittrick; illustrated articles by the Infanta Eulalie of Spain, Captain Robert E. Lee, and Rev. W. B. Rankin; and poems by Harriett Prescott Spofford, Edith M. Thomas, Samuel Minturn Peck, Ethel Morse, Frank L. Stanton, William Hamilton Hayne, Madison Cawein, Henry Tyrrell, Martha McCulloch-Williams, Hattie Whitney, Roy Farrell Greene and Wallace Dunbar Vincent.

NEW TROLLEY IN MORRIS.

Movement on Foot to Run Line From Chatham to Dover.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Morristown, July 31—A movement is on foot here for the introduction of a trolley line running from Chatham, through Whippany, Hanover and Morristown and thence to Dover. As soon as the line is completed it is the intention of the owners to extend the line to Lake Hopatcong on one end and connect with the New Jersey Traction Company's line on the outskirts of Chatham on the other. During the past week representatives of the Morris County Traction Company, which was formed one year ago, and which already has purchased the right of way from Morristown to Dover, have been engaged in interviewing different property owners in the different towns and Madison avenue, this city, and securing the right of way.

Astounded The Editor.

Editor S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., was once immensely surprised. "Through long suffering from Dyspepsia," he writes, "my wife was greatly run down. She had no strength or vigor and suffered great distress from her stomach, but she tried Electric Bitters which helped her at once, and after using four bottles, she is entirely well, can eat anything. It's a grand tonic, and its gentle laxative qualities are splendid for torpid liver." For Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Stomach and Liver Troubles it's a positive, guaranteed cure. Only 50c at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

—We guarantee Brazilian Balm to cure hay fever.

—Another popular lie nailed. Hay fever can be cured. Brazilian Balm cures it every time.

CONVENTION A SUCCESS.

Secretary Baer of the Christian Endeavorers Home From London.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—John Willis Baer, general secretary of the Society of Christian Endeavor, arrived from England on the steamship Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse. Speaking of the Christian Endeavor convention in London, Mr. Baer said that it had been a success in many ways. "The attendance averaged over 40,000 each day," said Mr. Baer. "Young America and young Britain have been bound together with close ties. Every reference to a closer relation was received with sturdy cheers. The programme was especially strong. Among the speakers from outside of America were the bishop of London, Hugh Price Hughes, Joseph Parker, Dr. Clifford, Campbell Morgan, Theodore Monod, John Watson, Handley Moule, Monroe Gibson, F. B. Meyer and others. President Clark received an ovation, having arrived from Peking just in time for the opening session. The press of London surprised us by devoting quite a little space to the convention. Embassador Choate sent a message to the American delegation which was enthusiastically received. The Sunday after the London convention a French convention was held in the American church, Paris. Among the speakers were Senator Depew, William E. Dodge, Rev. Dr. Maltby, D. Babcock, President Clark and others. The work in Paris is very well started.

"The American delegates are touring through Europe and will come home in groups of 100 and 200 in the course of six weeks."

THE BROCKWAYS OUT.

Superintendent of Elmira Reformatory Resigns.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Zebulon R. Brockway is out of the Elmira reformatory, where he has served for 30 years as general superintendent. His resignation was tendered to the board of managers yesterday morning, but the news was not given to the public until late in the afternoon. The resignation is to take effect in December next and was accepted, and at the request of Mr. Brockway he was granted a leave of absence for the next five months.

Dr. Frank W. Robertson, late of Bellevue hospital, New York city, and for some months past the senior resident physician of the reformatory, has been appointed acting general superintendent, which means, as previously indicated in these dispatches, that he will be Brockway's successor when his term as acting superintendent ceases.

Transfer Officer Hugh Brockway, brother of the superintendent, also tendered his resignation.

Dr. Robertson, the new superintendent, is 32 years of age and was born in Owego, N. Y. He refuses at this time to discuss his plans for conducting the reformatory further than to say that he will defer to the wishes of the board of managers with regard to the matter of corporal punishment, which means that there will be none.

Boston Woman Killed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Miss Theresa Blake, daughter of Hoffman Blake, a retired banker of Boston, was killed at New Rochelle, N. Y., yesterday. She went there in company with her uncle, J. J. Higginson of New York, to purchase a horse for cross country riding. They went to J. H. Holloway's stock farm, and Miss Blake picked out a magnificent bay. She mounted the animal and took several turns about the field, showing that she was a splendid horsewoman. She expressed herself as pleased with the animal's various gaits and then started to try him over the hurdles. She ran him to a hurdle, and the horse rose to it, but as he went over his hind hoofs struck the top rail, and although the rail gave way and fell Miss Blake was thrown. She struck on the back of her head at the neck. Her spine was broken at the base of the brain, and she was dead when picked up. Her jaw and collar bone were also broken.

Four Young Women Drowned.

OCEAN CITY, N. J., Aug. 1.—Four young women, residents of Philadelphia, met a tragic death in the surf here yesterday about noon, and their hostess, Mrs. Meehan of the same city, who was bathing with them, was rescued by a life guard in an unconscious state. The drowned were Misses Elsie and Virginia Lowe, aged 18 and 20 years respectively, daughters of Dr. Clement Lowe, residing in Mount Airy, a suburb of Philadelphia, and Misses Jennie and Birdie Lonsdale, aged 19 and 23 years respectively, daughters of Edwin Lonsdale of Chestnut Hill, a Philadelphia suburb.

ANARCHISTS REJOICE

Italians In Paterson, N. J., Praise Bresci's Bloody Deed.

CLAIM IT WILL ENCOURAGE ASSASSINS

Big Meeting Called to Publicly Congratulate Former Townsman Who Shot the King—Anarchistic Doctrines Explained.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 1.—The anarchists here are still celebrating the assassination of King Humbert. Many of them did not work yesterday that they might give their whole time to gloating over the details of the regicide. They gathered in saloons in Straight and Market streets and clinked glasses of fiery whisky to such toasts as "Death to all kings!" and "Kill the capitalists and make the workingman free!"

Tomorrow evening the anarchists of the "Dritto all'Esistenza" ("the right to existence") expect to hold a large meeting in the big room back of the Hotel Bartholdi, 286 Straight street. It will be addressed by Peter Esteve, a Spanish anarchist of the most rabid type and editor of The Despertorr and La Questione Sociale. Other speakers are expected from different Italian settlements in New York and New Jersey. The meeting is for the avowed purpose of congratulating their fellow townsman on his successful aim at Monza and for advocating the immediate creation of new anarchistic groups. The meeting is to be held under the direction of "the Dritto" group, but Paterson's other groups will participate.

There was no trouble in Paterson yesterday either between the different Italian elements or the anarchists and the mill owners. Some men were laid off at Jacob Weidmann's mill, but it was said to be because there was no work for them and not on account of their political ideas.

"Paterson is at peace, and we will do our best to keep it so," said Mayor John Hinchliffe. "We are ready to put down the Italians at the first sign of trouble. I am convinced that Bresci worked in this city, and perhaps the plot against King Humbert, if there was a plot, was hatched here. Beyond a few strikes we have had no particular trouble with the 5,000 Italians who live in the city."

Peter Esteve, the anarchist editor, who will be the principal speaker at the meeting to be held Thursday evening, was seen yesterday afternoon at the office of La Questione Sociale, 355 Market street, Paterson, and made the following statement, covering the opinions of the Italian party which he leads and their intentions for the future:

"We are working for 'socialista anarchico'—that is, the abolition of all authority, all power. We want no private property. We demand that the society of the world be organized under public administration—by that I mean no kings, no presidents, no authority. Take a factory, for instance. We would have it so that every workingman would get the entire fruit of his labor; that all the profits be divided equally between them. With that organization society would live in peace—no war, no jealousy, no boss—all equal.

Our principle is against all violence; consequently the death of King Humbert and all other assassinations in the past are not the result of anarchy. We are glad Humbert is dead, but did not plan to have him killed. We do not do it that way. He is responsible for his own death. It was in consequence of his own tyranny. In Italy especially and elsewhere anarchists' work is limited to meetings, conferences, lectures and newspaper work. The government in Italy, however, more than any other government, leaves no chance to do that which is accorded by the constitution. Here is an example of Italian press freedom.

Towne's Withdrawal In Doubt.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 1.—The withdrawal of Charles A. Towne from the Populist ticket as a vice presidential candidate is still an undetermined question. Mr. Towne spent nearly all of yesterday in Lincoln and most of the time was with W. J. Bryan. Just before leaving for Chicago last night he declared that he was not prepared to say whether he will remain on the ticket or withdraw. Neither Mr. Bryan nor Mr. Towne would discuss the subject of their conference. That it had to do with the proposed withdrawal, however, there is little question.

Congressman Daly's Death.

Like nearly all the great men of the country, Congressman William D. Daly, whose sudden death has caused a wave of profound sorrow to sweep the State, sprung from humble origin. Realizing and appreciating the barriers which he had to surmount to gain the point in life that death found him at, the ability he evidenced in his chosen profession and in the political world in which he was an active factor for the past ten years are recognized as attributes attained under disadvantages that tested a bright mind, an indomitable courage and an amiable temperament. All these qualities nature had endowed him with and he had made the best of them.

Congressman Daly's death will cause extreme sorrow and regret, for he was known and liked in every part of New Jersey. Though born and reared in a great city, and naturally in close and sympathetic touch with all the factors that go to make up a community like that of Jersey City, there were few Jerseymen who were more admired and popular than Mr. Daly in the typical rural sections of the commonwealth. For years his bucolic popularity has been marked, a fact that evidenced his versatile character and whole-souled geniality.

Having served with credit in both branches of the Legislature; in the midst of his first term in Congress and assured of another election to Washington legislative circles; fresh from his prominence in the proceedings of the great convention at Kansas City; looked upon and respected as one of the Democratic leaders of the State, and recognized as one of the best lawyers of New Jersey, Congressman Daly was in the zenith of his success. Had he lived and displayed the same characteristics in the future that he has in the past, his course in life would undoubtedly have been still more successful and brilliant.

Of course, Congressman Daly had his faults, but so have all men, and especially those who have been as active and aggressive in public life as he has. The admirable qualities of his heart and mind, however, far outbalance those that might be arraigned against him were he alive, but now in the presence of death mellowed by the thought that "it is human to err."

Such a brutal and heartless crime has seldom been heard of in this city than was evidenced yesterday in the finding of the abandoned Negro baby in a clump of bushes on the outskirts of the city. The perpetrators of this cruel act against a helpless and innocent babe are devoid of human promptings, and if it is possible to apprehend and arrest the guilty party or parties no punishment that the laws provide for such cases will be severe enough to offset the atrocious act. Abandonment of a baby is not an infrequent offense, but usually the guilty ones have enough pity and humanity left in their souls to leave the waif where it will not long be exposed to the elements of weather. But no such compassion seems to have had any influence in this latest case. The abandonment of the baby at the isolated spot where it was found, shows cruelty that cannot be comprehended by an ordinary mind.

By the relentless course of fate New Jersey is just now occupying an unenviable position before the world as being the place in which the plot for the assassination of Italy's King was hatched. It hardly seems possible that such diabolical rascality could have sprung from the Garden State, but the more the matter is investigated the more convincing becomes the suspicion that we have been harboring a nest of Anarchistic friends. Anarchy may always exist, but it will never thrive. However, this condition of affairs does not relieve us of a duty, and that duty is to bring to justice, if we are sure we are right, the conspirators at Paterson who laid the plan that has resulted in the killing of King Humbert. They are a dangerous set to have around.

The untimely death of Congressman Daly will cause a marked change in the political plans of Hudson county. It was settled that Congressman Daly was to be renominated by the Democrats, but now that this is made impossible by the work of the grim reaper, a new available candidate will have to be trotted out by the invincible and unterrified Democracy of Hudson county. Still, there ought to be no trouble to find a suitable candidate in that district, where nearly every man is either a politician or a statesman.

The company that owns and publishes the New Brunswick Fredonian has decided to relegate that title for the paper to oblivion and to substitute The Press for an appellation. The paper has been known as The Fredonian ever since it was published.

Under the Fallows law, the salary list of the municipal government of New York is reported to be $40,000,000 annually. Does anyone wonder that Croker likes to carry the city around in his vest pocket?

The tax rate for Montclair is $3.06 on every $100 of valuation. Such a rate as that cannot but act as a serious drawback to the progress of the town.

The Newark Advertiser says that last year New Jersey's hay crop was worth one million dollars more than any other crop grown in this State.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Elizabeth might easily obtain a new supply of water from the Raritan west of Bound Brook. This section of the river is above tide water and free of pollution, and, what is as much to the purpose, it is not controlled by the East Jersey Company.—"Freeholder" in New York Press.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

In recognition of Andrew Carnegie's gift of $50,000 for a new building for Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken, it has been decided, according to The Iron Age, to present him with a section of an original 36-pound T-rail from the Camden and Amboy Railroad, inclosed in a suitable receptacle. The rails for the Camden and Amboy track between South Amboy and Bordentown, were rolled in 1831, and were the first T-rails designed or made. They were designed by Robert L. Stevens, who was sent to England to have them made, there being in this country no mill capable of doing the work.

The Newark Sunday Call thinks that the Hine-Riker trolley road between Elizabeth and Plainfield will probably be known in certain circles of that city hereafter as the "Daisy line," because of a story which two Newark women are telling. They started out a few days ago to see what the trip was like and went to Elizabeth in a crowded car. Their relief was great when they changed to the Westfield line and found that they were the only passengers on the car. As they were whizzed through the fields the younger woman exclaimed: "Oh, look at those beautiful daisies. Both kinds. Oh, how I wish we could get some of them." The conductor overheard the remark and his hand went up to the strap. The gong clanged and the car came to a stop. Then the two women, the conductor and the motorman stepped off and all began picking daisies, which were so plentiful that it only required two minutes to gather an armful.

We have always used the best Java and Mocha in our family, but I am free to say I like the GRAIN-O as well as the best coffee I ever drank.

Mark Twain's White Duck Suit.

Some years ago Samuel L. Clemmens, known to every American reader as Mark Twain, had occasion to take a trip over the Lackawanna Railroad from New York to Elmira. This journey led him across the beautiful meadows of New Jersey, up into the Blue Ridge mountains, along the tops of hills and mountains with an occasional dip into the valleys, the train most of the time skirting the picturesque Morris and Essex canal, the magnificent Delaware, or the beauti- Susquehanna river. It led him through Delaware Water Gap, one of the most magnificent natuial scenes on the American continent, where mountain, cloud, and water literally meet. It led him through the busy coal mining region in Pennsylvania, and with it all he was delighted. Arriving at Elmira he sent the following telegram to a friend who had escorted him to the station in New York: "Left New York on Lackawanna Railroad this morning in white duck suit, and it is white yet." This testimony of Mr. Clemmens to the cleanliness of the Lackawanna Railroad is no fancy of the humorist's brain. The road burns anthracite coal, and there is, therefore, no smoke, and its road-bed is rock ballasted, hence there is no dust. Mr. Twain's white duck suit was white at the end of his journey because those elements of railroad travel which cause one usually to desire a bath immediately after leaving a train, are entirely wanting. 1 8

Preußen.

Provinz Brandenburg.

Berlin. Auf dem Pionierübungsplatze hinter dem Wachtgebäude wurde von Mannschaften des 2. Telegraphenbataillons bei Erdarbeiten in einer Tiefe von 75 Centimeter ein Skelett freigelegt, das anscheinend über 30 Jahre dort geelgen hat. Das Skelett wurde auf den Luisenstädtischen Kirchhof gebracht.—Am Schiffbauerdamm fiel der 47jährige obdachlose Koppelknecht Meier in der Trunkenheit in die Spree. Der Hauptmann und Kompagniechef der Schutztruppe für Kamerun, Guse, sprang ihm sofort nach und rettete ihn.—Der Norddeutsche Lloyd unterhandelt dermalen mit der königlich preußischen Bahnverwaltung betreffs Uebernahme des Auswanderer-Bahnhofs Ruhleben bei Berlin. Der Lloyd beabsichtigt, daselbst massive Gebäude zu errichten.

Charlottenburg. Der Domänenfiskus hat kürzlich an die Spandauer Bergbrauerei ein circa 30 Morgen großes Terrain, das an der Charlottenburger Chaussee neben dem Brauereigrundstück belegen ist, für 390,000 Mark verkauft. Es ist dabei aber die Bedingung gestellt, daß das Gelände ausschließlich für Zwecke der Brauerei oder zum Theil auch zur Errichtung von Wohnhäusern verwendet werden darf. Damit schwindet für Charlottenburg jede Aussicht, den seit vorigem Jahr eingeschlafenen Pferdemarkt wieder in's Leben zurückzurufen.

Spandau. Der Bauplan für die militärische Arbeiterkolonie Haselhorst bei Spandau, die zur Ansiedelung von Arbeitern der Spandauer Militärwerkstätten bestimmt ist, hat neuerdings eine grundsätzliche Aenderung erfahren. In den ersten Jahren sind durchweg nur Zwei- und Vierfamilienhäuser im Villenstil errichtet worden. Es hat sich aber gezeigt, daß bei Herstellung ausreichender Wohnräume in solchen kleinen Bauten die Miethen die Kosten der Verzinsung (3½ Prozent) und der Unterhaltung nicht decken. Aus diesem Grunde werden fortan nur noch in geringer Zahl größere Wohnhäuser von je zehn und mehr Wohnungen gebaut.

Provinz Hannover.

Duderstadt. Mehrere Gymnasiasten, die den Geburtstag eines Mitschülers gefeiert hatten und auf dem Heimwege nach 12 Uhr in den Straßen Unfug verübten, geriethen mit den Nachtwächtern in Streit. Der Gymnasiast Leibecke aus Lindau holte einen geladenen Revolver und feuerte auf die Beamten fünf scharfe Schüsse ab. Ein Nachtwächter und ein Tischler erhielten Streifschüsse, während der hinter dem Wächter stehende, ganz unbetheiligte Schneider Borchard in die Stirn getroffen wurde und sofort todt zusammenbrach. Der Thäter wurde vom Publikum so zugerichtet, daß der Arzt in Anspruch genommen werden mußte.

Herzberg. Der Sparkassenrendant Wilhelm Strüwer ist wegen Unterschlagung verhaftet worden. Die Unterschlagungssumme beträgt circa 75,000 Mark.

Provinz Hessen-Nassau.

Brotterode. Letzthin hat hier die Einweihung der neuen Kirche stattgefunden, die an Stelle der am 10. Juli 1895 bei dem verheerenden Brande eingeäscherten alten Kirche errichtet wurde. Der Bau hat zwei Jahre gedauert und einen Kostenaufwand von 136,000 Mark erfordert. Der Kaiser hatte hierzu 62,000 Mark gestiftet.

Rüdesheim. Im benachbarten Dorfe Eibingen ist der Grundstein zur Wiederherstellung des Hildegardis-Klosters gelegt worden. Die Ausführung des namentlich vom Fürsten Karl zu Löwenstein protegirten Baues soll 500,000 Mark kosten.

Provinz Pommern.

Falkenburg. Vom Schwurgericht wurde der bisher noch unbescholtene junge Landwirth Albert Klabunde aus Teschendorf wegen Todtschlags unter Zubilligung mildernder Umstände zu vier Jahren Gefängniß verurtheilt. Der Angeklagte hatte seine Braut, die 24 Jahre alte Bauerhofsbesitzers-Tochter Martha Braatz, aus Eifersucht und im Augenblick großer Erregung mittelst eines Messerstiches getödtet.

Stargard. Der Arbeiter Pohl hatte Milch vom Gute Groß-Schönfelde nach dem Bahnhof Liebenow zu fahren. Bei der Rückkehr fuhr er etwas in den Liebenower See, um die Räder anzufeuchten. Er gerieth aber mit seinem Fuhrwerk in grundlose Stellen, wo er mit Pferden und Wagen in die Tiefe versank. Nach 1½ Stunden wurde die Leiche geborgen.

ADDICKS OF DELAWARE.

A Character Study of a Famous Politican Who Would Rather Fight Than Eat.

No factor in national politics is closer to the public eye than J. Edward Addicks, of Delaware. The factional fight in the little state commands the attention of republicans everywhere The battle of to-day is only one of a number covering a period of 11 years and costing over $1,000,000. A character study of Mr. Addicks, taken from the Philadelphia Press, will interest almost everybody.

WOULD BE PRESIDENT.

Joseph F. Malloney, Candidate of the De Leon Wing of the Socialist Labor Party.

The De Leon wing of the socialist labor party, not content with the Debs-Harriman ticket already nominated by the socialists, has decided to run candidates of its own. At the recent socialist labor convention in New York, Joseph F. Malloney, of Lynn, Mass., was nominated for president, and Valentine Remmel, of Pittsburgh, Pa., for vice president. Mr. Malloney is a machinist by trade, and has been state organizer of the party in Massachusetts. Two years ago he was the socialist candidate for congress in the Seventh Massachusetts district. The New York People says of his nomination: "The presidency of the United States belongs of right to the working class, who must and shall some day take it. The working class can take it now by electing Joseph Malloney."

Total Cost of a Man.

According to a French newspaper a German surgeon, whose manservant lost both arms and legs and part of his face by the explosion of a shell, has calculated the cost of manufacturing an artificial man. A pair of arms, with hands, joints, etc., complete, would cost about $150; a pair of legs, about $140; a false nose in metal—indistinguishable from the real article—costs $80 to $100, and for $110 a pair of ears, perfectly natural in appearance and furnished with artificial drums, can be produced. A complete set of teeth would cost $40 to $65, and a pair of glass eyes $30. Thus the total cost of supplying deficiencies to a man who has lost all his limbs and the major portion of his face is $500 to $600.

Buffalo county, Nebraska, boasts the largest alfalfa field in the world. It is from one-half to two miles wide and eight miles or such a matter long. It yields three cuttings a season and the total yield per acre for the three cuttings averages close to eight tons.

ON THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

BROWN. I say, Barnes, those things you gave me are a great scheme.

BARNES. You mean the Ripans Tabules?

BROWN. Yes. When I went on the Exchange last Friday the bear crowd were knocking the stuffing out of Burlington & Quincy and I was long of it. That gone feeling in the pit of my stomach that I guess you know about took strong possession of me. I remembered the story of the old gentleman who always took a Tabule when he found himself losing his temper, so I swallowed one then and there.

BARNES. Did it cure you?

BROWN. Indeed it did. I was all right in ten minutes. Always before on such occasions I have had a headache and a tired feeling to take home with me. One Gives Relief.

THE BOLERO.

The Favor With Which It Is Regarded Is Undiminished.

The bolero enjoys a continued triumph. In silk, wool, cotton, cloth or lace it is perpetually seen. A favorite decoration consists of large revers of guipure over silk, with a large collar descending in a point at the back like a yoke. There are also removable collars with revers in all sorts of linen and cotton goods from plain duck and pique to the finest nainsook and organdie, enriched with tucks, lace, embroidery and drawn work. Similar sets are also seen in guipure, in silk applique and tucked silk.

A little air of novelty is given to the bolero this season by having the sleeve extend only to the elbows, where it terminates in a turned back cuff, a frill of lace or perhaps in nothing at all. Below this extends the lower sleeve belonging to the chemisette or similar to it.

Today's illustration shows a costume of gray cashmere or voile. The skirt is smooth over the hips and has stitched plaits lower down, which are left loose at the foot to form a flounce. The bolero, which is short, is triple and closes over the chest. It has a high collar and forms triple sleeve caps, all the edges being finished with stitching. An application of passementerie fastens it at the top. The bodice itself is of flowered taffeta and has long, plain sleeves. The belt of white ribbon passes around the waist, crosses at the back and comes to the front again, where it drops from the skirt and is tied in a bow. JUDIC CHOLLET.

BICYCLING COSTUMES.

Favorite Styles For This Season's Riding.

The skirt of bicycling costumes follows the general fashion of other skirts—that is, it is plain at the top and flaring more or less at the foot. Sometimes it is laid in stitched plaits. Bloomers and other varieties of trousers had but a brief reign, and skirts now prevail for bicycling wear, although, when not divided, small, close trousers are usually worn beneath them in place of a petticoat, as is done in the case of a riding habit. The bodice is tighter and more like the bodice of a walking gown than has hitherto been worn, being fitted with darts and finished in the tailor made style when of the latest and most correct form. Many short jackets are employed, however, or close boleros over a cambric shirt waist, as this is the most convenient and comfortable arrangement for practical use, especially for women who are good riders and make long excursions into the country.

A picture is given of three silk petticoats. The first is of broche silk, with a circular flounce of plain silk, embroidered with a design of flowers and ribbons and edged with two plaited ruffles. The second is of pompadour silk and the circular flounce of plain silk, headed and edged with ruches of mousseline de soie, ruches and flowers of the mousseline forming an additional decoration. The third is entirely composed of glace taffeta, the circular flounce being ornamented by bands of waved guipure insertion, framed in little ruches of mousseline de soie. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Memory of Somnambulists.

The memory of sleepwalkers is occasionally prodigious. There is an instance of a poor basket maker, who was unable to read or write, yet in a state of sleep he would preach fluent sermons, which were afterward recognized as having formed portions of discourses he was accustomed to hear in the parish church as a child more than 40 years before. Quite as strange a case of "unconscious memory" is referred to by Dr. Abercrombie. A girl given to sleepwalking was in the habit of imitating the violin with her lips, giving the preliminary tuning and scraping, and flourishing with the utmost fidelity. The physician ascertained that when a child she lived in a room adjoining a fiddler, who often performed on his violin in her hearing.—Popular Phrenologist.

Beauty of the Summer Gowns at NEWPORT

There Are But Few Novelties in the Way of Materials, but the Costumes Were Never Handsomer Than Now

STAYS, the steels and bones that have so long agitated the dress reformers, are at last going out. The girls we see at Newport to-day have discarded all of them save a small girdle, and the result is a willowy form that has an ease of motion unknown for many years. The dress reformers were right; the girl without stays is better than the girl with them. The garments of the day are no longer tight fitting at the waist line, but have a soft and not too clinging outline, back and front.

But the lack of stays has not in the least changed the beauty of the summer gowns. The materials that are being worn were never handsomer, though there are probably fewer real novelties than for several years past, but there are many old reliables in new designs that make exceptionally attractive gowns for practically all purposes. Especially is this true of the lighter materials for evening gowns, and those that one meets with on the evening promenades. Of these some of the new delaines seem to be in favor, judging by the number of gowns made of them that are to be seen.

"Toile delaine" is one of the most practical, making up very neat, becoming costumes. It is to be had in a few shades only, four shades of gray, from light to dark, and three shades of beige from sand to wood color; a grayish-blue and a bluish-mauve complete the series.

Mohair is a very fashionable and appropriate material for walking costumes, either tailor-made or not. It has the advantage of being more or less dressy, according to its shade of color, and is manufactured in almost every variety of shade. Beside gray and beige tints it appears in both dark and light blues, dull and brilliant reds, slate, aubergine, havanah, terra cotta, russet and lemon, cream and chalk-white.

One of the latest modifications of mohair is "pique mohair," speckled with tiny dots, red, mauve, blue or black, over a white ground, or white over a blue or black ground. Another style is a mixed texture of two shades of color; another again is a very small check in soft colors, such as light beige and white, pale blue and white, and various shades of gray and white. All these tissues are made up into tailor costumes.

Softer woolen tissues, more suitable to a looser style of dress, are also manufactured in a great variety of shades. One of the prettiest is Malgache toile, especially pretty in mignonette-green, periwinkle-blue, lavender, abricotine and cloud-gray. It is either self-colored or of one light shade of color mixed with white.

More expensive and more elegant than the above, crepon is in great favor. You would find it useful for more dressy occasions. It is almost as silky as crepe de chine, and is, indeed, mixed with silk. One of the prettiest varieties is Messaline crepon, soft, light and glossy. It is not exclusively a plain tissue; it is sometimes brocaded in waved lines, intersected leaves or small dots. These wool and silk brocaded crepons are charming, in all new shades of color; they make up pretty summer dresses, soft, cool and elegant, lighter and quite as dressy as silk ones. Silk crepon is too fine and delicate a texture for any but a ball dress, but it is exquisite for chemisettes and plaited plastrons.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt's whist parties afford an excellent opportunity for the study of the most charming class of the summer gowns. The one that comes between the elaborate evening affair and the plainer ones of the afternoon. And, by the way, whist is one of the popular forms of amusement at Newport this season—one that has taken the place of dancing and dinners of past seasons. There is a whist teacher, for even the fashionable folks are not above a little learning, and whist parties have been arranged for three evenings each week.

Of the materials that one sees at these parties the new summer silks predominate. Their patterns are in imitation of the lovely embroidery designs so fashionable this year. Some have arabesque patterns in black over a light red, amethyst, turquoise, silver-gray or creamy white ground. The pattern is edged with a fine outline in relief which simulates silk cord; others are brocaded with tiny spots and a running pattern of flourets, leaves or berries, all in camaieu shades of one color, the spots being lighter and the running pattern darker than the ground of the material. This is very effective in pearl-gray, coral-pink, lavender-blue, and so on. Others again have patterns of leaves or of well-defined blossoms, such as china-asters, tulips, marigolds, anemones or pansies, outlined with an edging closely resembling chain-stitch. Besides these patterns, which stand out in relief, there is often a sort of camaieu pattern running in between.

But I cannot resist the temptation of describing two or three of the charming summer evening gowns just for the sake of illustrations.

One in a pink and white mousseline was particularly charming. It was trimmed with narrow valenciennes lace on both skirt and bodice. The skirt was tucked all the way around from the low bust line to just below the hips, then spreading in great fullness, with eight narrow ruffles edged with lace on each side, and the lace at the bottom in front and back. The bodice had a chemisette of lace with a puffing of mousseline across the bust. A finish of white chiffon and yellowish lace folded around the shoulders in fichu effect. The sleeves were puffed at the top.

A second was of flowered muslin. Of this the skirt was plaited and opened fully around the foot. The bodice had a high stock and rounded yoke of tucked muslin, with a fichu of ivory chiffon and lace, the stole ends caught into the waist with straps of ribbon and fastened with three brilliant buttons.

A third had a princess effect and was made with a low-pointed decollette and plaited sash across the shoulders, with a full lace flounce to finish. It was fastened at the side with a large buckle.

Natural History Study for the Month of August

Butterflies and Unnseen Plant Beauties That Come With the Dog Days

AUGUST—the month of flowers and butterflies—August, the month of the year when all nature seems to wanton in reckless prodigality of gifts—both flower and fruit; when the air is heavy with the scent of myriad blossoms and the ceaseless hum of insect life arise like a monotone of harmony from the parched and baking earth—walk out with me to the woods and fields; to the woods with their balsomic odors of fir and pine spiced with perfume of the newly-mown hay from the field adjoining. Tramp, tramp, tramp, through the tangled underbrush and the waving grass, and sometimes through little piles of faded leaves—tears which the trees are shedding, even now for very grief at the summer's waning—stirring them up and giving them over to the winds which whisk them away as if to hide them from the wealth of green which still remains, which above and around us fit the spirits of past summers in the shape of the butterflies—frail and evanescent—typical emblems of the passing hour.

Although we are all familiar with the general outward form of the butterfly—yet how many of us have taken the pains to closely observe him—how many of us that know that that same frail insect possesses a suction pump, which, if enlarged in proportion to the butterfly and adapted to the person of a man, would be of a power enormous, and furthermore how many of us know that it is by means of that same "suction pump" that the butterfly obtains every particle of food or nourishment.

The Lepidoptera (as they are known to scientists) comprise a large family, which are chiefly known by their four large wings of brilliant lines, and all have noticed at various times that they (the wings) had only to be touched by the fingers ever so lightly to leave a gray powdery deposit, while the portion handled lost more or less of its softness and beauty, simply because you had removed (by the exceeding roughness of your skin) the fine coating of "scales" (really modified hairs), with which they are covered.

If a small portion of the wing of the butterfly should be placed under the microscope the scales may be seen in position very similar to shingles on the roof of a house, while if a few should be rubbed off and a much higher magnification used, they would plainly be seen, shaped as in Fig. 1, which shows the "scales" from the wing of the yellow-winged butterfly common to all our gardens.

Turning now our attention to the mouth of the insect, we see that nature has so adapted it as to be best suited to obtaining the necessary food which is contained at the bottom of the flower, generally deep down in the cup.

Now, the large wings of the butterfly, although adding to its general effect of airiness and beauty, are yet decidedly in the way, had the butterfly to depend upon an ordinary pair of lips such as we ourselves use; it could hover around or walk around the brink of a blossom, always in sight of food, but unable to reach it; so, therefore, the lips are extended into the shape of Fig. 2. A tube through which the butterfly is enabled to suck the sweet nectar from the heart of the flower and which, when not in use, he coiled up (like a watch spring) out of the way, immediately in front of the head. By using a very much higher power, we are enabled to observe that this tube or "proboscis" of the butterfly is composed of two separate and divided "half-tubes," divided down its entire length, and which locks together and closes airtight at the edges by muscular action, at the will of the insect.

In Fig. 3 we look upon the extreme tip of the "proboscis" and we see (by the considerably greater magnification now necessary) that the entire tube is accurately ruled off in ridges or lines, each one of which is exactly at the same distance from the other, while scattered (apparently at random) over the surface and projecting up from it some queer small barrel-shaped objects rise, upon the use of which scientific opinion is divided, but are supposed to be organs of taste.

Observing the butterfly as he flits from flower to flower, we note that he has rested upon the petals of a fully-blown rose, a flower which poets have sung the praises of from time immemorial; but although the flower itself has justly been praised and sung, but few know that its beauty is not confined alone to its petals, but wonderful though it is in its wealth of perfume and color, yet in its stem, hidden from all eyes but those who seek it, there is beauty and complexity. In Fig. 4 is shown enlarged a view of a thin section transversely cut off, showing faintly the lacework pattern spoken of. All those many openings are simply sections and ground plans of the many canals which serve to carry up the nutrient juices to the leaves and blossoms, and just here let me say that the wonderful way in which these same juices are carried upward to the leaves is justly worthy of study.

Two forces, all in the lifting—first the force of evaporation, which sucks the moisture from the many thousand "mouths" of the leaves, not only serves to keep them cool and fresh, but also serves to draw up, as a form of suction pump, the water through the stem canals. The other force is called "root pressure," as it is caused by the roots of the plant being so formed that although they are able to absorb moisture into themselves from the earth, yet they allow none to pass out. Just as some doors can swing outward and inward in both directions, while some others swing only in the one direction, a greater pressure in the opposite way simply serving to close them the more firmly, so with the roots and stems, water will pass through the root valves inward and upward, but never outward or downward, and it is for that reason that a freshly-cut stem of a plant will exude moisture for some time after it has been severed.

So with the stems of all other plants, all have their own peculiar beauty of formation, and all have the arrangement of their canals different accordto their needs, giving up when looked for forms of beauty and color as rich and complex as any blossom, and filling the mind of the beholder with wonder and amaze. R. JAMES WALLACE.

Chinese Greeting.

The form of greeting when two Chinamen of the same caste meet is for a man to clasp both his own hands before him, make a slight bow and say; "Tsing, tsing," which means, "Hail, hail," and is equivalent to the American "How do you do?" Another form of greeting consists of words which mean "Have you eaten rice?" to which the answer is, "I have eaten enough." Besides these, there are many other forms of salutation to be used in keeping with the rank of the person greeted. The highest form is the "San-kin-kin-kao," which means thrice kneeling and nine times knocking the head on the ground. The emperor and Heaven are worshiped by this salutation. It was the refusal of the first American and English missionaries to China to perform this abject ceremony which caused much delay in securing treaty rights and led to the war of 1858, in which the English and Americans acted as allies.

SOCIETY OF BOXERS.

Originally It Was a Lawful and Patriotic Organization.

Former German Minister to Peking Writes About the Genesis of the Revolutionary Movement in the North of China.

Herr Moritz Von Brandt, former German ambassador at the court of Peking, has just written a clear account of the Chinese Boxers.

"The word Boxers," he says, "is either an erroneous translation of the Chinese name of that society or is a pun upon that name. The Chinese name is Tachuan, which means the Society of Confederate Patriots. Chuan, however, also means fist. It is absurd for the Novoe Vremya to assume that the men are called Boxers because they constantly practice athletic exercises similar to those of the German turnvereins, but it is quite possible that Englishmen have given them the name Boxers because they spend much of their time at athletic exercises. The motto of the society is: 'Support the government; drive out the foreigners,' and therefore it cannot be charged with being hostile to the government. One can readily understand, however, how the attitude of foreigners in and toward China, combined with a frequently published report which seemed to imply that the integrity of the empire was in danger, may have given birth to a wave of patriotism the result of which may be seen in the assaults on the two things which the Chinese regard as the most important factors of foreign influence—namely, church missions and railroads.

"It must not be forgotten that for many years the English Protestant missionaries in China have been pursuing an extremely risky and regrettable policy. The originator and leader of the Tai-Ping insurrection was a pupil of the English missionary, Roberts, and, though there is no proof of any direct connection between the doctrines taught by the missionary and the insurrection of Hung, there is nevertheless no doubt that a large number of English missionaries, including Roberts himself, sympathized with the Tai-Pings almost to the end of the uprising, and even expressed their sympathy publicly.

"During the unfortunate and impracticable reform movement of 1898 English missionaries also played a leading part, just as they did recently, their zeal being manifested in an endeavor to show that every movement in China, even though it may have no political significance, is directed against the empress. For this reason, it is not to be wondered at that hatred and mistrust of England should manifest themselves by many tokens, both great and small, and there will be less surprise if we bear in mind the fact that most Chinamen are naturally disposed to hate and mistrust England, and that as far back as 1842 a league was formed in Canton for the purpose of withstanding Englishmen

"It is quite probable that the Chinese government is not displeased at the movement which has been started by the Boxers, since her aim ever is to convince foreigners that there are difficulties and dangers to be encountered by those who would recklessly interfere with China.

"It is also, however, probable that the movement has now become more powerful than is pleasing to the government, and has even become a thorn in its side. In China there is always the danger that an insurrection which is not quickly suppressed will become so great as to threaten the peace of the empire. Between the years 420 and 1644 China witnessed four great revolutions, and since the latter of these years she has passed through four other great ones, as well as countless small ones. For this reason the Chinese are wont to regard such incidents with a sort of equanimity and to deal with them after their own fashion."

Death in Their Finger Nails.

The juice of the green and growing pineapple is accredited in Java, the Philippines and throughout the far east generally with being a blood poison of a most deadly nature. It is said to be the substance with which the Malays poison their kreeses and daggers, and also the "finger-nail" poison formerly in use among aboriginal Javanese women almost universally. These women cultivated a nail on each hand to a long, sharp point, and the least scratch from one of these was certain death.

HEATH WILL RETIRE.

First Assistant Postmaster General to Be Secretary of National Republican Committee.

Perry S. Heath, now first assistant postmaster general, will soon announce his retirement from that position. He has decided to give his entire time and attention to the work of the campaign. He will accept the post of secretary of the republican national committee as successor to Congressman Dick, who will manage the campaign in Ohio. Mr. Heath is considered an excellent man for the position. He began his career as a printer, rose to be an editor and founded the first daily paper published in his native city of Muncie, Ind. In 1881 Mr. Heath went to South Dakota, but soon returned to the east, coming to the capital as a correspondent. In 1895 he began to work in the interest of Maj. McKinley, with whom he had become intimately acquainted. He rendered good service to themovement before the nomination in St. Louis and worked vigorously for the interests of the republican side during the campaign. In his office of first assistant postmaster general Mr. Heath has been active and efficient. He has never spared himself when at work for the government, and the national committee will probably feel an accession of extraordinary energy when Mr. Heath gets the work well in hand. There has as yet been no intimation as to who will succeed Mr. Heath as first assistant postmaster general.

PERRY S. HEATH.
(The New Secretary of the National Republican Committee.)

HANDLES OARS WELL.

James Hall, Mascot of the Harlem Rowing Club, Rows a Racing Shell of His Own.

A promising candidate for the diamond sculls at Henley some 15 years hence will probably be James Hall, of New York. Master Hall is now 10 years old and lives with his parents at 1953 Park avenue. He took to the water about two years ago and learned to row so well that his father, who is also an oarsman bought him a racing shell of his own. The entire outfit, including Jimmy, weighs less than 75 pounds, but the speed of the little craft is said to be something remarkable. The shell is 21 feet long, 8 inches wide and weighs about 19 pounds. The sculls are only a foot shorter than the regulation man's size. Jimmy is the mascot of the Harlem Rowing club, of which he is a member. The picture, taken from the Little Chronicle, shows him ready to defend his title to the 10-year-old championship of America

Told of Hannibal Hamlin.

Speaking of vice presidents, here is an anecdote of the man who was Lincoln's first running mate: In Hannibal Hamlin's earlier days, at a certain caucus in Hampden, the only attendants were himself and a citizen of large stature. Mr Hamlin had some resolutions to pass which began by representing that they were presented to a "large and respectable" gathering of voters. "Hold on," cried the other man, "we can't pass that, for it ain't true! It ain't a large and respectable caucus! There's only two of us." "You keep still, brother," commanded the wily Hannibal; "it's all right, for you are large and I am respectable. You just keep still." So the resolutions were passed without further demur, in the presence of a "large and respectable" gathering.

A Lost City in Russia.

An entire town has recently been discovered in the dominions of the czar, of the existence of which no one seems to have had any idea. Deep in the forests of the Ural lies a flourishing city, the inhabitants of which speak a curious language of their own, and seem to form a sort of ideal commonwealth, in which taxes and tax-gatherers among other troublesome things, are unheard of. There are people living among us who, in these days of heavy taxation, would be happy if such a state of things prevailed in this country.

MARRIAGE IN CHINA.

All Matrimonial Alliances Arranged by Female Brokers.

Wedding Festivities Are Elaborate and Usually Last Three Days—High Officials Carry Their Coffins When Traveling.

Wu Ting Fang, Chinese minister to the United States, contributes an interesting article to Collier's Weekly upon the social customs of his people.

Many of the rich Chinese, he says, are philanthropic and earnestly desire to relieve the suffering they see about them. They give freely of their wealth, but the poor are legion in China, and the task is not an easy one. Private charity, however, which is always more or less capricious, has provided most of the orphan asylums, the free hospitals and the poorhouses of the country.

Social entertainments in China never revolve around dancing or athletic contests, as they so frequently do in this country. Our ideas about the impropriety of the two sexes mingling socially would effectually prevent dancing from becoming a form of entertainment. Athletic sports have not found favor in our eyes, but games of chance have a strong hold on the popular heart.

Among my children the choice of a partner for life is always left to the parents of the bridal pair. They have the interest and welfare of their children at heart and act with judgment and wisdom that only mature years can bring. The engagement is usually made when the young people are in their early teens—in many cases when they are much younger. Matrimonial alliances between friendly families are the most common.

In some sections of the country, the assistance of a professional matchmaker is called in when marriage is desired for a child of the house, especially if no suitable alliance with a friend's child is possible. The role of marriage broker is played by women of the middle class.

The wedding festivities usually last three days. On the day previous to the marriage, the girl's parents send her dowry to the bridegroom. If she is rich, it will consist of a great variety of costly articles, including household furniture, clothing and precious jewelry. Early on the day of the wedding the parents of the bridegroom send a bridal chair to bring the bride to their home. It is usually a very gorgeous sedan chair which has been rented for the day. Musicians accompany it and the match-makers follow, bringing more presents. Arrived at the home of the bride, there is usually at this juncture a long pause in the proceedings. The bride is in tears, and makes a great show of reluctance at the thought of leaving her home and her parents. Frequently, six or seven hours pass before she will consent to let her maids adorn her in the bridal robes and headdress sent her by the bridegroom's parents. Slowly her finery is donned—the red dress with its glittering gilt ornaments, the long red veil, the elaborate headdress with its strings of pearls hanging over her face. With her hair no longer dressed in childhood's fashion, but arranged in the coiffure peculiar to a married woman, she bids her family a tearful farewell. At last she gets into her chair and is borne away from her old home. Her brothers follow her in sedan chairs to the house of the bridegroom. The bridegroom, in gorgeous dress, comes out to meet her. He bows, he opens the door of her chair. One of her maids comes up and carries her on her back into the house. There, the bridegroom lifts her veil and sees for the first time the face of his bride.

No priest conducts the ceremony which unites them. Together they kneel before the altar of their Unknown God and before the shrine of their ancestors, and burn incense and candles.

The funeral of a dead Chinese frequently does not occur until two or three weeks after death, but the body lies all this time in state in its handsome coffin. Rich Chinese are very particular about the good quality of the wood for their coffins, often having them made for years before there is any probability of their being needed. It is well known that some distinguished high officials are in the habit of carrying their coffins around with them in their travels.

GOLF

The caddies of the Hillside and Park Golf Clubs will play a return match tomorrow morning on the links of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. The first match was played on the Park Club course last week and the Hillside caddies won 20 to 5. They expect to repeat their victory in this match.

Saturday's issue of the Mail and Express gives an account of golf playing at Lake Champlain between the Burlington Club and the Champlains with results in favor of the latter. A coming play is anticipated as follows: "On Monday next the return game will be played, and a still greater score is anticipated for the Champlains as they are strengthening their forces with such men as 'Willie' Runkle."

The championship of 1900 of the New Jersey State Golf Association will be held at the links of the Essex County Country Club September 27 to 29. No one shall be eligible to compete who is not a resident member of a New Jersey club. The following golf clubs make up the association: Baltusrol, Essex, Englewood, Hillside, Jersey City, Lakewood, Morris County, Montclair, North Jersey and Yountakah.

Martin Kane, one of the caddie team from the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, which met the caddies of the Park Golf Club in a match last week, made a remarkable showing for a lad. He covered the Park Golf Club course in 47, a feat which many of the players of the Park Club are unable to equal. This score was made by Kane on his first trial of the course. With a better acquaintance he should do better. He thinks, contrary to most players, that the Park Golf Club course is easier than the course of the Hillside Club. His best on the latter links is 50.

While Morgan T. Townsend has been considered by many as the present champion of the Park Golf Club, it has been well known that Gus W. Faber was one of the best of those who might be able to wrest the title from him. The meeting of Townsend and Faber in the match for the green committee challenge trophy last Saturday was watched with interest by the other players of the club. Neither player was up to his usual form so fair comparison cannot be made. Both players seemed slightly effected by nervousness which may account for their poor scores. Townsend has, in practice, been able to reach a lower figure than Faber, but the latter is a remarkably steady player ordinarily. Townsend's record for the nine holes of 39 will probably stand for some time.

Play for the green committee challenge trophy took place yesterday on the Park Golf Club course between W. J. R. Thiers and Morgan T. Townsend, the latter the holder from last Saturday. The match was arranged for yesterday as Townsend leaves Saturday for his vacation and he did not want to let the match go by default inasmuch as he has four wins to his credit. The match yesterday resulted in a defeat for Townsend. On the thirteenth hole Thiers was 5 up and 5 to go. Townsend took the next three holes, leaving Thiers dormie 1. Thiers then won the last hole which made him 2 up on the match. The cards were as follows:

Thiers	4	5	4	4	5	5	6	6	6	45	93
	4	6	4	5	6	7	6	4	6	48
Townsend	4	8	4	4	7	4	5	5	7	48	97
	4	7	5	4	5	6	5	5	7	49

There was sorrowing among the members of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club when the news came of the defeat of the team at Madison last Saturday afternoon. It was the first time that the Hillside team has met defeat since the season's play in the East Jersey Golf Association tournament was started. Despite this one defeat, however, the Hillside Club is still in the lead in the tournament with five wins and one defeat. East Orange and the Elizabeth Town and Country Club are tied for second place with four victories and two defeats each. The Elizabeth team met with defeat Saturday at Glen Ridge. The Hillside Club will not play again in the tournament until Saturday, August 18th, when one of the most decisive games of the league will be played. The Hillside and the Elizabeth teams will meet on the links of the Elizabeth Town and Country Club. A victory for the Plainfielders will come very near to settling the final result. If Elizabeth wins, however, it will tie the two clubs for first place.

PARADE OF WATER CRAFT

CRANFORD CARNIVAL PROMISES TO BE A BRILLIANT AFFRIR.

It Will Take Place August 11th—Elaborate Arrangements Being Made For It

The beautiful Venetian carnival and water parade to be held on the picturesque Rahway river Saturday evening, August 11th, under the auspices of the Cranford Boating Association, will excel in beauty anything of the kind ever held in the past fifteen years during the history of the boating association.

The Cranford Casino Club house on Riverside avenue will be gorgeously illuminated, and it is the intention to suspend a monster balloon over the river opposite the pretty clubhouse, where the parade will turn. The parade of gayly decorated canoes and floats will move up and down the river twice, so that spectators will all have a chance to see the pretty spectacle. It is estimated over 50 boats will participate.

Professor W. N. Bartow's Asbury Park military band has been engaged to furnish music for the occasion.

The residents and summer cottagers never took so much interest in the carnival as they are doing this year, and the lawn decorations will be especially elaborate.

The owners of water craft are already preparing their boats for the evening. This work is going on in a secret way, for there will be great competition for prizes which will be awarded for the best decorated boats, canoes, floats and lawns.

On the promise of a bond for $100 being furnished for the good behavior of the boy, sentence was suspended.

AGGRESSIVE WORK BY THE DEMOCRATS

State Committee Will Meet in Newark Next Saturday and Select Headquarters.

ORGANIZATION CAMPAIGN

EFFORT TO GET ALL MEMBERS OF THE PARTY IN LINE.

Olive Branch to be Extended and Former Active Democrats Will Be Asked to Renew Interest in Political Affairs.

A meeting of the Democratic State committee will be held in Newark next Saturday, at which the party's campaign in New Jersey will be practically opened. For two weeks or so the attention of the leaders will be occupied with preliminary work, and it is expected to have affairs in pretty good shape so that the canvass can be set going in full swing by the latter part of August. Headquarters will be opened in Newark probably at the Jeffersonian clubhouse.

Chairman William B. Gourley is arranging his private business so that he can devote practically his whole time to politics after August 15th. It is the intention of the chairman, and his views are concurred in by most of his colleagues, to make a most active campaign from one end of the State to the other. Organizations will be formed in every voting precinct in the Commonwealth, the duty of forming the same devolving upon the district leaders, and all of the clubs are to cooperate with the county and State organizations. This, at least, is part of the plans mapped out by Mr. Gourley.

Though no provision for the formation of an advisory committee was made at the last State convention, the State committee proposes to make an effort to interest a number of those who were formerly conspicuous in party affairs, but whose active interest of late has been somewhat dormant, into what will be called an advisory committee. The men whose counsel and aid will be sought in this manner will include a number of those whose party ardor cooled perceptibly in 1896.

It is not known definitely whether former United States Senator Smith will take an active interest in the coming fight, but he will be asked to help to the extent of serving on the prospective advisory committee, if not in a more material way as well. State Senator Allan L. McDermott, who openly repudiated the Chicago platform four years ago, will also be invited to get in line for the party's sake in New Jersey, and Miles Ross, Henry C. Kelsey, Henry "Staff" Little and others will be urged to infuse into the campaign some of the aggressiveness and enthusiasm which marked the Democratic battles when these men were the recognized leaders of the party in the State.

Efforts will also be made in the various counties to band together bodies of Democrats who are more or less influential in their respective home districts, but who are not actively associated with the regular county committees. It is the intention to have these proposed organizations work in harmony with the existing central bodies as a part of the general scheme of party organization. From time to time the chairmen of the different county committees will be called together for conferences, and in like manner it is proposed to have the heads of the proposed organizations meet occasionally to exchange views so that all can work in concert.

"We propose to make every honest effort to win in New Jersey," said State Chairman Gourley to a reporter yesterday, "and I am not at all discouraged as to the outlook. I intend to give the affairs of the campaign as much of my personal attention as possible, and I will make it my business to see every Democrat that I can. No man in the party will be too big or too little for me, and before election day I confidently expect that the Democratic party in this State will be as well organized as it ever was in its history.

"The State Committee will meet next Saturday, when we will select a headquarters, and perhaps fix the date for the State convention to choose Presidential electors. After that meeting we will be ready for work, and as we want all the earnest workers in the State to get together, I think I can say that the committee will handle the campaign in a manner that will satisfy every Democrat in the State."

—The large stone to be used in the foundation for the new bridge that will connect Madison avenue and Duer street, has arrived and is rapidly being put in position.

NO CONCERTS IN PARK.

PROJECT ABANDONED ON ACCOUNT OF NECESSARY FUNDS.

Money Subscribed Will go Toward Continuation of Concerts on North Avenue by Favor of Mr. Staats.

The project to give open air band concerts in the city park has been abandoned owing to the lack of the necessary funds. There will be open air concerts, however Under the present arrangement, J. A. Staats, proprietor of the Hotel Kensington, contributes two-thirds of the cost of each concert held on North avenue in front of his hotel. Should the location be changed, his contribution will naturally be reduced to the size of the others. As the amount so far subscribed would not maintain a series of concerts in the city park, it has been decided to continue them on North avenue and allow the subscriptions to go toward making up the other third of the cost.

Benjamin LaVere, leader of LaVere's Band, greatly regretted that he could not do as was originally planned, but lack of funds made it impossible. There are fourteen of the best of the local musicians who are members of the band and give their services gratuitously. They also attend the rehearsals and have purchased their own uniforms. The expenses consist of the out-of-town talent and the necessary music and the lighting of the band stand.

If the citizens of Plainfield raise the necessary two-thirds of the weekly expense, now paid by Mr. Staats, the concerts will be given in the City Park. For the present, however, North avenue will be the scene of the weekly musical treat which has already proved so popular to the Plainfield people. The next concert will be held tomorrow night.

The programme for tomorrow night's concert is as follows:

March—Our Jackies.....Laurendeau
(by request.)
Overture—On and Off.....L. O. DeWitt
Waltz—Concert-Calanthe.....Holzman
Trombone Solo—Asleep in the Deep.

VORACIOUS EASTSIDERS.

New Yorkers Left but Little After Their Raid on New Market Visitors to Boynton Beach.

Two barge loads of New York excursionists from the great East Side to Boynton Beach last Tuesday made a rich haul in the way of coats, wraps and eatables which had been left around by the owners. The grounds were already crowded, when the barges arrived, with excursionists from New Market and other parts of Piscataway township. The New Yorkers spread themselves over the grounds and everything left unguarded was quietly appropriated. Whole dinners of the good things that only the Piscataway housewives know how to prepare were devoured by the hungry Eastsiders, causing consternation among the New Marketites at noontime.

One energetic fellow was removing the cushions from a farmer's wagon and reluctantly dropped them when he saw he was discovered. It is safe to say that the next time Piscataway goes to Boynton Beach a full supply of padlocks or family watch dogs will be among the things taken along.

DEATH LURKED IN NEEDLE.

Man Who Acted as His Own Surgeon Dies of Blood Poisoning.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 2 — Henry Scheckler, a carpenter and builder, died yesterday at his residence of blood poisoning. He injured the palm of his hand while at work. He consulted a physician, but the swelling that resulted was not far enough advanced to be lanced.

Two days later Scheckler decided to lance it himself. He ran a large needle into the sore. It is said his wife, who had a felon on one of her fingers, had used the same needle the day previous to lance the felon. A couple of days later blood poisoning developed.

AS TO DALY'S SUCCESSOR.

Davis Says One Must be Elected for Unexpired Term—Governor Not Hurrying.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Jersey City, August 2.—It is understood in Hudson county that Governor Voorhees will order a Congressman elected in November to fill the unexpired term of the late Congressman Daly. At the same time there will be elected a Congressman to the full term of two years, beginning March 5th next. By combining these two elections in November the district will be saved the expense and bother of an extra election.

Collector Davis insists that the vacancy in Congress shall be filled without delay.

"Hudson county," said Collector Davis, "should certainly have a representative at the coming session of Congress, especially at this time, when Jersey City is fighting for a new postoffice."

Governor Takes No Action.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 2.—Governor Voorhees said that he had taken no action regarding a special writ of election for a successor to Congressman Daly. He intimated that it would be very bad form to do anything so soon after Mr. Daly's death, and said that, besides, there was plenty of time, as the election would not be held until November.

AUTOMOBILE MAY COST LIFE.

Former Freeholder Owen Sullivar, of Elizabeth, Probably Fatally Hurt in a Runaway.

Former Freeholder Owen Sullivan, of Elizabeth, a prominent Democratic politician, was dangerously hurt in Linden township, Tuesday night, by being thrown from his trap in a runaway, and last night his conditon was worse and recovery doubtful.

Mr. Sulivan is a native of Norwalk, Conn., and is fifty-two years old. He has been twice married. He weighs two hundred and seventy-five pounds. The accident was caused by an automobile scaring his horse.

Mr. Sullivan was dragged almost three hundred feet along the macadam road by his foot catching in the reins. When rescued by Edward Weldon, of Rahway, he was unconscious.

Weldon's horse was left standing in the road during the absence of its owner, who ran to Mr. Sullivan's assistance. The return of the automobile frightened Weldon's animal, and it also ran away and demolished the sulky to which it was attached.

IMPROVING PLANT.

Business is so Rushing for American Engine Company That Facilities are Being Increased

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, August 2 —Extensive improvements are now in progress at the works of the American Engine Company in East Bound Brook. Kellogg & Alexander, New York contractors, are erecting a large addition to the present brick building occupied by the company. The addition will be 80 feet wide and 120 feet long. It will make room for some large and complicated tools which have been ordered and will permit the extension of the big electric crane which runs the length of the building.

The company already has orders for engines which will require its full complement of men to work night and day in order to complete them this year. They have been compelled to turn away orders. The addition to the building will permit an increase in the capacity and will necessitate the employment of several score more men. There are a hundred skilled mechanics employed there at present.

F. H. Ball, of Plainfield, is the vice-president and general manager of the company and his son, F. O. Ball, of Plainfield, is the superintendent.

Woman Fainted.

Considerable excitement was caused during the Martin Brothers concert on Watchung avenue last evening by the sudden fainting of a woman in the crowd. Everybody crowded around her and she was in danger of getting trampled upon, but for the cool head of Sergeant Frederickson who held the curious ones back. The sufferer was found to be Mrs. Michael Cox, of East Fourth street. After considerable delay a carriage was procured and she was taken to her home. Just what caused her to faint is unknown.

Gathered Around the Festive Board

WAS WINFIELD ALLEN STEPHEN PANGBORN?

Testimony of New Jersey Witnesses Will Try to Settle His Identity.

STRANGE STORY REVEALED.

DAUGHTER OF PANGBORN IS SUING TO RECOVER ALLEN ESTATE.

Claims That One of Williamsport's Prosperous Merchants Was Her Father—Allen Had Wife and Children in Williamsport.

Was Stephen Pangborn, Jr., and Winfield Scott Allen one and the same man? That is a question which the Common Pleas Court of Lycoming county, Pennsylvania, is going to try and settle. Stephen Pangborn, Jr., was a mason and builder in Plainfield, who left home and family and disappeared, last being heard of in Pennsylvania. Winfield Scott Allen was one of the prominent citizens of Williamsport, Pa. He came to that city supposedly from New York, for that was what he said, and built up a business which soon won him a fortune. He was accidentally shot while out hunting. Allen had married in Williamsport the daughter of a well-known business man. They had several children. All Williamsport was greatly shocked to hear that their respected friend and neighbor was claimed as the husband of another woman and father of other children.

An attempt is now being made to recover possession of Allen's property in Williamsport by the legal heirs of Pangborn. Under a special commission from the Pennsylvania court, Judge Schenck, of Neshanic, began the taking of testimony of the witnesses from this State, Judge Schenck held his little court in the rooms of the Board of Trade in the Babcock building. Several witnesses were examined and crossed examined this morning. Others will come up this afternoon and the hearing will be continued until the testimony of all the New Jersey witnesses in the case has been secured.

As it was only the examination of the witnesses from this State, the testimony was naturally rather disconnected and its full value will not be apparent until connected with the rest.

It was last year that The Daily Press exclusively stated the claims of Mrs. Sarah G. Pangborn, then living in penury in a little cottage on Lake street, to the fortune left by one of Williamsport's most prosperous merchants. She claimed that the man was her husband and that her daughter, Mr. Louisa P. Perrine, was their child. The time of the disappearance of Pangborn from this section and the appearance of Allen in Williamsport was the same and there were other evidences which gave much plausibility to the story.

Allen had left some forty tracts of property, part of them in the centre of the business section of Williamsport, to his Williamsport wife and children. These had been sold to various parties there. Nearly a year ago an ejectment suit was started by the widow of Stephen Pangborn, Jr., to recover these tracts of property. The case was in the Common pleas Court of Lycoming county, Pennsylvania.

Early last spring Mrs. Pangborn died, but the suit was revived in favor of her daughter, Louisa L. Perrine. Then came the appointment of Judge Schenck to take testimony of the New Jersey witnesses in the case.

Isaac P. Runyon, of the law firm of Bruce & Runyon, was the original attorney for Mrs. Pangborn, and associated with him James O. Clark, of Westfield, and afterwards, William H. Osborne, of Newark. The law firm of H. C. & S. T. McCormick, of Williamsport, was retained to bring the suit in the Pennsylvania court and try the case there. At the hearing this morning S. T. McCormick, of Williamsport, was present. With him were Lawyers Clark, Osborne and Runyon for the plaintiff. The defendants, who are ten in number and include the purchasers of the parts of the old Allen estate, were represented at the hearing by Lawyers John G. Reading and James B. Krause, both of Williamsport.

Mrs. Harriet J. Hoagland was the first witness and her examination occupied all the morning. She identified a photograph of Allen as Pangborn and testified as to the marriage of her sister, Mas. Pangborn, to Stephen Pangborn, Jr.

Ethel Lorton, of 203 Watchung avenue, has returned home after a most delightful two weeks at Ocean Grove, where she visited her aunt, Mrs. F. Kilburn, on Olin street.

SUNDAY SELLING.

Westfield Hotelkeepers Notified What Consequences Will Be If Illegal Traffic Is Continued.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, August 2.—The Westfield Township Committee is determined to put a stop to the illegal selling of liquor at the hotels here Sundays, and as a consequence the several hotel and saloonkeepers in the township were summoned to appear before the Committee in star chamber session Tuesday evening, at which time they were again told the law and its consequences if they did not stop Sunday selling.

Since the trolleys have been running the dry citizens of Plainfield and Elizabeth have found Westfield as one of the places to quench their thirsts, and the hotels are said to have done a thriving business.

The hotels at Westfield are attractive and quietly located, and since Emery's place at Scotch Plains was closed for Sunday selling Plainfielders have journeyed a little further to find their drinks at Westfield.

FARMERS' ANNUAL BATH.

Jersey Salt Water Day Will be Observed August 11th.

The farmers of the country and nearby the Raritan River who are accustomed to their outing on the second Saturday in August, commonly known as "Salt Water Day," are a little previous this year. The past week the usual place, "Swan Hill," South Amboy, has been sought earlier than in former years, and farmers in great numbers are clamming and bathing in Old Raritan to their hearts' content.

In past years the day known as "Salt Water Day" has been a great day among farmers, when their annual bath is taken, but the custom is dying out. It is evident that history will repeat itself, from the fact that so many farmers are celebrating the day again, though earlier than usual.

Perhaps a second bath day during the year has been deemed necessary and that the old time "Salt Water Day" will be celebrated along the Raritan as usual.

Miss Myers, of the borough, has returned from Asbury Park, where she has been spending a week.

CITY OFFERS REWARD.

IDENTITY OF PARENTS OF THE ABANDONED CHILDREN WANTED.

Mayor Rockfellow Announced This Morning a Reward of $25—Police are Actively Hunting.

Mayor Rockfellow has decided that the city is not going into the orphan asylum business and the police are prepared to make a strong effort to discover the identity of the inhuman parents of the two babies abandoned in this city last month and bring them to justice. This is the first really important duty which has fallen to the police since the advent of Chief Kiely and he is anxious to secure its successful accomplishment.

The police started an investigation on the discovery of the first abandoned child but without success. The atrocious details of the second abandonment stirred public opinion. There has been a universal wish to see the ones who are crimnally responsible fully punished for their misdeeds. The police are now working in an effort to find the parents of the child.

To encourage everyone to assist in the work of running down the unnatural parents and see that they are duly punished, Mayor Rockfellow announces that the city will give a reward of $25 to the person or persons giving information which will lead to the arrest and conviction of the parents of either of the children.

Life at the Hotel Netherwood continues as enjoyable as ever, every day or two bringing new arrivals, who give their aid to the pleasant affairs which are making summer life at the well-kept hostelry so delightful. Arrangements for the progressive euchre for the benefit of the Babies' Camp are going forward satisfactorily. Among the most beautifully gowned ladies present were the Misses Grace Williams, Prendergast, Garre, Bruen, May Coleman, Greene, Glenney, Grace Adams, de la Reintree, Ada Clarke, Lutkins, Bessie Taylor, Mrs. William Ogden, Mrs. F. R. Schoonmaker, Mrs. R. Struller, Mrs. L. de L. Camman, Mrs. John C. Sullivan and Marie L. Runke.

The winners of the Friday evening progressive euchre were Mrs. Lyman Jones, Mrs. Beman, Miss Helen Garre, Mrs. David F. Harbaugh, Wm. Ogden and Mrs. H. Claes.

A LAD'S HARD LOT.

Hurt His Foot Last Week and the Sore Got so Bad That He Suffered Much Pain.

A pathetic cry reached the ears of Dr. Zeglio, of Somerset street, this morning as he was preparing to leave the house to make his usual calls. His sympathies were aroused when he saw a little fellow sitting on the curb stone at the corner of Somerset and Pearl street, opposite Powers' drug store, crying as if his heart would break.

The doctor hastened to where the boy was sitting and inquired as to what the trouble was. He noticed that his left shoe was off and that he was holding his foot. At first Dr. Zeglio thought someone had run over the foot and injured it, but this was not so. In reply to questions the boy said that his name was Harold Boice and that he lived at the corner of Dupont and Howard streets. Last week he went blackberrying and was unfortunate enough to run a sharp stick in his foot near the heel. The wound had been neglected and had become exceedingly sore, making it very painful to walk.

Dr. Zeglio took the boy's stocking off and discovered an ugly sore. He then took the boy to Powers' drug store, where an application of salve and bandages brought about the desired relief. The youngster was made comfortable and, after Mr. Powers gave him a glass of soda to help him to forget his troubles, he started for home promising to take good care of his foot until it got well.

INVADERS BEATEN AT FIRST FIGHT.

No Likelihood of New Telephone Company Getting a Franchise in Plainfield.

NO ADVANTAGE FOR CITY.

REASONS THAT RULED IN BRUNSWICK WILL GREATLY INFLUENCE HERE.

Stated That Street Committee Has Received Letters Similar to Those Read at New Brunswick Council Meeting.

There will be no competition in telephone service for Plainfield this year. This fact can be stated with certainty despite the fact that no official action has yet been taken on the petition of the Plainfield Telephone Company asking for a franchise. The petition was presented to the Council several months ago and has not yet been reported back.

The Plainfield Telephone Company is merely an offshoot of the State Telephone Company, the rival in this State of the Bell Telephone system. In each of the cities where the State company has attempted to gain a foothold it has organized a dependent company named after the city where it desired to establish its lines. In New Brunswick the Brunswick Telephone Company was turned down pretty severely by the Council of that city, the members voting unanimously not to grant a franchise.

The question which confronted the Brunswick Council and the Plainfield Council as well was whether or not the city they represented would be benefitted by the establishment of a rival telephone company. The invading company offered rates that were slightly below those of the New York and New Jersey Company, and they also claimed connection with other independent companies in Jersey City, Newark, Trenton and Bound Brook.

At the meeting of the Brunswick Council, when the matter came up, letters were read from representatives of two of those independent companie stating that they were not allied with the State Telephone Company or any of its branches, and that they did not connect with the latter company's lines. It is stated that the street committee of the Plainfield Council has been investigating along the same lines and has received similar letters.

The members of the street committee, to whom the petition was referred, are pretty well convinced that the city of Plainfield would have very little to gain in the granting of a franchise to the rival telephone company. Owing to the much greater extent of the Bell telephone system, the new company cannot offer all the advantages that the other company can, and without some special gain for the city the members of the street committee are not at all likely to permit the city streets to be all torn up to lay another conduit system and make it necessary for every up-to-date business man to go to the expense of paying for two telephone services.

DIDN'T PAY THE LAWYER.

Counsellor McClure Has To Sue To Get Pay for Professional Services.

Leonard Vitromil, otherwise known as John Wilson, of Liberty street, had the misfortune some time ago to get into legal difficulties. He engaged W. K. McClure to straighten him out, but after it was done Vitromil refused to renumerate the lawyer for his trouble. The latter then brought suit before Justice Mosher and the case was tried with a six-man jury yesterday afternoon. Vitromil's only defense was that he did not owe the fee at all. The jury was out but fifteen minutes and returned with a verdict for the full amount and costs asked by the plaintiff. Harry C. Runyon appeared for the defendant.

PORTO RICO FINANCES.

Change to American Money Causes Hardship Through Ignorance.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 2.—Owing to the condition of currency exchange rents and the prices of food, labor and the necessaries of life, with scarcely any exception, have advanced here 66 2-3 per cent. Apparently there is a concerted effort on the part of merchants and shopkeepers to hold prices to the old basis. Houses that formerly rented for 25 pesos now rent for $25. Articles that formerly cost 1 peso now cost $1.

Although an indefinite extension of time was allowed for the redemption of native coin, the fact was not published widely, and prominent people have been under the impression that the peso would be of no value after July 31. Through willful ignorance or from other causes the peso has been refused in payment in many instances, particularly in isolated insular towns, where business is at a standstill. Many shops are closed owing to the shortage of American small coin. The ignorant classes, unable to understand that an American dollar is worth 66 2-3 centavos more than a peso, refuse to accept 60 cents in payment.

Pesos are still worth considerable at provincial points not yet visited by the treasury agents. Serious trouble among the laboring classes is expected before the difficulty is settled, but the increased prices cannot hold, as the law of supply and demand, together with competition, will force a readjustment of the ratio.

Powers a Good Witness.

GEORGETOWN, Ky., Aug. 2.—Former Secretary of State Caleb Powers yesterday concluded his testimony in his own behalf in his trial on the charge of complicity in the shooting of Governor Goebel. The prosecution failed to disconcert him on cross examination. Rev. John Stamper, brother-in-law of Wharton Golden and whose testimony the defense hopes to contradict, created something of a sensation on cross examination by admitting that he sought to get Golden to leave the state and indirectly offered $5,000. It was reported that ex-Governor Taylor is represented at the trial by counsel, who are keeping up with the evidence as it bears on Taylor's case.

Dr. Brooks' Comet.

GENEVA, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Dr. Brooks secured excellent observations of his new comet yesterday morning, the sky being clear. The comet appeared brighter than at the previous observations. The nucleus, which is starlike, is elongated and with coma and tail. The comet forms a very beautiful telescopic object. The position of the comet was right ascension 2 hours 52 minutes 40 seconds, declination north 36 degrees 21 minutes. The comet is now in the head of Medusa, about 4 degrees south of Algol, and is approaching the Demon star.

Accused of Burning Convent.

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 2.—The celebrated convent of Ocopa, which had been partially destroyed by two fires, believed to be of incendiary origin, was completely destroyed by a third. As all three are attributed by the ignorant peasantry to the efforts and propaganda of the American missionaries, there is great excitement among them, especially among the more fanatical, who are quite beyond the control of the local authorities. Government troops have been sent to the scene of disturbance to maintain order.

in Dentistry is the best substitute for nature's work that can be done. Sound roots may be built up and crowned and thus fill up an unsightly space. THE STORY OF PEKING

Astounding Infamy and Duplicity of Chinese Shown.

HOPEFUL CONDITION OF BESIEGED.

Envoys Announced as Safe July 28. British Minister Tells of Continuous Attacks—Chinese Government Did Nothing to Help.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—At last the story of Peking has been told. Dr. Morrison in today's Times holds up the Chinese government before the world as guilty, and to a degree of infamy and duplicity that exceeds the surmise of its worst detractors. In the same dispatch he gives a more hopeful view of the prospects of the besieged than has been expressed by any of the others who have been heard from.

Simultaneously there comes from the Belgian charge d'affaires at Shanghai an official statement that the allies are expected to reach Peking in about a week, they being 18 miles from Tien-tsin yesterday.

Another letter has been received at Tien-tsin from the British minister, Sir Claude Macdonald, dated July 24. "We are surrounded by imperial troops," he writes, "who are firing on us continually. The enemy is enterprising, but cowardly. We have provisions for about a fortnight and are eating our ponies. The Chinese government, if there be one, has done nothing whatever to help us. If the Chinese do not press the attack, we can hold out for, say, ten days, so no time should be lost if a terrible massacre is to be avoided."

Yet a Shanghai special says Li Hung Chang has received a decree, dated July 28, commanding him to inform the consuls that the ministers were safe on that date. Evidently Sir Claude Macdonald was overpessimistic, as Dr. Morrison, under date of July 21, announces the arrival of supplies. In view of this it is quite within reason that the edict announcing the safety of the ministers on the 28th is correct.

Dr. Morrison's dispatch, with the imperial edicts as authority, declares that as late as July 2 the imperial government urged the Boxers to continue their "loyal and patriotic services in exterminating the Christians." He explains those marvelous changes in the Chinese attitude which have so puzzled the world. It appears that all the appeals for intervention and all the protestations of friendship have been due entirely to the victories of the allies at Tien-tsin. The ministers in Peking owed their safety up to July 21 not to government protection, but to the scarcity of Chinese ammunition and to the fear which the Tien-tsin victories inspired.

When it is remembered how great reliance is placed upon Dr. Morrison in England, the importance of his exposure of the Chinese government can scarcely be overestimated. It seems to banish all hopes entertained by Lord Salisbury that the Chinese government might yet be proved not directly responsible for the outrage, and it may result in an entire cessation of the negotiations with Chinese diplomatists, if not in an open declaration of war on the part of the powers.

A letter from Hongkong, dated July 2, which has been received here, represents that Li Hung Chang was preserving order in Canton by a virtual reign of terror, rendering him well hated by the disorderly elements. He had ruthlessly prevented anything in the nature of a public meeting, and thus effectually prevented any of the various parties, all of them animated by hatred of foreigners, coming together to plan a rising. During one week he had executed by strangling or beheading 70 persons, and it is asserted that during his viceroyalty no less than 2,000 were executed. All suspects, innocent and guilty alike, were thrown into prison indiscriminately, which in a majority of cases was tantamount to execution.

At last Dr. George Ernest Morrison, the famous Peking correspondent of The Times, has been heard from direct. The Times this morning prints the following dispatch from him, dated July 21:

"There has been a cessation of hostilities here (Peking) since July 18, but for fear of treachery there has been no relaxation of vigilance. The Chinese soldiers continue to strengthen the barricades around the besieged area and also the batteries on top of the imperial city wall, but in the meantime they have discontinued firing, probably because they are short of ammunition.

"The main bodies of the imperial soldiers have left Peking in order to meet the relief forces. Supplies are beginning to come in, and the condition of the besieged is improving. The wounded are doing well. Our hospital arrangements are admirable, and 150 cases have passed through the hospital.

"The tsung-li-yamen forwarded to Sir Claude Macdonald a copy of a dispatch telegraphed by the emperor to Queen Victoria, attributing all deeds of violence to bandits and requesting her majesty's assistance.

"This dispatch to the queen was sent to the tsung-li-yamen by the grand council on July 3, yet the day before an imperial edict had issued calling on the Boxers to continue to render loyal and patriotic services in exterminating the Christians. The edict also commanded viceroys and governors to expel all missionaries from China and to arrest all Christians and compel them to renounce their faith. Other decrees applauding the Boxers speak approvingly of their burning out and slaying converts. Their leaders are stated in a decree to be princes and ministers.

"On July 18 another decree made a complete volte face, due to the victories of the foreign troops at Tien-tsin. In this decree, for the first time and one month after the occurrence, an allusion was made to the death of Baron von Ketteler, the German minister, which was attributed to the action of local brigands, although there is no doubt that it was premeditated and that the assassination was committed by an imperial officer, as the survivor, Herr Cordes, can testify.

"The force besieging the legation consists of the imperial troops under General Tung Lu and General Tung Fuh Siang, whose gallantry is applauded in imperial decrees, although it had consisted in bombarding for one month defenseless women and children cooped up in the legation compound, using shell, shrapnel, round shot and expanding bullets. They posted proclamations assuring us of protection, and the same night they made a general attack in the hope of surprising us.

"There is still no news of Pei-Tang cathedral. The wounded number 138, including the American surgeon Lippitt, severely wounded, and Captain Myers, who is doing well. Seven Americans have been killed.

"All the ministers and members of the legations and their families are in good health. The general health of the community is excellent, and we are contentedly awaiting relief."

After enumerating the casualties already reported and giving the total of deaths, including American, as 56, Mr. Morrison proceeds as follows:

"The Chinese undermined the French legation, which is now a ruin, but the French minister, M. Pichon, was not present, having fled for protection to the British legation on the first day of the siege.

"The greatest peril we suffered during the siege was from fire, the Chinese in their determination to destroy the British legation burning the adjoining Han-lin-yuen (National college), one of the most sacred buildings in China, sacrificing the unique library."

Chinese Thought to Be Cowed.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—A high official in the German foreign office said that in the opinion of the foreign office all the messages recently received from the members of the legations were allowed to pass the lines by the Chinese government. From this the foreign office argues that the Chinese government is already cowed by the international success at Taku and Tien-tsin. The official was inclined to think that the advance would be made without a commander in chief, a course of action which he characterized as feasible, although he denounced the failure to agree upon a common commander as scandalous.

Allies Marching on Peking.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 2.—M. de Favereau, minister of foreign affairs, has received the following dispatch, dated Shanghai, Aug. 1, from M. de Cartier de Marchienne, secretary of the Belgian legation, now acting as charge d'affaires of Belgium at Shanghai: "The allies are marching on Peking. They are 18 miles from Tien-tsin and should reach Peking in eight days. All the Europeans have taken refuge in the inner inclosure of the imperial city."

Bids For New Cruisers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The secretary of the navy has issued to shipbuilders a circular calling for bids for the construction of six armored cruisers, three authorized by the act of March 3, 1899, and three by the act of June 7, 1900. Those authorized by the former act are to be sheathed and coppered. By the terms of the circular issued two classes of bids are called for regarding the first three, one for sheathing and coppering and the other without it, the department reserving the right to adopt either form of construction. The specifications for the latter three vessels call for unsheathed vessels. The bids are to be opened Dec. 7. The plans will be ready for distribution to the bidders Nov. 8. No bids will be considered which propose to furnish vessels of less than 13,400 tons trial displacement for sheathed or of less than 22 knots speed and a bunker capacity of 2,000 tons.

Another Head Falls.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 2.—The managers of the Elmira reformatory called for another resignation yesterday. It was tendered, and Henry Riff, head of the culinary department, is out of a situation. He was one of Superintendent Brockway's trusted lieutenants, which fact may have had considerable to do with his resignation. Architects' plans for the new cottages to be erected on the reformatory grounds for the use of the resident physician and the assistant superintendents were inspected by the managers, and advertisements for bids for the construction of the buildings will be printed at once. Superintendent Brockway has been besieged by newspaper men and requested to make a full statement of his side of the case, and his reply to all was "Nothing to say."

Arrested For Silk Robbery.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A young man, giving his name as Abraham Levy and his occupation as a clerk of New York, was arrested at Yonkers on suspicion of being implicated in the theft of nearly $5,000 worth of silk from Julius Stein & Co. of New York city. About two weeks ago the silk disappeared from Stein's in broad daylight. Two large trunks containing 66 rolls of silk, valued at $2,500, were seized at Yonkers. Levy had called for them, and his suspicious actions caused his arrest. The goods were identified by New York officers and also by an employee of the silk house from which they had been taken.

Miners Rejoice at Humbert's Death.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 2.—A special to The Commercial Gazette says that last night at the mouth of an abandoned mine near Shaner Station, on the Baltimore and Ohio road, quite a large number of anarchists gathered to exult over the killing of King Humbert. The meeting was in charge of G. Ciancabilla, editor of L'Aurora, the anarchist newspaper of Hoboken, N. J., who spoke for an hour, rousing his hearers to a high pitch of rejoicing. Ciancabilla disclaimed all knowledge of Bresci's mission to Italy, but heartily approved of the result. He claims it was not a plot in which anarchists were concerned.

To Attend G. A. R. Reunion.

ATLANTA, Aug. 2.—General John B. Gordon, commander in chief of the United Confederate Veterans, will be a guest at the thirty-fourth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Chicago Aug. 27. General Gordon was extended an invitation at the request of General Albert D. Shaw, commander in chief of the Grand Army. General Gordon accepted the invitation conditionally on the state of his health. He and his staff will be furnished a private car and will go from Atlanta with the O. M. Mitchell post, No. 1, G. A. R.

Long Strike Broken.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Aug. 2.—The strike of the miners of Georges Creek, in operation since April, was broken yesterday, work being resumed by miners of every company. The number of men reported at work was as follows: American Coal company, 200; Lonaconing Coal company, 47; Georges Creek Coal and Iron company, 125; Maryland Coal company, 175; New Central Coal company, 63; Consolidation Coal company, 500.

Oldest White Settler Dead.

ASHLAND, Wis., Aug. 2.—Benjamin Armstrong, the oldest white settler at the head of the great lakes, is dead. In 1835 he began trading with the Indians in connection with the American Fur company, of which John Jacob Astor was the head. He was the author of a book of early Lake Superior history.

WILL REST IN ROME.

Body of Italy's Murdered King to Be Taken There.

ROME, Aug. 2.—The ministers have unanimously decided that the body of King Humbert shall rest in Rome. Fifteen thousand troops will pay the last honors.

King Victor Emmanuel III and Queen Helena arrived here early yesterday morning and proceeded to Monza, where they arrived in the evening. The ministers met them at the railway station.

In the course of his examination Bresci did not deny that he had been designated to assassinate King Humbert. It is now believed that the crime was arranged in Paterson, N. J.

A man named Salvatore Quintavelli, who returned from the United States with Bresci and accompanied him to an anarchist meeting in Paris, has been arrested at the Rio Marina, on the island of Elba. The police found on him letters and photographs of anarchists. Anton Lanner, who also accompanied Bresci from the United States, was arrested at Ivrea. In consequence of these arrests the belief in the existence of a plot is increasing.

Great excitement is reported at Milan. The troops are in readiness at their barracks to prevent a disturbance. A score of prominent anarchists have been arrested. The police are active, and other arrests are expected.

Anarchists Disturb King's Welcome.

MONZA, Aug. 2.—In the midst of a touching demonstration of welcome to King Victor Emmanuel two strangers cried, "Viva l'anarchia!" They were arrested and narrowly escaped lynching at the hands of the furious crowd. An Elberfeld dispatch announces the arrest there of Giuseppe Bernardi, accused of declaring that Emperor William's turn to be assassinated would come next. He denied the charge, but is believed to be an anarchist.

Iowa Republican Ticket.

DES MOINES, Aug. 2.—For secretary of state, W. B. Martin, Greenfield; auditor, F. F. Merriam, Manchester; treasurer, G. S. Gilbertson, Forest City; attorney general, C. W. Mullan, Waterloo; judge of the supreme court, Emlin McClain, Iowa City; railway commissioner, D. J. Palmer, Washington; presidential electors at large, John N. Baldwin of Council Bluffs and Ole O. Roe of Des Moines. Above is the ticket nominated by the Republican state convention in one of the most interesting sessions in the history of the party in Iowa. The new auditorium was packed almost to suffocation with delegates and visitors, but the proceedings were orderly and the work of the convention went off smoothly and without a hitch, notwithstanding the warm contests for the various offices.

Kentucky Populists.

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 2.—The Kentucky state Populist convention (middle of the road) yesterday nominated for governor O. H. Cardin of Crittenden county and also nominated presidential electors for the 11 congressional districts and for the state at large. The platform indorses the Omaha and Cincinnati declarations, indorses Barker and Donnelly, denounces the Republican party for "cruel capitalism" and the Democratic as the "servile imitator of the Republicans in all the villainous legislation of the past 30 years," declares imperialism "is a sham battle between the two old parties to obscure real issues," denounces restrictions upon the ballot in various southern states and especially the Goebel election law in Kentucky and declares for initiative and referendum. The convention was held under a sycamore tree in Riverview park, and 125 delegates, representing all the Kentucky congressional districts, were present.

Cuban Teachers Would Stay Longer.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 2.—Some of the Cuban teachers at Harvard have expressed an intention to remain in America longer than Aug. 17, when the teachers as a whole will leave for Niagara Falls on their way home. Those who desire to stay are in the main young ladies who are seeking positions in private schools as instructors of the Spanish language and who wish to enlarge their knowledge of the English tongue. It is a fact also that a large number of teachers wish to see more of the country, and a petition asking the Cuban government to pay them their August salaries by Aug. 17 so that they will not have to return on that date is being considered.

Altgeld Replies to Roosevelt.

TOLEDO, Aug. 2.—A light attendance, but much enthusiasm marked the second day's session of the convention of Ohio Democratic clubs. The principal speech of the meeting was delivered last night at the Lyceum by former Governor Altgeld of Illinois. He spoke in reply to the address of Governor Roosevelt before the National League of Republican Clubs at St. Paul.

Attempted Assassination.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The Vienna correspondent of The Daily Chronicle, wiring yesterday, says: "A rumor has reached here from Belgrade that an attempt was made to assassinate King Alexander this afternoon while he was driving through the town. It is said he was shot at, but was not injured. The rumor is unconfirmed."

Three Drowned.

CANSO, N. B., Aug. 2.—By a squall capsizing their sailboat in the bay Arthur Hurst, John Horn and Clyde Roberts, aged 16 to 18, were drowned.

Watch Your Kidneys!

They are Filters For the Blood. Impure Blood Causes Disease.

Few people understand the important part performed by the kidneys in filtering the blood. As the blood in its circulation through the body passes through the kidneys, its impurity is left in the kidneys, which in turn empties the secretions into the bladder in the form of urine.

If the kidneys are blocked and filtration of the blood from poisonous or diseased germs is prevented thereby, the result is one or all of the following: Sleeplessness, Nervous Prostration, Weak Back, Pains in the Back and Loins, Scalding Dark and Cloudy Urine, Dizziness, Rheumatism, Diabetes, Congestion of the Kidneys, Bright's Disease and Inflammation of the Bladder.

Unhealthy Kidneys Must Be Treated

A medicine is needed that will properly promote the filtration of the blood and check the over-secretion of urine.

MORE BOERS TAKEN.

Hunter Reports the Surrender of Twelve Hundred.

BRITISH KILLED BY ACCIDENT.

Derailing of Supply Train Causes Loss of Thirteen Men and Injury to Thirty-nine—Surrender Still Continues.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Lord Roberts has telegraphed to the war office as follows from Pretoria:

"Hunter reports 1,200 more prisoners surrendered yesterday, with Commandants Rouse and Fontenel, while Commandants Deploy, Potgieter and Joubert surrendered to Bruce Hamilton, who collected 1,200 rifles, 650 ponies and an Armstrong gun.

"Lieutenant Anderson, a Danish officer in the Staats artillery, also surrendered. Olivier, with five guns and a number of burghers, broke away in the Harrismith district, but Hunter expects the total prisoners will amount to 4,000.

"An unfortunate accident occurred near Frederiksady on the Crugersdorp-Potchefstroom railway. The enemy had torn up rails, and a supply train escorted by the Shropshires was derailed, 13 being killed and 39 injured, although a special patrol had been ordered to prevent trains passing."

A correspondent with General Hunter's force at Slapkranz says:

"The Winburg and Senekal commandoes are now arriving, about 600 men. General Roux has arrived and also the commandant of the Wepener commando. It will take days to get all in. There is a continuous stream of wagons for seven miles up the valley road. All the leaders have surrendered. The prisoners include foreign artillerists."

The Daily Telegraph, on the authority of its Cape Town correspondent, asserts that documents of the highest importance emanating from England have been discovered in Pretoria implicating members of the house of commons and other prominent persons in England who have agitated in favor of the Boers. It says that startling developments may be expected shortly.

Rip Van Winkle Flier Wrecked.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Aug. 2.—While the Rip Van Winkle flier from New York on the West Shore railroad was entering this city at about 12:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon one of the trucks of the baggage car jumped the track. The wheels ran on the ties for several hundred feet, and then a passenger coach jumped the track, and this was followed by the locomotive and tender and the baggage car. The ground was torn up, the rails spread and the south bound track twisted. The locomotive wheels were buried in the rock ballast for two feet and the trucks of the cars badly wrecked. The locomotive was damaged considerably. The scene of the accident is in a deep rock cut, and the escape of the passengers from death was a miracle.

Public Debt Statement.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The monthly statement of the public debt shows that at the close of business July 31 the debt, less cash in the treasury, amounted to $1,109,346,710, an increase for the month of $1,635,452. This increase is accounted for by the increased disbursements of cash incident to the beginning of the new fiscal year. The debt is recapitulated as follows: Interest bearing debt, $1,021,125,160; debt on which interest has ceased since maturity, $1,176,310; debt bearing no interest, $386,904,604; total, $1,409,206,075. This amount, however, does not include $724,371,179 in certificates and treasury notes outstanding, which are offset by an equal amount of cash held for their redemption.

Severe Storms Reported.

HALIFAX, Aug. 2.—Terrific storms swept the provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island Tuesday night and yesterday, the wind and hail causing heavy damage to crops. Lightning killed a man at Georgetown, Prince Edward Island, and the same agency destroyed numerous structures in Carleton county and at Chatham, N. B. In Georgetown hail fell in such quantities that the boys engaged in snowballing. Such storms had not been experienced in those localities for years.

Leaped to Her Death.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Fear that the horses behind which she was driving were about to run away caused Mrs. Samuel Wank, eldest daughter of George Kraus, one of the proprietors of the Dewey theater of this city, to jump from the victoria on the Ocean drive at West End, N. J., last evening. She struck upon her head, breaking her neck, and died soon afterward. Mrs. Wank was 29 years old and with her husband and children had been spending the summer at Long Branch.

ANXIOUS TO MAKE UP

China Fears the Approach of Allied Forces.

OBJECTIONABLE CONDITIONS OFFERED

A Proposition to Send Foreigners to Tien-tsin if Absolved From All Possible Consequences and Liability For Past Misdeeds.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The Chinese imperial government is putting forth the most powerful efforts to secure through negotiation the abandonment of the international movement upon Peking. The cablegrams received at the state department today from Earl Li Hung Chang all tend to demonstrate his desire to secure the succor of the ministers at Peking and their delivery at Tien-tsin if this can be safely effected, trusting that in return the international column can be halted.

Unquestionably a proper assurance of the safe delivery of the ministers would have some effect upon the temper of the powers, and it is possible that the United States government would give ear to overtures in that direction were not the attempt made by the Chinese to impose conditions upon the delivery that are altogether objectionable. Such, for instance, is a stipulation that the Chinese imperial authorities shall be absolved in advance from the consequences of the attempt and for liability for what has taken place in Peking.

The first stipulation might be regarded as a direct invitation to the Boxers to murder the ministers on their way to the coast, and therefore our government will leave it to Mr. Conger himself whether or not he regards it as safe to leave Peking when the opportunity is held out.

Meanwhile there has been no change as to the military programme so far as our government is advised. The senior United States naval officer at Taku already is under the most positive instructions to urge a forward movement, these having been sent by Secretary Long just after the receipt of the original Conger message, and he was advised also of the intention of the government to add to his force. These matters are referred to in the belated dispatch from Tien-tsin which touches upon the military situation and the prospects of a speedy forward movement. But no additional instructions on this point have been sent to the United States army officers, and the government is allowing its officers on the spot to shape their own campaign, relying particularly upon the very full and comprehensive instructions previously given to General Chaffee both in person and by cable upon his arrival at Nagasaki.

Secretary Root said yesterday that there had been no developments in the diplomatic situation which would delay the advance on Peking and that General Chaffee had orders to cover any contingency which might arise. A statement has been made in the dispatches from Europe to the effect that the United States is pushing General Chaffee for chief commander. It was said at the war department that such was not the case, though it was recognized that the situation might be such as to make it necessary for him to accept command if tendered to him by the other powers.

Dull Day In Wheat Pit.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—There were a good many disappointed brokers around the wheat pit yesterday. All visions of a heavy speculative trade at the expense of Chicago, whose quotations were cut off from the tickers and replaced by New York prices, vanished. Instead of clamorous activity there was holiday dullness most of the session, so profound at times that messenger boys nodded and pit traders sat around the ring edge in fantastic attitudes waiting for the country to appreciate Chicago's bad form and exclusiveness and send their orders to New York. But somehow the public was slow to change its custom, and orders did not come in as expected. Optimistic brokers said the test was not a fair one, more time should be allowed and that the news anyway didn't warrant much activity.

Shot by His Sister.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 2.—David McNamara was shot and killed by his widowed sister, Mrs. Nora P. Philipps, at the McNamara homestead, about two miles from Leicester. Mrs. Philipps was on her way to Worcester with her sister, Miss Carrie McNamara, when David rushed from the house and struck Carrie. Mrs. Philipps interfered, and David, grabbing a rock, made for her. She pulled a 32 caliber revolver from a handbag and shot him over the heart. He dropped the rock and, grabbing her by both shoulders, attempted to get the revolver, but was unable to and rolled over dead. His relatives allowed the body to lie where it had fallen for more than seven hours.

Mother's Prayer Answered.

SYRACUSE, Aug. 2.—A Herkimer special says: "A child of Mr. and Mrs. Van Alstine of this village died Tuesday night. Physicians signed the death certificate, and the undertaker was summoned. Until the latter arrived the mother, who is a very religious woman, was on her knees praying that the child's life might even yet be restored to her. The undertaker came and proceeded to embalm the remains. Just as he was getting to work the child opened its eyes. There is every prospect that the child will recover."

Arrested In Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—John Clark, said to have been a deputy collector of revenues of New York city, has been arrested in this city for the alleged embezzlement of $12,000 of the city of New York's funds. He is said to have disappeared in May. Clark was arrested on information received by Chief of Detectives Colleran. Clark signified his willingness to return to New York without requisition papers.

A Remarkable Amendment.

Today North Carolina is holding its State election. Great interest is manifested in the results of the voting owing to the remarkable proposed constitutional amendment which, it is said, will, if approved by the voters of the State, result in disfranchising at least 75,000 colored men. Incidentally, a few white men will also be deprived of right of suffrage by the provisions of this amendment.

The amendment provides that as a preliminary to registering every person "shall be able to read and write any section of the Constitution in the English language," and shall have paid the prescribed poll tax. Now, as is well known, a very large number of white persons in North Carolina are unable to read and write. How to disfranchise the blacks without hitting the ignorant whites in the same way makes a question which, at a cursory glance, would seem to be among the impossible things to solve in equity and justice. But the North Carolinians have invented a way that is probably the most remarkable proposed constitutional qualification ever heard of in this land.

The following is the exact wording of this remarkable amendment to the organic law of North Carolina:

No male person who was on Jan 1, 1867, or at any time prior thereto, entitled to vote under the laws of any State in the United States wherein he then resided, and no lineal descendant of any such person, shall be denied the right to register any vote by reason of his failure to possess the educational qualification herein described.

There were no Negro voters in 1867 in the State, and consequently this "grandfather" clause will be successful in disfranchising the illiterate colored man without disqualifying any of the whites whose educational abilities are of the same grade. It is practically assured that the amendment will be adopted, but to make doubly sure that there will be no miscarriage of the plans the now famous "Red Shirts" were organized and have been doing "missionary" work for several weeks past.

In this proposed amendment one sees "straining the law" carried to an extreme that we of the North can hardly believe to be possible in the United States.

It would seem as though New Jersey was having enough trouble locally with the problem of sewage and garbage disposal without being forced to complain of New York city's method of disposing of its refuse. But such is not the case. Sojourners along the seacoast of New Jersey complain of the tons of garbage which the tide casts up on their shores, and assert that the articles thus foisted upon them are identical with those dumped from the New York garbage scows off Sandy Hook.

As a step towards giving the people of Cuba the management of their own government, the War Department has issued an order for a general election to be held in Cuba on the third Saturday of September to elect delegates to a convention to be held in Havana on the first Monday of November. This convention is to frame and adopt a constitution for the people of Cuba.

Notwithstanding New York's supposed preponderance in American politics, there has not been a native of that State in the Speaker's chair of the House of Representatives for seventy-three years. The latest New York member to hold the Speakership was John W. Taylor, who served from 1825 to 1827.

The intentions of Charles A. Towne in reference to the Vice-Presidential nomination of the Populists seems to be a political puzzle that but a very few have an idea of what will be the outcome.

The tax rate for the city of Bayonne, which does not have one-half of the attractions in a municipal way that Plainfield affords, is $2.84 on every $100 of valuation.

The World trenchantly observes that the anarchist news from Paterson would indicate that New Jersey has more on her hands than trusts and mosquitoes.

New Jersey cannot afford for its reputation or the safety of its people to harbor a band of anarchists such as have been unearthed at Paterson.

Just as a reminder of how time flies—this is the second day of the last month of summer.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The people of Freehold in South Jersey talk of appealing to the law to stop the objectionable practices of Caleb Sager, proprietor of the Perrineville Hotel. He has taught his fourteen-year-old daughter to smoke and drink, and takes pride in her accomplishments. When remonstrated with the father was indignant.

"You mind your own business," he said. "I do as I please with my child. Smoke? Of course she smokes. Don't I smoke? She can drink beer and whiskey, too, like her old father before her. If you don't like it you can lump it."

The attention of many of the neighboring cities has been attracted by the discussion of the plan of establishing a district court in this city and a number of opinions have been advanced by citizens of these various towns. One influential resident of Elizabeth, who is well acquainted with the workings of the municipal affairs there, remarked the other day that Plainfield would be very foolish to establish any such court unless actually compelled to. Elizabeth, he went on to say, was sorry that any was located there. It cost the city fully $5,000 and the returns from fees did not make up half that amount.

Chief T. O. Doane, of the Plainfield fire department, claims that Plainfield is one of the best lighted cities in the United States. When you come to carefully examine any plan of street lighting, he says, don't look at the lights themselves to see how bright they are, but rather look below them and see how much of the street is lighted and how much is left dark. The Chief says that it is foolish to expect to illuminate the streets in the residential parts of this city as the thoroughfares in the thickly populated business centre of a city might be. He has often asked traveling men who visit this city how Plainfield compares with other cities for properly lighted streets, and he declares, when he pointed out the proper way to judge street lighting, there wasn't one of them who did not say that Plainfield had one of the best systems that they had seen. While the arc lights, he explains, give a more dazzling light close by, a wheelman or driver approaching one of them cannot see as he can in a street where lights like those in this city are used. The arc lights give areas of very bright light, and then barriers of dense shadow.

We use a package of Grain-O every week. I am ten years old.

DUNELLEN

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, August 2—While standing in the doorway of the Aluminum Plate and Press Works at Plainfield, about 6 o'clock a few mornings ago, Oscar Pierce, of the borough, who is fireman there, was approached by a tramp. The latter inquired if anyone was around yet and on being told no, he said he would like to go in and see the place. Pierce told him it was against the rules. The tramp then attempted to pass through the door when Pierce struck at him with his right fist. Although the blow stopped the man from entering it proved rather unlucky for the borough man, as two bones in his hand were broken. He was obliged to secure medical aid and is now not only incapacitated from work but is forced to carry his arm in a sling. The single blow was enough for the tramp as he beat a hasty retreat.

AIR TO RUN SUBWAY CARS.

Device Illustrated by Gigantic Model Erected on Race-Track Betting Shed.

Under the betting shed of the unused Neq Jersey Jockey Club track at Elizabeth a force of men has been engaged for a week constructing a model of a process of propelling cars through tunnels through which air can be pumped or forced.

The models comprise over 2,000 feet of T tracks, eighteen-inch gauge. The inventor, Mr. Carpenter, claims that the cars of any subway can be run at a remarkably small figure and with greater speed than by electricity.

SUMMER MILLINERY.

Hats of Various Kinds For Various Purposes.

Plumes, mousseline de soie and tulle are fashionable millinery decorations and are as airy and cool in effect as could be desired, but are far less serviceable than ribbons and flowers or heavy lace. There are some odd hats composed of heavy application in almost invisible net stretched over wire frames. Heavy straw veiled in tulle of the same color is a novelty and happily accompanies thin summer gowns.

Manila and Panama straws are much used for outing wear in the Tyrolean and sailor shapes and are trimmed as simply as possible. There are also hats of stitched linen, canvas and pique—the latter white or palest gray—which are extremely light and cool and require no decoration whatever. Boer hats of rough straw approach the old fashioned mushroom style in form and are trimmed with a spotted handkerchief of red or blue silk.

The illustration depicts a gown of lilac voile. The skirt is plain in front and gathered at the hips and back and has five rows of stitching near the foot. The short bolero of voile is bordered with stitching and fastens at the left side with revers of white cloth embroidered with purple clematis. Beneath this is a vest of white cloth embroidered to match the revers. The sleeves of the bolero terminate at the elbow with a cuff of embroidered cloth, and from them emerge full sleeves of white mousseline de soie. The collar is of embroidered cloth. The hat, of lilac tulle, is trimmed with white feathers and purple clematis.

OUTING COSTUMES.

The Favorite Materials and Hats For Them.

For bicycling and other outing costumes covert cloth, whipcord, English serges, bures and similar light but tough and serviceable fabrics are used. The colors most employed are black, gray of all tones, especially dark gray, beige, brown and navy blue. A few greens are also seen, and for golfing, red, but these are exceptions. Fine mixed checks of light weight compose some very pleasing toilets of this class. The style is always strictly tailor made, with a simple decoration of straps, stitching and buttons.

The accompanying hats are of straw, canvas, linen or even felt, and are of the sailor or Alpine form, as a rule, although there are some having a high, square crown and a rolling brim, not unlike a low silk hat. Their decoration is of the plainest and most serviceable kind—no flowers, plumes nor lace, but bands, choux, stiff bows and quills of various kinds. There is rather a fancy for twisting a gauze veil of a bright tint, usually blue or green, around these outing hats, which are always of a sober color.

The picture shows a pretty model of a silk waist. It is blue, and the lower part has clusters of narrow lengthwise tucks. It is mounted on a yoke of silk tucked horizontally all over, and the sleeves, also tucked all over, are cut so that the tucks run obliquely. The decoration consists of crossed straps of stitched silk arranged to form Vs. JUDIC CHOLLET.

A gentleman of Brooklyn, employed by a great publishing house, had suffered for three years from dyspepsia and had it so badly that the doctor said his was a confirmed case. This gentleman, who was somewhat facetious as well as dyspeptic, used to say that he had his ticket engaged for a passage over the Styx. He had dieted for years until his wife said he had nearly come down to drinking dew and eating rose leaves. Now it happened that one day he had a dinner invitation which he really wanted to accept and he was induced to make trial of Ripans Tabules, because he had seen their wonderful effect advertised so much. He began three days in advance, taking one after each meal, then he went to the dinner and allowed himself full swing; but took two Tabules afterward. Next morning he found himself all right and very soon a lady neighbor was heard to ask his wife: "What have you been doing to your husband lately? He is looking fine!" He had not eaten a good dinner for three years before that night, but now his friendly relations with turkey have been resumed and in the exuberance of his new liberty he cultivates pie and, in fact, has a tendency to sample everything there is going.

Inside the GOVERNMENT MONEY Vaults in Chicago

Everyone knows that it requires a great deal of currency to pay off the harvest hands in the great west; but few people appreciate the significance of the term "money to move the crops." This phase, however, is often used by officials of large banks and by the employes of the treasury department. The first of August is about the time when the small country banks, upon which the farmers depend for their "harvest money," find it necessary to "buy" coin. Their orders begin to pour into the subtreasuries through the great banking institutions of the city. At this time of the year the subtreasury employes are kept more than usually busy. Every express train which leaves Chicago for the west takes bags upon bags of silver and gold from the subtreasury and this institution in turn orders vast sums of money from the treasury at Washington.

Money to Move the Crops.

If one could secure a bird's eye view of all these shipments and could really see the money in its flight, the sight would indeed be a marvelous one. From every available source he would see the currency of the east flowing into the treasuries as in a hopper—only to be counted, sorted and sent westward in orderly streams. Each railroad would be a path for the shining metal, and each country bank the terminus for a tiny rivulet from the main stream. It is well known that in the east one seldom sees a silver dollar. Bills of small denominations are almost the only currency used. In the west this condition is largely reversed. A Californian accepts without hesitancy a gold piece, no matter how badly worn, but looks with suspicion upon a piece of paper money which has one end torn off. On the other hand, in the east, one cannot get rid of a gold piece that is not new and shining, while a bill that is not more than two-thirds destroyed passes readily.

Counting Uncle Sam's Money.

It was the writer's privilege to visit, a few days ago, the Chicago subtreasury. The currency was already "on the move." One of the employes who has been in the service of the department for 16 years pronounces this year as unprecedented in his experience as far as the activity of the currency is concerned. Of course the department was making preparations for the great additional demands which it was expected would be made upon them by the country banks throughout the west, but they had also been kept particularly busy filling orders which have nothing to do with the "movement of the crops." "The fact is," said the cashier, "they have kept us on the jump all the year. The volume of business during the last fiscal year has been in the neighborhood of $500,000,000.

Counts 10,000 Dimes in 45 Minutes.

"Those men," said he, pointing to employes who were industriously counting the money contained in the great bags which had that day been passed in through the windows, "come pretty near knowing from experience what it means to count and sort from $5,000 to $35,000 a day for each man! Notice how rapidly that man is counting those dimes! And yet he is expected to detect and throw out every coin that is punched or is otherwise defaced so that it cannot be passed. It takes him about an hour and 20 minutes to sort and count $1,000 worth of dimes. Not only that, but he is personally responsible for every spurious coin which passes his hand undetected. If the dimes are new he is able to count $1,000 worth in 45 minutes. The man who works on the dollars counts and sorts about $6,000 an hour. None of these men work more than six hours a day. The work is very trying, and they are glad to quit when their time is up."

Must Watch for Bad Money.

The same rule which applies to the men who count the silver coin in the subtreasuries of the United States applies to those whose business it is to count and sort the paper money. That is, they are responsible for all counterfeit pieces which pass their hands. "One of our clerks here," said the cashier of the Chicago subtreasury, "has two little mementoes in the way of counterfeit bills which passed through his hands as genuine. They are for $100 each. These, with two others, were not detected by him, and some of the same bills even escaped the experts at Washington. Luckily, our clerk knew where two of them came from and lost only $200, instead of $400. It is the business of this clerk to sort out all bills that are torn or badly worn. We return to Washington daily bills representing sums of from $50,000 to $250,000. The "life" of bills of given denomination is a curious study."

Yes; It Was Very Heavy.

Summoning two assistants, for no one employe is ever allowed to enter the vaults alone, my informant conducted me past stalls piled high with bags of gold and silver in various denominations. "This stall," said he, touching the bags, "contains about a million and a half in gold coin. It is very heavy stuff, as you may see by lifting this bag, which has $20,000 worth of gold in it." I lifted the bag and—yes, it was heavy. "In this little room," he continued, "there is coin to the value of $16,055,000. But what I wished particularly to show you is here." Opening some inner vaults he took therefrom paper money of large denominations. "These bills," said he, as he handed me a little pile of $10,000 bills, representing $3,000,000, "are what we call 'long-lived.' They are made by special order and for large transactions, and most of their time is spent in the vaults."

Profit in Book Auctions.

The book publishers from the east who have been exhibiting their wares at the Palmer house, Chicago, in what is known as the Annual Book Publishers' fair, find that the Chicago trade is particularly dull this year. The people of Chicago are too busy with the Chinese problem, the presidential campaign and the weather to buy books of any kind. This state of affairs has led the publishers to seek out other buyers than those who comprise the regular trade. The other day a publisher who had just sold a lot of books which his firm had had on hand for some time, after hugging himself over the achievement, remarked:

Moving an Old Stock of Books.

"Did you see those fellows? They are the auction book sellers. The scheme which brings them thousands of dollars is comparatively new in the west, so far as books are concerned. I believe it originally started back in England. You know some of those old English earls owned magnificent libraries. Well, occasionally one of these collections would come under the hammer. The books were invariably taken into the country and sold at auction for a good price to people who could scarcely read or write, on the strength of their exterior beauty and of the fact that they had belonged to some branch of the royal family. A similar scheme has been tried with success in this country, New York leading in the enterprise. Of course we have no royal libraries and the majority of our people are educated. Nevertheless there is, in every city, a certain class who will pay three prices for anything, particularly for books, if they can buy them of an auctioneer, believing that they are securing the bargain of their lives.

"Damaged" Book Sales.

"It is strange," said the eastern book publisher, "how easily the American people are humbugged. At spare moments I have made a study of the auction book selling plan, and of the people who assemble to pay big prices for out-of-date dictionaries, encyclopedias, etc. The other day a friend of mine, pointing to a set of Shakespeare, asked its price. 'Seven dollars,' I replied. Then he confessed he had paid $12 for the same thing at the auction sale under the impression that he was saving $12! Why, those auction sellers come to us, pay our full price for books we are mighty glad to get rid of, and then turn around and sell them for double and even more; and when some one bids a particularly high price for one of their books, they stop right there and shove along a dozen or more at the same price, as if they were giving them away. The great thing is to get the people happy. I remember one auctioneer who had been unable to start the sales. Finally, picking up a huge volume of natural history, he remarked: 'There's a book you couldn't buy in Detro—' then, hesitating a moment he said: 'I mention Detroit, because it is my own home.' After discussing for a time on the beauties of Detroit, he added: 'And if any of you ever come within a mile of my home I hope you will feel at liberty to stay there over night!' When the crowd 'caught on' and began to laugh, it was easier to sell books than to keep them. It is reported of one man in the east who made himself wealthy at this business that he used to play the hose on his books in order to have a 'damaged stock' to sell."

BILLY AND THE CHAIRS.

Story of a Frisky Goat Which Calmly Chewed Up Two Venerated Family Heirlooms.

The day that Stanley Granton was eight years old his father made him a present of a wagon, goat and harness. Never was there a prouder fellow than Stanley as he drove up and down the road, followed and talked about by an admiring crowd of all the small boys, and most of the small girls, of the neighborhood.

The goat, Billy Buster by name, was a fine specimen of goathood, a brown and white animal, with two formidable horns and a twinkle in his eyes which Stanley admired very much.

"He looks full of fun, papa," said Stanley, critically, when he first saw Billy Buster.

Billy's twinkle did mean fun, and it meant investigation, too, and a decided fondness for having his own way.

The goat was kept in a shed at the foot of the garden, and Stanley fed him and played with him whenever he was not driving him down the road.

Soon Billy grew so fond of Stanley that it was hard to keep the goat from following the boy to school every morning, like Mary's little lamb did to her mistress—and he grew so bold that he often came into the house without an invitation, too, and once, to her dismay, Mollie, the parlor maid, was obliged to drive him out of the parlor, Billy objecting strongly at every step.

On this occasion Stanley's mother said to the little boy:

"If you can't keep Billy Buster out of the house, Stanley, he will have to be kept at the stable down by papa's factory."

After that Stanley tried very hard to remember to tie up Billy whenever he left him, and Billy, on his part, tried to run away whenever he saw a rope in Stanley's hand.

So there came a day when Billy Buster, behind the shed, kicked up his heels with joy to see Stanley walk off to school and forget all about him.

"No rope for me!" cried Billy Buster. "Kihi!"

Then he strayed around the house and saw the cook busy preparing vegetables for dinner and Mollie walking down the road on an errand. And then the front door stood invitingly open, and Mr. Billy walked into the cool, pleasant hall and looked around with a twinkle to see what he could do next.

Just inside the parlor door, which was also open, stood two little rush-bottomed chairs. They had belonged to Stanley's great-grandmother. Stanley's mother would scarcely let any one of the family sit upon those chairs, so careful of them was she.

But when she came down to luncheon that day she beheld a strange scene from the parlor door.

The parlor floor was strewn with bits of yellow straw. The two little slender great-grandmother chairs were snapped into 20 pieces upon the carpet, and in the midst of the wreck sat Billy, calmly chewing at a few bits of straw which hung out of his mouth!

"Oh, Billy! Billy! Billy! Billy!" cried Stanley's mother.

And Billy got up with a disgusted air at being interrupted in an agreeable meal and walked out of the house before she could get her breath to tell him to go.

After that exploit Billy did have to go and live at the stable down the road, and Stanley, missing his playmate, sometimes wished Billy didn't have such a very funny twinkle in his eyes.

FISH AS HUNTERS.

Some Shoot Drops of Water at Their Prey and Can Strike Insects at Quite a Distance.

Several animals that employ projectiles in capturing their prey are known to naturalists. This may not seem so wonderful in regard to mammals and insects, but when it comes to fish one is apt to wonder what they can use for this purpose. A few drops of water seem hardly sufficient for any effective service, yet this is the main reliance of the toxus jaculator in obtaining his food. He is found in the rivers of India, and lives chiefly on the insects that wander over the leaves of aquatic plants.

To wait for them to fall into the water would result in meager fare; to capture them by leaping would be difficult, even if the noise caused by the act did not frighten them away. The toxus knows a better trick than that. He draws in some drops of water, and then, contracting his mouth, ejects them with such force and certainty that they rarely fail to bring down the insect aimed at.

There is another fish in Java that acts in this manner and can strike a fly at a distance of several feet. The Chinese keep the curious fish in jars and amuse themselves by making them carry on this little exercise.

Johnny's Idea of Marriage.

"You seem to be getting lazier every day, Johnny," said a mother to her six-year-old son. "What are you going to do for a living when you grow up?" "Oh," answered Johnny, "I'll get married and live with my wife's folks."

FOR POOR CHILDREN.

Fresh Air Sanitariums Provided for Their Special Benefit.

Chicago Leads the World in This Branch of Practical Philanthropic Effort—How the Retreats Are Managed.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

NOTHING shows more conclusively that humanity is reaching a higher level than the increased facilities provided for the care of the children of the very poor of our cities. Development in the knowledge of sanitary principles shows how extreme poverty and the illness which naturally accompanies it cause a dwarfing of the sensibilities, indifference to appearances and tendency to crime. The future of the little citizens reared in filthy surroundings affects the welfare of the general community, and the work of bettering the condition of poor children is one in which all should be interested. Babies' stomachs, more delicate than those of their elders, and the close air filled with impure odors in many city tenements, are responsible for much of the illness found among the little ones. Ignorance and an entire lack of understanding of the first principles of cleanliness add to the trouble.

It is impossible to save the lives of many of the babies, even with the best of medical attention, while they are left at home in the care of uninformed, hopeless mothers. When this fact came to be fully understood, the fresh air treatment, with instruction to mothers, followed inevitably. When one woman in a crowded district learns the advantages of cleanliness her influence is exerted more or less on the lives of those in her immediate vicinity and many others are ready to avail themselves of the privileges which she has learned to esteem so highly.

A baby's change from pale, puny, wailing illness to rosy health is appreciated by any woman, and the fresh air sanitariums are patronized more and more every season. One of the pioneers in promoting these establishments is Victor F. Lawson, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, who has devoted time and money without stint that sick babies might receive the benefits of the treatment given at the Lincoln Park sanitarium. The good accomplished at this institution, now in its fourteenth year, is almost incalculable and its fame has reached almost every portion of the country. Dr. Thomas has characterized it as "the divinely beautiful charity."

By its means, thousands of mothers have learned to care for their suffering children. A baby, during treatment, is regularly bathed and receives medical attention, medicine, food and clothing. A wagonette, for patients and their attendants, conveys them from the street car termini, near the park, to the sanitarium, which is situated on the lake shore in Lincoln park, on the north side of the city.

A portion of the building extends out over the water. It possesses all modern improvements. During many of the hot summer days, the entire floor space of veranda, 18,000 feet, is occupied. Hammocks are swinging where feverish little ones, from stifling homes, may rest and breathe the pure, life-giving air. The sanitarium is near the palm-houses and zoological gardens of the park, where the older children, who cannot in all instances be left at home when baby comes, may play.

Lincoln park sanitarium is so well known that it is liberally supported, not only by many of Chicago's wealthiest citizens, but generous contributions constantly reach its "fresh air fund" from outside sources.

Although its work is, necessarily, on a much smaller scale, a visit to the Jackson Park sanitarium is no less gratifying.

This institution is yet in its infancy, and, owing to lack of advertising facilities, is not as well known as it ought to be. But most satisfactory results, in the cases of nearly 3,000 specimens of humanity, were accomplished here last year, in an unostentatious way, and Jackson Park sanitarium will in due time win universal recognition for itself.

Its situation is favorable for such a result, for who that attended the world's fair has forgotten "La Rabida," the reproduction of the convent at Palos, Spain, where Columbus took refuge and where his plans for sailing westward were matured? In 1893 the relics of the past, so generously loaned to the exposition, were guarded by regular soldiers of the United States army. Now its treasures, though incomparably more valuable, need no such attendance. Dr. Emma M. Moore, the resident physician, assisted by Mrs. Ida N. King and other cheery nurses, are warding off illness and death, the only foes the small inmates need dread.

The building is situated on a small promontory extending into Lake Michigan, and here, during the most suffocating weather, pure, invigorating air may be found. All poor, sick children are welcomed. The mother or some responsible person comes with them and remains to be taught how to take care of them. The hours are from 9:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. The sick child is examined by a physician, and food, or, if necessary, medicine is given. In many cases a bath seems of first importance, and if this is not too radically in opposition to the mother's principles, is promptly administered. Some of the older children object vigorously to such an unheard-of proceeding and the mothers themselves often appear panic-stricken, but when the ordeal is over the change for the better is so apparent that the maternal heart is filled with pride, and, after a few days, the patient makes his appearance in a proper condition, for all are encouraged to come daily until the little ones are fully recovered. So long as there is plenty of room without crowding out a baby, older children are allowed to attend their mothers. It is by no means only the very poor who avail themselves of the advantages of this sanitarium. Nice little mothers with the cleanest of children go out to La Rabida, as well as those who are able to pay for the privilege. A free omnibus runs on the hour and half-hour from Sixty-fourth street and Stony Island avenue, in which anyone may ride. If he chooses, one may deposit a small sum in the box near the driver, but no charge is made. For mothers who are unable to pay car-fare, street car tickets are provided. They are expected to carry their own luncheons, but hot coffee is furnished for all. In cases of destitution, the entire luncheon is given. They are encouraged to pay a little if possible, that their self-respect may be maintained or stimulated. But there are many pitiful cases of absolute want.

On the second floor very sick patients may be wheeled or carried around in the corridor from which may be seen the courtyard, bright with flowers. From the corridor a large room opens which is utilized as a hospital in serious cases. While the children are supposed to return home at five o'clock, it would be dangerous for some of them to bear the journey, and poor air and food at its end. These are kept in the little white beds under the care of the physician and trained nurses until well enough to go with their mothers. Many lives have been saved in this way.

Different clubs have furnished rooms and generous donations have been made. But a certain number of ladies have banded together and made themselves responsible for expenses. They have fitted up "La Rabida," the use of which was granted them by the park board. The work is a great one and, strange as it may seem, inducing needy mothers to bring their children is no small part of it.

From seven until nine every morning many mothers find their way to Trinity Diet Kitchen for Infants, on Wallace street, near Thirty-second. This was recently established for the purpose of furnishing daily supply of proper food for babies. Each is examined by the physician of the institution, its food prescribed, and it is expected that the child will be brought every day that the officials may judge whether it thrives properly. When necessary, baths are given. Food for 24 hours is placed in a jar which is packed in a large pail of ice to be taken away by the mother. All who can do so pay ten cents. Those unable to pay receive the food free of charge. Constantly increasing numbers are availing themselves of the opportunity thus offered for improving the health of their little ones.

SPORTING.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Jay Eaton did not race Tuesday. The "Indoor King" has broken training and will take a long rest. He has worked assiduously since April 1st, and will take things easy for a few weeks.

Charles Embleton and Elmer Woodruff, of Westfield, are booked to ride at the electric light meet at the Vailsburg track tonight. Charles LaMatty and David L. Curtis are entered in Chapin's road race over the Elizabeth-Springfield course, 25 miles, one week from Saturday.

Paul Whitall, of East Fifth street, started Saturday on a wheeling trip to Niagara Falls. He will go by the way of Easton and Scranton, Pa., going across country to Buffalo and thence to the Falls and will return following the line of the New York Central. He expects to be absent two weeks.

The Asbury Park Wheelmen, who have promoted a number of successful race meets, including the National meet of the L. A. W. in 1895, have secured a sanction from the N. C. A. for a National circuit race meet August 8th at the Asbury Park bicycle track. There will be a half mile National championship, with a special purse of $200; a two-mile "pro" handicap, a novice, one-third mile and one mile handicaps, amateur, with valuable prizes. W. Halsey Smith, of the Atalanta Wheelmen, can furnish entry blanks, which can be obtained from him at P. O. Box No. 896, Asbury Park.

GOLF

The defeat of Morgan T. Townsend by W. J. R. Thiers for the green committee challenge trophy on the links of the Park Golf Club Tuesday morning was something of a surprise. It was good golf, though, that won the match, and Thiers was fairly entitled to his victory. The score he made of 93 was remarkably good considering the condition of the course. The grass was long and the greens quite slow that morning. Thiers will now have a chance to hold the trophy for a time, as the next four challengers are not likely to defeat him, unless he falls from his usual good game.

Both Morgan T. Townsend and William A. Townsend, two of the best players of the Park Golf Club, have departed on their summer vacation and will be absent from competitions there for several weeks. M. T. Townsend now leads for both green committee and president's trophies, but he is likely to be passed in both contests before he returns, as his lead in each case is only by a small margain. No more team matches are likely to be played until Townsend returns, as so many of the good players are absent at present that it would be very difficult indeed to get a team that could make anything of a showing.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

The members of the New Brunswick Driving Association met Monday to make arrangements for the fall race meet of the association which promises to be the biggest affair of the kind ever held by a driving association in New Jersey. The total amount to be paid in prizes will be $4,500, or $1,500 a day, there being three races each day. The entries will close August 11th. The New Brunswick meet comes between meets in New York State and Pennsylvania, which will make it very convenient for drivers who are on the circuit to stop over there and speed their horses on the first three days of the month. All entries for the races should be sent to L. R. Hope, of New Brunswick.

Miss Eleanor Roome, of 3 Sycamore avenue, is quite ill.

Negro Waif May Die.

The negro boy baby that was found a few days ago in an abandoned state in the woods near Webster place, is not doing so well today and it would not surprise those who have charge of him if he did not live. Recent developments have changed this opinion and death can be expected at any time.

TEN ROUND DRAW.

West End Pugilists Scrapped for a $5 Purse.

There has been considerable difference of opinion between West End sports lately as to the relative merits of two noted boxers of that part of the town. The arguments have waxed so warm that a match between the two was decided on as the only means of settling the question of superiority. As an inducement to the contestants a purse of $5 was offered and the match occurred last night in an empty barn. After ten rounds of furious boxing, which was the limit, it was called a draw and the question is still undecided.

Papers Served After Long Effort.

(Special to the Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Aug. 2—Sheriff Barclay has for a long time been endeavoring to serve papers in a foreclosure suit upon J. Carlis Raymond, brought by Senator Platt, of New York, on a large tract of land near Monmouth Junction. Yesterday Raymond came to this city and was recognized by Peter F. Daly, who represents Mr. Platt's interests. Mr. Daly sent word to the Sheriff, and Deputy Sheriff Carman prepared papers to serve on Raymond before he could leave town. Raymond walked into the office to ask about a thing he was interested in. He was kept busy looking over the records until the papers had been drawn up and then they were served.

ARTHUR PUE GORMAN

For Thirty Years He Has Been a Figure in National Life.

Although No Longer a Member of the Senate, His House at Washington Still Is One of the Centers of Political Activity.

In the last 30 years there has been no man on the democratic side of the United States senate who surpassed Arthur Pue Gorman, of Maryland, in qualities of parliamentary leadership. During the later years of his service nobody was so rash as to venture to challenge his control of the party on the floor, and now that he is no longer a member of the senate he is missed daily. There have been few men in the history of congress, if any, to whom legislation has become so much a habit of life as Gorman. From the day when he secured an appointment as page, when a boy, until March 4, 1899, when a change in the party control of Maryland brought his service as senator to a close, he dwelt almost continuously in the atmosphere of the capitol.

There have been other men who, by long service in one or the other branches of congress, have become intimately acquainted with the niceties of legislative procedure, and have become adepts in the work of framing and passing bills, without attaining the heights of leadership. Gorman has political prescience as well, and it is this which has given him his mastery. He is one of those who can understand motives and sense popular feeling. He understands the science of organization and realizes how indispensable it is to party success. He has the rare faculty of inspiring confidence among those whom he would lead, so that where he marks the way few hesitate to follow.

Gorman believes thoroughly in "the machine." He is one of the political leaders who have been distinguished with the title of "boss," and, in the minds of many, it is undoubtedly true that this phase of his character has been more conspicuous than any other—so conspicuous, indeed, as to throw all others in the shade. But there is a broader side of his character, with which those who have served with him in congress, whether of his own political faith or not, have been familiar. He is a master of political methods, but he is a student of governmental policies as well. There were few questions which came before congress during his term in the senate to the study of which he did not devote himself and concerning which he did not have well-defined ideas.

Gorman looks like a priest or a diplomat, with his smoothly-shaven face, his finely chiseled features, his thin lips pressed closely together, and a gray eye that is keen and searching in its gaze. One of his greatest charms is a smile that is winning and confidential, even when some political scheme is lurking beneath it. Nobody can retain personal enmity for Gorman after coming in close contact with him. Gorman is almost as much a resident of Washington as he is of Maryland, and his Washington house is open almost the year round—even now, when he is no longer a member of the senate.

He has lost none of his political activity, although, for the first time since the war, he no longer holds any office. He still keeps his finger on the party machinery, and looks ahead to the day when he and those who think with him will be in complete control. He is young yet, as politicians go, having only 60 years to his credit, and many things may happen before his final retirement from the political field.

SHIP YARDS RUSHED.

Plenty of Work at the Nixon Works in Elizabethport Where 1,000 Men are Working.

Not for years has there been so much ship building at Elizabethport as is now under way in the Crescent shipyards, where 1,000 men are employed. The machine shops are running night and day and 23 vessels are on the ways. The latest addition to the orders for rush work is for three more submarine boats in addition to the two already received, all of which will be modeled after the Holland. The submarine boats will be named Shark, Pike, Wasp, Porpoise, Adder and Moccasin. They will be 63 feet 4 inches long by 11 feet 9 inches beam. Six steel hulled pinnacles for the Russian warships Variag and Rotevissan, built at Cramps', will soon be sent to Philadelphia by way of Delaware river. These have triple expansion engines. Two will be assigned to the Variag and four to the Rotevissan. Two schooner yachts for Carey Smith, the designer, are also under way. The monitor Florida; two torpedo boats, the O'Brien and Nicholson; five United States tenders or cutters for United States revenue service in Cuban waters and a fire patrol boat for Buffalo are under construction. One of the Cuban cutters was launched Saturday and one will be put overboard each week until the full complement is finished. The torpedo boat O'Brien probably will go overboard in a couple of weeks.

RAIN REVIVED THE CROPS

State Experiment Station Sends Out Cheering Reports.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, August 2.—The State Experiment Station at New Brunswick has issued the following bulletin of weather and crop conditions for the past week:

"The droughty conditions that have prevailed in some portions of all sections were effectually broken by copious rains the 25th and 26th. Corn that was rolling and twisting on light soil and hilly fields, young grasses and all truck crops greatly revived and improved.

"In the northern section the oat harvest has been retarded and some fields damaged by the wet weather. Considerable damage was done in a portion of Gloucester county by the high wind that accompanied the rain the 25th; large trees were uprooted and much corn prostrated. Peach picking has begun in Hunterdon county.

MANY IDENTIFY ALLEN AS PANGBORN.

First Day's Testimony Favorable to the Claim That Pangborn Led a Double Life.

NO MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE.

BUT SEVERAL WITNESSES TESTIFY TO THE FACT OF THE MARRIAGE.

Among the Witnesses was the Wife of the Minister who Performed the Ceremony—Pictures of Allen Identified as Those of Pangborn.

The first day's testimony before Judge Schenck, yesterday, in the already famous suit of Louisa L. Perrine against the purchasers of the Allen property in Williamsport, Pa., was favorable to the claim that Winfield Scott Allen, of that place, and Stephen Pangborn, Jr., of this city, was one and the same man.

The defending lawyers made little or no cross-examination of any of the plaintiff's witnesses. There were at least a half dozen of the latter who told of their knowledge of Pangborn masquerading in Williamsport as Allen, or identified photographs of Allen as being those of Pangborn.

An important point in the case to be proven is that of the marriage of Stephen Pangborn, Jr., and the plaintiff's mother, Miss Sarah Giles. There is no marriage certificate and no living person who witnessed the ceremony. This may be the point on which the lawyers will base their defense.

The first witness on the stand yesterday was Mrs. Harriet J. Hoagland, of Bound Brook, a sister of Sarah Giles. She said she knew the couple were married because they left her parents home in this city one evening for the Methodist parsonage, with the intention of getting married. On their return they told her the cermony had been performed by Rev. S. Armstrong, pastor of the Methodist church, and asked her to tell her parents as they were afraid to. She was the only witness crossed examined, but no amount of questioning could change her first testimony.

Mrs. Armstrong, widow of Pastor Armstrong, who now lives in Morristown, was then called. She knew the last wedding her husband had performed was between two parties by the name of Pangborn and Giles. There were no witness, neither was there a marriage certificate. Mr. Armstrong was too ill at the time to make one out and he died six days later without doing it. She remembered that three days after the ceremony was performed, two girls, Mrs. Hoagland and a friend, called at the parsonage and asked for a certificate, but on learning of the minister's sickness, left without it. This was in 1862.

Stephen King, a friend of Pangborn, positively identified a photograph of Allen as that of his friend. His first sight of Pangborn after he left Plainfield was at Stephen Pangborn, Sr.'s, funeral. He then addressed him as Pangborn, not knowing he was living under an assumed name. His attention was also attracted by the fine clothes and gold watch which Pangborn wore, as he was poor when he left this city.

Mrs. J. T. Armstrong, of Brooklyn, a niece of Pangborn, was an important witness. She stated that her uncle had shown her a heavy gold watch and chain which he always wore and told her their exact weight. They are now in possession of Allen's heirs at Williamsport and when weighed it is declared will be equal to that told Mrs. Armstrong.

Mrs. L. J. Denton, another niece, recognized photographs and said that she had written to him in Williamsport, knowing that he lived under an assumed name.

James T. Ferry, of Bound Brook, positively identified a picture of Allen as that of Pangborn. He also said that Pangborn had introduced Sarah Giles to him as his wife and that the couple remained at his house for a month after their marriage.

Miss Mary Brown, of this city, also a niece of Pangborn, was too small to know him when he went away, but was introduced and knew him afterward as her uncle. Mrs. Susan Willet, of this city, a sister of Pangborn's, was called. She said a photograph of Allen was her brother's picture without doubt. Mrs. Moses Brown, of this city, also a sister, identified pictures and admitted she had written to her brother as W. S. Allen, of Williamsport.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Brown's testimony, the hearing was adjourned until 10 a. m. today. Another fact brought out in the testimony yester-

BREAKS IN CIRCUIT.

Trolley Repair Men Kept Busy Most of the Night Getting Line in Shape.

The linemen belonging to the street railway were kept busy all last night repairing breaks in the trolley circuit. The first break occurred on West Front street, near Grant avenue, about 1 o'clock this morning. It took until 5 o'clock to repair the trouble. The job had just been completed when word arrived of a break on the Arlington avenue line near Ninth street. The entire circuit had been cut out at Fourth street by an electric light lineman soon after it was discovered. He was just in time as a milkman's horse became entangled in the wire but, on account of no current, was uninjured. Cars on the latter line were stalled until 7 o'clock.

CHASE AFTER HER PURSE

MISS NEVIUS HAD AN EXCITING TIME WITH A THIEF.

She Impressed an Express Elevator Into Service and Succeeded in Her Mission.

Miss Katherine Nevius, of 152 East Fifth street, this city, is employed in the law offices of Dowd & Kennaday on the nineteenth floor of the St. Paul Building in New York. About 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when she was alone in the office suite of five rooms, she heard a step in the outer room, and on going there saw a frowsy young man leaving the room. She ran to the desk in that room, where she had left her pocketbook, and found that the purse was gone.

She ran to the corridor and saw the frowsy man enter an elevator. Halting the next elevator she breathlessly told the conductor to go to the bottom floor without a stop, making him understand that she believed a thief was escaping. The car dropped like a shot, passing the other car at the fourth floor. At the ground floor Miss Nevius got out, and in a moment the man she was after stepped briskly from the next car to come down. Miss Nevius pointed him out to John J. Chapman, the starter of the elevators, as a man who had stolen her pocketbook, and Chapman made for him. The man ran, but was caught by Chapman, and then followed a rough-and-tumble fight out into Broadway, where both men rolled into the gutter.

Policemen Cronin and Sagel arrested Chapman's antagonist, who had a few pencils and about $3 in his pockets. When Miss Nevius accused him of stealing her purse he offered to settle and paid her back the $2.61 which the pocketbook had contained, though he protested his innocence of the alleged theft. The pocketbook, containing a commutation ticket to Plainfield, was found in the hall on the nineteenth floor of the St. Paul building.

The prisoner said that he was Frank Bill, of Syracuse, N. Y.

MUST WEAR UNIFORMS.

Union News Company Employes Must be in Distinctive Dress—Order Just Issued.

A new order has just gone forth that all employes of the Union News Company shall wear a uniform and a cap, the regulation sytle, color, etc. This action was brought about by the trouble occasioned patrons who have been unable to distinguish the employes of the company. The uniform will be a dark blue, as will also the cap. The order says that the uniforms must be purchased at once. This includes the agents along the railroad, as well as the newsboys. Each man will be obliged to purchase his own suit and cap.

The order has caused no little dissatisfaction among some of the employes who are scarcely able to buy a uniform, and they believe that it will work a hardship among those who do not make enough money to buy them. It is stated that some will resign their positions before they will spend the money for a uniform, as they say they cannot afford the expense.

Summer Shoes Reduced

Doane & Edsall announce their annual clearance sale of summer shoes at greatly reduced prices. In view of a large fall and winter trade they have given large orders to the factories for the coming season's trade, and the summer stock must be closed out to make room for new goods. Prices are so low that quick sales are sure.

PERMIT WAS GRANTED FOR NEW STATION.

Plans Were Filled With Building Inspector T. O. Doane Yesterday Afternoon.

THE BUILDING DESCRIBED.

BRIEF SKETCH OF THE NEW SOUTH BOUND STATION FOR PLAINFIELD.

Will be Built of Brick and Stone to Conform With Style of Present Station—Details of the Plans.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane granted a permit yesterday afternoon for the erection of the new east bound station of the Jersey Central Railroad. Superintendent George Fox, of the McMillen Construction Company, of New York, which holds the contract for the erection of the building, brought a copy of the plans together with an application for a permit. The permit was granted at once and the plans accepted without chance, as they more than answered the requirements.

The new station, as shown by the plans, is to be a very handsome structure and an ornament to the city. It will be built of repressed Trenton brick, of ox-blood color, with buff stone trimmings, to correspond with the present station. The roof will be of slate. The gutters and other metal work will all be of copper.

The new station, which is to be located on the south side of the track, will be 90 feet, 8 inches long and 25 feet, 8 inches wide. It will be divided into three parts. The eastern end will be the "head house," so-called, as it is located at the head of the subway under the track. It will be directly opposite the centre of the present station. The "head house" will be two stories high with no intervening floor and with four entrances from outside, two on the north and two on the south. It will be surmounted by a high peaked slate roof. The rest of the station will be but a single story in height. A waiting room, 50 feet by 25 feet, is to be located just west of the "head house." Two doors will open into it from the "head house" and two from the platfrom by the tracks. In a bow window on the north side will be located a ticket and telegraph office. The extreme western end of the building will be devoted to a ladies' waiting room and to toilet rooms for men and women.

A cement platform, twenty-four feet wide and reaching right up to the tracks, will extend in front of the station and out at either side. It is to be four hundred feet in length. A flight of stairs and a walk will connect it with Watchung avenue. Similar arrangements will be made at the Park avenue end. This platform is to be covered with a hood.

The tunnel or subway is reached by a descent of twenty steps, with a landing half way from the "head-house." It will have an iron frame and will be cement lined. The tunnel will be eight feet wide and eight feet, three inches high. A light shaft, between the centre tracks, will illuminate the tunnel.

The entrance to the subway on the northern side of the track will be built where the present entrance to the upper floor of the station is now located. There will be a doorway leading directly from the street and a flight of stairs leading down from the main waiting room.

A walk and fight of stairs will be built connecting the westbound platform directly with Watchung avenue. Another improvement planned is a cement rail which will be placed in the street in front of the main station to mark the hackmen's line.

The station will be complete and all the improvements made before the first of next year.

GASHED BY BROKEN GLASS.

Hugh Green Made a Victim of a Dangerous Practice.

The dangerous practice indulged in by residents of the West End in throwing broken glassware in vacant lots in the rear of their yards is proving dangerous to barefooted youngsters in that vicinity. Several lads have been badly cut and yesterday Hugh Green, of West Third street, was gashed in the left foot. His parents took him to the hospital and had the injury dressed. Housewives should be careful in their disposal of broken crockery, when it is known that the little fellows go without shoes more from necessity than choice.

STOKES AND RIKER CONFER ABOUT G. O. P.

Party Leaders Will Get Down to Work After Chairman Murphy Returns in September.

NO DEFINITE PLANS YET

CONGRESSMAN DOLLIVER MAY ADDRESS STATE CONVENTION.

Senator Foraker Was Wanted, But He is Not Available—Anxious About Assignment of Speakers.

Senator Edward C. Stokes and Supreme Court Clerk William Riker met at the Republican State headquarters yesterday to talk over the affairs of the Presidential campaign in New Jersey. Mr. Stokes is vice-chairman and Mr. Riker treasurer of the Republican State Committee and are in charge of the party management during the absence in Europe of Chairman Franklin Murphy.

In speaking of the conference Mr. Riker said that he and Mr. Stokes had merely discussed routine matters pertaining to the campaign. No definite line of action has been formulated and the plans of the committee have not sufficiently matured, it is said, to warrant their being publicly outlined. There seems to be a general disposition to await the return of Mr. Murphy, which will be about September 1st, before plunging into the hard, active work of the canvass. It is too hot, the leaders say, to look for much trouble this month.

On September 6th the Republicans will hold their State convention to select Presidential electors, and this function will mark the formal opening of the stump-speaking campaign. It was hoped that United Senator Joseph B. Foraker, of Ohio, would make the principal address at the convention. Mr. Foraker is summering on the Jersey coast and was considered available as well as desirable. Senator Kean, however, has told his colleagues that Mr. Foraker cannot accept the invitation, and Congressman Fowler is in communication with Congressman Jonathan P. Dolliver, of Iowa, with a view of having him as the orator.

The New Jersey committeemen are awaiting word from National headquarters as to what provisions are being made by the National committee for the campaign in this State. The local leaders are becoming just a bit anxious about the assignment of the speakers for this State, and unless word shall soon be received, Senator Stokes will probably make it his business to go to the New York headquarters and see Senator Hanna. The National chairman is occupying the the Franklin Murphy cottage at Elberon, but he has let it be known that he desired rest while at his temporary home, the New Jersey politicians, generally speaking, have respected his wishes, and refrained from bothering him about the campaign issues.

LITTLE WAIF DEAD.

Abandoned Negro Baby Unable to Survive the Exposure to Which it was Subjected.

The Negro baby boy that was found early this week in the woods near Webster place, died last evening at the hospital about 7:30 o'clock, and according to the opinion of those who who had charge of the infant his death was due almost entirely, if not wholly, to the exposure which it was subjected to. Undertaker George Cole took charge of the remains and the city will stand the expense of burial.

The police are as determined as ever in their efforts to learn who the parents of the baby are, also the parents of the white baby found on Farragut road a short time ago. There are several clues that are being investigated in a thorough manner and something startling may develop soon.

A Record to be Proud Of.

John M. Crane and family, of West Eighth street, have returned to Plainfield from Boston, where Mr. Crane has been for several years manager of the Metropolitan Insurance Company. To illustrate the worth of Mr. Crane to the Metropolitan company it is only necessary to state that when he went with the company about three years ago they had about $3,000,000 of ordinary business, and today they have over $10,000,000.

Arrested fo Begging.

John Haines, of Westfield, was arrested on West Front street yesterday morning by Patrolman Meyers for disorderly conduct. He was under the influence of liquor and soliciting money from storekeepers. He was brought before Judge Runyon last night, who suspended sentence on his promise to leave town.

REPUBLICANS WILL ENROLL THEIR VOTERS

Only Those Whose Names are Enrolled Will be Permitted to Vote at Primaries.

FOWLER TO BUY A FLAG.

CONGRESSMAN NOTIFIES CITY COMMITTEE TO THAT EFFECT.

He Will Also Send a Photograph Bearing His Autograph—Considerable Red Tape About the New Regulations

The city Republican executive committee held a regular meeting last evening to take action on the new rules to govern primaries in connection with all but charter elections. The rules provide that the chairman of the committee shall appoint enrollment committees, consisting of three members in each ward, and the city committee will furnish registers for the enrollment. The qualifications necessary to be enrolled are that a person shall have voted the Republican ticket at the last general election, and who shall declare his intention of voting the Republican ticket at the next election.

A person to be enrolled shall appear in person before the enrollment committee, or he can be enrolled by affidavit furnished by another voter, but a person will not be allowed to vote unless he is enrolled. The rules also provide for the usual challengers if those interested request it. This enrollment will answer for succeeding primaries, and will be corrected from time to time as necessary.

It is also provided that the enrollment committees shall be in session at such times to be designated, between the hours of 8 and 10 o'clock in the evening, to enroll those who call. It does not change the present rule of posting the names of candidates, and the clerks are obliged to make the regular returns as at present. Another change made by the rules is that the primaries shall be called at 8 o'clock and shall be closed by the committee not less than thirty minutes afterward.

The constitution was also amended to comply with the above rules. The nominating and elective primary rules were laid over until the next meeting, to be held Tuesday evening, Sept. 11th, when they will no doubt be adopted.

It is conceded by some officials that there is considerable red tape about the rules and regulations, but there was a call for a change.

The executive committee received a letter this morning from Congressman Chas. N. Fowler, in which he stated that in a few days he would forward, as requested, one of his photos bearing his autograph. He also advised the committee that if they would buy an American flag, such as they deem suitable for campaign purposes, and send him the bill, he would pay it.

Taken Sick While on a Pleasure Trip.

Mrs. George VanNest, of Mariners avenue, who accompanied some relatives on a pleasure trip to Midland Bach, Staten Island, yesterday, was taken suddenly ill toward night, and her relatives were obliged to bring her home by way of New York and thence from Jersey City by train. The trip to Midland Beach was made by trolley. The railroad officials at the North Avenue station received word to have a carriage and help ready to meet the 9:38 train, which brought Mrs. VanNest to Plainfield. Her condition is much better today and early recovery is looked for.

At First Baptist Church.

The ordinance of the Lord's Supper will be observed at the First Baptist church Sunday morning. The pastor, Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, will take his usual summer vacation, and during his absence the pulpit will be supplied as follows: August 12, Rev. J. C. Buchanan, of Pemberton; August 19th, Rev. H. T. Stilwell, of St. Paul, Minn.; August 26th, Rev. Joseph Sullivan, of Paterson; September 2d, Rev. Dr. Lemuel Moss, of Plainfield. Rev. W. L. Jones, of Paducab, Ky., residing at 60 Westervelt avenue, will attend to any pastoral calls until the doctor's return.

250 Active Members

Three new active members have just been elected to membership in the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, which brings the active membership to the limit, 250. It will now be necessary for a member to drop out befor new ones can be received, as the chances are that the constitution will not be amended to admit more active members.

VAIL'S HARD LUCK.

While He is in a Critical Condition His Mill and Store was Destroyed by Fire.

Hard luck seems to be relentlessly pursuing Charles Vail, who was injured at Dunellen last Friday night. News of another misfortune to him has just reached this city. He now lies at the home of a friend entirely paralyzed.

Tuesday night, his entire possessions at Valley Station, where he was in business, were entirely destroyed by fire. They consisted of mill, store and postoffice. The news has been kept from the unfortunate man as he is in no condition to bear the shock.

A year ago he suffered a similar loss while living on Plainfield avenue, near the outskirts of the city. His barn and other buildings belonging to his dairy were totally destroyed.

PLAINFIELD CAB COMPANY ORGANIZES WITH $10,000 CAPITAL.

Edward W. Horne and William A. Coddington at the Head of the Enterprise—Improvements Proposed.

The Plainfield Cab Company filed articles of incorporation with the clerk of Union county yesterday. The company is capitalized for $50,000, of which $10,000 is paid in. The incorporators are Edward W. Horn, William A. Coddington and Ida W. Coddington, all of this city.

The entire stock, including horses, wagons, etc., formerly owned by Daniel S. Roberts, and afterward purchased by Edward W. Horne, of Yonkers, has been purchased by the new company, and it is the purpose to operate and conduct a livery, boarding, sale and exchange stables. Extensive plans of improvement are proposed that will make this place one of finest of its kind in the State. It is also intended to operate automobiles of various kinds, and persons desiring to take an automobile ride can hire one and have the services of an expert operator.

Another improvement will be the introduction of uniforms for all employes and drivers of the company. There will be improvements made about the premises, which will include an elevator, more carriage room, first-class horses and wagons, in fact everything will be conducted in the best manner.

The company met today and elected William A. Coddington president, and Edward W. Horne secretary and manager. Mrs. Coddington holds an equal share of stock, it being necessary to have three persons in order to secure incorporation.

The new company went into effect August 1st, but it will require several weeks to effect the proposed improvements.

TROLLEY COMPANY'S NEW TRANSFER RULE

Through Passengers no Longer Allowed Transfers to All Parts of Plainfield and Elizabeth.

IS CONFUSING AND UNFAIR.

BY WAITING OVER AT ROSELLE ONE CAR IT CAN BE AVOIDED.

Under the New System it Will Cost Twenty-five Cents to go From Plainfield to Newark and Vice Versa.

Another instance of the confusing and complicated ticket and transfer system in vogue on the lines of the Westfield and Elizabeth and Plainfield Street Railways, has just arison. This time it is with transfers and not only causes the traveling public a great deal of annoyance, but upsets the whole system they have just gotten accustomed to. It has been the rule since the new line was started to carry a passenger from the railroad station in Plainfield to Waverly for 15 cents. A transfer was given at Elizabeth which entitled the holder to ride to the Waverly line or any other part of Elizabeth. This order has now been withdrawn and no transfer of any kind is given, making Broad street in Elizabeth the full ride of a through passenger from Plainfield for 15 cents.

This makes the fare to Newark twenty-five cents instead of twenty as it has been. But, it must be remembered, this applies only to the through passengers. A man can still get on at Roselle and upon payment of five cents receives a transfer to any part of Elizabeth, or by paying another five cents, making ten in all, can go to any part of Newark. The same trip costs the through passenger fifteen cents. To get out of paying the extra nickel all the latter has to do is to get out at Roselle and take the next car. The same rule applies to passengers going in the opposite direction.

It is causing a great deal of inconvenience to a large number of machinists living in this city, who are employed in Garwood. These workmen have been paying ten cents to go to and from their work. This included transfers on any of the Plainfield lines in either direction. It will now carry them to the Watchung avenue terminus. If any of them wish to continue further, as most of them do, it means another nickel. The fare from Garwood to Scotch Plains is five cents. From Scotch Plains to Plainfield it is five cents with a transfer, yet the man coming from Garwood must pay fifteen cents to get the transfer. Altogether the system is one of the most complicated to be found on any road.

In its present state it takes an expert mathematician to keep the fares straight and even then he will be unable to enjoy his ride for thinking whether he gets his transfer or not. Instead of simplifying the system it keeps getting worse each succeeding day.

THE VARIAG'S INJURY.

Russian Cruiser Suffered Serious Loss on Trial Trip.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3.—It has developed that the accident to the Russian cruiser Variag during her trial trip last week was more serious than at first supposed. It will be at least five weeks before the warship can again leave her dock at Cramps' shipyards, where she is now laid up for repairs.

In addition to the damage sustained by the Variag, three of the vessel's crew were scalded by escaping steam. Two of them, however, have entirely recovered and the third will be at work again today.

It appears that while the Variag was under very high pressure and sailing 24 knots an hour the cylinder head on the port engine and the flange to which it was attached both cracked, rendering the engine useless. While it is impossible to learn positively the amount of the damage, it is roughly estimated at $20,000, but this amount, it is said, will be covered by the trial insurance. A new cylinder is now being made, but it will be five or six weeks before the repairs are completed.

EAST NORTHFIELD, Mass., Aug. 3.—The eighteenth annual general conference of Christian Workers opened here last evening. All day guests had been coming from all parts of the country to attend these meetings. There were over 1,000 persons in the auditorium, the largest gathering for an opening evening in the history of the conference. William R. Moody presided at the meeting, which was opened, as has long been the custom, by a song service conducted by Ira D. Sankey, who for over a quarter of a century was coworker of the late Dwight L. Moody. Mr. Moody said in opening that prayer should have the important place in this conference, and he called upon a number of prominent clergymen and laymen to lead in divine appeal. Rev. G. Campbell Morgan of London opened the addresses. It was a memorial address to Dwight L. Moody.

Sage's Rates Too High.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Russell Sage's Poughkeepsie and Eastern railroad was complained of before the railroad commission by counsel for the Hudson State hospital. It was alleged that Mr. Sage's freight rates were too high. The hospital stands about two miles out of Poughkeepsie and is connected with local and other railroads by a special spur of the Poughkeepsie and Eastern. The hospital people assert that it costs more to get goods from Poughkeepsie to the hospital than it does to get goods from New York to Poughkeepsie. The hospital people say they can get coal from Poughkeepsie cheaper than what the road hauls it for. Mr. Sage's attorney said the hospital used 12,000 tons of coal yearly and that less than 50 cents a ton would not pay for the hire of the engines and crews, to say nothing of the costs of handling and switching.

Li Hung Chang Informed That Full and Free Communication With Foreign Ministers Must Be Accorded Without Delay.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Secretary Hay's reply to Li Hung Chang has closed the negotiations with China unless the old viceroy is able to secure the full acceptance of our terms relative to the foreign ministers and that at once. No orders therefore looking to a relaxation of the preparations for the advance on Peking have gone out from Washington, for, as the situation is described by one of the leading officials here, "there will be no bargaining on our part in advance of the concession by the Chinese authorities of full and free communication with the foreign ministers."

There is, moreover, a note ominously close to actual declaration of war in Secretary Hay's assertion that the Chinese government is "unfriendly." That kind of language and extreme diplomacy and it is only a narrow step between it and formal war. The impression prevails here that the Chinese government, if it is not absolutely bereft of power to act in defiance of the Boxers, will accept our terms, and some such action is looked for very soon.

Possibly a battle, not more, it is believed, than one at most, will be required to bring the imperial government to the point of acceptance, though in that case it is questionable whether the original conditions would be regarded as still open to acceptance. If the Chinese government now accepts, however, the United States government will be face to face with one of the most delicate and momentous diplomatic tasks ever undertaken. It must attempt to redeem its promise to use its good offices in favor of China, and in the present temper of some of the European powers the greatest difficulties may be expected to arise in the prosecution of the attempt.

It is the confident expectation of the officials here, however, that if the Chinese government actually and in good faith meets all of the four conditions laid down by the president in his reply to the Chinese emperor's appeal for aid at least a majority of the powers now represented in China will accept that as a proper base upon which to cease present hostilities and open negotiations for a settlement. The decision of the majority in such case without doubt would receive the acquiescence of the minority, else an interminable entanglement might arise.

It is not believed at the war department that an advance has been made as yet from Tien-tsin. It is explained that the last dispatches indicated a great deal of delay in unloading the transports, and before any advance can be made the troops must have all their equipments and transportation for them. The indications are that the plans being matured at Tien-tsin contemplate a rapid advance when the movement begins.

Secretary Hay entertained the president at dinner at the Country club near Washington last night. The others present were the members of the cabinet now in the city and Adjutant General Corbin. The party returned to the city about 10 o'clock. Secretary Hay later said there was nothing new in the Chinese situation. Several dispatches from the east were received by the navy department, but they contained nothing from Minister Conger or any indication of the reported forward movement of the allies.

The following is the correspondence on Li Hung Chang's proposal for the abandonment of the campaign to Peking. The following telegram was sent to the United States embassies in Berlin, London, Paris, Rome and St. Petersburg and to the United States minister at Tokyo, Japan:

"Department of State, Washington, Aug. 1.

"In reply to a suggestion of Li Hung Chang that the ministers might be sent under safe escort to Tien-tsin, provided the powers would engage not to march on Peking, the secretary of state replied on July 30:

"'This government will not enter into any arrangement regarding disposition or treatment of legations without first having free communication with Minister Conger. Responsibility for their protection rests upon Chinese government. Power to deliver at Tien-tsin presupposes power to protect and open communication. This is insisted on.'

"This message was delivered by Mr. Goodnow on the 31st to Viceroy Li, who then inquired whether 'if free communication were established between ministers and their governments it could be arranged that the powers should not advance on Peking pending negotiations.' To this inquiry the following reply was sent on Aug. 1:

"'Goodnow, Consul General, Shanghai:

"'I do not think it expedient to submit the proposition of Earl Li to the other powers. Free communication with our representatives in Peking is demanded as a matter of absolute right and not as a favor. Since the Chinese government admits that it possesses the power to give communication, it puts itself in an unfriendly attitude by denying it. No negotiations seem advisable until the Chinese government shall have put the diplomatic representatives of the powers in full and free communication with their respective governments and removed all danger to their lives and liberty. We would urge Earl Li earnestly to advise the imperial authorities of China to place themselves in friendly communication and co-operation with the relief expedition. They are assuming a heavy responsibility in acting otherwise. HAY.'

"You will communicate this information to the minister of foreign affairs."

ENVOYS AGAIN HEARD FROM.

Said to Be In Friendly Intercourse With Imperial Government.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—No word comes this morning regarding the fortunes of the comparatively small body of troops believing to be forcing their way toward Peking. The silence is probably due to diligent censorship rather than to any lack of developments.

A Shanghai special announces the receipt of an official telegram from the tsung-li-yamen asserting that the ministers were all well on July 30 and that vegetables, fruits and other supplies had been sent to the legations on several occasions.

"Friendly intercourse," the official telegram says, "is now being carried on between the ministers and the imperial government."

According to The Daily Express, however, cablegrams from Chefu announce that the imperial troops advancing to oppose the relief force have completely wiped out a Christian town near Peking, killing five foreign priests and 10,000 native Christians.

General Gaselee, so says this correspondent, was strongly opposed to an immediate advance, but he was overruled by the other commanders and influenced by Washington's order to General Chaffee to "proceed without an instant's delay."

From Shanghai The Daily Express has received confirmation of the reported murder of 50 missionaries in the province of Shansi, with the additional information that eight English women were dragged out of the mission buildings by a Chinese mob, who beheaded them in the streets of Chu-chou.

French troops are reported to have occupied Meng-tsze, in the province of Yunnan.

Freedom For Envoys Demanded.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 3.—The Chinese minister, Yang Lu, on behalf of the other Chinese ministers at European capitals, has cabled the governor of Shangtung a demand that the members of the legations be permitted free telegraphic communication with their governments and be sent to Tien-tsin under a Chinese escort. Advices received by the Russian general staff from Tien-tsin estimate that there are 50,000 trained Chinese troops in Peking in addition to a large force of Boxers whose strength is not yet broken.

A FIGHTING PARSON.

Differs With the Mayor and Whips Him.

JAMESTOWN, N. D., Aug. 3.—Bowden, a border town in Wells county, has been the scene of much excitement during the past few weeks. Everything is on the wide open plan there, and the few citizens who object do not as a rule have their objections sustained. The trouble began upon the arrival of the Rev. Mr. Pettinger, who decided that the town should be reformed. He proceeded to explain his views to Mayor Frank Lathrop, who objected strenuously to the arguments brought forth by the clergyman. Both men became angry, and a rough and tumble fight ensued, the parson being victorious.

A few nights ago a number of citizens wearing masks went to Mayor Lathrop's house and proceeded to chastise him. The mayor decided to have justice, and caused warrants to be issued for several whom he suspected. Among the number was his adversary, Mr. Pettinger, who was arrested and tried in a justice's court. As there was no evidence against him he was discharged. No other arrests have been made.

As the matter stands Mayor Lathrop insists that the Rev. Mr. Pettinger leave town, while the parson insists that he is of more benefit to the community than the mayor and advises the latter to be good. Mr. Pettinger is known now as the "fighting parson."

Fighting Indians In Yucatan.

OAXACA, Mexico, Aug. 3.—The military authorities here have received information that there has been continued fighting between the Maya Indians and the government troops in Yucatan for the last five days and that the rebels have been forced to abandon several of their strongest positions adjacent to the city of Chan Santa Cruz, where they have their headquarters and tribal government. The Indians were taken by surprise several days ago by a force of about 2,000 government troops commanded by General Bravo coming upon their right flank. After firing a few volleys, when this first onslaught was made by the government troops, the Indians retreated a short distance and then made a determined stand, which they have held with persistence and great bravery. It is charged that there are several English speaking men in command of the Maya forces.

Tracy's Tobacco Injured.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 3.—A severe hailstorm which passed over this region did considerable damage to growing crops. At Apalachin, ten miles from this city, the fall was heavy, and the largest sufferer was the Hon. B. F. Tracy. Hundreds of acres of tobacco on his "Marshland" farm were ruined, and the loss is estimated at $5,000. The hailstones cut holes in the large leaves, stripping them from the stalks and rendering the crop a total wreck. At Campville the heavy rain washed large masses of the fertile soil from the farms onto the highways.

Voorhees Will Not Talk.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Governor Voorhees refuses to confirm the report that, in accordance with Embassador Fava's request, Secretary of State Hay had asked him to set in motion the state's legal powers to investigate the hatching of the plot to kill King Humbert in New Jersey. He also declined to deny that he had received such a request and would not say whether he had taken any steps to have the authorities of Passaic and Hudson counties investigate the matter.

BOSTON, Aug. 3.—A farewell meeting was held here yesterday in connection with the departure of ten American missionaries for India and Turkey. Rev. Dr. Judson Smith and Rev. J. L. Barton, D. D., two foreign secretaries, were in charge of the meeting, and many addresses were given on missionary experiences.

KING KILLER FOILED.

An Attempt to Shoot Shah of Persia In Paris.

WOULD BE MURDERER ARRESTED.

Warning Letter Received Only a Few Moments Before the Pistol Was Aimed--The Paris Police Are Mystified.

PARIS, Aug. 3.—Muzaffer-ed-din, shah of Persia, who has been a visitor to the exposition since Saturday as the guest of France, narrowly escaped an assassin's bullet yesterday. It had been arranged that he should visit Sevres and see the national pottery works, going afterward to Versailles, and it was just after he had left the Sovereigns' palace on his way to the Seine to go on board a yacht placed at his disposal for the trip that the attempt upon his life was made.

Only five minutes before the pistol was presented at his breast he was the recipient of a letter which warned him that his life was in danger. No serious thought, however, was given to its contents, so numerous had been former warnings of the same character. As he was seated in the landau before leaving the court of the palace his secretary brought him a letter dated Naples, but posted in Paris Wednesday night, signed with a name bearing an Italian termination. It said:

"Today you shall meet the same fate as Humbert."

In nowise disconcerted, the shah handed the letter to the officer on guard and gave orders for the carriage to start. The gates of the palace were thrown open, and as the monarch emerged a large crowd of curious onlookers broke into cries of "Vive le shah!" and "Vive la Perse!" Hardly had these exclamations died away when a man dressed in the ordinary clothing of a Paris workman darted forward from between two automobiles where he was hidden and rushed toward the imperial carriage, overturning a bicycle policeman, who rolled under the feet of the horses.

In an instant he was on the carriage step. Holding the door with the left hand, with his right he pushed a revolver toward the breast of the shah. He seemed to hesitate for a moment, as though undecided where to aim. This hesitation saved the Persian monarch's life, for before the would be assassin could pull the trigger a strong hand grasped his wrist and wrenched it so that the weapon dropped harmlessly to the bottom of the landau.

"I'd like to have a photograph of that man," nonchalantly exclaimed the shah. Then, addressing a few words in his native tongue to his companions in the carriage, he told the coachman to drive on.

Seated in the landau with the shah at the time the assault was made were the grand vizier, the personal physician of the monarch, and General Parent, his personal aid.

Up to midnight nothing regarding the would be assassin or his connections had been learned that was not known within half an hour after his arrest. He maintains absolute silence. The peculiarity of his accent, although he speaks perfect French, mystifies the officials, it having been asserted by one of these that his accent was English. A man speaking English was permitted to enter his cell. The visitor addressed him, but he gave the appearance of absolute inability to understand, and the visitor came away convinced that he was not acquainted with that language.

While the popular belief is that he had an accomplice, there is no actual evidence to prove this. The police are thoroughly mystified and disconcerted. Although the man has been seen by most of the secret service officials, not one of them has been able to recognize him.

Paris has received the news of the attempt with but one sentiment, that of indignation. All join to condemn this outrage upon the guest of the nation.

As a result of it the shah will hereafter be surrounded by a guard wherever he goes.

North Carolina Election.

RALEIGH, Aug. 3.—The election passed off quietly. A heavy white vote was polled, but the negroes took little interest in the result and generally remained away from the polls. In many instances they voted the Democratic ticket. Every eastern county was carried by the Democrats, the majorities in some of them being 3,000. Most of the central counties also are Democratic. Returns from the west are incomplete. The indications are that the state is Democratic by 30,000 majority, the legislature three-fourths Democratic and the franchise amendment adopted.

Stole C. O. D. Goods.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Richar Mansfield, alias Charles MacHenry, arrested by the local police on the charge of burglary, has confessed his guilt. He ordered goods from Sears, Roebuck & Co of Chicago to the amount of $307 and had them sent by express to Millport, C. O. D., and on Monday night last stole the goods, which were shipped in a trunk from the Northern Central railroad station.

General Botha Weakens.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The Pretoria correspondent of The Daily Mail, telegraphing Wednesday, says: "Commandant General Botha is weakening. He has sent a messenger to Lord Roberts asking for confirmation of the report of the surrender of General Prinsloo and requesting permission to communicate with General Christian De Wet."

The Bancroft Ordered Out.

BOSTON, Aug. 3.—Orders have been received at the Charlestown navy yard to put the gunboat Bancroft into commission as soon as possible. She has been lying in ordinary for more than a year. It is thought likely that she can be ready to sail Aug. 13. The inference at the navy yard is that the Bancroft will be sent to China.

ARREST OF SUSPECTS.

Supposed Accomplice of King Humbert's Slayer Taken In.

ROME, Aug. 3.—A man suspected of being an accomplice of Bresci was arrested yesterday at a railway station here. He had recently arrived from the United States and will be sent to Monza for inspection.

Notwithstanding the most thorough search, the will of King Humbert has not yet been found. Count Brambilla has arrived in Rome to continue the search, which is retarding the arrangements for the funeral.

The regicide Bresci still maintains his excited demeanor and has to be dressed forcibly. He exclaimed to a warden, "It will be the czar's turn next."

The police have found evidence that Bresci acted in collusion with others, and numerous arrests have been made. Bresci's brother, a shoe dealer, and another kinsman named Marozzi and seven anarchists have been arrested at Prato. Natale Possanzini, who was arrested at Ancona, admits traveling with Bresci from Milan to Monza.

Bresci has been removed from Monza to Milan.

Praise For Commander Tilley.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The secretary of the navy is in receipt of a letter from Rev. Ebenezer Cooper of the London Missionary society and resident missionary for Tutuila and the ineghboring islands, speaking in high terms of the progress that has been made by Commander Tilley in establishing the authority of the United States over our new Samoan possessions. Mr. Cooper says he has been for 20 years connected with the missionary work of the Pacific islands and for a number of years on his present station in Tutuila. He is intimately acquainted with the characteristics of about 5,000 of the 6,000 residents in our new islands. He says that Commander Tilley has handled the rather delicate task of "annexation" with consummate tact, mingled with firmness. The natives already are expressing their satisfaction at his administration and hope that he may be retained on his present detail indefinitely.

Evans Will Contest Settled.

PARIS, Aug. 3.—The final signatures were placed here yesterday before M. Valois, one of the executors, to the settlement of the contest over the will of Dr. Thomas W. Evans, the famous American dentist who facilitated the escape of Empress Eugenie from Paris during the Franco-Prussian war. The heirs agree to withdraw all their rights in the contest in consideration of $800,000 being divided among them in addition to the bequests already made. There are 16 heirs. Four-sixteenths of the $800,000 goes to the Evans branch, four-sixteenths to the Muller branch and eight-sixteenths to the other heirs. After settlement of counsel fees, court charges and similar expenses the remainder of the estate is to be turned over to the executors, who agree not to contest the formation of the "Thomas W. Evans Museum and Dental institute" in Philadelphia.

HAVANA, Aug. 3.—Governor General Wood yesterday bade adieu to 300 troops and ten officers of the First United States infantry, who sailed by the transport Rawlins for New York, from which point they will proceed to China. Telegrams continue to arrive from municipalities throughout the island congratulating him upon his safe return.

The cabinet conferred in the morning with General Wood, discussing, among other matters, a modification of the electoral law. The secretaries advocated the division of the island into districts of 50,000 electors each for the purpose of choosing delegates to the constitutional convention. This modification was approved by General Wood and will give 31 delegates.

Mayor Rodriguez and the city council waited upon the governor general in reference to a revision of the charter. He informed them that the military government had no desire to force anything objectionable upon the city and that until any revision which they might desire had been made the charter would not be acted upon. These assurances were received with evident satisfaction.

The question of turning over $135,000 per month for sanitary purposes to the control of the municipality was discussed. General Wood firmly declined to accede to the suggestion, pointing out that the population of Havana was chiefly immune and that to turn over this fund would be apt to generate carelessness in connection with sanitary measures. He said that during the occupancy of the island by the United States troops such moneys would be expended in Havana by the military government.

In consequence of the decrease of wages a strike was threatened on the United railways, but Senor Villalon, secretary of public works, received a deputation of locomotive engineers with the result that the men resumed work. Senor Villalon was cordially thanked on behalf of the railways by Senor Albert Xemino, the manager. The companies had only paid 1 per cent, and this was given as the excuse for the reduction of wages. The railways are under the control of British capital.

Only 35 cases of yellow fever are officially reported in Havana, and the mortality from the disease is very low.

Anarchists Meet.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 3.—Several hundred anarchists held a meeting in Bartholdi hall last night for the purpose of discussing the situation in Italy. There were many Frenchmen, a number of Spaniards and a few Austrians in the assemblage which consisted for the most part of Italians. Pasqualle Frank presided. At the opening he denounced the newspapers in general and claimed that they were misrepresenting the anarchists. He said the papers made anarchists out as bad men and pictured them in revolting actions. He said this was untrue and that anarchists were the same as other people. Pedro Esteve, the Spanish leader and editor of a Paterson anarchist publication, was the principal speaker of the evening.

Porto Ricans Going to Hawaii.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 3.—Mr. S. T. Alexander, the representative of the Hawaiian Planters' association, who has been here for some time, sailed for New York on board the steamer Caracas. Mr. Alexander, who has traveled all over the island and persuaded many Porto Ricans to emigrate to the Hawaiian Islands, said he believes they will prove good workmen and creditable citizens of Hawaii. He left local agents with power to contract with would be emigrants. His plans, however, seem to be undeveloped, as transportation for those whom he has engaged has not been arranged.

Ashanti Trouble Not Ended.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Major Beddoes, with 400 West African troops, has routed 3,000 Ashantis at Dompmassi, killing 150 and wounding 500. Major Beddoes and two other officers were severely wounded. About 40 men of the British force were also wounded. There are indications that the trouble is not ended, and re-enforcements are needed.

Leave it With the People.

On the always broad and sound principle that the best government for the people is by the people's direct vote we are opposed to the idea that is being proposed and cultivated by certain of the city officials that the office of City Collector of Taxes be filled by appointment of the Common Council instead of by choice of the people expressed at the ballot box.

The less centralization of power of appointment there is in matters of public business the closer we come to a true and honest republican government. To remove the incumbent of the City Collector's office from the realm of elective positions would be a backward step which a right appreciation of municipal administration should not countenance.

So far as we have been able to discover there has not been one good reason advanced in favor of the radical change which has been proposed. One argument, however, that has been dwelt upon by some of the advocates of a departure from the present system in reference to the selection of the City Collector is that the duties of the office are such that at times unthinking taxpayers may blame the Collector for things that he is in no way responsible for, and that to avoid or tone down such antipathy to him the incumbent will shirk certain duties that the welfare of the city demand shall be aggressively performed. That is to say, the Collector regards his office as sort of a private trust and rather than execute his sworn duty without fear or favor he will only do such a part of it as he may think will be conducive to his election for another term or two. That is a vicious idea with which we have sympathy.

Plainfield's experience with City Collectors does not agree with this idea, however. John Johnson served the city for many years as City Collector, and notwithstanding that Mr. Johnson always performed his duties with the best interests of the city in view no one ever heard of his losing votes when a candidate for re-election—and he ran many times—on account of his faithful service to the taxpayers. E. H Bird succeeded Mr. Johnson as City Collector, resigning the place to accept the appointment as Postmaster. For having served as City Collector we do not think that Mr. Bird is any less popular than he was before he occupied the office. If he was to be a candidate again we do not think that his record of honest work for the city would be a detriment to his chances of being elected to the office. The same may be said of James Martin, though he has filled the position under the most trying circumstances in the history of the city. And as for Mr. Smith, who has lately succeeded Mr. Martin, assuredly he would not be the loser of any votes if a candidate next December simply because he performed his duties as the charter of the city requires.

But even if there were some narrow-minded voters who would vote against a candidate because the latter had been an efficient official by vigorously and fairly collecting the city's due on the assessable property, we think they would number so few as to be too insignificant to take into consideration.

There should be no taking away from the people the right to select by ballot such an important official as City Collector. Notwithstanding the practices that obtain through politics, it is always reasonably safe to let the people choose their servants. There is nothing to gain by leaving the selection of that officer to the Common Council. As a mater of fact there is a chance and a likelihood of there being a distinct disadvantage.

The advance summary of the forthcoming annual report of Commissioner of Pensions Evans does not distinguish between the different classes of pensioners' notes the Philadelphia Record. The total of 993,529 on the rolls June 30, 1900, includes soldiers, widows, parents and children. The names added to the rolls continue to exceed the number dropped, the net increase for the past year having been 2,010. That the possession of a pension is calculated to prolong life is shown by the Commissioner's figures. Estimates based on the established life tables placed the probable deaths during the year at 50,000; but they numbered only 35,809. Of nearly a million pensioners—the largest percentage being men who were wounded or who had contracted disease in the army and are rated as incurables—less than 200,000 have died in the past six years.

For the fiscal year ended June 30th, 1900, the expenses of the Navy Department exceeded those of any other year in its history. The amount expended was $61,971,000. The sum paid during the year for the increase in the navy was $14,398,243. Most of the prize claims of the Spanish war are awaiting the action of the Courts, only $32,576 having been paid out on this account.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Collector Robert Davis is one of the few Democrats in Hudson county who can get a reappointment without hustling for it, and shoving a lot of competition out of his way.—Jersey City Journal.

The drowning of four persons at Ocean City in the surf yesterday was a deplorable event that again calls attention to the dangers to life that exist in the bathing facilities along the coast. As the seaside resorts are increasing every year, new places springing up amid the sand dunes and wastes of the coast the State ought to establish some kind of a system to safeguard life without depending altogether upon the enterprise of local authorities or land companies.—Newark Advertiser.

Now that William D. Daly is dead, who will assume the place he occupied as leader in the Democratic party in New Jersey? In one sense Mr. Daly was not the Democratic leader at all. The Democrats are not willing to admit that he was their leader. At the same time William D. Daly was the orator of the party in this State. He it was who spoke, openly, courageously and aggressively. He may not have been the one to plan and to scheme and to dictate; but Mr. Daly was the strong advocate of his party principles; he was the aggressive stump crator who did not fear to stand by the declarations of his party platforms though others hesitated and drew back. Now that he is gone, who will take his place? Not Mr. Gourley, not Robert Davis, not Allan L. McDermott. There is but one man who can take the aggressive as Mr. Daly has heretofore taken it, and that man is James E. Martine. — Elizabeth Journal.

Dunellen, Aug. 3—By the tipping of a load of hay upon which he was seated, Christian Hansen met with a serious accident Wednesday afternoon while working in the yard of J. R. Campbell on Prospect avenue. He fell to the ground and the prongs of a pitchfork, which was lying beneath him, pierced his cheek just below the left eye. His injuries were dressed by a trained nurse, who is stopping at Mr. Campbell's. Although the wound is a painful one, Mr. Hansen is able to attend to his duties. Had the prongs struck him a little higher up his eye would have undoubtedly been pierced and the sight ruined.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Scotch Plains, August 3 — The troubles of Contractor Clyna, of Jersey City, who has the contract for making the improvement about the Fanwood station, come thick and fast. About a week ago the gang of Italians, who have been working at grading about the place, struck because Clyna failed to materialize with their wages which were several weeks overdue. The gang came to the village and sought the aid of Judge Clark. The Judge acted the part of arbitrator and called up Clyna's office on the 'phone. Very little satisfaction was gained this way; so the Judge appealed to the Superintendent of the Central Railroad. The company's representative said they were not responsible for Clyna's bills and would not guarantee the men their wages. So the work came to a standstill. The efforts of Judge Clark finally had the desired effect, for in the afternoon the paymaster arrived and the men received what was due them. The next day work was resumed and the residents of Fanwood were beginning to have a mind-picture of the long-delayed improvement. But matters have gone from bad to worse. So yesterday the men decided to seek Judge Clark's aid once more. Patience had ceased to be a virtue with His Honor, so he issued an attachment upon the tools, carts and horses belonging to the contractor. This blocks the work for the present until Clyna puts in an appearance and settles the men's claim. While the law is holding the improvement up the commuters and residents of the borough are beginning to think that the promised park, etc., is only a vision of the distant future.

The Township Committee met in their rooms last night. Routine and the appointing of Henry Guernier as special constable in place of Wm. Trayno was the business transacted. Mr. Trayno still retains his office as regular constable.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

A few years ago it was no infrequent thing for a party of the local wheelmen to start out early in the morning and wheel to Asbury Park. After spending the day there, they rode home again or else took advantage of one of the day excursions from here to make the return by rail. Asbury Park is about sixty-five miles from Plainfield via the route usually taken by cyclists and a good rider had no trouble in making the trip there and back as the roads were in fair condition all the way. Beyond New Brunswick and until the shore road was reached, sidepaths were taken. There are now, however, comparatively few who wheel down to Asbury Park The roads are now in much better shape than they were a few years ago and wheelmen who are in proper shape will find the trip a delightful one.

• • • • • •

There is one thing in particular that the young people of Plainfield mourn for in vain every summer and that is a large body of water in the immediate vicinity of the city where they can go boating and sailing. The nearest approach to the wished for lake is the New Market pond. There is nothing wonderfully beautiful about that pond or its surroundings. It is possible to row up it for a mile or more, however, and that covers a multitude of other deficiencies. Few pleasant days pass by during these summer months that one or more parties of young people from this city do not spend the afternoon or evening there. A number of boats are kept on the pond and rented out to these pleasure parties at very moderate cost so that Plainfielders do get an opportunity to take a row when they choose, although the extent of their trip is somewhat limited.

• • • • • • • •

A few days ago a Plainfield mother promised her children that if the following day should be clear she would take them to Boynton Beach for the day. The thought of such an excursion filled the young hearts with glee. Some hours after the promise the oldest boy in the family asked his mother if she would take them if it should be cloudy or sprinkle a little. The parent said she thought so, and nothing more was thought of the incident until it came time for the children to retire for the night. It was then recalled with considerable surprise and amusement when the youngest boy said his prayers before going to bed. He had almost finished his prayers when the mother was startled by hearing him say: "O, Lord, don't let it pour tomorrow, but let it sprinkle just a little." It did not rain the next day to prevent the outing, but before the family returned home the heavens opened their flood gates and there was a heavy downpour of rain, during which all suffered not a little from a drenching.

TRAVELING GOWNS.

They Are Very Simple, but Very Smart.

Thin cloth, corkscrew, serge, cheviot and mohair are used for traveling gowns. The last named material is particularly desirable for warm weather, as it is light in weight, cool and sheds dust readily. Fine checks and plaids are often used, and gray, beige, mode and similar tints are chosen. Khaki color is a favorite this year and is both appropriate and serviceable.

It occasionally happens that one's summer journeys take one to a warmer instead of a cooler climate. In that case a traveling gown of duck, pique, galatea or cotton covert suiting will be found more comfortable than even the thinnest woolen goods, and it may be equally smart if made with equal care. A strictly tailor made style should be chosen with a decoration of straps and stitching, and all the finishing should be accurately done. The cotton fabrics mentioned are to be found in all the suitable colors.

The sketch shows three new parasols. The first is of white moire, with a painted decoration of flowers and a border of guipure application. The second, of white taffeta, has two wide bands of shirred white mousseline de soie, with a little ruffle of mousseline around the edge. Above each band are applications of black lace in the form of butterflies. The third parasol is also of taffeta and is entirely covered with dotted net, which is gathered and held at the edge by a ruche and ruffle of the same goods.

Wraps and Costumes For Outing Wear.

The loose sack of half length is largely employed as a wrap for general, plain service—for traveling, the mountains, the seaside, etc. With a skirt of softly shaded plaid and a shirt waist it forms a comfortable and fashionable outing costume, and, as it is the mode, one may enjoy with a free mind its looseness and the freedom of movement it permits.

Plaids are immensely worn. Those most in favor are of different tones of the same color and are used for traveling and outing gowns, bicycle costumes, etc.

A new idea is a long redingote with a cape falling to the waist and a capuchon. The body of the redingote is sometimes plain, while the pelerine is of plaid. The golf plaids all have a plain side, which admits of pleasing combinations and does away with the necessity of a lining.

The gown illustrated is of sky blue bengaline. The skirt is plain in front, but is laid in stitched plaits at the side and back, the lower part of the plaits being left free. The bodice, which is fitted at the back, is plaited in front and opens over a plastron of cream lace on white silk. The collar and revers match the plastron. The tight sleeves have stitched plaits at the top and wrists. The belt of white silk is fastened by an enameled buckle. A hat of Leghorn straw is worn, which is trimmed with light blue tulle and blue asters.

Earrings and Eyesight.

Does the wearing of earrings improve the sight? This is a question I very frequently get from my clients. It is a popular superstition that is dying hard. Once upon a time every third child that came to me had already had its ears pierced. I always drew the line at ear piercing. I consider that any operations on the human frame should be undertaken by a surgeon, and yet I know that not 500 yards from me there resides a jeweler who not only pierces youthful ears as a daily practice, but has the unqualified support as a surgeon's optician of the oculist in my district.

I have had it suggested to me that the piercing of ears sets up a counter pain and irritation so that slight blepharitis may be relieved. I strongly doubt it.—Dioptric and Ophthalmometric Review.

Last fall I went to a doctor who was recommended to me as a good one and with quite a reputation. He gave me medicines for nearly six weeks, and I got no benefit that I could see. A friend of mine called one evening and told me he had been using for a short time and had never found anything that helped his stomach and liver troubles as much as they did. He handed me a circular about them, which I read, and concluded that they were just what I needed and would fit my case exactly. I went over to the drug store and got a 50-cent box of them, out of which I took two a day for awhile, and within three days noticed and felt much improvement. That was about the middle of December. Last February I got another box of the Tabules and took part of them only, as I was feeling so much better that I didn't think I needed any more. I now feel no pain whatever in my stomach, liver and bowels active and regular, and eat like a well man should eat.

NEW RELIGION IN LUZON.

Provides That Its Votaries Need Not Work, and It Is Spreading Rapidly.

A new religion has been started in Luzon and some people think it will lead to trouble. Its main doctrine releases its followers from the necessity of working. The supreme being to whom prayers are directed will, it is declared, provide sustenance for all true believers. The religion is therefore attractive to the Filipino, who does not do any more work than is necessary to keep himself in rice, cigarettes and betel nut, anyway, says the New York Sun.

A man named Gabini started the religion and its votaries are known as Gabinists. Gabini and several of his deacons, or chiefs, were quietly and informally shot by the Spanish authorities at Apalit. The new creed was not stamped out, however, for Gabini's chief clerk, Felipe Salvador, took it up. After doing a little service in the Filipino army Salvador now devotes himself to extending the faith. Wonderful stories go abroad concerning miracles Salvador has performed. Sick people are carried to him to be cured, and if they die under his treatment it is said they were not sincere in their faith.

The Gabinistic religion, as nearly as can be learned, is very simple. The people gather and pray long and earnestly to an invisible supreme being who is supposed to provide food to his faithful subjects in some miraculous manner, and to perform cures. The chief duty of the believer is to make at least one pilgrimage a year to the main shrine, which is located five miles above San Luis on a dry spot in the pinac, or swamp, of Candaba. Here Salvador has had a church erected. It is an imposing affair of bamboo and nipa thatch, rudely furnished with a few seats.

Salvador styled himself "General," and by this title he has been called. It was at the suggestion of several people of the village of Balinag that Gen. Otis at last gave orders to have Salvador placed in custody. This happened two months ago. His church was not molested and neither were his services, which went on again after a slight interruption, a new general being installed in the person of Salvador's chief clerk. Salvador's arrest was due to a belief that as an insurgent leader he was simply inciting the people to fresh outbreaks. In addition to the church general there are several chiefs. It is the main duty of these chiefs to collect the fees which are regularly exacted from all believers.

At the present time the Gabinistic church is thriving wonderfully and growing every day.

Planters complain that it is taking away their laborers. It is said the new church has now at least 10,000 members. The members seem to be little affected at the removal of Salvador, for they believe his body consists of two parts, one a material and one a spiritual part. The material part is of course confined in Manila, while the spiritual part returns to pray with the congregation at intervals.

The sick people who are carried to the shrine on litters are expected to make a complete confession of their sins, whereupon they become cured. If the cure does not follow it is a sign the patient has not made full admission of his shortcomings, and therefore cannot be forgiven.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 5, "The Evil of Envy"—Text, Luke xv, 25-32.

"He was angry and would not go in."

Something can be said for the elder brother in the parable of the prodigal son. He was a steady going, stay at home plodder; he never cared to see the world beyond the farm fences; he had never thought of carousal with questionable company, not even of a social time with friends; he had no time or inclination for dancing and feasting; he was eminently a worker; no sentimentality and little sentiment in him; he had pride in the establishment; he was heir to it, and while his younger brother was scattering he was accumulating and increasing; no laziness in him, no spendthrift spirit, frugal, economical, calculating; that is about all.

He saw the younger boy go away from home without an attempt to stop him; no persuasiveness and brotherly kindness to draw the wandering fancy back to steadiness. Rather did the spirit of the boy tend to display his own steadiness and worth and served as a foil to exhibit his own superiority; no attempt to follow the young fellow and restrain him from folly; no brotherly advice and companionship. He was just such a one as would make a boy of spirit want to leave home to escape from his everlasting superiority and ceaseless plod and dig; he had little curiosity, small sense of beauty and few generous impulses. Fun never interfered with work; he would drive a boy wild with his lack of spirit until duty would be hated as only another name for dullness and folly would be looked upon as real fun. This older brother never was a boy himself. He was always too old and knew too much; he never loved any one much but himself.

Was he glad when the young fellow got home? Not he. Why should he be? He was glad when he went, though sorry that the father gave him so much property to waste. To see the old house all thrown open and smell a big dinner cooking and goings on such as he never before saw in all his life, and all for this worthless scamp, it made him mad! He called it righteous indignation, a premium in wickedness. It meant to him long years of grind unappreciated by his father. He had never so much as had a miserable little kid for a feast. He had slaved and saved and pinched to see the whole thing thrown away in one great banquet for the ragged wretch who had squandered a fortune and then came sneaking home as a beggar. It was enough to make any one angry—who was like this elder brother. How would you have felt? How do you feel about such things? They lie all about us and affect the lives of all of us.

The Discoverer of Africa.

Now that the contest of Briton and Boer is calling the attention of the world to Africa it is worth while to give some thought to the fascinating story of the modern opening of this great continent to civilizing influences. It seems but a little time since all maps represented the whole interior as one vast unexplored blank. Egypt had been known from earliest times, but from the age of Abram all the rest of the continent was dark except a thin fringe of settlement along the coast. It seems but last year when the explorations of Livingstone and his discoveries in the interior aroused the curiosity of Christendom and stirred the church to the duty of sending the gospel to the African instead of stealing him for slavery. Then came the thrilling tales of Stanley's discovery of the lost explorer and later his own perilous crossing of the dark continent and solving the secret of the Nile and Kongo sources.

Stanley still lives as the foremost of living explorers. No other man has in modern times endured such perils and escaped. He found Africa unknown and dark. He has made light shine in every part and made her obscure parts the highways of trade and civilization. He found a lost missionary in the wilderness and without resources. He has lived to see great nations in the heart of the land turned to Jesus Christ and begin the upward march of Christian advancement.

No romance of any age yields such thrilling episodes as the story of Stanley's explorations. Every Leaguer should read the books in which his own pen describes his wonderful work. A generation has arrived since he began his African experiences, and to them this narrative must come as past history. It can never thrill them as it did those who watched the curtain rise on successive scenes and acts, but it will yield rich reward to all who will listen to its recital.

Neglect to relieve the misery of the beggar at our gates here may bring misery unending to our own souls later on when false riches have fled and true riches have not been sought.

Idleness never brought content.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 5—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—The evil of envy.—Luke xv, 25-32.

THE PARABLE.

The parable of the elder brother is so overshadowed by that of the prodigal son, with which it is connected, that it is little studied. Yet in most Bible students the spirit of the elder brother is more often found than that of the prodigal son. Many of us may not be prodigals in the sense of the younger brother. Few of us can say that we have nothing of the spirit of the elder brother. The elder son, in the parable, comes in from the field to hear merrymaking over the return of his brother. When told what it meant by a servant, who seemed to know more about the household affairs than the son, he was angry and would not go in. His father, as loving and tender with him as with the other, came out and entreated him, showing him that his course was fitting, and that it did no injustice to him. Whether he was convinced or not we do not know. Let us hope that we, as elder brothers, may be.

THE INTERPRETATION.

Whom does the elder brother represent? This has ever been a perplexing question, to which various answers have been given, ranging from the angels down to the opinion that he represents no particular class, but a spirit that characterizes men of all classes. Bearing in mind that a parable cannot be significant in all its details, there is no difficulty in seeing in the elder brother the scribes and Pharisees, whom Jesus undoubtedly had in mind. They certainly did possess the spirit of the elder brother, and it was this envious spirit in them that Christ wanted to condemn. It is difficult to explain how Christ could make God say to them, "All that I have is thine," but this is only a secondary feature of the parable and may be understood conditionally. Christ for the moment may have been willing to grant their claim that they were the true children of God, that he might condemn in them the spirit that took offense when God was gentle and forgiving toward others than themselves.

The elder brother is the personification of envy. 1. We can see in him the root of envy. Envy has its root in a false self esteem. It was self conceit in the Pharisees that made them complain when Jesus associated with sinners. It was egotism in the elder brother that made him criticise the merrymaking in honor of his brother's return. They looked upon these actions toward others as an affront toward themselves, and they did so because they had a false estimate of themselves. Praise of another is not condemnation of us. Appreciation of another is not a depreciation of us. If we learn, in honor, to prefer another to ourselves, envy will be destroyed at its root. 2. We see the evil and injustice of envy. It was wrong and unjust for the elder son to condemn his father. The father was not robbing him to feast his brother. Even if the Pharisees had been as faithful to God as they professed to be, God meant no offense to them in welcoming sinners and in being willing to forgive them. Envy is always unjust—unjust to the envious and unjust to the envied. It makes thousands of lives miserable that should be happy. Let us, in the mind of Jesus, learn to think less of ourselves and more of others, and we will be less sensitive to our own merits and less likely to have our lives made miserable because of envy.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Let the leader explain the parable, and then have a voluntary discussion of the topic.

BIBLE READINGS.

Job v, 2; Ps. xxxvii, 1-11; Prov. xxiv, 1-17, 18; xxvii, 4; Eccl. iv, 4; Math. xxvii, 15-18; Acts vii, 9, 10; I Cor. xiii, 1-13; Jas. iii, 16; I Pet. ii, 1-3.

What Is Christian Life?

It is doing faithfully every day what the Lord wants us to do. Some think if they attend to the more important duties the little duties can be neglected and it doesn't matter when Sunday is past if they deal unjustly, deviate from truth, lose their temper, speak the unkind word and join the world in pursuit of pleasure. Such are in error. Christian life is serving God in every daily act, and it is our everyday life that reveals exactly what kind of Christians we are. To grow strong in Christian character and experience we should do everything heartily as unto the Lord. The Master whom we serve does not want lukewarm servants. Such will exert no influence for His cause. "Up and doing" should be the Christian motto, through Christ, who strengtheneth us. The Christian life is not only one of working and exemplifying, but of waiting and hoping and looking for better things and running with patience the race that is set before you.—H. L. Jackson.

The Need of Prayer.

A prayer that does not benefit you in offering it will not be very helpful to others. The reflexive effect of prayer of an intercessory character more than compensates the party making it, aside from the benefit that may accrue to others. The plea is made that God does not need the services of any one of us; but, while this in a qualified sense is true, there is a sense in which He not only desires, but demands, them, and to refuse is to dishonor Him and disgrace ourselves.—Philadelphia Methodist.

Work Joyously.

When we work joyously, we win other workers to the same service. As men are always seeking employment in the best workshops, because of the praises of the workmen already there, so men will be led into the work of God by seeing our joy in it. We may witness for God by the way in which we work.—William T. Ellis.

WILLIAM R. MOODY.

Eldest Son of the Great Evangelist Chosen to Succeed to His Famous Father's Work.

As in the case of all men endowed with some great and special natural gift, it will doubtless prove true that the late distinguished evangelist, Dwight L. Moody, has left no real successor. Other men will rise to do perhaps equally large service in the same field, but not in the same style and by the same methods. Simplicity, earnestness, sincerity and good sense, united with remarkable business and executive abilities, were combined in the great Northfield preacher in proportions which probably never will be seen again. In a large and true sense, however, the evangelist has a worthy successor to his name and work in Mr. William R. Moody, the elder of his two sons. He has had many worldly advantages, says Leslie's Weekly, which his father did not enjoy, and has improved them to the full, as his father desired him to do. He was graduated from Yale in the class of '91, and has since traveled extensively abroad and accompanied his father on many evangelistic tours as his secretary and manager. A year or two ago he was made business manager of the Mount Hermon boys' school, and for three years has been editor of the Record of Christian Work. In 1894 young Moody married Miss Mary Whittle, daughter of Maj. Whittle, the friend and associate of his father. It was the two children of this couple, a little boy and girl, whose death within the year threw a deep shadow over the last days of the evangelist himself, who was greatly attached to the little ones. In his dying hours he was heard to exclaim: "I see the children's faces," meaning those of his beloved grandchildren. With a courteous and genial manner which makes him most approachable, Mr. Moody possesses a clear grasp of the possibilities of the great and ever-widening field of service to which he has been called, and his success seems practically assured.

ST. PATRICK'S GRAVE.

It Has Just Been Covered by a Memorial Stone Through the Efforts of a Belfast Man.

A great deal of legend, of course, clings to the history of the patron saint of Ireland, but the main facts of his life appear to be these: Patrick was the son of a deacon named Calpurnius. His own Celtic name was Succat, Patricius being his Latin designation. Boulogne-sur-Mer and Kilpatrick, near Dumbarton, contend for the honor of giving him birth. In his sixteenth year he was seized by pirates, carried to Ireland, and sold to an Antrim chief called Milchu. With him he endured six years' captivity, and then, escaping, went to France, where he became a monk. At 45 years of age he was ordained a bishop, and went as a missionary to Ireland. He landed at Wicklow, and then set out on a missionary journey, during which he converted his own master, Milchu. At Tara he preached to the king of Tara, Leogaire. After 20 years of missionary labor, he established his see at Armagh. 463 A. D. is given as the date of his death.

After ages of neglect, the traditional resting-place of the mortal remains of Ireland's patron saint in the cathedral graveyard at Downpatrick have been covered with a memorial stone. The stone is a rough, weather-beaten bowlder of granite, weighing about seven tons. Upon the upper surface of this bowlder is incised an Irish cross, faithfully reproduced from one cut on an equally rough, unhewn stone found on the island of Inisclothran. The movement to erect a monument was initiated by Mr. F. J. Biggar, of Belfast, who was warmly supported by all classes and creeds.

Gossip of the Plays and Players of the BASEBALL Diamonds

THE season of 1900 is demonstrating several new things to the followers of baseball and the magnates. Each week finds itself stored with events which may have a further radical effect upon baseball when the legislators of the national game gather in annual session to prepare for 1901.

When the National league planned to cut the circuit to eight teams, leaving four out in the cold, there arose a mighty howl from the solicitous enthusiasts "of an overstocked market for baseball players," etc. It was said that the business would go to the dogs and that old ball players might earn their living by adopting the avocation of the motorman or the cabman. That these fears were not well grounded has been shown. As a matter of fact, there never was the demand — the large, healthy and full-grown demand—for good ball players that is evident to-day. The league reduction plan did not throw many players on to the charity of their respective communities. No ball players had to become motormen. The demand for players did not cease. The magnates are face to face with a problem of much more importance than the mere reduction of the circuit. Where to get new blood—fast, efficient players, is the magnate's burden. He dreams of it, and of course he worries over it during the day. He is so taken up with it that he can scarcely read the war news.

Some one asked Manager Thomas Loftus, of the Orphans, and one of the shrewdest major and minor league executives the fans ever discussed, whether he would make any changes in his infield. Looking at his interviewer with an expression of mingled pity and tolerance, the Dubuque man replied:

"Show me how I can get a tried, good man for an infield position and I'll put gold notes in your hand.

"The truth is there is so much competition in baseball this season that you cannot get possession of a tried man for any sum. Those teams that have the fortunate men insist upon retaining them. In all my many years of experience in baseball I have not seen good ball players so scarce as they are this season. And early in the season it looked as if the opposite were to be the case.

"The National league expected to draw new blood from the American league. It is forced to abandon that idea for the good reason that a majority of the American league clubs are doing first-rate with former major leaguers. While the ex-members of National league clubs are winning games for their minor league teams, there will be no move on the part of the minor league magnates to experiment with new timber from the interstate leagues. So you see one important source of new material is shut off. I doubt if there will be any remedy for this for at least two seasons.

"Infielders, especially shortstops and second basemen, were never as scarce as they are this season. If you go outside the well-beaten paths for men you must be content with experiments. And it is quite an accident if you succeed in getting a satisfactory player who will develop into a seasoned and reliable man from this sphere. The critics will say to a manager: "Get a new infielder." But they do not stop to consider the trouble and worry that the manager may be experiencing on that very point.

"It is much easier to get pitchers than infielders. Almost any fellow who can pitch good ball will have a chance to prove his ability in a small team where the class of ball among the fielders is not of sufficient quality to warrant the trying of an infielder from the bunch in fast company. Take Garvin, of the Chicago team, for instance. If he had to depend upon his fielding or batting, where would he be in a National league team?

"In the old days there were sources of development for players that are not open now, and a manager with money to spend might buy his man if he needed him. The minor leagues were constantly feeding into the major league. But now the minor leagues are being conducted with teams mostly made up of former fast company material, and the supply of fast young blood is at a low ebb."

This season has not turned out as some of the critics predicted in the matter of catchers. Wilbur Robinson, the veteran backstop of the Baltimore team, who went to St. Louis with McGraw, was said to be a back number. The short, solid and chunky veteran, who has developed more good twirlers by his patience behind the bat, is a star in the St. Louis ranks. His hitting and fielding are still away up. Then there is McGuire, the veteran whose work for the champion Brooklyns has been little short of wonderful this season. There were many who said that the Michigan man's curtain was ready to ring down. But McGuire is as good as any man in the league. There are magnates who would trade half their outfits for McGuire to-day. "Duke" Farrell, another old timer, who is McGuire's running mate, is holding out as a catcher better than the most friendly critics would admit. It was expected that Little Criger, of St. Louis, would improve. He is a slight fellow, and the wonder used to be that he could stand the strain of a hard game, but there are no signs of Manager Tebeau telling him. "T" Donahue, of the Chicago team, is "making good" for the critics who maintained that he would not maintain the standard of the major league. A slumping bacilli has captured "Bridget," and he came within an ace of being sold to Pittsburgh a short time ago.

"Will Manager Edward Hanlon, of the Brooklyns, again land his team at the head of the league?" This is another question that is frequently asked by the fans. It would seem that Dame Fortune had been kind enough to Hanlon for his career. Yet Brooklyn is playing the ball that should land the Trolley Dodgers at the top. When Mr. Hanlon was in Chicago with his team he became reminiscent while discussing the Brooklyn-Chicago series. "When I came out in 1876 they called me the "Consumptive Kid," said the foxy manager. "Well, here I am, looking hearty enough to land my team pennant winners again. I joined the Providences when the smell of the woods was on me, but I was sharp enough to keep my eyes open and listen a great deal. I was called a boy wonder. But I am not old yet." Hanlon was persevering. It took him nearly a quarter of a century to reach the pinnacle of baseball fame, but to-day he stands as the foremost manager in baseball. His salary is $10,000 a year, and he earns every dollar of it. Hanlon is said to have "discovered Willie Keeler, his famous fielder, now with the Brooklyns. As a matter of fact, Hanlon says that John M. Ward recommended Keeler to him, and Hanlon engineered the deal with Brooklyn, whereby Baltimore got Keeler and Dan Brouthers for Shindle and Treadday. To-day Keeler rates with the best outfielder in the country. I saw Treadway the other day. He looked anything but a ball player. He said he would go out to California this winter and play ball. But I fear his days as a ball player are numbered."

SPORTING.

GOLF

There are no scheduled events for the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course tomorrow, but there will be several private matches.

The regular weekly competition fo the president's cup will be held on the links of the Park Golf Club tomorrow. There will be no competition for the green committee challenge trophy, as this week's match was played last Tuesday, unless the green committee should decide at the last moment to let Thiers have another chance this week. In that case case he will play William M. McCutchen, the next of the challengers. The play for the President's cup will be watched with interest. While Morgan T. Townsend still leads, it is only by a small fraction while W. R. Faber and Edgar I. Serrell are close behind. There are a number of others who only need the three points given by first place to tie them with Townsend.

A foursome match is in prospect that will attract much attention in local golfing circles. It is planned to have M. F. Brown, the Hillside Club professional, and Frank Reinhart, who is considered one of the best players of the Hillside Club, meet Andrew D. Blair, club expert at the Park Golf Club links, and either Morgan T. Townsend or W. J. R. Thiers, who are accounted the best two players at the Park Golf Club. It has been suggested that they play eighteen holes on each of the local courses and the final score of the total thirty-six holes decided the match. Such a match would be of much interest to both clubs. There is a friendly rivalry between the two local professionals which has not yet been settled in a match. The amateurs are also eager for a chance at each other. Some fine golf ought to result from a meeting of such strong players.

ELECTED JUDGE AT ELIZABETH.

City Council Chose Owen P. Mahon to Succeed Judge Hetfield.

(Special to the Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Aug. 3—The City Council has elected Owen P. Mahon as Judge of Elizabeth's police court, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Robert Morris Hetfield.

Ira J. Hall, a veteran of the war and an old newspaper man, was a candidate for the place, which he had filled temporarily since the death of Judge Hetfield. Veteran Hall was turned down, however, in the Democratic caucus, and that put him out of the race. Mahon received the votes of the eight Democrats, while the four Republican Councilmen voted for Judge Albert Halberstadt.

The London Christian World says that Gen. Cronje was much depressed on the voyage to St. Helena. He and his wife would sit side by side for hours without speaking, holding each other's hands and occasionally reading the Bible. To cheer them up, a graphophone was brought into use. After playing a march, Sankey's hymn, "The Ninety and Nine," was given. Mrs. Cronje burst into tears, but the wife of another Boer officer sang the hymn through to the accompaniment of the graphophone. Cronje was so interested in the performance that the graphophone was presented to him, and with it he amuses himself in St. Helena.

day was that the plaintiff is not Mrs. Louisa Perrine, but Mrs. Fred Miller. Her first husband, Charles Perrine, was killed on the Central railroad near Richmond street, a few months ago.

The first witness to take the stand today was Stephen Brown, of this city, a nephew of Pangborn's. He told a very important story and his testimony alone would prove the identity of Pangborn and Allen.

COLT AFRAID OF HORSES.

Was Brought Up by Human Beings and Is Affrighted by His Own Kind.

This is a biography of a colt who was afraid of horses, says the Animal World.

He was born on an Iowa farm, and when only a day old lost his mother by death. The farmer determined to save the life of the babe if possible, so the whole family turned to in an effort to accomplish this and make of the colt a good and useful horse.

The problem of food was the first thing to be overcome. As a result the colt was taught to drink. A basin of warm milk was placed before him, the farmer thrust a finger into the fluid so that the tip projected slightly above the surface. Prompted by instinct the infant seized this tip between his lips and sucked vigorously. Gradually the finger-tip was lowered until the colt was actually drinking. After a few lessons he ascertained that this was a fine way by which to get nourishment. He waxed in bulk and strength. Constantly thrown in close association with human beings, he regarded them as his natural mates. He followed the men and women and the children about the farm, from place to place, treading right on their heels, and often on their toes. He was bound to take up quarters in the same house; soon he was wise enough to lift the latch of the back door with his nose, and would walk into the kitchen, creating havoc with his tail and his ungainly hoofs. He was very awkward.

And he was afraid of a horse! He seemed not to know that he himself was but a horse, and that all his relatives were horses. Just as quick as a horse approached him he would run in fright and seek protection.

Hoping that he would realize his folly, the farmer put him in a pasture with another colt. But, instead of picking a friendship with this companion, colt No. 1 stayed as far as possible from him, and if colt No. 2 came near, would show his teeth and chatter in rage and fear.

The last heard of him he was still afraid of horses, and almost useless for anything but a pet.

Kitchener's Message to Roberts.

A story was told by a distinguished officer whose name, alas! was in the list of killed not long ago. Before Kitchener had made his fame he said to this officer, who was starting with some message for Roberts during one of the Indian campaigns: "Tell Roberts I want a billet under him, and if there is nothing else open, I'll black his boots." Long afterwards, when the victor of Khartoum was the idol of the British people, the officer met him again and reminded him of his message. "I remember it," said Lord Kitchener, "and it still stands. You can take it to him again."—Household Words.

PROVING DOUBLE LIFE OF PANGBORN-ALLEN

Straight-Forward and Convincing Testimony in Plaintiff's Favor Given by Mr. Brown.

KNEW PANGBORN AS ALLEN

FURTHER TESTIMONY WILL BE HEARD AT WILLIAMSPORT.

Those Who Have Followed the Case Believe That the Identity of the Two Names as Being of One Man Has Been Proven.

But one witness was placed on the stand in the Pangborn-Allen case yesterday, and at the conclusion of his evidence, which was by far the most important as yet, the hearing is ended as far as Plainfield is concerned. It is now laid over until September 7th when it comes before the Court of Common Pleas of Lycoming county, Pa. With this court rests the decision as to whether Stephen Pangborn and Winfield Scott Allen were one and the same man. A decision in the affirmative will practically give the case to Louisa Perrine, or as her name now is, Mrs. Fred Miller.

The witness yesterday was Stephen Brown, a nephew of Pangborn's. He is an engineer on the Central and resides in Dunellen. His testimony was not only clear and straight-forward but was substantiated by written evidence in the way of letters and telegrams. Brown declared that when he was but a small boy he knew there was a warrant out for Pangborn's arrest on the charge of desertion. He was once a witness of an exciting race between Pangborn and Constable Durling, of Somerville, where the former first went after leaving Plainfield.

The race led the two men near the railroad, when Moses Brown, the witness's father, was just passing in his engine. Brown, Sr., slowed up, enabling the fugitive to get on board, then pulling out before the constable could reach the train. Stephen Brown was first made aware of Pangborn's life in Williamsport by his father. It was at a Christmas entertainment at his home when Pangborn played the part of Santa Claus for the children. Brown's father called him aside and told him of Pangborn's doings in the Pennsylvania town. He had afterward written to him as Allen and had received letters in return, which he showed as evidence. Brown was the one who informed him of the death of his father. He met Brown by appointment and attended the funeral services with him. Pangborn was afraid to go to the North Avenue station after the services were over, as he was afraid he would be arrested. He knew he had nothing to fear while at the house or grave, but was afraid the constable would be at the station. It was then decided to go to Clinton avenue or Evona and take the train.

Pangborn went into a closet and Brown was to watch when the train reached Plainfield. If a constable got on he was to notify Pangborn by knocking on the door. Before going in Pangborn showed Brown a revolver and declared he would shoot the first man who attempted to arrest him and then kill himself. No constable got on, however, and he came out. He left the train at Elizabeth and said he would take the Pennsylvania road home. Brown only saw him once after that by appointment in New York. The witness said he corresponded regular with him and when he was killed he received a telegram from W. S. Allen, Jr., which he still has. He notified all the Pangborns, but William Pangborn, of the borough, and himself were the only ones to attend the funeral. At that time he informed Mrs. Allen and her oldest son of her husband's former life in Plainfield.

Mrs. Allen's lawyer some years later called him to Williamsport and asked him to destroy all letters and telegrams he had received from Allen, but he refused. Cross-examination failed to shake the above testimony, in fact it brought out more evidence beneficial to the plaintiff. The only witness who will go to Williamsport will be Mrs. Miller, the plaintiff. As stated in yesterday's Press it would seem as if the defendants' lawyers will not deny the identity, but will declare Pangborn's first marriage illegal and have Mrs. Miller's claim set aside. If she wins the loss will fall heavily on some of the defendants, as the property consisted mainly of small houses purchased by different parties.

No Evening Service.

During the month of August there will be no evening service in Trinity Reformed church. Rev. Dr. Lewis will preach tomorrow morning.

NOTHING DEFINITE YET.

Reported Changes on Medical Staff at Muhlenberg Hospital are Said to be Untrue.

The Daily Press can state today on authority that the article published yesterday by another paper to the effect that Dr. W. H. Murray had been appointed to fill the position of surgeon at Muhlenberg Hospital, which was held until recently by Dr. Endicott, is not true. Dr. Murray is temporarily filling the position, but no official action has been taken appointing him to that place. Neither has Dr. B. VanD. Hedges been appointed to take Dr. Murray's place on the medical staff of the hospital. There has been some talk of such action, but the board of governors of the hospital evidenced considerable surprise when the announcement that such a change had taken place without their knowledge or approval.

BRIDGE TO COST $1,449.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR THE TRI-COUNTY STRUCTURE.

W. T. Kirk the Lowest Bidder—A Committee of Freeholders Appointed to Inspect.

At the meeting of the Board of Freeholders Thursday Freeholder Westphal, of this city, offered a resolution to the effect that a committee of five be appointed to assist in building a new iron truss bridge over Green brook on Jefferson avenue in this city, the cost to Union county not to exceed $700.

It was explained that the bridge in question, an old wooden bridge of thirty years standing, was a tri-county bridge, half of it being owned by Somerset county and the remainder by Union and Middlesex counties. The bridge was rotten and unsafe, and the Boards of Somerset and Middlesex counties had already called a meeting for the purpose of awarding contracts for their portion of the work.

The resolution offered by Mr. Westphal was adopted, and the following committee was named: Messrs. Westphal, Adams, Robison, Woodruff and Brucklacher.

Yesterday the following bids were received for the construction of a 20x50 foot steel truss bridge over Green brook on Jefferson avenue. This is a tri-county bridge—Union, Middlesex and Somerset being interested—and the bids were received by a joint committee from the Boards of Freeholders of all three counties.

For the iron work the bids were: Variety Iron Works, $1,550; Dover Boiler Works, $1,497; Toledo Bridge Company, $1,535; Canton Bridge Company, $1,510; Dean & Westbrook, $1,530; F. R. Long & Co., $1,489; Wrought Iron Bridge Company, $1,500; W. T. Kirk, Plainfield, N. J., $1,449. The contract was awarded to Mr. Kirk.

For the masonry there was but one bid, that of Wm. Farrier, who bid $4.80 per cubic yard for stone work and $6 per cubic yard for concrete. The total was $558 for the masonry.

SHOOT AND OUTING.

Plainfield Club Had a Jolly Good Time, Followed by a Trolley Ride.

The Plainfield Shooting Club held its first shoot and outing yesterday on the new grounds near Terrill road, and about seventy five members and their friends gathered and had a thoroughly enjoyable time. In addition to an informal shoot, a clam bake was enjoyed. Wm. Brown, the expert, had charge of the bake, and he gave entire satisfaction. Music was furnished throughout the afternoon by Nathan Guttman. The shoot was an interesting one. Those who contested were John H. Adlemann, George Voehl, Joseph Blatz, Scott Terry, Charles Lister and Mr. Swoody. Clay pigeons were used and each man shot at ten birds. The honors were divided between Messrs. Adlemann, Terry and Voehl.

Following the festivities on the grounds the crowd took a special trolley car and enjoyed a trip to Elizabeth and back.

Prices for a Site Too High.

The Somerville Board of Commissioners on the proposed new fire house is having trouble of its own. The committee met recently and reported that the lots most desirable for the site on Main street are held at too high a price. It seems impossible to obtain a suitable location on Main street for less than $8,000 or $10,000. A location on a side street that is narrow is not considered desirable. It is the object of the committee to keep the cost of the site and the new fire house down to $15,000, the amount allotted by an act of the Legislature.

SPLENDID SHOWING OF HILLSIDE CLUB.

The Receipts Considerably Exceed the Expenditures So The Club Is Saving Money.

WILL BUY THE PROPERTY

TOTAL MEMBERSHIP OF HILLSIDE HAS NOW REACHED 500 MARK.

Club Has Option on the Mellick Farm, Where Course is Located, and will Buy it With Money Now Laid By.

While some golf clubs have had more or less trouble in satisfactorily arranging the financial details of their management, the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club has steadily advanced with wonderful success. Since the club has moved to its new quarters south of this city, the receipts have more than covered the expenditures and what is still more pleasing to the management, it has been possible to lay by a neat sum. Some recent additions to the membership have brought it up to over 500, including all classes of members. It has long been the desire of those particularly interested in the welfare of the club to bring its membership up to that figure and their efforts toward that end have been rewarded.

When the Hillside Club took possession of its new course, which included the greater part of the old Melick farm, it was questioned as to whether or not the club would be able to meet the added responsibilities. Last season was the first complete year at the new links. The results were more than satisfactory. Every obligation was met, a large sum was spent for improvements while the club was able to purchase one of the $1,000 city road improvement bonds and still have about $300 in the treasury.

When the Melick property was leased, the club obtained an option, good for five years, to purchase the farm for $8,000. After this, the option will still continue three more years. It is now the aim of the club to lay by $1,000 each season and then raise the remaining $3,000 by mortgage which could be paid off without trouble. The interest would be considerably less than is now paid for rental.

The annual budget for this year is estimated at $5,900, giving liberal allowances for improvements, while the receipts from dues and locker rentals will amount to $7,200. This will permit the putting away of another $1,000 this season, while the course itself will be improved. Such a showing cannot help but be very pleasing to the officials of the club and promises success for the club in the future.

While many of the local members are away on their summer vacations, there has been a large attendance at the links on the part of the non-resident members. A number of golfers have come to this city for the summer and joined the non resident class until the non-resident memberehip is now complete. The board of trustees are likely to increase the limit in the near future as a number of others are anxious to take advantage of the privileges of non-resident membership.

Martine to Drake.

The following letter from James E. Martine to Silas D. Drake explains itself:

Plainfield, N. J., August 4, 1900.
Cedar Brook.

Silas D. Drake, Esq.,
Plainfield, N. J.,

My Dear Drake: Your note proposing a debate at Dewey Park on the questions at issue in the present campaign, is at hand.

Now, Drake, you are a born advertiser, but you must know the people will see through this scheme. I am too earnest and serious, and I trust too honest in my political principles, and too anxious for their ascendancy, to do aught that might make them ridiculous or tend in any way to belittle them.

Respectfully yours,
James E. Martine.

Mr. Martine to Speak.

James E. Martine has received an invitation to deliver the principal address at the Farmers' picnic at Flemington August 15th. Congressman Daly had been secured to deliver the address, but his death left the promoters without a prominent speaker. They decided that Mr. Martine would be the proper man to fill the place on the programme that Mr. Daly had been assigned to.

AT THE FRESH AIR CAMP.

REFRESHING EXPERIENCE OF TRINITY CHURCH ENDEAVORERS.

Trip Made to Westfield Where Poor Mothers and Children of New York Enjoy a Vacation.

Many of the readers of The Daily Press are aware of the noble work that is being done at the Westfield Fresh Air Camp and that religious meetings are held every evening under the supervision of the local C. E societies.

It was the privilege last evening of Trinity Reformed church to take charge and receive inspiration from personal contact with mothers and children of this camp. Yesterday was what is designated as change day when a large portion of those who have enjoyed God's pure air and sunshine, and what is more, the spiritual influence of the surroundings—return to the crowded tenements, to make way for others to enjoy a ten-day outing in the country.

As the party of Christian Endeavors entered the grounds and heard the children singing, "Let the Sunshine In," keeping time with the swaying of their bodies in the many swings that are there for their amusement, one felt that the blessed sunshine had, indeed, entered their souls.

The visitors spent a short time inspecting the buildings and conversing with the mothers and children. The sound of a bell ringing soon called all to assemble for a brief service of song and testimony under the leadership of Miss E C. Benedict.

A service of song conducted by H. J. Martin opened the meeting, the little ones leading with spirit the many familiar hymns, and imparting to many an inspiration never experienced before to continue in this work. All repeated the 23d Psalm, the leader calling to the minds of the listeners that Christ, our good Shepherd, was calling for His sheep; that to many the way seemed rough and stony and that temptations come to us, and that the easier way seems the better way, yet if we would only trust and obey the guiding of our Shepherd, He would surround us with His protecting care that naught could harm His sheep.

The testimonies of many of the mothers were very helpful and encouraging, not only to those who had come to be blessed, but to the faithful matron, Miss Curry, who is doing the Master's work. May she continue to bless and be blessed.

BEWARE OF THE FENDER.

If You Stand too Near Trolley Tracks on a Curve You May be Struck.

Great care should be taken by people standing near a curve on the street railway tracks or they may receive serious injuries. When rounding a curve, the fender on a car swings well out and is apt to strike anyone standing near. An incident of this kind occurred Thursday night at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Fourth street. A car belonging to the Arlington avenue line had stopped before rounding the curve to shift the fender to the rear. A lady stood on the crossing and as the car swung around, the fender struck and threw her violently to the ground. The conductor never noticed her mishap and kept on. She was assisted to her feet by bystanders. Beyond being bruised where the fender struck she was unhurt.

Midsummer Kick.

Pedestrians on Front street and other business parts of the city are giving vent to their annual midsummer growl about the lively way the have to dodge the large number of baby carriages and bicycles that are trundled along the sidewalks, especially on fine afternoons and evenings. But don't let that keep you from going with the Hope Memorial chapel Sunday-school excursion to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, on Saturday, August 25, as baby carriages, bicycles and lunch baskets are taken along free of charge.

Here's Peaches by the Ton.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Flemington, August 4.—About five hundred baskets of peaches were shipped from Lebanon Tuesday night. About the same number is being shipped from Flemington nightly now. The peach growers in the vicinity of Lebanon predict that they will ship 60,000 baskets this season, which is the largest in many years. The fruit exchanges throughout the growing districts will open within a fortnight.

Trades Union Officers Installed.

At the meeting of the Trades Union held Thursday evening at Red Men's Hall, the newly-elected officers were installed and the constitution that will govern the Union was adopted. There was no other business of importance considered. The Union will meet subject to a call by the present.

HEAVY GRIST IN CITY COURT TODAY.

Nearly a Score of Culprits Faced Cadi on Various Charges, but None Serious.

AN ECHO OF THE FOUTH.

FOUR BOYS MADE A BONFIRE OF A WAGON.

Each of the Lads Agreed to Pay $3 33 and Were Released--Eight Other Mischievous Youngsters—Scrappers Fined.

Nearly a score of persons of all ages lined up before Judge Runyon in the City Court this morning, most of whom were for disorderly conduct.

The first case was that of boys living in the West End. Their names were John Sprague, Richard Waldron, Thomas Kelley and John Snediker. Judging from the evidence, boxes and barrels must have been scarce on the night of July 3d and, in their exuberant spirits, the lads made a bonfire of a wagon. It was taken from the yard around George Zepp's shop on West Second street. Zepp was repairing it for Max Mintz and the latter valued it at $10. On condition that the lads pay $3.33 each, with the exception of Snediker, the Judge adjourned the case until it was done, when they will probably be dismissed.

Alex Kane, of Cottage Row, has been annoyed lately by the youngsters on that street, using the roof of his new store as a playground. They would climb up, hop around and then jump off. There were eight of them engaged in this exhilarating sport the other night when Kane swooped down on them. All eight appeared in court this morning, each one accompanied by his mother. They were, John Keggar, Howard and Charles Post, Andrew Poland, Sickey Brown, Willie Doyle, Martin Jeroloman and Hickey Connett. As none of the boys were over fourteen they were discharged with a reprimand and a caution to choose some other place beside Kane's roof to develop their jumping powers.

Lawrence Bray, a newsboy, was arraigned for abusing Oliver Ulmer, who is employed by the Union News Company. Ulmer's father was unable to appear against him and the prisoner was discharged with a warning to leave Ulmer alone in the future.

Richard Harding, an inoffensive Negro, came from Garwood yesterday to find his brother. His search led him to Horne's stables on North avenue. In answer to the query if his brother had been there, he received a string of abuse on the part of Eugene Wood and another employe of the stable. He was also informed if he was looking for fight he could have it. Richard didn't want to fight, so he moved away. He met Wood on Second street a short time afterward and the invitation to fight was again extended to him. Harding again refused, and on putting a piece of paper in his pocket, Wood shouted that he was drawing a razor, and seizing a club threw it at him. Harding ran away, but Wood and some others followed him and attacked him on Park avenue while the band concert was in progress. Patrolman McCarty came upon the scene and arrested Harding and Wood. After hearing the stories of both men Harding was discharged and Wood was fined $5 or twenty days. The fine was paid.

In Charge of Valuable Dogs.

Percy C. Ohl, formerly of this city, but late of Philadelphia, is happily located at present as manager and superintendent of William G. Suelke's celebrated kennels located at Milford Square, Pa., which contain some of the finest canines in Pennsylvania. Mr. Suelke and his brother, Adam, together with a number of prominent sportsmen of Philadelphia, recently leased one of the finest game preserves in Virginia, located on the Rappahannock river. Mr. Ohl will leave for there in a few days with a valuable string of dogs. Under the care and management of Mr. Ohl the thoroughbreds are expected to make a record at the coming field trials in the south.

Prizes for Charity Event.

The prospects for the success of the progressive euchre party to be given by the guests of the Hotel Netherwood for the benefit of the fresh air camp for babies conducted by the City Union, King's Daughters, are very bright. A majority of the local merchants have responded generously with prizes and every effort has been attended with success. The affair will take place next Tuesday evening at the Hotel Netherwood.

THE FIRST VICTIM.

Newark Junk Peddler Arrested Under the New Ordinance Requiring License.

The first victim to be arrested under the recently passed ordinance relating to junk dealers, imposing a license of $25 upon those who follow that business, was hailed before City Judge Runyon this morning. The prisoner was Joseph Farnago, of Newark, who had been detected gathering junk in the West End without the necessary permit. He admitted having a license in Montclair and offered to take one out here for three or four days. On learning that $25 was the lowest price, he shrugged his shoulders and declared it was too high. In view of the fact that he was aware of his wrong-doing he was fined $2. His total wealth consisted of a dollar bill. He was held until the remainder could be secured from a friend.

ANOTHER CYCLE STOLEN

DARING ROBBERY COMMITTED YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

It was Standing in Front of the Prudential Insurance Company's Office—Police are Notified.

One of the most daring robberies on record in this city occurred yesterday afternoon at 2:15 at the City National Bank, when Charles A. Steadman, an employe of the Prudential Insurance Company, had his valuable bicycle stolen. Only a very few minutes before Mr. Steadman placed his wheel against the bank building, and during the few minutes required for him to go upstairs to the office and return the wheel was taken by some mean person. There is no doubt but what the person who took it has had his eye on the prize for some time and was just waiting for an opportunity to take it.

The wheel is a "Froelech Special" and cost more than the average wheel because Mr. Steadman secured the various parts to suit himself and put them together. Only recently he had the wheel re-enameled and fixed up. The frame is a 22-inch, enameled black. The rims were painted black with a narrow stripe of red encircling them. The wheel is equipped with a Morrow brake, upright handle bars, a Morris saddle, and the rear wheel there is a new Hartford tandem tire. If the wheel is not greatly changed it can be detected easily from the above description. As soon as Mr. Steadman learned of his loss he notified the police and every effort will be made to recover the wheel.

AT THE NETHERWOOD.

Cards, Music and Recitations Afford Amusement for Guests at the Big Hotel.

The usual evening card parties and dancing at the Hotel Netherwood were varied on Tuesday evening by a delightful recital of French, German and English poems by Madame G. L. Ranke, of New York, the well known reader and talented linguist.

Madame Ranke was assisted by Mrs. Edith LeJune, soprano, who sang "The Magic Song," "Rosebud Fair," "Spring Flowers" and "You Stole My Care Away," most charmingly.

Max Staniffer, violinist played "Schubert's Serenade" and other selections accompanied by the Netherwood Hotel orchestra.

Patronesses were Mrs. John C. Sullivan, Mrs. Charles L. Camenan, Mrs. W. V. R. Smith, Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Jr., Mrs. David F. Harbaugh, Mrs. John Suydam Hillman, Mrs. Frederic Lewis, Mrs. William Ogden, Mrs. E. E. Spencer, Mrs. Titt Parsons, Mrs. Horace Dickinson, Mrs. J. B. Carson, Mrs. W. P. Glenny, Mrs. R. Struller, Mrs. T. Garre, Mrs. J. S. Patten, Miss Williams, Miss Bessie Taylor, Miss Ada Clarke and Miss Lutkins.

Among others present were Mr. and Mrs. William C. Farber, Miss May Coleman, R. A. Clarke, R. A. Clarke, Jr., J. L. Pundergast, Miss Pundergast, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schoonmaker, Mrs. F. W. Coleman, Major Coleman, Miss Grace Adams, Mrs. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. L. de L. Camman, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Whitlock, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ogden, Jr., the Misses Garre, Mrs. O. H. Bruen and the Misses Bruen.

Stepped on a Copperhead Snake.

While picking berries on Johnston's drive near Vail's spring yesterday, William Spicer, of this city, stepped upon a large copperhead snake. The reptile wound itself around his foot and attempted to strike. Fortunately Spicer had a revolver with him and dispatched the snake just in time. Mr. Spicer says that the copperheads, whose bite is poisonous, are numerous on the mountains this year and would advise people to be careful while walking there.

BOROUGH MARSHALS TO GET VACATIONS.

Mayor Smalley Does Not Think That the Minions of the Law Should be Off, However.

STREET SPRINKLING COST.

ORDINANCE INTRODUCED TO WIDEN SOMERSET STREET.

Public Hearing to be Given August 17th on the Proposed Improvement—Plainfield Automobile Company Asks for Privileges.

The August meeting of the Mayor and Borough Council held last evening was rather unimportant, although considerable time was consumed in transacting the business that was introduced. As usual, Mr. Swackhamer was absent, and Mr. Valiant being out of town he could not attend. All the rest of the members were in attendance.

The monthly report of Collector Brown, including that of Clerk Rowley, was presented as follows: Taxes and interest, $116 68; special school, $36 99; Board of Health, $1.28; Duer street extension, $40; bills payable by note, $2,500; clerk, fines, $39; dog registration, $12.40; macadamizing streets, $3.73; cash, July 1st, $781.08; total receipts, $3,631.16; cash, August 1st, $727.70; borough fund, $483.78; Watchung avenue fund, $243 92.

Silas D. Drake, of the Plainfield Automobile Company, in a petition asked for a license to operate two automobiles in the borough to carry people. The matter was referred to the license and marshal committee. The Plainfield Electric Light Company notified the Council that an electric light had been located on Brook avenue, as petitioned for by J. B. Mills and others, and odered by the Council.

Mr. Clark, chairman of the street committee, introduced an ordinance to widen Somerset street, according to the plans published recently. The ordinance was adopted on its first reading, and notice was given that a meeting will be held Friday evening, August 17th, at 8 o'clock in the evening, at which time a public hearing will be given and any one having any objections to the adoption of the same can present them in writing to the Council

Mr. Clark also presented the monthly report of the street work. It showed that $285.43 was expended for labor and $138.57 for street sprinkling. There was 387 tons of stone costing $381.94. For supplies $9 17 was expended, making a total expenditure of $815.11 for the month, or $3,542.10 for the past six months. Mr. Clark stated that he thought $400 would cover the expense of street sprinkling for the next three months which he considered would be necessary. He thought that next year the sprinkling from April 1st to October 1st could be accomplished for $1,000. This year's appropriation will run close on account of the cost of the sprinkling carts coming out of the appropriation for streets. He said that some work would have to be done on Somerset street, between Jackson avenue and Johnston's drive, at an estimated cost of $1,000.

It was the opinion of Mr. Rogers, as well as other members of the Council, that the street sprinkling is worth all that it costs the borough, yet the cost of the carts should not come out of the street appropriation. It was agreed that the carts should be paid for out of the borough fund, and it will probably be so arranged.

Mr. Lee reported the collection of $39 in fines from ten violators of the borough laws. He also caused a little sensation by offering a resolution that each regular borough marshal be granted a week's vacation with full pay, and that a special marshal be engaged to do regular duty while the regular officer is off. Mr. Lee thought the men were entitled to the time off, as they are closely confined to duty. He did not think they were overworked, but believed they should have a little vacation. The vacations for the regulars will cost the borough $50 for extra services of a special marshal.

Mr. Codington and Mr. Clark agreed with Mr. Lee, and said they would vote for the resolution. Mayor Smalley took the opposite side, and stated that he opposed the vacations this year the same as he did last year. He did not like the idea and considered it absurd. In the present case he thought it was better that the men should work. They know that they can get a day off when they want it, and not being overworked he thought

A MONTH'S FAILURES.

A Heavy Increase Shown, the Bulk In Three Lines of Business.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Failures by branches of business during July, given in detail today, show a total of 793 commercial concerns, with aggregate liabilities of $9,771,755, and four banking defaults for $201,000. Manufacturing failures numbered 183, with liabilities of $5,177,682, and trading 550, with $3,324,366 liabilities. The total shows a heavy increase in comparison with the corresponding month last year, which is mainly due to phenomenally sound conditions existing at that time, when the amount of liabilities was the smallest, with one exception, in any month of the 82 covered by these returns.

Moreover, about 70 per cent of the large total in manufacturing failures last month occurred in three branches of business, and 11 concerns were responsible for the bulk of these liabilities, so that most classes continue to enjoy prosperity, and trading returns are exceptionally encouraging. After withstanding the severe fall in prices for six months large iron and steel firms gave up the fight in July, and there were heavy failures in the lumber and building trades. The analysis in succeeding pages shows that the large aggregate for the month, if published alone, would convey a mistaken impression.

Iron and steel markets were startled by reports of sales of steel bars at 90 cents per 100 pounds, but business at the same time was the largest in months at Chicago on a basis of about $1.25. Increasing demand for bar iron from makers of agricultural implements and car builders was a feature, contracts placed being estimated at 110,000 tons in bars and plates. The trade believes that orders will increase as the season advances and that total needs of iron consumers will compare well with last year.

Copper exports in July are estimated at 10,661 tons against 7,150 in 1899, and the amount coming into sight in the last half year for home consumption is only 65,025 tons, a decrease of 19,467 tons. The foreign demand for bituminous coal is heavy, but producers hesitate to contract shipments with home prices tending upward.

Failures for the week were 228 in the United States against 182 last year, and 24 in Canada against 23 last year.

AN EVASIVE ANSWER

Earl Li Fails to Grant Secretary Hay's Demand.

ADVANCING ALLIES MEET OPPOSITION

The Powers Making Every Possible Effort to Establish Communication With Their Representatives In Peking.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Another move was made yesterday in the diplomatic situation by the return of an evasive answer by Li Hung Chang to Secretary Hay's peremptory demand of Aug. 1 to be put in communication with the foreign ministers at Peking. Li's answer is not final and leaves the matter open diplomatically. But Li's actions, as reported by Consul Goodnow, are unquestionably sinister and will amount to a final rejection of the American proposition if persisted in.

Mr. Goodnow's dispatch contains some further information bearing on the question of responsibility for Peking conditions in the statement that the commander of the Chinese troops, by inference answerable to the Chinese government, ordered the Paoting massacre. It is learned here that Li-Ping-Hong, the commander referred to, is a civil official and well known to all the Chinese officials abroad as one of the most rabid antiforeign leaders in China. He is a close friend of Prince Tuan, and the association of these two in Peking affairs, with power enough behind them to cause the ignominious death of two high officials, is regarded here as a bad sign.

Simultaneously with Mr. Goodnow's dispatch came a characteristically diplomatic message from Yuan Shih Kai, governor of Shantung, repeating the story of two days ago that the Chinese government was arranging to deliver the ministers in safety at Tien-tsin. No effort is made to reconcile that statement with Earl Li's refusal to allow communication with the ministers.

General Chaffee's message as to the unexpected resistance offered to the Japanese reconnoissance is regarded by military men here as forecasting a greater degree of opposition to the international advance than had been anticipated, and they are now satisfied that the Chinese troops will furnish material for at least one severe battle before the way is clear to Peking.

It appears that some misunderstanding exists as to a St. Petersburg dispatch printed here saying that the Chinese minister there and his colleagues in Europe had cabled the governor of Shangtung demanding that free communication be opened between the Peking ministers and their respective governments. This communication was in fact a joint memorial to the throne concurred in by all Chinese ministers abroad, including Minister Wu in Washington. It was forwarded by Minister Yeng Lu at St. Petersburg, because the latter is the dean of the Chinese diplomatic service. It was transmitted through the governor of Shangtung to be forwarded to Peking.

This action is considered very important as indicating that the Chinese ministers abroad have at last reached a unanimous conclusion that the situation is no longer to be trifled with. Their action may be regarded as a final effort on their part to influence the home government, and its outcome is awaited with great interest.

Meanwhile the government of the United States, like the governments of Europe, has not abandoned its efforts to establish communication with its minister at Peking by independent means, and the state department has instructed Consul General Goodnow at Shanghai, Consul Fowler at Chefu and Consul Ragsdale at Tien-tsin to spare no effort or expense to open up direct communication with Mr. Conger.

In addition to his short message relative to the Japanese check transmitted through Admiral Remey and received yesterday morning General Chaffee made another and a direct cable report. The message was withheld from publication by Secretary Root, who declined to make its purport public. It was presumably devoted to a recital of General Chaffee's needs in a military way. In view of the London statement that the advance on Tien-tsin actually began with the present week there is also a possibility that General Chaffee's message has some bearing on that subject, though it is evident from his report of yesterday morning that the advance, if started, could not have progressed far beyond Tien-tsin, as the outpost affair described by him took place only ten miles out of town.

It is estimated at the war department that there are about 3,500 American troops, including 750 marines, in the vicinity of Tien-tsin available for active operations against the Chinese capital, with prospects of 3,000 re-enforcements from the United States arriving in small detachments within the next two months. In view of the small American representation on the spot it is not regarded at the war department as probable that General Chaffee would be selected to command the allied forces.

ADVANCE OF THE ALLIES.

Conflicting Reports Regarding the Movement Toward Peking.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—According to a special dispatch from Shanghai, dated Aug. 3, the advancing column of the allies was reported there yesterday to have reached a point 35 miles beyond Tien-tsin. Nothing from any other point corroborates this statement. In fact, The Standard goes so far as to say that it fears the real advance, apart from preliminary measures, has not yet begun.

Tien-tsin dispatches, dated July 30, tell of an action which is termed a "reconnoissance between the Japanese and Chinese" two miles beyond the Hsiku arsenal, in which the Japanese withdrew after suffering 30 casualties.

The Tien-tsin correspondent of The Standard, under date of July 27, declares that the Americans and Germans have been ordered to move forward without waiting for the British.

A Chefu special, dated Aug. 1, announces the safety of all the Americans in Peking and the reception of a letter from Dr. Cheltman, dated Peking, July 20, saying that on the previous day Sir Claude Macdonald, the British minister, had agreed to a truce provided the Chinese came no closer and adding:

"We hope this means relief; but, having defeated the Chinese, we are fearful now of treachery. All are exhausted with constant watching, fighting and digging trenches."

According to the Shanghai correspondent of The Times one of the members of the tsung-li-yamen mentioned by United States Consul Goodnow as having been beheaded for proforeign tendencies was Hsu Ching Cheng, former minister to Russia. The correspondent says the empress dowager ordered his execution on the advice of Li Ping Heng.

Li Hung Chang has been informed from Peking that Prince Ching's only prominent supporters in his peace policy are General Yung Lu and Wang Wen Shao, president of the board of revenue, whose influence is small.

It is said that a resident of Weston-super-Mare has received a telegram from a nephew in Peking dated Aug. 1, saying, "Safe in British legation."

A Chefu special dispatch, dated Aug. 1, announces the safety of all the Americans in Peking and the reception of a letter from Dr. Cheltman, dated Peking, July 20, saying that on the previous day Sir Claude M. Macdonald, the British minister, had agreed to a truce provided the Chinese came no closer, and adding:

"We hope this means relief; but, having defeated the Chinese, we are fearful now of treachery. All are exhausted with constant watching, fighting and digging trenches.

"The greatest credit is due to Mr. Squiers, secretary of the United States legation, whose military experience and energy are invaluable."

May Cause Death of Envoys.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 4.—Liu-Yun-Yi, viceroy of Nankin, and Sheng, administrator of telegraphs and railways and taotai of Shanghai, both declare officially that the foreign ministers are held by the Chinese government as hostages and that if the allies march to Peking they will be killed.

It is stated now that only the Russian and Japanese, 33,000 strong, are starting for Peking.

Another Chinese exodus from Shanghai has commenced, caused by disquieting rumors published in native and foreign papers.

Christians Skinned Alive.

CHEFU, Aug. 4.—Chinese bring many stories of horrible outrages upon native Christians, who have been murdered, tortured or compelled to renounce their religion. Several have been skinned alive.

The French nuns at Newchwang were deliberately burned alive.

Dr. Ting, a graduate of the American college, refused to renounce Christianity after receiving 2,000 lashes.

Amnesty For Boxers.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 4.—Li Hung Chang is preparing a proclamation granting virtual amnesty to Boxers on condition that they cease creating disturbances.

North Carolina Elections.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 4.—A special to The Observer from Raleigh says: "The Democrats rejoice quietly all over North Carolina. The returns show that Democratic majorities aggregate 64,678 and fusion majorities 5,125, making the net Democratic majority 59,553. There will be contests in several counties, there being alleged irregularities in Randolph and Harnett and smaller ones in Wilkes and Chatham. In the latter county at Congressman Atwater's precinct, the fusion stronghold, the fusionists are reported to have assaulted the election officers, smashed the ballot boxes and burned the ballots. The returns show that to the senate there are elected 38 Democrats and 9 fusionists, with three seats doubtful, and to the house 59 Democrats and 13 fusionists, while 12 seats are in doubt.

Character of Witnesses Assailed.

GEORGETOWN, Ky., Aug. 4.—Of the eight witnesses introduced by the defense in the Powers case yesterday all but one were called for the purpose of attacking the credibility of witnesses placed on the stand by the prosecution. One of these, former State Auditor Stone, stated that Witness W. H. Culton, an alleged coconspirator of Powers, was removed from a place of trust in his office because he defaulted in the sum of $1,000. Other witnesses, residents of Grayson Springs, this state, testified that instead of being in Frankfort on Jan. 30, the day of the shooting of Senator Goebel, as he claimed under oath to have been, George Weaver, a prosecution witness, was in their town organizing a lodge of Woodmen of the World, and others from eastern Kentucky testified that Witness Wharton Golden of the prosecution had displayed a large roll of money and intimated that it came from the state reward fund.

Largest Apple Crop Ever Known.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 4.—The sixth annual meeting of the National Apple Shippers' association came to an end last evening, and most of the 160 delegates have departed for their homes. The next meeting will be held at Toronto the first Wednesday in August, 1901. During the three days the convention was in session letters and telegrams were received from every fruit growing section of the country, and from these it is estimated that the apple crop this year will be the largest in the history of the United States, exceeding that of 1896, when 60,000,000 barrels were gathered.

Dead In a Car of Lumber.

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 4.—A body supposed to be that of Arthur McCleary of Atlantic City was found in a carload of lumber. Workmen unloading the lumber found the body, and its position leads to the belief that the man was stealing a ride and the lumber shifted, pinning him against the end of the car. The man was about 26 years of age and had been dead about 48 hours.

OUR COUNTRY'S GOLD

How the Treasury Estimates Are Made.

OVER SIX HUNDRED MILLIONS ON HAND

Large Sums Hoarded and Carried Abroad by Tourists—Interesting Inquiry Being Made—Increase of Yellow Metal Lately.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Mr. Roberts, the director of the mint, in speaking of the probable modification of the present estimate of the stock of gold in the country, said:

"Some modification of the present estimate doubtless will be made as the result of an extended inquiry that is being made by this bureau and by Mr. Muhleman of the New York subtreasury, but the reduction will be small as compared with the stock. The original basis of the treasury estimate is a computation made by Dr. Linderman, director of the mint in 1873. Gold was then at a premium and not in general circulation. He took the amount in the treasury and in national banks and added $20,000,000 for the circulation on the Pacific coast and $10,000,000 for the holdings of other banks and hoards, in all $135,000,000.

"To this has been added each year the coinage and the imports of domestic coin and subtracted the recoinage, the exports and an estimated sum for consumption in the arts. The result is the current estimate.

"The gold in the treasury and in the national banks comprises the only part of the stock that can be actually counted. At the date of the last reported statement by the national banks, April 26, 1900, their holdings were $195,769,872. The treasury holdings May 1 were $426,989,371, the two items aggregating $622,759,243. The estimate for May 1 was $1,043,525,117, which left $420,000,000 to be accounted for as held by state and private banks, trust companies and in safes, tills, pockets and hoards. This is the sum subject to modification.

"The tourist agency of Cook & Sons receives from travelers from $100,000 to $150,000 per year and turns it in to the Bank of England. About $75,000 per annum is melted at Geneva, and in all a net loss of $600,000 to $800,000 is indicated. At the latter rate in 25 years the total would be $20,000,000, a sum that should be taken account of. An effort has been made to arrive at the present consumption of coin by manufacturers, jewelers, dentists and others in the industrial arts. Inquiries have been addressed to about 45,000 firms and individuals, and replies have been received from 70 per cent of them. The returns indicate a total consumption of about $3,500,000 in coin per year. Prior to 1893 the bureau's estimate was never less than this amount, but from 1893 it has been placed at $1,500,000. The reduction seems to have been an error. An additional allowance of $2,000,000 per year for seven years would require correction of $14,000,000.

"Mr. Muhleman of the New York subtreasury has been a diligent student of the subject for years and is of opinion that, owing chiefly to errors made prior to 1885, the estimte has been too large by perhaps $100,000,000.

"The inquiry as to the exact stock is of value for statistical and comparative purposes, not for the purpose of determining whether or not the country has gold enough. A country on the gold basis gets the share of the world's gold which its proportion of the world's business brings to it. That share is controlled by the laws of trade, not by governmental regulation. An inquiry into the share which each country holds is like an inquiry as to how much of a man's blood is in his right arm. It may be depended upon that the amount is what the requirements of that member demand. Our great gain in gold in recent years has come because we could use it, and our position in the world's trade has enabled us to command it."

Killed by His Friend.

NORFOLK, Aug. 4.—Charles J. Cannon, a prominent citizen and local politician and also state oyster inspector for this district, was shot and killed on the street by First Assistant Chief of Police M. H. Prince shortly before noon yesterday. No cause for the deed is assigned by Captain Prince or his friends, and the killing is a mystery. The two men were thought to be the closest of friends both socially and politically, Mr. Cannon having been one of Prince's chief workers in the latter's recent canvass for the position of chief of police.

EMMANUEL'S PROCLAMATION.

Italy's New King Issues a Touching Address.

MONZA, Aug. 4.—King Victor Emmanuel III has addressed the following proclamation to the Italian people:

"The second king of Italy is dead. Escaping, thanks to his valor as a soldier, the danger of battle, and departing unharmed, thanks to Providence, from the risks he confronted so courageously to end public calamities, this good and virtuous king fell a victim to atrocious crime while, with easy conscience and without fear of danger, he was participating in the joys of his people in their fetes.

"It was not permitted to me to be present at the last breath of my father, but I understand my first duty to be to follow the counsels he left me and to imitate the virtues of the king and first citizen of Italy.

"In this moment of profound sadness I have to aid me the strength which comes from the examples of my august father and of that great king who deserves to be called the 'father of his country.' I have also as a support the strength which comes from the love and devotion of the Italian people for the king whom they venerated and weep for.

"There remain to us the institutions which he loyally preserved and which he attempted to render permanent during the 21 years of his reign. These institutions are given to me as the sacred traditions of my house, and the warm love which Italians have for them, protected with a firm and energetic hand from assault or any violence from whatever source it comes, assures me. I am certain of the prosperity and grandeur of the country. It was the glory of my grandfather to have given Italy its unity and independence. It was the glory of my father to have jealously guarded this unity and this independence to the end.

"My reign shall be outlined by these imperishable remembrances. May God aid me and may the love of my people fortify me, so that I may consecrate all my cares as a king to the guardianship of liberty and the defense of the monarchy, united by indissoluble bonds for the supreme interests of the country.

"Italians, render your tribute of tears and honors to the sacred memory of Humbert of Savoy. You, in the bitter sorrow which has struck my house, have shown that you consider this sorrow as though it were that of each individual among you.

"This solidity of thought and affection will always be the most certain bulwark of my reign and the best guarantee of the unity of the country, which unites in the august name of intangible Rome, symbol of grandeur and pledge of integrity for Italy. Such are my hopes, such is my ambition as citizen and as king."

The municipality of Monza has purchased the ground on which the crime was committed in order to erect a monument or a charitable institution.

President Returns to Canton.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—President McKinley left the city last evening on his return to Canton to resume his vacation. Accompanying him were Hon. Charles G. Dawes, the comptroller of the currency, and Secretary Cortelyou. The party occupied the private car Grassmere, which was attached to the regular evening express on the Pennsylvania railroad leaving here at 7:45. Secretaries Root and Wilson, Postmaster General Smith and General Corbin were at the station to say goodby. They went aboard the train with the chief executive and remained until it started, each having to jump off while the train was moving. The president came to the station with Mr. Dawes. There were the usual number of persons around, and the usual guard of police officers and detectives were on hand to see that nothing befell the president.

Hoyt Will Ask For Guardian.

CHARLESTOWN, N. H., Aug. 4.—In all probability Mr. Charles H. Hoyt, the playwright, whose commitment to a retreat in Hartford was revoked by Judge Freeman last Tuesday through the intercession of George H. Dickinson of Atlanta and others of his intimate friends, will today apply to Judge Tenney for the appointment of a business agent or guardian. It is further probable that he will respectfully suggest the name of Hon. James O. Lyford of Concord, N. H., for the position, and this appointment would meet with the unqualified approval of all who are interested in Mr. Hoyt's behalf.

Peacemaker Badly Hurt.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 4.—As a result of a blow in the right side of the neck Walter D. Tyler, a prominent citizen of this city, lies unconscious in the city hospital. The blow was struck by Loveland Miller, Jr., son of Loveland Miller, a merchant, at 1:30 yesterday morning. The affair occurred in the heart of the city. Tyler's condition is critical, and doctors fear he cannot recover. Miller's brother was fighting with another man, and Tyler attempted to separate them. Miller turned on him and struck him a staggering blow.

ANARCHY'S HOTBED.

King Haters Plotted Bloody Deeds In Paterson, N. J.

MALATESTA THE ARCH CONSPIRATOR

Maddened Italian Tells of a Meeting Where the Plan to Kill the Crowned Heads of Europe Was Concocted.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—There is a chance that hate will reveal much to the authorities relative to the alleged plotting of the anarchists at Paterson to kill the crowned heads of Europe. Last night in a saloon in Straight street an Italian whose name does not appear to be known to the proprietor of the place, although it may be and he will not disclose it, said he knew of a meeting held in the city early in May which he intended to inform the authorities of. The story he told was:

"The Group of Existence held a meeting about the first of May, and after the others had departed the leaders held a long secret session. Those present were Bresci, Quintavalli, Graisoni and Alphonso Blanidies, Esteve and Widmar, the editor of the paper issued by the group, and one or two others whom I may not reveal or may as circumstances occur. These men talked over a trip which Bresci, Quintavalli, Graisoni (Lanza) and some others were to take. The meeting was held to read a letter from Count Malatesta. There were also letters from Genoa and Paris. Quintavalli left Paterson after the meeting, which ended early in the morning. Bresci also left, but came back on May 12 and collected his money at the silk mill.

"Malatesta is the man who led in all these things. His is a great mind. The others are weak. When he left Paterson, he left Widmar and Esteve, neither of whom are Italians, in charge, and they have kept up the flame all the time and induced Italians to keep alive the fiery teachings of Malatesta. I know these things well and have a reason for telling all. I hate Esteve, and I would like to see him suffer."

When Esteve and Widmar were told of this boast of an Italian, they seemed worried and surprised. They talked together in Italian, and then Esteve said that the whole tale was false. He said neither he nor Widmar knew Bresci was going to Italy. They had never talked with Bresci about murder. They had talked with him many times over how to spread the teachings of anarchy through the United States.

"The man who says these things lies. There was no such meeting. He says he hates me. He must to tell such lies about me."

Enrico Malatesta claims to be a count and a member of the great family which has long been prominent in Rome. This is not true. He is of respectable but not noble origin. He was born in a small village near Naples about 50 years ago. His only brother is a reputable physician now practicing his profession in Egypt. The brothers keep up only an occasional correspondence. They have nothing in common.

Enrico's early education was gained in the parochial schools conducted by the Jesuits. Later he was graduated from the University of Naples. Naturally he is well educated. His appearance is not attractive. He is short in stature, his complexion is swarthy, his face is pitted with the smallpox and set in a framework of dark, coarse, greasy hair and beard. His aquiline nose is his most prominent feature. A stranger would probably guess that he was a sailor.

Malatesta first sailed to Tunis; then he went to London, where he was rapturously welcomed by his old time acquaintances. He was supplied with funds for a tour in the United States and arrived in New York in September, 1899. He repaired at once to Paterson, where an even more cordial welcome was extended to him.

Pietro Esteve, a Spaniard from Barcelona, who had known him in Europe, invited him to his house, where he remained during his stay in Paterson. His first lecture was delievered in Paterson a few days after his arrival and drew large crowds.

Shortly afterward Malatesta started on a lecturing tour to the centers of anarchy. The fourth lecture of the series was given in Hoboken. The hall was crowded with anarchists and socialists, among them Esteve, Guabello, Cravello and Bresci.

At a certain point in the oration one Pazzaglia raised a voice of protest. There was a war of words. Pazzaglia lost his temper, insulted Malatesta and invited him to leave the hall and settle the matter outside. Malatesta in a passion was on the point of descending from the platform when Pazzaglia drew a revolver and shot him in the thigh.

Bresci threw himself upon the would be assassin and disarmed him. It was this act which won for Bresci the friendship of his leader, who looked upon him as the savior of his life, Malatesta himself being unarmed at the time.

Gaetano Bresci now became an important member of the anarchistic circle. He never missed a meeting.

Before Malatesta's departure for London last April it had been determined that the society should strike a telling blow. But the opportune moment had not yet arrived. Malatesta consulted with his fellow conspirators abroad, and it was evidently agreed that the Italian monarch should be the victim. A cable was sent over from London, "The opportune moment has arrived." Funds were raised at once, and Bresci, Quintavalle and Sasso were dispatched on their murderous errand.

Would Like Tariff Facts.

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—The Deutsche Tageszeitung urges the government to publish the terms of the recent tariff agreement between the United States and Germany, claiming that Germany was severely beaten by the United States and that the German foreign office is afraid to let the German public know the facts of the situation.

Against Young Lawyers.

For years it has been the custom of the Court of Chancery to issue commissions of Masters in Chancery not only to counselors but to all attorneys who appeared before the court with a good recommendation from a counselor. As a consequence there are a great many Masters in Chancery scattered throughout the State. By a new rule which Chancellor Magie has decided to make their number will be gradually reduced in the future, however.

Yesterday the Chancellor announced that, except under special circumstances, only counselors will be eligible for appointment as Masters in Chancery. The Chancellor gives several reasons for his course, chief among which is that many of those admitted as attorneys do not follow the legal profession for any length of time, and as a consequence there are hundreds of Masters in Chancery who, while members of the bar, are regularly engaged in other pursuits. This the Chancellor does not deem to be to the best interests of the court.

Before issuing a commission he wishes to be satisfied that the recipient expects to continue the practice of law.

There is no dearth of Masters in New Jersey, the number running up into the thousands, and as a consequence the Chancellor feels that there is really no need for any more. The only instance in which the Chancellor proposes to make exceptions are in cases where attorneys intend to practice in small communities where there are no Masters.

Smith for Bryan.

Ever since the Kansas City convention, and even before that, New Jersey people have been wondering what attitude former United States Senator James Smith would take in this campaign. Some word to indicate whether or not he was in favor of the Democratic ticket has been anxiously looked for, but continued silence from this prominent Democrat of the past has led to many conjectures as to what real position he occupied now. Democrats were a little worried, and, of course, the Republicans were serenely happy in the silence of Mr. Smith.

Today the political atmosphere around former Senator Smith is clarified by the announcement that he is in favor of the election of Bryan and Stevenson. Mr. Smith is stopping at Saratoga at present, and from that resort last night the following statement from the Jerseyman was sent forth:

"You may say for me that I never have voted any other than the Democratic ticket and that I shall never vote any but the Democratic ticket. I am loyal this year, as I have always been, but because of poor health. I am out of active politics."

The recent big fire in Hoboken has tended to bring out some wonderful information about the New York harbor and its surroundings by way of England. The Sphere, an illustrated London paper, prints a story of the fire, accompanied by an elaborate drawing of a birdseye view of New York. Prominent in the sketch is four bridges over the East river and two over the North river, connecting Manhattan with Brooklyn and New Jersey respectively. If the London weekly is to be believed, the people of this section of the world must be afflicted very seriously with astigmatism.

We suppose that it is his desire to see the borough government administered with all the economy that is possible that impelled Mayor Smalley to oppose the idea of allowing the borough marshals a vacation at this time of the year. The attitude of the Mayor surprises us, however. He has the reputation of being a liberal-minded and genial fellow, and as such we do not understand why he should desire to deprive the minions of the law of the recreation and rest that a week's vacation would give them. Every man should have a vacation at least once a year.

To incur the ire of Founder Bradley by appearing too decolette in bathing costume on the beach is not the only danger that one is liable to encounter now in disporting themselves in the ocean at Asbury Park. The other and newest risk is to have a particularly heavy wave roll up and swat you in the back with such force as to dislocate your spine. That's what happened to a Boston woman who was in bathing yesterday.

The Mormon faith will not die out for apparent lack of effort. That denomination has at present 1,623 young men employed as missionaries in America and Europe. Their greatest successes are in the slums of large cities. They claim over 22,000 new converts gained for their church the last year, and prophesy that within a few years they shall control the entire west.

Former Governor George T. Werts, former Senator W. D. Edwards, Senator Allan McDermott, Alexander C. Young and Judge Otto Crouse are all mentioned as possible successors to the late Congressman Daly. Robert Davis, as the man behind the political guns, will undoubtedly decide that question as he does every other one of importance in Hudson county.

The testimony given in the now famous Pangborn-Allen case reads like a book of fiction rather than testimony that is to obtain serious consideration in a high court to determine the final disposition of a large fortune.

Every hotly contested election in New Jersey is called a race, but in the South it always seems to be a race war.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The opposition telephone company is erecting its poles and wires between this city and Stelton, on the road to Metuchen. We wonder how it will get through New Brunswick, where the friends of the monopoly company are so numerous.—New Brunswick Home News.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The local exchange of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company is considerably bothered at this season of the year by people who go away on their summer vacations and forget to notify the telephone exchange of their departure. The result is that after sundry attempts to get an answer, the central operator reports the line as out of order and a repairman is sent to the house to find out the trouble. He finds the house closed. There are many of the local subscribers who remember to notify the central office when they go away but the thoughtless ones would save a great deal of trouble if they would only do likewise.

Most people do not realize to what a great extent the style on collars has changed in the last year. This change has been so radical that the enterprising laundrymen have been compelled to get new kind of machinery to handle the new style properly. A few years ago it was only the old men or those with an extremely short neck who wore turndown collars. There were a quantity made but in a few standard styles. Now there are very few, comparatively speaking, who wear standup collars. H. W. Marshall, who is one of Plainfield's up-to-date laundryman, told a Press reporter the other day some facts concerning this change. It is just as noticeable here in Plainfield today as it is in any city. For every one standup collar that comes to his laundry, there are at least ten turndown collars of all varieties and styles. Mr. Marshall has put in a new machine for turning over and ironing these collars. They were formerly ironed between two rollers which played havoc with the edge and soon caused it to give way. The new machine does the work better and without injury to the collar.

Gentlemen:—I must say in regard to GRAIN-O that there is nothing better or healthier. We have used it for years. My brother was a great coffee drinker. He was taken sick and the docter said coffee was the cause of it, and told us to use GRAIN-O. We got a package but did not like it at first, but now would not be without it. My brother has been well ever since we started to use it.

DUNELLEN

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, Aug. 4.—The victim of fires and accidents, Charles Vail, was removed to his home in Valley Station on the 1:10 train yesterday afternoon. He was accompanied by his friend, M. B. Smalley, of the borough, who was with him the night he fell from the trolley car. As yet the unfortunate man is unaware of his recent heavy loss. In his present condition the shock would probably prove fatal to him. He has been steadily improving the past few days but a complete restoration will, if ever, take many weary months.

While running in the hallway at his home yesterday afternoon Elston Lowrie tripped on a shoe lace and fell. His forehead struck on the sharp edge of a chair, inflicting a deep gash. Dr. Brakeley made the injured lad comfortable.

Scotch Plains, August 4—The writ of attachment in the suit of Costando against Clynes, which was issued on Thursday by Judge Clark, was squashed yesterday, Clynes making affidavit before the court that he was not the owner of the goods and chattels levied upon. Judge Clark notified Constable Taynor to release the goods at once. This release will enable Clynes to resume the work upon his contract of making the improvements about the Central Railroad property at the Fanwood station.

The trustees of the Baptist church have decided to omit the usual Sunday evening preaching service during August. The text chosen by Rev. G. M. Shott for his Sunday morning sermon is "The Power of Testimony." The B. Y. P. U. meetings will be held as usual in the church parlors.

it was a foolish move. However, he stated it was for the Council to decide the matter, and their pleasure would be his. The Council voted unanimously to give the marshals vacations.

Mr. Rogers offered a resolution confirming the action of the collector in paying $350, that being the interest for six months on the Watchung avenue bonds due August 1st. He also offered a resolution which provided for the borrowing of $1,000 for four months.

Mr. Clark stated that he had been unable to effect a proper adjustment of affairs over the proposed macadamizing of the extension of Willow avenue, as the property-owners have shown no disposition to pay their proportionate share. It was therefore declared off for the present.

In connection with this Editor Webb, of the North Plainfield Review, asked if the proposed plans could not be transferred to Westervelt avenue, where macadam is sadly needed at the upper end. In reply to this Mayor Smalley stated that the Council had been waiting for the property owners to make a move. Mr. Webb replied that he understood that it was "up to the Mayor" as he was to arrange for the finishing touches. The discussion finally came to an end after His Honor told Mr. Webb not to be discouraged as the Council would likely consider the proposition favorably.

It was decided before the meeting adjourned that another meeting should be held next Wednesday night to examine the books of Assessor French. At that meeting an adjournment will be taken to Friday evening, August 17th, when the Somerset street widening will be taken up. The meeting then adjourned.

THIN COSTUMES.

Light Silks and Delicate Materials In Most Demand.

Waists of light or white silk made in a comparatively simple style are greatly worn. All tones of white and grays of delicate shades, like pearl and putty tints, are in high favor.

Printed lawns and gowns of dark muslin having dots or figures are seen in large numbers. They are preferably made over silk, but if that is found to be too expensive plain lawn or percaline will answer the purpose very well, and there are an equal number of pleasing shades of color to be obtained in these less costly materials.

Silk ginghams are immensely used for shirt waists. They are plain or striped in various ways and often have a little broche figure. The thread is white one way in the usual gingham style, and this gives, with the gloss of the intermixed silk thread, a glace effect strongly resembling glace taffeta.

The cut illustrates a costume of pastel red foulard with a black printed design. The skirt is trimmed with bands of black satin, two of which pass around the hips, while others cross them vertically and terminate under ornamental buttons. The bodice is fitted at the back, while in front it opens over a chemisette of ecru guipure, the trimming consisting of black satin bands and buttons arranged to match those on the skirt. The top of the sleeves is of the foulard, the remainder being of guipure. The collar and belt are of black satin, the latter tying at the side. The toque of red tulle is trimmed with a large tulle chou in front and a curved white feather speckled with black.

ACCESSORIES.

Decorations For Silk and Other Summer Bodices.

Jeweled buttons are used for adorning the cuffs and front plait of the most elegant silk shirt waists. A finely plaited jabot is often an accessory. The jabot proper is placed at the edge of the front and is made very full and fluffy. The collar and front are always much decorated, sometimes by a voluminous bow formed by a cravat of the same material as the bodice itself and trimmed with lace, sometimes by a cravat all of lace, the ends falling to the waist. Scotch plaid cravats are also seen and are especially favored for young girls.

Scarfs of crepe de chine incrusted with lace are among the most attractive of such accessories.

White kid belts have long been worn. A new idea is to decorate them with a painted design of flowers.

A wide empire belt is a novelty for use with the full silk or lawn waist.

The picture illustrates a costume of red etamine made over red silk. The skirt is shirred around the hips so that the shirring forms a deep yoke, the lower part hanging free. The full bodice is also shirred above the waist and has a yoke of guipure over white satin. A ruffle of guipure encircles the yoke and closes under a chou of black tulle with a coquille end, placed at the left side. The sleeves, which are of elbow length, are shirred and terminate in a deep ruffle. The belt is of black tulle with long ends at the back.

SUNBURN AND FRECKLES.

Soothing Lotions and Remedies for These Summer Time Annoyances.

Both of these affections are caused by the action of the sun's rays, but why one person tans while another freckles is not easy of explanation. Both affections are said to be caused chiefly by the chemical or ultra-violet rays, but in the case of sunburn it is probable that the heat also has some effect, says Youth's Companion.

The tan may come gradually, without any burn, after a succession of slight and brief exposures to the sun or to high winds—for wind will tan as well as sunshine. Usually, however, the city-dweller gets well burned during the first few days of his vacation in the country or on the water.

In severe cases the skin is red, sightly swollen, and the seat of a sharp, burning sensation; if the exposure has been prolonged, or the glare of the sun very intense, it may even be blistered. After a few days the soreness and heat subside, and the red color gradually turns to brown.

If the burn is pretty severe, cooling lotions, such as alcohol and water, diluted cologne water, a solution of bicarbonate of soda, or lead water, may be applied, or the skin may be smeared with cold cream, camphor ice, zinc ointment, or a mixture of lime-water and oil. Some such application as this, the sufferer being careful to keep out of the sun for a day or two, will usually suffice.

If blisters form, they should be pricked with a clean needle at the most dependent part, and when the water has drained away they should be covered with a cloth spread with one of the greasy applications just mentioned.

Freckles occur usually on persons of a sandy complexion, especially those with red hair. They are not common in very young children, under six or eight years of age, or in persons of middle or advanced life. They usually come for the first time in summer, and are less marked, or even disappear, in winter. Persons who freckle do not tan, as a rule.

Freckles, like sunburn, may be prevented by the wearing of a veil, preferably red or brown. Medical books sometimes speak of removing freckles by electricity, or by touching each one with a drop of carbolic acid on a glass rod, but such severe remedies are worse than the disease. The spots will fade out more or less completely in the winter, and will disappear wholly in time. In any case they are not particularly disfiguring.

DEPEW IMITATES TWAIN.

Tries to Make Game of a Philadelphia Cabman During the Convention.

In his "Innocents Abroad" Mark Twain tells how he and his party disgusted their guide by pretending ignorance of persons and events familiar to every schoolboy. When visiting the tomb of Adam the American humorist paralyzed the guide by asking: "Is he dead?" Chauncey M. Depew has been trying much the same plan upon the Philadelphia cabmen. He stepped into the cabby's vehicle the other day and said:

"Now, I want to see the sights of the city. Take me anywhere and show me the show places of the town."

The cabby touched his hat and drove to Independence hall.

"This," said he to the senator, "is Independence hall."

"What's that?" demanded Dr. Depew. The cabman nearly fell off his seat as he explained:

"That's where the continental congress met."

He drove on, evidently much disgusted, until by and by he came to a house, and, turning round, he said:

"That's the house in which Jefferson signed the declaration of independence."

"Who was Jefferson?" demanded Senator Depew, blandly.

"Well, I'm dummed!" ejaculated the cabman, and that was his only answer. He whipped up his horse and headed for the nearest monument. "There," said he, with emphasis, "is where Benjamin Franklin is buried."

"Ben Franklin!" said Depew. "I thought he was a Boston man."

"Get up, go along there!" shouted the driver, and he licked his horses. On and on out into the country they went, the driver swinging his whip. At last he turned once more and fairly snorted:

"Say, mister, here's something you may know something about. That's John Wanamaker's house."

"Oh!" said Senator Depew, and that was all the sights that he could get the driver to show him.

Orange Sponge.

Put a pint packet of orange jelly into a basin and cover it with rather less than the required quantity of hot water. When it has melted add the juice of an orange and a squeeze of lemon juice and put the jelly in a cool place until it is just beginning to set; then whisk it until it is quite frothy. Add a pinch of salt to the whites of two eggs and beat them up to a firm froth; stir them into the half-set jelly and whisk together until the mixture is quite spongy. Rinse a mold with water, fill it with the orange sponge and leave it until it is set; turn it carefully out of the mold and scatter some very finely chopped or grated lemon peel over it.—Washington Star.

Summer Girl's Trinkets.

Enameled jewelry has been revived again, but its present popularity lies in the fact of its having reached the high-water degree of excellence. Belt buckles come in the oval and oblong shapes, varying in size from two to four inches. The oval pattern seems to lead in popularity.—Detroit Free Press.

Rise and Fall of Guano Industry in AMERICA

It Gave the United States a Large Number of Islands in the Pacific and the Caribbean Sea

THE trade in guano is rapidly disappearing from American commerce. Once an important import into this country, from the islands of the Caribbean sea and the Pacific ocean, with millions of dollars devoted to its gathering and transportation to the United States, the trade in guano has fallen to practically nothing. But as it gave to America a large number of small islands both in the Pacific and the Caribbean sea, a history of the rise and decline of the industry is not without interest.

Alexander von Humboldt, returning from his extended travels in tropical America in 1804, carried to Europe some samples of bird dung, or guano, and first called attention to the value of the extensive deposits of this substance on the Chincha islands, off the coast of Peru. The announcement excited little interest at the time, but its importance was realized 40 years later, when guano revolutionized methods in agriculture and furnished a new source of revenue for corporations, and even nations, chief among the latter being Peru, which for several years depended largely on the income from the Chincha island deposits to pay the interest on her national debt. In the early fifties guano became the subject of diplomatic correspondence between the United States and Peru and Venezuela; but the negotiations failing to secure the desired reduction in price of Peruvian guano, deposits were sought elsewhere. Finally, congress was induced to take action, which resulted in the taking possession by private persons under the protection of the United States of a number of small guano islands in the West Indies and in the South Pacific.

The importance of guano as a fertilizer was recognized by the Peruvians more than three centuries ago. Under the Incas it was held in such high esteem that the deposits on the Chincha islands were jealously guarded, and the birds which resorted to these rocks were carefully protected. Indeed, it is said that the penalty of death was inflicted on anyone killing the birds near the deposits during the breeding season. Guano was the first of the artificial manures to be used in large quantities, and hence may be said to have brought about the modern system of intensive cultivation. The earliest experiments with it in the United States seem to have been made in December, 1824, with samples from two barrels distributed by Hon. John S. Skinner, editor of the American Farmer. Its introduction into England in 1840 was due to Lord Derby. So rapidly did it increase in favor that ten years later the imports amounted to 200,000 tons. It is estimated that this total has since grown to more than 5,000,000 tons. At the inception of the export trade in guano from the Chincha islands, about 1840, the supply seemed inexhaustible.

The extraordinary demand caused a rapid increase in the price. By 1850 it had advanced in the United States to $50 or more per ton, and negotiations were opened with the Peruvian government in the hope of securing a reduction in the rate. Failing to attain the object in this way, American enterprise began to seek guano elsewhere, and in 1854 the deposits on the Aves islands, in the West Indies, were taken possession of by a Boston firm. Venezuela promptly seized the islands, but after some correspondence abandoned her claim. Meantime, in September, 1855, the American Guano company of New York was organized, with a capital of $10,000,000, for the purpose of developing the deposits on Baker and Jarvis islands, in the South Pacific; and on August 18, 1856, congress passed an "act to authorize protection to be given to citizens of the United States who may discover guano," under which any citizen of the United States was authorized to take possession of and occupy any unclaimed island, rock or key containing guano, upon filing notice of such claim and a bond to insure compliance with the requirements of the law. The discoverers of such islands were entitled to exclusive rights to the deposits thereon, but the guano could only be removed for the use of citizens of the United States and at a ton alongside the vessel, or four dollars per ton on the spot. Imports were price not exceeding eight dollars per subject to the laws governing the coasting trade of the United States, and the government was relieved from the necessity of protecting or retaining possession of any island, rock or key after the guano had been removed. Thus far, claims have been filed to about 75 islands in the Caribbean sea and the South Pacific.

PACIFIC ISLANDS.

America, Anne, Baker, or New Nantucket, Barber, Barren, or Starve, Bauman, Birnie, Caroline, Christmas, Clarence, Dangerous, Dangers Rock, David, Duke of York, Enderbury (Phoenix group), Farmer, Favorite, Flint, Flints, Frances, Frienhaven, Gallego, Ganges, Gardner (Phoenix group), Gronique, Howland, or Nowland), Humphrey, Jarvis, Johnston, Kemn, Lideron, Low, McKean (Phoenix group), Mackin, Malden, Mary Letitia, Mary, Mathew, Nassau, Palmyra, Penrhyn, Pescado, Phoenix, Prospect, Quiros, Reirson, Rogewein, Samarang, Sarah Anne, Sidney (Phoenix group), Starbuck, or Hero, Staver, Walker, Washington, or Uahuga, WEST INDIES.

Anchor Key, Aves, Booby Key, Great and Little Swan, Morant Keys (Northeast, Sand, Savanna, Seal), Navassa, North Keys, North Rocks, Pedro Keys, Petrel, Quito Sereno, Roncador, Serrana Key, Serranilla Keys (East, Middle, Beacon), Triangle Keys.

Fifty-four of these islands are in the Pacific ocean, the remainder in the Caribbean sea or the Gulf of Mexico. Of the Pacific islands, Baker and Jarvis were bonded in 1856, Howland in 1858, Barren, Christmas, Enderbury, Johnston, McKean, Malden and Phoenix in 1859, and the others in 1860. The Pacific islands are situated between longitude 150 degrees and 178 degrees west, the most northern being the Johnston islands, latitude 16 degrees 53 minutes north; the most southern, Bauman, latitude 11 degrees 48 minutes south. Most of them are between the Society and Hawaiian islands, and are chiefly small coral reefs, a mile or two in length, almost entirely destitute of vegetation. One of the most northern guano deposits, which has been successfully developed, is that on Laysan, a small island three miles long by 2½ broad, in latitude 26 degrees, which has recently been acquired through the annexation of Hawaii.

ALBATROSSES ON LAYSON ISLAND, H. I.

As would naturally be supposed, the extent and value of some of the deposits were at first greatly exaggerated, while others proved to have little value, and, as in the case of the Alacran rocks, in the Caribbean sea, were afterward abandoned. In an interesting article on the Pacific guano islands, Hague, who had visited a number of them, states that the first cargoes of guano brought from the Johnston islands proved to be sand, that samples of guano from Christmas island were chiefly coral sand, and that the deposits on Starbuck, or Hero, consisted of hydrated sulphate of lime. Some of the islands are covered with vegetation, and hence unsuited for the deposition of guano, while others, such as David, Farmer, Favorite, Flint, Samarang, Sarah Anne and Walker, Hague considered as probably nonexistant, at least in the positions usually assigned them on charts. Still, during the 30 years from 1869 to 1898, 283,871 tons of guano, valued at $3,229,832, were brought from the islands appertaining to the United States. The production was very irregular, varying from a minimum in 1890 of 1,176 tons, worth $9,577, to a maximum in 1878 of 17,930 tons, valued at $211,239.

Besides the guano deposits belonging to the United States, there are others in various parts of the world, among which may be mentioned those along the coast of lower California, on the Galapagos, and, the most important of all, the Chincha islands in latitude 13 degrees 38 minutes south, Guanape, Lobos and others belonging to Peru. Valuable deposits have been found along the coasts of Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador and Bolivia. Guano has also been obtained from Shark bay and Swan island, Australia; Algoa bay and Saldanha bay, Cape Colony; Ascension and Ichaboe islands, off the west coast of Africa, and Kuria Muria, on the Arabian coast. Some of the best deposits have now been exhausted; those which remain are expensive compared with the better artificial fertilizers now in use; but a small amount of guano is still brought from some of the islands and imported from abroad, a reminder of the important trade of 40 or 50 years ago.

ORIGIN OF OSCULATION.

Kissing Is Quite a Modern Practice and Was Unknown to the Ancients.

According to Prof. Cesare Lombroso, the distinguished Italian criminologist, kissing is quite a modern practice and originated in a very curious manner, says the New York Herald. The kiss, as a token of affection, was unknown to the old Greeks, and neither in Homer nor in Heriod do we find any mention of it. Hector did not kiss his Andromache when he bade her farewell, neither did Paris press his lips to those of the beauteous Helen, and Ulysses, who was more of a cosmopolitan than any man of his day, never dreamed of kissing the enchanting Circe, and when after long wanderings he returned home to his spouse, Penelope, he satisfied himself with putting one of his stalwart arms around her waist and drawing her to him.

If the people of Terra del Fuego, says Lombroso, have taught civilized nations the origin of the delightful art of kissing. Drinking vessels are unknown in that country, and the people, when thirsty, simply lie down beside brooks and drink the water as it flows by them. It is evident, however, that infants could not satisfy their thirst in this primitive fashion, and therefore their mothers have for ages supplied them with water by filling their own mouths first and then letting it pass through their lips into the expectant mouths of their little ones. In some places the banks of the brooks and rivers are so high that water cannot be obtained in the usual manner, and the mothers in such places draw it up through long reeds.

Birds feed their young ones in a similar manner. They first fill their own mouths with water and then transfer it to the wide open mouths of the little ones. This very ancient maternal practice is, according to Lombroso, the only source to which the modern practice of kissing can be traced. The custom of pressing one mouth to another originated with the women in Terra del Fuego, who could only supply their infants with drink in this manner, and it is presumable that they learned the lesson from the birds. Finally, we are told that kissing is an evidence of atavism and a memorial of that early stage in our development "during which the wife had not yet triumphed over the mother nor love over maternity."

Lombroso's views on this subject meet with the general approval of scientists, though there are some who point out that his explanation of the origin of kissing is not in accordance with the one handed down to us by the old Romans. These latter maintained that the kiss was invented by husbands, who desired to ascertain in this way whether during their absence from home their wives had been drinking their wine or not.

STORY OF A STRING OF FISH.

Odd Mistake Made by a Fisherman Who Was Hit by a Fish's Tail.

This is a story of a string of fish and what came of a fisherman's odd mistake. With his string of "sea food" dangling from his left shoulder and his fishing "tackle" under his arms or in his hands the fisherman, accompanied by a companion disciple of Isaac Walton, was returning cityward over the Randolph street viaduct at sundown, to a close, relates the Chicago Chronicle. Behind the pair by only a few feet was a young sailor just come ashore. Whether it was that the tar had not yet found his "land legs" or whether he had found one of the bumboats on which fire water is sold on the lake front he certainly showed in his style of movement a peculiarly devious gyration that exposed him to suspicion from all observers.

It so happened that one of the fish in the great long dangling string was still alive and occasionally gave a swirl with its tail that imparted a "jumping" effect to the little body. This seeming jump on one or two occasions became so energetic that the frightened fisherman mistook it for a thump. Glancing back he thought he saw the gyrating wayfarer cower with fear. That was enough. He struck out from the shoulder. Before the blow of the fisherman's strenuous fist the wabbling tar went down in a heap. Ere yet more harm could be done a citizen who had noticed the jumping fish and accurately diagnosed the fisherman's impression came forward with the explanation that the lash of the piscatorial tail and body upon the fisherman's back was wrongfully supposed by the latter to be a blow from the fist of the drunken sailor.

Apologies followed, and as the tar had been sobered rather than injured by the collision with the fisherman's fist, the last seen of the two they were strolling off arm in arm toward a neighboring "bouffet."

Saved by a Pair of Spectacles.

A writer in a contemporary describes the escape from injury of a workman engaged in a foundry in this city. While preparing for a casting he was shot on the leg by a splash of the liquid metal. It went clean through his trousers and through the wall of the strong leather spectacle case, which he carried in his trouser pocket. But the broad nose bridge of the spectacle frame checked it in its progress. The intruding metal, yet unhardened, dashed against this part of the frame, nearly enveloping it, and attaching itself with as much neatness and stability as if it were the handiwork of a skilled craftsman. Had the spectacles not been in his pocket the molten metal would assuredly have penetrated their owner's thigh.—Westminster Budget.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE ABROAD

Semi-Newsy Items of Interest Gathered by Foreign Correspondents

Switzerland Wants to Join America. The smaller countries of Europe have become infatuated with the idea of American expansion. Switzerland has taken hold of the idea so strongly that the public press of the country is really agitating the subject of the annexation of Switzerland to the United States of America.

According to the Swiss press, the protective tariffs of European countries exclude the products of Switzerland, whose industries find support only in free trade England. The proposition, mooted in some quarters, to create a tariff union between Great Britain and her colonies is regarded with apprehension. Such action, it is said, would involve Switzerland in industrial ruin. Statesmen are inclined to seek for an alliance of Switzerland with some foreign country.

As a sample of what the press has to say on the subject I quote the following from one of the leading papers:

"In spite of dark sides which are also found there, the United States is full of the air of freedom. Switzerland would lose nothing if she should become a state of the United States of America. It is a well-known fact that the several states of the American union are much more independent than the several cantons of Switzerland, and our country, by such an alliance, would sacrifice none of her liberties. All she would have to do would be to send her representatives to Washington. Economically and politically she would gain everything.

"It remains to be seen what the Americans would say about an alliance with Switzerland. For a long time they have tried to gain a foothold in Europe. Every citizen of Switzerland who has the welfare of his country at heart should ponder this alliance.

It would really be a hard matter to convince the peasantry of Switzerland that such an alliance would be undesirable to the United States. They have become so imbued with the idea that the great powers of the world are seeking territory wherever and whenever it may be found that they believe the only thing necessary to consummate an alliance with the United States would be for them to offer their country to the Washington government, and this they are willing to do.

Foreign Shipbuilding in 1900. The recently published statistical reports on the building and launching of ships in Great Britain during the first quarter of 1900 show a general decrease when compared with last year, which had surpassed all previous years in this respect. The higher prices in coal and iron have been to a considerable extent the cause of the decrease. However, it is not expected that this condition will long continue.

The gross tonnage of ships (warships excluded) launched in Great Britain during the first three months of 1900 was 265,000 tons, of which 264,000 tons were in steamers.

As for ships (warships excluded) under construction during that period, there is also a considerable decrease noted when compared with the same quarter of 1899, but quite an increase over previous years, as the following table will show:

Year.	Steamers, Tons.	Sailing vessels, Tons.	Total, Tons.
1897	810,400	18,000	828,400
1898	1,181,000	4,000	1,185,000
1899	1,382,200	3,400	1,385,600
1900	1,249,000	11,000	1,260,000

A noted increase in the construction of large steamers is reported. Three months ago there were building only three steamers of more than 10,000 tons, while now 17 are in course of construction. There are also building four vessels of 9,000 to 10,000 tons, two of 8,000 to 9,000 tons and seven of 7,000 to 8,000 tons.

In the construction of warships a continued increase was noted. At the end of the month of March there were building:

Year.	For English acc't. Gov't wharves. Tons.	Private wharves. Tons.	Foreign acc't. Tons.	Total. Tons.
1897	133,000	121,300	810,000	335,000
1898	104,800	133,700	117,400	355,900
1899	152,800	171,800	109,000	434,000
1900	162,700	222,800	68,600	454,100

It appears that the construction for foreign account during the last three years has been decreased, while the construction for Great Britain has been considerably increased, especially at private wharves, where the British government is having more ships built than at its own wharves. The larger number of men-of-war built, however, does not cover the decrease in the number of merchantmen, but falls short about 100,000 tons, or six per cent.

As for shipbuilding in other countries, Germany takes the lead, but is followed closely by the United States.

Merchant vessels under construction during the March quarter, 1900, are noted at Lloyd's as follows.

Country.	Steamers. Tons.	Sailing vessels. Tons.	Total. Tons.
Germany	154,000	3,000	157,000
France	45,000	60,000	105,000
Holland	24,000	6,700	30,700
Italy	101,000	4,500	105,500
Norway	24,700	.....	24,700
Sweden	3,000	300	3,300
Denmark	6,600	.....	6,600
United States	111,100	4,400	115,500

Besides these, there were building in Japan 13,000 tons for European account, which is considered phenomenal.

The tonnage of the vessels being built in England at the end of March, 1900, is distributed for the greater part among the following countries:

Country	Tons.
England	967,000
English colonies	21,000
Germany	84,000
Austria	27,000
Holland	23,000
France	8,000
Norway	8,000
Japan	7,000

It is confidently expected that the new measure for increasing the German imperial fleet, which is about to become a law, will add a great impetus to shipbuilding in that empire.

Germany's Commercial Rise. Of the $18,000,000,000 worth of commerce done by all nations, England's share is 18.3 per cent., Germany's 10.8 per cent., and 9.7 per cent. falls to the United States.

Germany has built up her foreign commerce at England's expense; and the United States, which is just entering the field, is building up a great foreign trade at the expense of both.

In Australia, in Africa, in South America and in China the commercial representatives of each nation are fencing for vantage ground upon which to build safe markets for home industries.

Formerly English buyers bought manufactured goods in Germany at ridiculously cheap prices. These goods were forwarded to great merchant houses in London to be resold in foreign markets. To-day these same goods for the most part are shipped from the district of manufacture direct to the buyer in foreign countries. The middleman's profits now go to enrich the German manufacturer and laborer.

The following causes have contributed to Germany's success in competition with England:

First. German manufactured goods are cheaper and in some cases better.

Second. German merchants adapt themselves entirely to the wants of their customers. Industrial commissions have been sent out to South America, Mexico, China, Japan, South Africa, etc., to study and report upon the conditions and needs of the people in those countries.

Third. The German traveling men have a better technical knowledge of their branches and are familiar with more languages than agents of other countries. They are active, resourceful and gifted with tact, three essential things in selling goods in a foreign country.

SPORTING.

GOLF

Several changes have been made to the links of the Boltusrol Golf Club this summer which have made the course much harder. The course was formerly very wide and sliced and pulled shots were not badly punished. The course has since been narrowed so that it is necessary to play very accurately or else get into trouble. There are a number of Plainfielders included in the membership of the Boltusrol Club and they are often seen on the links. One of the rules of the club is that Sunday playing is allowed and Plainfielders are among those who take advantage of the chance to spend their Sundays on the golf links.

An interesting and friendly game of golf was played yesterday afternoon on the Park Golf Club angle between Andrew Blair and W. J. R. Thiers, of the Park Club, and W. L. Glenney and M. R. Brown, of the Hillside Club. Mr. Blair and Mr. Brown fill the position of expert for their respective club. Throughout the contest good golf was the rule, and the Park Club team defeated their opponents 4 up and 2 to play. The best play was made by Thiers who made the fifth hole in three. The Park team's total score was 80, 40 out and the same number of strokes in. The Hillside team made the 18 holes in 86, 42 out and 44 on the return.

TENNIS

The headquarters for the crack tennis players of this section at present seems to be the Westfield Club, where there are two well-kept courts and where several tournaments have already been held. A handicap tournament is now being arranged for the near future, in which a number of the Plainfield players will participate. Thomas U. Smith, who won the Fourth of July tournament there, will be the scratch man. A Roseville man and an Elizabeth player will probably start even with him. The rest of the bunch will be given various handicaps. It will make victory much harder for Smith than it was before, but he is playing a strong game and may still be able to come out on top.

ACTED LIKE BOXERS.

Charlie Wing Made the Victim of an Assault by Two Strange Men.

For some time this noon it looked as though a small sized "Boxer" war was in progress on Somerset street at Charlie Wing's laundry. Two strangers entered the laundry and in a few minutes came running out with Charle and his assistant in pursuit.

Just as the strangers reached the curb one of them turned and hurled a large bottle through the plate glass window. Pieces of glass flew in all directions and one struck Charlie's assistant in the right side, inflicting a bad cut. It was necessary to take him to a drug store to attend the wound. During the excitement the strangers disappeared and Charlie was unable to give any coherent account of how the trouble started.

MR. HERRING AN INCORPORATOR.

Plainfielder Prominently Identified With Big Safe Company.

The Herring-Hall-Marvin Safe Co. has been re-incorporated at Trenton with a capital stock of $3,300,000. The incorporators are Henry A. Tenney, of Patchogue, N. Y., Gordon McDonald, of Scarsdale, N. Y., and Frank O. Herring, of this city. The company takes over the old Herring-Hall-Marvin company, which was a New Jersey company having a capital stock of the same amount and which has been in the receivers' hands since about a year ago. Otto Bannard, Robert C. McKinney, Gilbert A. Phillips, Philip Hathaway and Henry A. Tenny were the re-organization committee which prepared the reorganization plan.

To Extend Underground System.

The Plainfield Electric Light Company has decided to extend their underground system of lighting through East Second street from Park avenue to Watchung avenue. This will provide a place for the wires that run into fire headquarters, as well as the other wires on that street. The work will be started at once.

Pussy was Killed.

A poor innocent cat unfortunately got in the way of a Somerset street trolley car yesterday morning and, of course, was killed. Yesterday afternoon the remains were still lying on Somerset street nearly opposite Mountain avenue, where the fatality occurred. The sight was a ghastly one for passersby.

LISTENED TO THE BAND.

It is Estimated That Over 5,000 People Were Crowded in North Avenue Last Night.

Each succeding band concert given by LaVere's band seems to be more popular than ever and draws a larger crowd than the preceding one. Without exaggerating there were over 5,000 people who heard the one given last night. The different members of the band never played better or were heard to a better advantage. A feature of last evening's programme was the number of popular selections and medleys given.

Hereafter Mr. LaVere proposes to make popular airs a feature of each concert. The solo last evening was given by Luther LaVere, of New York, on the trombone. His rendition of the selection "Asleep in the Deep," met with hearty applause. After considerable difficulty Mr. LaVere has been secured to play with the band for the remainder of the season. Altogether Plainfield is to be congratulated on being enabled to look forward to one of these concerts each week.

MAY LOSE APPROPRIATION.

Dilemma in Which Woodbridge Board of Education is Placed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Woodbridge, August 4.—The Board of Education of Woodbridge township is in danger of losing the State appropriation of $6,600. The schoolhouse at Carteret is not able to accommodate one-half of the children who desire to attend school. At the last school election the voters were called upon to vote for an appropriation to erect a suitable building at Carteret. The appropriation was voted down, and now the Board of Education find that under a strict construction of the law it will lose the State appropriation, unless immediate steps are taken to give better educational facilities to Carteret.

The Board has issued a statement of the facts and have notified the public of its intention to call a special election to decide this matter in the near future. The Board claims that a new schoolhouse at Carteret is necessary in order to retain the State appropriation.

Bed Bugs and Cock Roaches.

For destruction and complete riddance of Cock Roaches, Beetles, Wood and Water Bugs, Bed Bugs, Ants, Rats, Mice, etc., "Rough on Rats," though poisonous, if used with care is most effective. In fact it is the only thing that will permanently annihilate Bed Bugs and Cock Roaches. As an exterminator of Rats and Mice, "Rough on Rats" is the old reliable that never fails nor disappoints. They "don't die in the house." Is sold all around the world. Is used by all civilized nations of the earth. Is the most extensively advertised, the best know and has the largest sale of any article of its kind on the face of the globe. It gives satisfaction every time. Beware of imitations. I employ no peddlers. Have a suspicion of any dealer offering substitutes said to be as good. 15c. and 25c.

A Fresh Egg Item.

The largest egg is that of the ostrich. It weighs three pounds, and is considered equal in amount to that of twenty-four hen's eggs. This is something for the ostrich to be proud of, and it's no wonder he holds his head so high, but he hasn't yet attained to that supremacy in egg architecture as to be able to lay anything like the egg coal offered by George O. Stevens & Co. This is laid in the yards by the Lehigh Valley pullits, and is guaranteed to hatch more warmth to the cubic inch than any other in the market.

Matches and a Small Boy.

Matches in the hands of a small boy came near causing a serious conflagration at the home of Charles Chapot, of West Front street, near Grant avenue, this morning. The boy is a relative of Mr. Chapot, and is spending the summer with him. In some way he set fire to the curtains and a chair in the parlor. A merry little blaze was in progress when it was discovered. An alarm was sent in from box 83, but the fire was extinguished with a garden hose before the apparatus arrived. The loss is trifling.

A Fine Display.

The display of Delaware and Georgia peaches, muskmelons, etc., at Neuman Bros.' grocery this morning was all that could be desired by the most fastidious shopper. The display did not last long, however, a throng of customers soon purchasing the luscious fruit. Next Tuesday the firm propose having another fine display of peaches and melons.

Removing Unsightly Poles.

The removal of the old electric light poles from Park avenue today is an improvement that is hailed with delight by the residents on the avenue who are glad to see the unsightly objects go. The poles on the other streets in the business part of the city will be taken down very soon, giving an unobstructed view.

ATTACHMENT FOR FAMOUS PACER.

New York Man Wants to Seize Tewksbury's Great Horse, Lewis G.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Aug. 4—The Circuit Court has issued a writ of attachment for $25,000 against Lewis G. Tewksbury and Alexander M. Loury on the application of W. Browning Johnson, of 29 West Forty-ninth street, New York city, who says the defendants owe him $12,472.

Johnson wants to seize in payment of his claim a famous pacer, Lewis G., that belonged to Tewksbury, which is now at the Fairbairn farm near Westfield. The animal is said to be worth $15,000.

Fairbairn declares he has a bill of sale from Tewksbury for the pacer. The Sheriff says he is ready to seize the horse, but must have sufficient bends to indemnify him for his act in case a writ is brought against him by Fairbairn to recover the animal.

The Military Company.

Plainfield's military company is now almost assured. In respone to a letter from Mayor Rockfellow, requesting Colonel Gilmore to locate a company here, the latter states a vacancy will occur shortly and that he will consider Plainfield. The young men who are endeavoring to get the company here, Charles Peterson, Dan Shea and Frank Haurand, have secured the names of seventy applicants.

Excursion a Success Financially.

The excursion of the Methodist churches of Plainfield and the Congregational church, of Bound Brook, to Asbury Park, was a great success financially as well as otherwise. There was no deficit. The accounts were about even. This is accounted by the fact that a large number of people went on the excursion and the rate per ticket was reduced considerably.

One of North Plainfield's oldest and well known citizens, John Stine, died at his home on Greenbrook road yesterday at the age of 81 years. Death was caused by gangrene in the foot which developed from a kick administered by a cow some time ago. He was born in this vicinity and had resided on the present Stine farm for many years. He has never been in the best of health since the death of a favorite sister some time ago. He leaves two sisters who resided with him at the old homestead. The funeral services will be held from his late residence Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

A COMPROMISE ON OLD MINING LANDS.

Claimants to Vast Estate Near Metuchen Taken Into Stock Company.

DESCENDANTS OF DAN'L NOE

ALLEGED TITLE STRONG ENOUGH TO MAKE COMPROMISE NECESSARY.

The Tract Comprises About 4,000 Acres Laying Between Oak Tree and the Old Essex Highways, Taking in Menlo Park.

Full of interest is the story back of the announcement that a compromise has been effected whereby the threatened ejectment suits to a vast estate of valuable mining lands in the vicinity of Menlo Park, near Metuchen, will be discontinued. It dates back to the old Colonial days, and the compromise has been effected largely because of the rise in the price of copper adding to the value of the land in dispute.

The tract comprises about four thousand acres of land between Oak Tree and the old Essex highway, taking in the greater part of Menlo Park. The claimants are Mrs. A. J. Foote, of Rahway; Mrs. Phoebe Noe, her mother, and Frank Bush, the well-known comedian, together with a number of other relatives. They claim to own the land by virtue of an ancient grant from Lords Berkeley and Carteret to one Daniel Noe.

It is undisputed that title to the land in question was held by the descendants of Daniel Noe until toward the end of the eighteenth century. At that time a ninety-nine year lease was granted to an English syndicate for the purpose of mining copper near the present site of Menlo Park. The venture proved unprofitable, and although the lease was never abrogated the title to the land became clouded. The term of the lease is about ended, and to this fact is due the effort the claimants are making to get possession of the land.

Mrs. Foote, who is well supplied with genealogical facts and data relating to the Noe family, asserts that the Noes came to this country in 1676 from France. They were French Hugenots, and four brothers—Daniel, Peter, James and John. Daniel settled near the town of Metuchen, and it was from this branch of the family that Mrs. Foote descended. The grant for the tract of land claimed by Mrs. Foote and her relatives was obtained by Daniel Noe.

This tract of land was leased by Amos Noe about 1799 to an English syndicate, and under the terms of the lease the heirs were to receive an annual rental of 2,500 pounds sterling. The matter of the lease has always been a tradion of the family, although the precious document has never been seen for several generations. After the syndicate abandoned the copper mines the land was sold and resold and all of the titles eventually became clouded.

For years the site of the old copper mines has been one of the sights of the neighborhood. It is located about a mile from the former site of Thomas A. Edison's laboratory. When the price of copper made it profitable to mine it early in the present century the mines were worked to their full capacity.

By the formation of a stock company, known as the New Jersey Copper Mining Company, the compromise has been effected. The stockholders are the claimants to the estate and those who are in possession of it. A mortgage has been filed in the office of the County Clerk of Middlesex county given to Catherine A. Kelly and others by the new corporation.

Prominent in prosecuting the claim have been Mrs. Phoebe Noe and her children, Mrs. A. J. Foote and Frank Bush. Mrs. Noe was the daughter of Isaac Noe. She married Henry Gerhardt von Haberbush, but the name was shortened to plain Bush. After the death of her husband she resumed her maiden name of Noe. Recently Mrs. Foote heard that the long-lost lease was in the possession of Mrs. Cornelia Lasher, a descendant of the collateral branch of the family. An effort is being made to find her, to recover the precious paper, and it is said she is in Iowa.

New Trolley Line.

The Phillipsburg Horse Car Company started last week to lay tracks from that place toward Washington for the proposed electric railway. A large force of men are at work. It is said the line will be built around Franklin township if the officials persist in refusing consent to a right of way.

CUSSED A COP.

Then Andrew Benford Was Locked up and Now He Will Sojourn in Jail for Forty Days.

Swearing at a policeman proved a rather costly amusement for Andrew Benford, of Cottage place. Andrew had been indulging a little too freely yesterday and had to be taken to his home by friends. When the house was reached, however, he declined to go in and no amount of persuasion could induce him to enter.

When Officer Totten, who had been attracted to the scene by Benford's shouts, attempted to pacify him, he was met with a string of abuse. Totten escorted him to the station house and he appeared before Judge Runyon this morning. As Andrew had been in court only last week and had been discharged, the Judge was not inclined to be lenient and he was fined $10 or forty days. He took the latter.

HILLSIDE TEAM LEADS.

STANDING OF CLUBS IN EAST JERSEY GOLF ASSOCIATION.

The Plainfield Players Have Won Five Matches and Met With Defeat in One.

As the season progresses interest has increased in the East Jersey Golf Association competition. Of the seven teams in the struggle all have met defeat on one or more occasions, the Hillside "five", of Plainfield, at present leading with five matches won and one lost. The Newark A.C. team is holding down last place, despite the vigorous efforts of Captain Moody to get a winning combination together. The match between East Orange and Forest Hill, scheduled for Saturday, was postponed because of the death of Reginald W. Bury, of the latter team. Mr. Bury golfed regularly on the Forest Hill team during the last three seasons, was a thorough sportsman, and will be greatly missed by his associates in the Forest Hill Field Club. The official standing of the teams in the association, as issued Saturday by Secretary Arthur Hunter, is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P'c't. Won.
Hillside G. C. (Plainfield)	5	1	.833
East Orange Golf Club	4	2	.666
Elizabeth T. and C. C.	4	2	.666
Forest Hill F. C.	3	3	.500
Gren Ridge G. C.	3	3	.500

RIVER MADE IMPURE.

State Health Board Brings Action to Compel Paper Mills to Stop Pollution of Rahway River.

A suit of the State Board of Health against the Diamond Mills Paper Company of Millburn, for the alleged pollution of the Rahway River at Millburn, papers in which were filed at Trenton Saturday, is in line with the policy of that body begun over a year ago. The Board seeks to put a stop to the contamination of that steam and its tributaries which flow through Millburn and Springfield townships, and which has its headwaters in the northern section of the former place. The action has been taken upon the solicitation of the authorities of the city of Rahway, in Union county, which city obtains its water supply from the river, and the Cranford Boating Association, which has taken up the matter, because the alleged pollution is said to interfere with boating.

He was too Convival.

John Mullen, of Newark, an old G. A. R. man, came to this city Saturday to swear to his pension papers. After this was done he wandered about town and met some of the old boys. Their wanderings led him to several saloons and before long John didn't know where he was. Officer Meyers found him at Watchung avenue and Third street in a helpless condition. When arraigned before Judge Runyon this morning he pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkeness, but as he had been punished enough since Saturday sentence was suspended.

Taken Suddenly Ill.

Mrs. Henry VanName, of Elmwood place, was taken suddenly ill yesterday noon just after sitting down to dinner, and her condition was such that Dr. Hedges was summoned at once. Her illness had much the appearance of appendicitis, but the doctor was unable to determine yesterday whether it was that or not. Proper treatment brought relief. It is possible that Mrs. VanName may be detained to the house for several days.

Horses Afraid of It.

The steam roller was put to work on Park avenue last Saturday and will be used there until the work of macadamizing that avenue is completed. It scares most every horse that comes near it, and several accidents were narrowly averted Saturday.

DR. LEWIS TALKS PLAIN ABOUT CHINA.

Declares That Chinese Have Been Made Victims of too Much Wrong.

CRITICISES THE CATHOLICS.

RELIGIOUS TRUTHS REGARDED AS POLITICAL SCHEMES.

Chinamen are Afraid That They are Overpowered and Swallowed by Other Nations Under Pretence of Christianty.

Rev. Dr. Lewis preached at the Trinity Reformed church yesterday. His theme was: "The Duty of Christian Nations toward China." Among many other things, the Doctor said:

The Christian world is confronted by a strange and hitherto unknown situation. The representative Christian nations seem to be defied by the empire of China, and, while they are ostensibly at peace, their representatives in the capital of China are forbidden to communicate with them, and many Christians, both European and native, have been killed during the late troubles. These troubles are said by China to be the result of an uncontrolable mob, but there are many evidences that this mob is aided by the government. To understand such a situation and to appreciate the duty of Christian nations toward China is one of the highest and most important questions of the hour. Next to the questions of personal duty toward God, the theme of this morning demands our attention.

In point of age China outranks the world. The present empire has been in existence, and many important features of civilization have flourished in China for the last 4,500 years. It was a nation, large and strong, two thousand years before Christ was born. All the great modern empires of the world have risen and fallen, while China has perdured. It occupies at least one tenth of the habitable globe, and contains not less than one fourth of the inhabitants of the world; 400,000,000 at least.

Not less than three distinct efforts have been made to establish Christianity in China. The first was made under the missionary zeal of the early Christians of St. Thomas, who carried to that far-off empire a type of primitive Christianity untouched by the influences which later gave Roman Catholicism to Christian history. Compared with the history of China in general, this effort had brief and limited success. The second representative movement was under the Roman Catholics some centuries later. Many features of the pagan system of China were incorporated in the Catholic faith and considerable success followed; so that large claims have been made by Roman Catholics for priority of possession and supremacy in Christian circles in China. That supremacy has been much reduced in these later centuries, and Roman Catholicism is comparatively weak in China at the present time.

The period of modern missions represented by Protestant denominations begins with the present century. It is gaining considerable strength, as will be seen by some figures farther on.

Three influences have entered into the causes out of which the present situation has grown, commerce, politics and Christianity. The worst features have been connected with the purpose of certain Christian powers to absorb China, practically, if not actually. We can only understand the situation by placing ourselves in the position of the Chinaman, as far as possible, and looking at the question from his standpoint. No better view of that standpoint can be secured than the one presented by the following extract from the late edict of the Empress Dowager, in which she said:

"The various powers cast upon us looks of tigerlike voracity, hustling each other in their endeavorers to be the first to seize upon our innermost territories. They think that China, having neither money nor troops, would never venture to go to war with them. They fail to understand, however, that there are certain things which this Empire can never consent to, and that, if hardly pressed, we have no alternative but to rely upon the justice of our cause, the knowledge of which in our breasts strengthen our resolves and steels us to present a united front against our aggressors."

In the light of such words we cannot fail to see that whatever may have been the faults of China—and it is true that

"For words that are dark and tricks that are vain,
The heathen Chinee is peculiar"—

DEMOCRATS WILL FIGHT

STATE COMMITTEE PLANS FOR AN AGGRESSIVE CAMPAIGN.

Decided to Appoint an Advisory Committee—Organization to be Urged.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, August 6—The Democratic state committee decided, at a meeting here Saturday, to leave to Chairman Gourley the choice of an advisory committee and a permanent headquarters for the campaign. The South Jersey members expressed a preference of Jersey City as easier of access than Newark.

Twenty-two of the twenty five members of the committee were at the meeting. Chairman Gourley, in a brief speech, assured the members that the condition in the state was daily growing more hopeful from a Democratic standpoint.

The committee talked at length over the creation of an advistory committee, and Chairman Gourley was instructed to select such a committee at his convenience. Mr. Gourley said the committee would be appointed within ten days.

It was decided to urge all counties in the State to adopt either the system of organization in vogue in Essex county or that in Hudson county, it being believed that these systems are the most thorough and complete for getting out the full vote.

At the next meeting of the committee the subject of organization will be more fully discussed, and it is probable the committee will send out an appeal to all local organizations in the different counties and the committees.

It was the consensus of opinion at the meeting that less than one per cent. of the Gold Democrats will support McKinley.

PACER NOT SEIZED.

Sheriff Demanded an Indemnity Bond and Would Not Serve Writ When Security Was Not Given.

The attempt made by William Browning Johnson, of New York, one of the creditors of Absconder Lewis G. Tewksbury, to levy on the valuable pacer Lewis G., which belonged to Tewksbury, has failed.

Sheriff Houston, of Union county, who was given the writ of attachment issued by the Union County Circuit Court to serve on Mr. Bowne, who now has possession of the $15,000 pacer, demanded an indemnity bond or $20,000 from Johnson before he would seize the horse.

The Sheriff said he did not propose to get his fingers burned in the matter, as Bowne, who has a bill of sale from Tewksbury for the animal, threatened to bring a suit against the Sheriff if he made the attachment.

Johnson was unable to furnish the indemnity bond, so his lawyer, Berkeley C. Austen, wrote to Sheriff Houston that the game was not worth the candle, and to return the writ to him. This ends the matter.

The pacer is at Robert Fairbairn's stock farm near Garwood.

KISSED HER ON THE NOSE.

Rude Proceedings of an Elizabeth Kissing Bug.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Aug. 6—Two more kissing bug cases have turned up in this city. Miss Lottie Horworth while riding her bicycle on Elizabeth avenue was stung on the tip of her nose by one of the insects. That member has swollen to twice its normal size, despite the healing lotions she has applied.

The other case is that of Henry Mueller, who was bitten while riding on a trolley car to Newark. The insect alighted on his forehead just over the right eye.

Apportionment to be Revised.

The town of Summit having voted in favor of issuing bonds to pay for the town's share of the cost of a new joint outlet sewer to empty into Staten Island Sound, the apportionment of the cost will be revised as South Orange Township has withdrawn from the scheme. The joint committee will meet at the office of the Newark Board of Works next Wednesday afternoon. The other municipalities are Newark, Irvington, Vailsburg, South Orange village, Clinton, West Orange and Millburn.

Church Work in Good Shape.

The officers of St. Peters' Evangelical Lutheran church held the regular monthly business meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Henry Yaeger, Elizabeth street, when matters pertaining to the interests of the church were discussed. Every department was reported to be in a flourishing condition with good prospects of untimate success.

TO PLAY EUCHRE FOR AID OF BABIES' CAMP

Affair at the Hotel Netherwood Tomorrow Night Promises to be Very Successful.

MANY HANDSOME PRIZES

GIVEN BY THE GENEROUS MERCHANTS OF THE CITY.

Hotel and Grounds to be Decorated and Illuminated in an Elaborate Manner—The Committee Working Hard For It.

No more worthy charity could be selected than that for the benefit of which the euchre party at the Hotel Netherwood will be given tomorrow night. Every one knows how much a little fresh air is appreciated by small children and babies, and it is to enable them to enjoy cool and invigorating breezes that the kind hearted guests of the big hotel have arranged the affair. The entire proceeds of the party will be turned over to the City Union of King's Daughters Babies' Camp fund. No better guarantee of its success can be assured when it is known that the same committee who so successfully conducted last year's party will again assume charge.

The porch and grounds will be handsomely decorated with myriads of Chinese lanterns, making a scene not soon to be forgotten. The game will commence promptly at 8:30 o'clock and playing will continue for an hour and a half. During the progress of the game special music will be rendered by the hotel orchestra and refreshments will be served. At its conclusion dancing will close the evening's enjoyment. That no one may have an excuse for not wearing a nosegay a special feature will be a flower booth under the personal direction of Mrs. Ricardo Strullers, assisted by a bevy of young ladies.

Through the efforts of Miss Garre and others nearly thirty prizes have been contributed by the generous merchants of the city and guests at the hotel: Fan, S. B. Carson; sterling mirror, J. Sisson; paper rack, S. Garre; perfume, L. W. Randolph; umbrella, Crosby & Hill; handkerchiefs, Woodhull & Martin; jardenierre, Gavett & Son; book and handbag, M. Estil; berry spoon, Moraller & Son; slippers, Doane & Edsall; slippers, Willett & Son; soap toilet, T. S. Armstrong; hair receiver, Mrs. F. K. Misch; tie clasp, J. H. Doane; jeweled button hook, Asa Collier; cigars, J. H. Hillman; Dresden coffee's, Mrs. Klein; jeweled shell comb, Gen. Daniel Sickles; pockt-knife, A. M. Griffen; slippers, M. C. VanArsdale; box of cigars, J. A. Smith & Brother; lace collar, S. Wilson; chocolate pot, Miss Grace Adams.

From this list it may be seen that Miss Garre and her assistants have worked faithfully. They wish to especially extend their thanks to the following florists who so graciously responded to the flower committees call for flowers: Charles Stanley, F. W. Miles, Miss A. E. Lincoln and Brooks Carson.

The committee who have the affair in charge, and who will endeavor to make the affair more successful if possible than the one of last year, are Samuel Garre, Frank Wetzlar, E. C. Sterling and S. B. Carson.

CYCLISTS MUST BEAR LIGHTS.

Elizabeth, Aug. 6.—The City Council has introduced and passed an ordinance relating to bicycle riders in this city. It provides that all such shall carry a bell on their wheel which can be plainly heard over 100 feet and it is to be rung just as soon as a vehicle or pedestrain is sighted. Each cyclist must also carry a bright light on his or her wheel and this light is to be burning from an hour after sunset to within an an hour of sunrise. The penalty for a violation of the ordinance is a fine of $5 for the first offence and after that it will be left to the Police Judge's discretion.

PLAINFIELD'S CHANCE.

Co. K and Co. L., Second Regiment of New Jersey, to Go Out of Service, It Is Said.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, August 6.—It is likely that two more companies of the Second Regiment, N. G. N. J., which have fallen below the required standard of efficiency will be disbanded. The companies are Company K of Montclair and Company L of Newton, both of which went to the recent encampment at Sea Girt with fewer men than the law requires, and Col. Gillmore has decided that it will be to the best interest of the regiment to have their officers relieved of the commands. It is understood that Gov. Voorhees will issue an order declaring the two companies to be no longer in the State's service. The new companies to take their places will probably be organized in Plainfield and Princeton.

TIE FOR FIRST HONORS.

TOWNSEND AND SERRELL IN THE LEAD FOR PRESIDENT'S CUP.

Senator Reed Also Among the Leaders in the Principal Contest of the Park Golf Club.

The only event on the Park Golf Club course Saturday afternoon was the continuation of the play for the president's cup, weekly competition. While there was a very good crowd on the angle, only four contestants turned in their scores. It is presumed that the others had high scores and did not care to have them recorded. Morgan T. Townsend and Edgar Serrell are now tie for first honors, the latter being advanced one point by Saturday's play. S. St. John McCutchen finished first and thus secured three points. Senator Reed came in second, which gave him two points and brings him up among the leaders. The scores are as follows:

	Gross.	Hand.	Net.
S. St. J. McCutchen	108	20	88
Charles A. Reed	104	15	89

NEW PASTOR INSTALLED.

Rev. William Trebert Now Regularly Established as Spiritual Advisor of the German Lutheran.

Services in connection with the installation of Rev. Wm. Trebert as pastor of St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran church, were held yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock, and the little church was crowded with members and friends. Rev. Dr. Moldenke, of New York, had charge of the services and after preaching a powerful sermon he installed the new pastor. The sermon was delivered in German. In fact, the entire service was in German, and it was very impressive. The installation was according to the ritual of the church.

Last evening a service was held at which time the pastor preached his first sermon as pastor in English, and a very large congregation was present to hear him. The new pastor is already very popular with his people and it is confidently believed that he will soon build the church up and get it on a firm foundation that will cause it to grow and flourish.

Lost by a Poor Man.

Saturday evening a hard-working man came to town with $16 tied up in a red handkerchief to do some shopping. In some way he lost the money out of his pocket. The money was his earnings and is a serious loss to him. If the finder of the money will return it to The Daily Press office a reward will be paid, and the finder will have the satisfaction of knowing that he or she has done a gracious act.

A Big Excursion.

The three sections run to Mauch Chunk yesterday on the Jersey Central Railroad carried 2,256 people to the Switzerland of America. There were ninety Plainfielders who joined the crowd, and a delightful day was reported by all who made the trip.

VACATION FOR A WEEK WITHOUT ANY PAY.

Member of Borough Police Force in a Fiery Mood Last Saturday Evening.

THREW OFF COAT AND HAT.

SAID HE WOULD RESIGN, BUT REPENTED AFTER AWHILE.

Councilman Lee Had an Exciting Interview With Marshal Kliner—Latter Was Not Fit to go Out on Duty.

The first trouble of any importance under the present borough administration occurred Saturday evening when the borough marshals reported at the lockup to go on duty for the night. It is customary for the men to start out at 7 o'clock, but the unlooked for trouble made a slight change in the time, at least for one of the officials—J. J. Kliner. This marshal did not report in the best of condition, according to the opinion of Councilman Charles A. Lee, chairman of the committee on marshals. Mr. Lee made every effort to pursuade Mr. Kliner to go home and go to bed. This he refused to do and insisted that he could go on duty. Mr. Lee thought differently, however, and insisted that the marshal should not go on duty. The result was that Mr. Kliner took off his coat and hat, threw them on the ground and said he would resign his position. Knowing his condition, Mr. Lee, after a conference, decided to lay the marshal off for a week without pay.

Mayor Smalley saw Mr. Kliner during Saturday afternoon and noticed that his condition was such that unless he changed very much between that time and 7 o'clock he would not be fit to do duty. About the time the men were to report for duty Mayor Smalley sent word to Mr. Lee that some of the marshals had commenced celebrating the advent of their vacations, and that he had better go the lockup and investigate. Mr. Lee did so. He then found Mr. Kliner in the condition noted. The latter thought that Chief Campbell had reported him to Mr. Lee and he proceeded to tell the chairman of the committee and the large crowd that gathered what he thought of Chief Campbell. The latter was present and took the "roast" with good grace

It appears that about three weeks ago Chief Campbell visited a certain questionable resort in the borough, where persons are supposed to gamble, and that while there he played crap, cards, etc., simply for the purpose of securing evidence against the place so that official action could be taken by the authorities. Mr Kliner knew this and he told everyone about it Saturday night at the lockup. He intimated that Chief Campbell could do most anything he pleased and no notice was taken of it by the officials, while if he did anything he had to suffer the consequences. These things seemed to work on Mr. Kliner's mind and it made him say things that he would not think of saying had he been in a right condition.

The more that Mr. Lee tried to reason with the marshal the more obdurate he became, and it was simply out of all question to attempt to explain matters. At first he said he would not go off duty until he was given a hearing before the marshal committee, but he changed his mind about this. The presence of Mayor Smalley had a quieting effect on him.

The officials regret the trouble from the fact that usually Mr. Kliner is a most excellent and efficient officer. It is likely that at the end of a week he will be prepared to return to duty. After the trouble Saturday evening he wanted to apologize to the officials, stating that he was sorry for any wrong done and he hoped that it would be overlooked. The officials felt inclined to accept the apologies, but thought it would be better to wait for a few days until such time as Mr. Kliner has had time to think over his actions.

It has been learned since yesterday that Mr. Kliner has made a demand for his bond which he gave when appointed. If he insists on having it, it will be given and Mayor Smalley will appoint another person for the position. His Honor is determined that he shall not make any overtures to Mr. Kliner and will not coax him to return. If, at the end of the week, he presents himself in the right condition and shows the proper spirit he will no doubt be continued as a marshal and there will be no further trouble.

SWINDLER ARRESTED.

Gives Detectives a Lively Chase In New York and Canada.

MALONE, N. Y., Aug. 6.—A gold brick swindler who has been operating under the names of Smith, Ogden, Pratt and Flower is under arrest in the Franklin county jail at this place. About a month ago he swindled a Massachusetts farmer out of $4,000 by means of the old game. He brought in accomplices who acted as government assayers to test the gold brick to the apparent satisfaction of the victim.

When the crime was first learned, Springfield detectives followed Smith to Montreal. He could not be extradited for this offense, but he was soon arrested there for an attempt made in Canada for a similar crime. He was allowed bail in the sum of $6,000, but as no one would sign his bond he deposited the money and disappeared from Montreal with a confederate. American detectives, however, followed him to Ottawa, thence to Cornwall, where he hired an Indian to row him across the St. Lawrence to St. Regis, on the New York side of the river. The criminals then came to Hogansburg. The detectives at 2 o'clock Saturday morning aroused Justice Sidney G. Grow, who telephoned to Fort Covington, 22 miles distant, for a deputy sheriff, who arrived two and a half hours later. The confederate, who called himself Sanderson, made his escape, but Smith was captured and brought to Malone. The authorities at Montreal and Springfield were at once notified of the capture.

The chief of police of Springfield and detectives from Montreal and New York are here. Smith is said to be an old offender and the head and front of the gold brick business on this continent. His operations were conducted in conjunction with two others, and these three within the last ten years are said to have swindled innocent farmers in various states and provinces out of at least $110,000. It is stated that Smith will resist extradition to Massachusetts.

FLED FOR THEIR LIVES.

Missionary and Family Have Reached San Francisco From China.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—Rev. R. H. Bent of Philadelphia, a Presbyterian missionary who was forced to flee for his life from Ching-chow, in the province of Shangtung, China, has arrived here with his wife and two children on their way east. Mr. Bent said:

"Ching-chów is the location of one of the newest Presbyterian missions in China and is situated 500 miles northwest of Shanghai, on the Grand canal. Warned by the threats of the pillaging hordes and by the massacres of missionaries and native Christians not many miles from our station, we escaped from there on June 14, packing a few belongings on a cart and making an overland journey of 50 miles to the nearest inland port, from which we reached the coast in boats. Nearly all our personal effects had to be left behind, including my library, and I suppose they are destroyed by this time. Fortunately we were not personally assailed by the Chinese, but we were in constant terror of being massacred and were glad to escape with our lives. With us on our trip from Ching-chow was Miss Marshall, who was connected with another mission.

"The section of country about Ching-chow is not infested with Boxers, but by the marauding members of a similar organization called the Great Knife society, which I believe is the parent society. Originally it was organized for defense against the murderous robbers who persistently harassed the country to the westward and numbered among its members reputable Chinese and wealthy merchants. It soon began to use its power for other and ulterior purposes."

Chicago is making strenuous efforts to make the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, which occurs in that city during the last week of August, one of the grandest events of the kind in the history of the order. It is expected that scores of prominent national and state officials will attend the meeting and review the grand parades, and that half a million of plain red-blooded American citizens will lend eclat to the occasion by their presence. Among the attractions in Morris, who is a specially invited guest, is a Tennessee beauty and one of the famous young women of the south. She is unique in being the only lady officer on a governor's staff. When Gov. Allan D. Chandler of Georgia and his party went to Chattanooga to dedicate the Georgia monument in the national park Miss Morris' numerous courtesies to the Georgia ladies were noted with extreme pleasure by the visitor. Gov. Chandler appointed her honorary lieutenant colonel of his staff. This young lady is a typical girl, a gifted writer, a talented musician, and one of the most popular young ladies in Dixie. NEW GERMAN MINISTER.

Baron Mumm von Schwarzenstein Appointed to Represent Emperor William in China.

All doubts as to the killing of Baron Clements von Ketteler, German ambassador to China, having been removed by official reports from Peking, the German emperor has appointed Baron Mumm von Schwarzenstein to succeed him. Baron Ketteler, the unfortunate victim of Chinese ignorance and superstition, was formerly secretary of the German embassy at Washington, where he married Miss Maude Ledyard, daughter of a Detorit capitalist. Like his predecessor, Baron Schwarzenstein is married to a beautiful American. Before his promotion he had filled the post of imperial envoy to the grand duchy of Luxemburg. The new German minister to Peking is a native of Frankfort-on-the-Main. His appointment and his fortunes in China will be of especial interest to Americans, owing to the fact that Baroness Maude, his wife, was before her marriage one of the prettiest belles of New York city. On both sides she is descended from the finest old families. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl von Brockdorf Le Vinsen, of New York. Her maternal grandmother was Mrs. Cornelius Roosevelt. The baron is young, handsome and rich. His father is a former lord mayor of the ancient city of Frankfort.

He Had Money to Chew.

Andrew Sundheimer, a butcher of Wabash, Ind., is deploring the loss of a ten-dollar bill, which he unwittingly devoured. Mr. Sundheimer is an inveterate tobacco chewer, using plug exclusively. He carried his supply in the right hip pocket of his trousers, and last week, having taken in a ten-dollar bank note, he thrust it down alongside the plug of tobacco. The weather was warm. Sundheimer perspired freely, and, the tobacco becoming soft, the bill adhered closely to the plug. Every time Sundheimer took a chew he bit off and masticated part of the note. The color of the bill resembling that of the tobacco and adhering as closely as though it were part of the leaf, Sundheimer chewed up half his plug before he remembered the money.

in Dentistry is the best substitute for nature's work that can be done. Sound roots may be built up and crowned and thus fill up an unsightly space. CONGER HEARD FROM Belated Message Forwarded by Consul Goodnow.

ENOUGH TO EAT AND ALL WELL.

Dispatch Dated July 21 Says Fighting Had Ceased—Imperial Edict Orders the Legations Escorted to Tien-tsin When They Fix a Date.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—A belated message from Minister Conger was received yesterday at the state department. It came through Consul General Goodnow, at Shanghai, who transmitted messages received by Mr. Ragsdale, United States consul at Tien-tsin, from Mr. Conger and Mr. Squiers, secretary of the United States legation at Peking. In effect the advices are the same as those received a day or two ago by the state department from Consul Fowler, at Chefu. Mr. Goodnow's message was transmitted to President McKinley at Canton, and Mr. Adee, acting secretary of state, later in the day issued the following statement concerning it:

"Consul General Goodnow, in a cablegram dated Shanghai, Aug. 5, which was received at the department of state at 4 o'clock this (Sunday) morning, reports the receipt by Consul Ragsdale at Tientsin of messages from Minister Conger and the secretary of the legation, Mr. Squiers, dated July 21, to the following effect:

"'All well. No fighting since the 16th by agreement. Enough provisions. Hope for speedy relief.'

"Mr. Goodnow adds that the director of posts, Sheng, had on the 5th communicated to him an imperial edict, dated July 30, ordering Jung Lu to provide an escort for the ministers to Tien-tsin when the ministers fix the date. The edict says the ministers can receive messages not in cipher, but notwithstanding this plain messages were returned to some consuls on Aug. 4."

While the messages from Minister Conger and Secretary Squires bear date of July 21 the belief founded not only upon them, but also upon collateral and later information, is that the legationers are yet safe from at least immediate harm. At present there is no means of knowing whether the ministers will accept the offer of the Chinese imperial government to provide an escort for them to Tientsin, but it is surmised they will prefer to remain within the British legation at Peking until the arrival of the allied forces. Should they leave for Tien-tsin in all probability it would be because they regarded it the safer course to pursue.

The inhibition of cipher dispatches to the ministers, while a serious breach of diplomatic usage, is not regarded here with apprehension. The Chinese government, it is pointed out, is suspicious of the actions and intent of the powers and probably has adopted this precaution to prevent communication to the ministers of details of military movements. It is evident from the adoption of this measure that the imperial government regards itself as antagonistic to if not actually at war with the powers. Thus far no inhibition has been placed upon cipher dispatches passing between the various governments and their consular representatives in China outside of Peking.

The state department has taken the ground that the dispatch from the tsung-li-yamen, delivered at the department Saturday by Minister Wu, is not an answer to the dispatch of Secretary Hay sent on Aug. 1. In that dispatch Secretary Hay finally and decisively insisted that free communication with the ministers must be established before any steps would be taken by this government toward a peaceful solution of the present trouble. That dispatch was sent to Consul General Goodnow to be by him transmitted to Li Hung Chang. The message delivered by Minister Wu to the state department Saturday relative to the inhibition of cipher dispatches was sent by the tsung-li-yamen on July 30. As of that date it already had been communicated to the department by Consul Fowler. Obviously, therefore, it could not be a reply to the dispatch sent to Mr. Goodnow by Secretary Hay on Aug. 1. A definite reply to the secretary's dispatch of the 1st inst. is awaited with some concern, not to say anxiety. It is the final word of the United States government in the pending negotiations. The demand must be acceded to if trouble of serious character is to be averted.

Neither the war nor the navy department made public any dispatches during the day, officials of both departments announcing that no dispatches of public interest had been received. That General Chaffee is encountering difficulties that are proving serious there is little attempt to conceal. The debarkation of troops and cavalry horses is being accomplished with the utmost difficulty. It is said that the big transports can approach the landing at Taku no nearer than 12 or 14 miles. Vessels drawing more than 15 feet of water are forced to lie far out in the gulf. This necessitates the use of lighters for the transportation to the shore of both men and horses, making the debarkation of a considerable force a task surrounded with innumerable obstacles. Added to the actual difficulties are the discomfort and inconvenience placed upon the troops. Rains are almost incessant, heavy fogs are prevalent and the water of the gulf is exceedingly rough.

THE ADVANCE ON PEKING.

American and British Forces Started Thursday—Others on the Way.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The American and British forces began the advance on Peking last Thursday, according to a dispatch dated Aug. 2 from Tien-tsin to The Daily Express. "The main body of the allies," continues the correspondent, "marched July 30. General Chaffee was delayed by difficulties of disembarkation. General Dorward, the British commander, had no such obstacles, and his delay is inexplicable.

"The other foreign troops are now half way to Lofa. The force includes 20,000 Japanese under General Yamachuchi and 10,000 Russians. The British force totals 9,000, and the other foreign troops are 7,000. We are weak in artillery.

"On Aug. 1 a strong force of Chinese from the native city attacked Tien-tsin. By a series of brilliant charges our troops drove the enemy from their positions. The native city is still defiant, and the allies are unwilling to march troops through its streets, as this would mean an immense slaughter. When the Chinese saw so large a body of troops marching westward, they apparently believed they would have an easy victory over those who were left."

A message to the same paper from its correspondent in Peking, dated July 22, says:

"The women have borne all the horrors with marvelous fortitude and even with cheerfulness. The Chinese wanted peace when the arsenals at Tien-tsin were captured, and the negotiations bade fair to be successful. Unfortunately Li Ping Heng and Kang Yu (?) arrived here at the critical moment and overthrew the peace party.

"Food has been short, but not terribly so, though we have had to be very careful."

A Shanghai special, dated Aug. 4, says:

"The first overt attack upon foreigners occurred this morning. Three Chinese supposed to be soldiers in disguise, fired at a well known English resident while he was lying asleep on the veranda of his house. He had a narrow escape.

"From various sources come statements that a large body of Boxers, some estimating them at 3,000, is gathering south of Tien-tsin and threatening communications."

The Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Mail announces the reception of an imperial edict, dated Aug. 2, ordering General Yung Lu to select high military and civil dignitaries, together with a sufficient number of picked troops, to escort the foreign ministers to Tien-tsin as soon as they decide to leave Peking. By the terms of the edict General Yung Lu will be held personally responsible for their safety, and he is given full authority to deal summarily with those opposing the peaceful passage of the escort.

"By such acts," concludes the edict, "we show our good intentions to people from afar and open our bosoms to them."

Yokohama advices say that General Terauchi has reported to the Japanese government that it is not advisable to send more troops to China, declaring that the united force is now ample to relieve the foreigners in Peking.

Chinese messages assert that, in addition to causing the execution of high functionaries of proforeign tendency, Li Ping Heng has impeached Li Hung Chang, Liu Kun Yi, viceroy of Nanking, and others on the charge of maintaining relations with foreigners.

The Shanghai report that Li Hung Chang had committed suicide has not been definitely contradicted, but all the advices received from that point up to this hour indicate that he is alive.

A dispatch to The Morning Post from Chefu, dated July 30, says:

"The Russians at Tien-tsin refuse to allow the Americans to put up telephone wires on the railroad poles, and they claim the railroad, which English engineers are ready to work.

"The situation is critical. The river is full of railroad sleepers. Hundreds of dead bodies of Chinese, some decapitated, are floating in the stream."

Four more missionaries, according to Shanghai advices dated Saturday, have been murdered near Hankow.

The Tien-tsin correspondent of The Times, wiring July 31, says:

"The previous decision to move tomorrow has been reversed. It is reported that the American commander is now unwilling to advance until he is re-enforced. The Japanese reconnoissance yesterday apparently inclined them to favor waiting for further re-enforcements. The Russians and French acquiesced.

"General Gaselee is anxious to advance, but his command is so small—only 3,000—that he cannot take the lead. The date for the departure of the expedition is therefore again uncertain."

Cheng Tells More Tales.

PARIS, Aug. 6.—Cheng, director general of railways and telegraphs, has just communicated to the consuls at Shanghai, according to a special dispatch to the Temps, dated Aug. 5, an imperial decree, dated Aug. 2, authorizing the foreign ministers in Peking to communicate without restriction with their governments and ordering their departure for Tien-tsin under a good escort.

The French foreign office has received the following dispatch from the French consul at Chefu, dated Aug. 2: "The governor of Moukden in a proclamation has urged the people of Manchuria to massacre Christians. Nearly all the missions have been destroyed. The missionaries have organized for defense and are assisted by other Christians."

The French consul at Shanghai, telegraphing Saturday, says: "Li Hung Chang informs me that Li Ping Heng was appointed general of the troops in the north of the empire on his arrival at Peking."

Provisions Held Up.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 6.—The Japanese consul here has received a message from Peking saying that General Tung Fuh Siang has stopped all provisions going to the legations. Admiral Seymour arrived in Shanghai yesterday.

Bresci's Brother-in-law Thrashed.

BUENOS AYRES, Aug. 6.—Giuseppe Castagni, a brother-in-law of Bresci, has secured passage for Montevideo after failing to secure the return of passage money to New York which he paid three weeks ago. He boasts that Bresci committed a highly commendable deed and asserts that Queen Victoria will be the next victim. Some clerks in a British shipping office here gave him a horse-whipping for his remarks regarding the queen. It is not known whether he will sail for Montevideo or New York.

Deacons Killed by Lightning.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 6.—Four deaths from lightning from two bolts occurred yesterday. The Baptist parsonage at Westminster, Laurens county, was struck, and T. N. Hall and Henry M. Simpson, deacons, who had accompanied the pastor, the Rev. M. A. Tenill, from church, were killed and Mr. Tenill probably fatally injured. Near Rock Hill George Meacham and Samuel White were killed in the road riding from church. The horses were also killed.

Another Cattleman Gone Wrong.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 6.—J. S. Scott, an aged and prominent cattleman of Beaver county, O. T., has been arrested for alleged fraudulent deals in cattle paper, the amount involved being $28,000. The charge against Scott is that he mortgaged the same cattle twice. This is an echo of the Swazey case of last week and is distantly linked to it, as it is alleged that Scott negotiated his paper with the assistance of Swazey.

Belgian Legation Well.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 6.—The Belgian vice consul at Tien-tsin, M. H. Ketels, in a dispatch via Chefu, Aug. 4, via Shanghai, Aug. 5, says that the Chinese in Peking are fortifying their position outside the British legation. He adds that all the members of the Belgian legation are in good health.

RULING THE ISLANDS

Commission Soon to Assume Control In Philippines.

INSURGENTS INCREASINGLY ACTIVE.

Small Bands Ambush and Capture Parties of Americans—Manila Banks Form a Ring—Police Captain Shot.

MANILA, Aug. 6.—On Sept. 1 the commission headed by Judge Taft will become the legislative body of the Philippines, with power to take and appropriate insular moneys, to establish judicial and educational systems and to make and pass all laws.

No money will be permitted to be drawn from the insular funds except by authorization of the commission. Judge Taft and his colleagues will also exercise certain executive functions. For instance, they will appoint judges, officials in the educational department and officers of municipalities, which the commission will establish pending elections.

General MacArthur will be the executive head to enforce the laws of the commission, and he will conduct the government in accordance with the same until the commission recommends to President McKinley the appointment of a civil governor.

There has been an increase of insurgent activity during the last three weeks, especially in the way of ambushes and attacks upon small parties. First Lieutenant Alstaetter of the engineer corps, with an escort of 15 men, was taken in ambush in the province of Nueva Ecija, Luzon, by a large force. The Americans fought until their ammunition was gone, and, as they were surrounded, there was nothing to do but surrender. One man was killed and three were wounded.

General Lacuna, who was in command of the insurgents, returned the wounded with a letter promising to treat the prisoners well.

Lieutenant Bocton Hulesberg (?) was ambushed and killed near Santa Cruz, province of Laguna.

Five men of the Twenty-fourth infantry were captured in Nueva Ecija, but Sergeant Schmidt of the Twelfth infantry, with seven men, trailed the captors and killed five.

The only three banks in Manila have formed a ring to reduce arbitrarily and without justification the rate of exchange for American gold. This has caused widespread indignation and many difficulties for commerce and minor business. The banks, however, are obdurate.

Captain Lara of the Manila native police was dangerously shot by an unknown assailant Saturday while on the street. He had been effectively enforcing regulations and had made enemies among the Filipinos, some of whom have long threatened vengeance.

Celebration Plan Approved.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—President McKinley has approved the provisional plan for the celebration next December of the centennial of the establishment of the seat of government in the District of Columbia submitted to him Friday last by President MacFarland of the board of commissioners of the District of Columbia as chairman of the committee on this celebration and by other members of the committee. The plan provides for a reception by President McKinley at the executive mansion in the morning of the day of celebration to the governors of states, who are members of the committee, with appropriate addresses, followed by commemorative exercises in congress in the afternoon and a military and naval parade.

Poisoned by Pea Soup.

IRWINSVILLE, Ga., Aug. 6.—The family of Lewis Connor, a farmer, narrowly escaped being wiped out with poison. As it is, two children of the family are dead, and Mrs. Connor and a third child are critically ill, though it is believed now that they will lige. For dinner Mrs. Connor cooked pea soup in a new tin vessel. Several hours after the soup was eaten the mother and three children were taken violently ill. Two of the children died before a physician could reach them, and the woman and other child were saved only after many hours of suffering. Physicians say the poison was metallic.

Anarchist Arrested.

PARIS, Aug. 6.—The French police have arrested at Abbeville Auguste Valette, a dangerous anarchist, who is supposed to have been the instigator of Salson's attempt upon the shah of Persia. Valette left Paris immediately after the crime. He and Salson will be confronted. The police tried to discharge Salson's revolver, but not one of the five cartridges exploded because of the way in which he had filed the hammer.

Poisoned His Father at Thirteen.

FRESNO, Cal., Aug. 6.—Fred Hines, 13 years old, has confessed that he poisoned his father, who is lying dangerously ill at the county hospital. The boy said that his father treated him cruelly and had refused to allow him to drive his team. He concluded to kill him. He and his younger brother bought the poison, which Fred put in his father's coffee.

King of Servia Weds.

BELGRADE, Aug. 6.—King Alexander yesterday wedded Mme. Draga Maschin, the ceremony being performed with great pomp. In honor of the event the king granted an amnesty, together with numerous political pardons, including the former Radical Premier Tauschanovich.

Buried Alive.

TOLEDO, Aug. 6.—At West Liberty Delbert Grimes and Alvin Spellman were instantly killed by an embankment caving in upon them. They were excavating for a new school building, the work was just completed, and they were preparing to leave it.

Paris Cab Drivers Strike.

PARIS, Aug. 6.—Four thousand cab drivers have gone on strike, demanding a lower rate for renting vehicles. There have been no disturbances, but the republican guards protect the stables.

A Good Hop Crop.

SYRACUSE, Aug. 6.—A special to The Post-Standard from Oneida says that the indications are that Madison county's hop crop, though slightly below the average in quantity, will be the best in the state.

Astounded The Editor.

Editor S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., was once immensely surprised. "Through long suffering from Dyspepsia," he writes, "my wife was greatly run down. She had no strength or vigor and suffered great distress from her stomach, but she tried Electric Bitters which helped her at once, and after using four bottles, she is entirely well, can eat anything. It's a grand tonic, and its gentle laxative qualities are splendid for torpid liver." For Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Stomach and Liver Troubles it's a positive, guaranteed cure. Only 50c at L. W. BOLD TRAIN ROBBERS.

Compel Conductor to Hold the Bag For Their Stealings.

SALINA, Kan., Aug. 6.—A Union Pacific east bound passenger train was held up several miles west of Hugo, Colo., 90 miles this side of Denver. The passengers in the Pullman sleepers were robbed of their money and valuables. An old man named Fay, a resident of California, who had been visiting in Denver and was on his way to St. Louis, refused to surrender his valuables and fired a shot at one of the robbers, but missed. Thereupon the robbers fired, one shot entering Fay's mouth and coming out at the back of his head, killing him almost instantly. The robbers stopped the train, jumped off and escaped.

The robbers got on one of the sleepers near Limon, and after the train had started the men made a noise at the door. The conductor, thinking they were tramps, opened the door to put them off. The robbers, who were masked, pointed a pistol at his head and ordered him to lead the way through the coaches. All of the passengers were asleep, and the conductor was ordered to wake them one at a time. The frightened passengers were told to keep quiet or they would be killed and at the same time were asked to hand over their money and valuables. The robbers obtained about $100 in cash and a number of gold watches and other jewelry.

The robbery took place a few minutes before 1 o'clock Sunday morning. The body of Fay was taken off at Hugo and shipped to Denver. He was probably 60 years old and a prominent Odd Fellow. The conductor, who was compelled to hold a bag while the robbers relieved the passengers, lost his watch and asked that it be returned to him in order that he might run his train on time. The robbers gave it back.

After ransacking the two coaches the men made the conductor pull the bell-cord, but the train was going so rapidly that the robbers were taken to Hugo before it slowed up enough to enable them to jump. They compelled the conductor to get off ahead of them so that if any of the passengers had been in waiting they would have shot him first. After the robbers had dismounted they ordered the conductor to return to his train.

SECRETARY HAY ILL.

Suffering From Nervous Exhaustion at His Country Home.

LAKE SUNAPEE, N. H., Aug. 6.—Colonel John Hay, secretary of state in President McKinley's cabinet, is a very sick man. He is at his beautiful country house, The Fells. With him are Mrs. Hay, the Misses Helen and Alice Hay and Master Clarence Hay.

The secretary arrived Saturday, having left Washington Friday afternoon. He reached The Fells in time for luncheon and passed the afternoon with the members of his family, whom he had not seen since they came here, June 15. Feeling somewhat indisposed, Colonel Hay retired early. In the night he aroused Mrs. Hay, saying he was ill. She did what she could, and as he became more distressed she decided to summon a physician.

His malady is undoubtedly nervous exhaustion, brought on by his arduous labors in the Chinese crisis. A month's rest is expected to effect a complete cure.

Toughs Defy the Law.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 6.—The Duluth militia companies are under orders to go to Cass Lake, Minn., where rioters are reported to have taken possession of the town. A circus exhibited there Thursday. A sheriff and deputy from Hubbard county had warrants for the arrest of crooks who were following the show for alleged depredations at Park Rapids. While trying to serve the warrants one of the deputies was beaten and papers and arms taken away from him. Later in the evening citizens tried to have the train held so as to get warrants for the arrest of the gang. While so doing the railroad office was invaded by the gang and Sheriff Alexander brutally beaten and left for dead. They were followed to Grand Rapids yesterday, where one of them was captured, but while court here was being held the courthouse was broken open and the prisoner released by force of arms. Governor Lind was asked for aid to quell the disturbance.

Italians Honor Humbert's Memory.

PASSAIC, N. J., Aug. 6.—Headed by a brass band and 50 girls dressed in black and white 500 members of Passaic societies paraded through the principal streets of that place yesterday in honor of the late King Humbert. In the procession was a hearse draped in solid black and drawn by six horses. Pictures of the dead king were borne in the parade, and each parader wore a band of black upon his arm. Services were held in the Italian church and were very impressive. Two thousand persons attended. There was a parade of Italians in Jersey City also to do honor to the memory of the late king.

Female Anarchist Suspect.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The Italian consul in New York has sent a telegram to Captain Usher of the West Hoboken police asking him to search for a woman who is suspected of being concerned in some way with the plot to assassinate King Humbert. Chief McClusky has taken the matter in hand and began today a systematic search for the woman among the Italian colony. The chief declines to give the name of the woman at present. Chief McAulay says that the Italian consul will probably visit West Hoboken some day this week.

DE WET SURROUNDED

British Have His Force In a Trap Near Reitzberg.

HAMILTON KEEPS AID FROM BOTHA.

Boers Said to Be Short of Food and Ammunition—Residents of Pretoria Exiled—Baden-Powell Wounded at Rustenburg.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—A special dispatch from Pretoria, dated Saturday, says:

"General Christian De Wet is completely surrounded near Reitzberg, and it is impossible for his forces to escape through the strong British cordon.

"The Boers say they will make a stand at Machadodorp. They are short of ammunition and food. General Hamilton by the rapidity of his movements prevents re-enforcements reaching Commandant General Botha.

"It appears that after the train carrying United States Consul Stowe and flying the stars and stripes was derailed at Honigspruit, south of Kroonstadt, concealed Boers fired, killing four.

"Many residents of Pretoria have been sent into exile for having behaved cruelly or shamefully to British subjects before or during the war. The terms of exile vary, in one instance reaching 25 years."

The Lourenco Marques correspondent of The Daily Express, wiring Saturday, says:

"Transvaal advices declare that General Baden-Powell was wounded during a recent engagement at Rustenburg, when the Boers, according to their account, took some prisoners and captured 324 wagons."

Consul Stowe on a Special Mission.

CAPE TOWN, Aug. 6.—The United States consulate here has received no direct communication regarding the Boer attack upon the train carrying United States Consul Stowe, but Sir Alfred Milner, British high commissioner, has been informed that those who were captured by the Boers were released at the request of Mr. Stowe, who, it is stated, is proceeding to Pretoria on a special mission of a political character.

Bryan's Trip to Indianapolis.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 6.—Colonel John I. Martin, sergeant-at-arms of the Democratic national committee, arrived here yesterday for the purpose of escorting Mr. Bryan to Indianapolis. The two went over the details of the proposed trip, but no important changes were made in the programme. The party will leave Lincoln at 6 o'clock this evening on the regular train on the Burlington road. There will be no special train. No arrangement has been made for speeches on the way, but it is considered not improbable that Mr. Bryan may be called out at different places. The party will consist of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan and their son, Colonel Martin, Governor and Mrs. Charles S. Thomas of Colorado, Mr. Bryan's secretary and a few newspaper men. They will reach Chicago about 9:30 tomorrow morning and will remain in that city until 1:35 p. m., when they will proceed to Indianapolis, arriving there for dinner tomorrow evening.

Dowie's Followers Not Wanted.

MANSFIELD, O., Aug. 6.—Overseer John Hamner Piper and Elders E. P. Fisher, A. W. McClurkin and A. McFarland of Dowie's Christian Catholic church in Zion arrived here early yesterday, as scheduled. A mob of over 2,000 was in waiting. The police refused to allow them to get out of the car, and amid cheers and shouts they went on to Ashland, 14 miles east. There they attempted to hire a carriage to drive here, but all the liverymen refused their requests. They telegraphed back that they would be here again in the afternoon, and they came. Nearly 4,000 people were at the depot, and again they were not permitted to leave the car.

Four Killed In a Missouri Feud.

FARMINGTON, Mo., Aug. 6.—Four were killed and one fatally wounded as the outcome of a shooting affair between William Dooley and his four sons on one side and the four Harris brothers on the other as a result of a feud at Dee Run, one of the mining towns of St. Francois county. William Dooley, Wess Harris, James Harris and John Dooley are the names of those killed, and Frank Harris was fatally wounded. A young girl, Mary Littrell, was struck just above the ankle with a rifle ball.

Duty In China Expected.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 6.—There are now over 1,400 troops at Fort Thomas, Ky. A telegram has been received from the war department at Washington stating that the Second infantry had been assigned to the Philippine division under General MacArthur. The Fifth and Eighth regiments will form a part of the same command. Upon the arrival of the troops in the Philippines it is understood they will be assigned for duty in China.

The Windward's Progress.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 6.—The Labrador mail steamer Virginia Lake, which arrived here yesterday, reports that the Peary exploring steamer Windward passed through the strait of Belle Isle last Sunday, bound north. She reports that immense floes still block the northern coast of Labrador. This will seriously impede the Windward's progress.

Bryan and Roosevelt Invited.

CHEYENNE, Wy., Aug. 6.—The executive committee of the frontier day celebration has sent invitations to Colonel William J. Bryan and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt to attend the celebration on Sept. 12-13 and participate in the reunion of Torrey's Rough Riders, which will probably be held at the same time.

New Comet Photographed.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 6.—Seven photographs of the newly discovered comet were taken at Harvard observatory, and at the same time Professor Wendell measured the light of the 10.5 magnitude star in the comet's path. The passage of the comet only diminished the star's brightness .03 of the magnitude.

The Third District.

The Third Congressional district, of which Somerset county is a part, promises to be fighting ground for the Democrats this fall. Two years ago Congressman Howell was elected by only a small plurality, and the Democratic leaders believe that it is entirely possible to turn the vote of the district to a Democratic victory if a strong candidate for Congress is made and the campaign conducted with all the political skill and strength that the district is able to develop. The Fourth and Seventh districts of New Jersey are already represented by Democrats—or rather were until Congressman Daly's death, but his successor will undoubtedly be of the same political faith—and if the Third district can be carried by the Democrats it will make one more towards reducing the Republican majority of twenty-one in the House at the present time.

The information comes from Washington that the Democratic National Committee are confident that they will elect three Congressmen in New Jersey this year. They are planning to elect enough Democrats throughout the United States to get control of the House of Representatives. They expect to make at least a gain of about six seats in the Southern States and the rest they expect to gain out of the forty close Republican districts throughout the States. They consider all districts where the Republican incumbent received less than 2,000, doubtful districts, and on that account have included the Third New Jersey, represented by Benjamin Howell, in the list.

That the Republicans of Plainfield are determined to have as thorough a political organization as attention and work can make is shown in the plan to enroll all Republican voters. Making enrollment as a requisite to the right to participate in party primaries will prove an incentive for every Republican to have his name properly recorded in the organization books, and by doing this the party workers will find themselves at a great advantage on election day, as well as at all other times, in knowing who is who in the political make-up of the community. In this city the more organization the Republicans have the more they want. In a campaign organization is more than half the battle.

Notwithstanding the fact that Governor Voorhees' big and curly-haired head might make an easy target for an Anarchist to blaze away at, New Jersey's chief executive has no fear of falling victim to an assassin's plot. Mr. Voorhees has been urged by some who are easily scared to "protect himself." The Governor avers that such requests make him smile, a pretty sure indication that he is not worried. Speaking of Anarchists, the Governor says: "We have anarchists in Elizabeth and they have been, so far as I know, harmless. It is reported to me that they have them in Trenton, not far from the State House, and nobody would know it except those who are in their confidence. The situation seems to be perilous in the minds of some people, but, personally, I am not alarmed and shall continue to go about the same, unarmed, as I have always done and always will do."

Commenting on the editorial of the Elizabeth Daily Journal that "James E. Martine is the only Democrat in New Jersey to take the place of William D. Daly," the New Jersey editor of the New York Press says: "This is good sooth, in all that aggressiveness and honesty of expression go. 'Farmer' Martine would not trim; he would say what he felt; if his party were wrong he would not apologize for it. But for these very reasons he would not be popular with the machine if he was with the voters. Duplicity, strange to say, wins oftener in politics than a show of honesty of purpose."

There were about 5,300,000 people in America when the century opened. France had five times as many people; Germany, and even Austria, had four times America's population; Italy had three times as many, and so had Great Britain. Even Spain had double our number of people, and little Portugal was almost our rival in numbers. We have more people now than any European nation except Russia, which alone leads us.

The office of City Collector should not be taken out of the hands of the people. If the appointment of that official is put into the hands of the Common Council his selection will ever after depend upon his service to politicians. Such a condition is a deplorable one to confront.

With Senator Smith "out of the woods," so to speak, the next question that suggests itself is, how near will he come to duplicating in a financial way what he did in the Gubernatorial campaign two years ago.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

It is learned that Frederick Park, of Cranford, is a candidate for nomination for Representative in Congress from the Eighth Congressional district at the hands of the Democratic party. Who is Frederick Park? Will somebody please enlighten an anxious public?—Newark News.

Frederick Park is a lawyer, a gentleman, a man of parts and a rising Democratic politician. If he is not very well known now he may be in the years that are to come. He lives in Cranford, and if the Newark News will think a moment it will recall the fact that Cranford has given the country some excellent men. Congressman Charles N. Fowler was, a few years ago, an esteemed citizen of Cranford. Frederick Park will have a hard row to hoe because he's a Democrat, but he has the splendid advantage of being a Cranford man.—Elizabeth Journal.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Did you ever notice the different ways in which people speak of a certain time? The average man or woman refers to 6:20 as twenty minutes past six but the railroad man or one accustomed to travelling speaks of the time as six-twenty. In the same way, 6:40 will be twenty minutes of seven or six-forty.

. . . . .

While the road-bed of the Jersey Central Railroad is one of the finest in the world and its arrangements are generally admired by railroad men all over the country, there is one thing that even the Jersey Central officials wish was different and would change even now but for the great cost. Under the present arrangement the two passenger tracks are in the centre with the freight tracks on either side. To reach a train standing on the passenger tracks it is necessary to cross the freight tracks. The Pennsylvania Railroad, which also has four tracks on its main line, has a different arrangement. The freight tracks are in the centre and the passenger tracks outside. Where there are double stations, one on each side, the freight tracks are fenced off so that no one can possibly get in the way and so that the freight trains can run through stations entirely independent of the passenger traffic. The New York Central has still another method of arranging its four tracks. The two passenger tracks are side by side and then come the two freight tracks. At every station of importance, the freight tracks leave the passenger line entirely and pass around through the freight yards, not going near the passenger stations. At the smaller places, the passenger station is always located on the side of the four tracks where the passenger trains run so that passing freight trains do not cut off standing passenger trains from the station.

Dear Sirs:—Some days since a package of your GRAIN-O preparation was left at my office. I took it home and gave it a trial, and I have to say I was very much pleased with it, as a substitute for coffee. We have always used the best Java and Mocha in our family, but I am free to say I like the GRAIN-O as well as the best coffee I ever drank.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, Aug. 6.—The particulars of the recent loss by fire sustained by the unfortunate Charles Vail, of Valley Station, have just been learned from M. B. Smalley, who accompanied the injured man home. Mr. Smalley says that a five-story mill with up-to-date machinery, store and postoffice and creamery were the buildings destroyed. $6,000 at the least would not replace them. There was an insurance of only $1,200. The house and barn were saved only by hard work on the part of the neighbors. Vail is still unaware of his loss. Under pretext of keeping the sun from his eyes, while carrying him from the railway station to the house, his face was covered and he was unable to see the ruins.

An unknown aged cyclist while riding along in front of Hetfield's meat market Saturday afternoon lost his balance and fell to the ground directly in front of a horse. The animal became frightened and a runaway narrowly averted. The wheelman was uninjured beyond a few slight bruises.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Scotch Plains, August 6.—It was a sad congregation that gathered in the Methodist church last evening to listen to the farewell address of Rev. C. C. Woodruff, who was unexpectedly called during the past week to the pastorate of the First Methodist church at Little Falls, this State. Mr. Woodruff has been pastor of the church for several years. During that time he has built the church up from a struggling congregation to a flourishing and successful one. Repairs have been made upon the building, new carpet and upholstering have taken the place of the old through his efforts and the members have a cozy and neat place of worship now. During the time approaching the last conference it was feared by the members of the church that Mr. Woodruff's success as a pastor would be noticed by the conference and that they would lose him. An appeal was made, backed up by Mr. Woodruff, that he again be appointed as their pastor. The appeal was granted and the members were looking forward to a successful work during the year. The recent death of the pastor of the Little Falls church left a vacancy in a promising field and it was decided to appoint Rev. C. C. Woodruff to fill the vacancy. Mr. Woodruff, although the new field was more promising for such a young man, did not leave the church to which he had become attached without many regrets, for pastor and people had become endeared to each other. No regular successor has been appointed as yet to Mr. Woodruff and it will be hard to find one who can come in and take up the work he has left. Mr. Woodruff takes with him in his new field the sincere best wishes of all in the village.

James Papindo, an Italian, living on Hunter avenue, had a narrow escape from serious injury while foolishly jumping from a Westfield and Elizabeth trolley car yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock. When Hunter avenue was reached Papindo, who could not talk English, made up his mind to pull the bell himself. Instead of pulling the cord for the motorman's signal he rang up a a fare. Conductor Maguire, who was near the front of the car, began looking about the car to see who was assisting in his work. As he turned around a shout from the passengers on the rear end told him something was wrong. The car was brought to a standstill at once. Then it was learned some one had fallen off the car. The car backed up to Hunter avenue and Papindo was assisted to his feet and given over into the care of his friends from the colony to which he belonged. The injured man was found to be cut badly about the head beside a severe shaking up. Dr. Fritts, the company's physician, was notified by telephone and came to town and attended the injured man. No bones were found to be broken.

But a very few of the members of the Baptist church and congregation knew until the morning service yesterday that the day was the one hundred and fifty-third anniversary of the old church and the seventy-first anniversary of the Sunday-school. Rev. Mr. Shott previous to his sermon said his attention had just been called to the fact, and he was only prepared to bow in humble reverence to the history of the past and to ask God's blessing for the future. He said he hoped the members would commemorate each anniversary in the future by some pleasant observance of the day.

Miss Alice Shott led an interesting B. Y. P. U. meeting in the parlors of the Baptist church last evening. Subject: "The Evil of Envy." At the close of the meeting the members attended the farewell service of Rev. C. C. Woodruff in the Methodist church.

The members of the Baptist Sunday-school will enjoy their annual excursion to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove tomorrow, uniting with several of the Sunday-schools of Westfield, Locust Grove and Willow Grove, making one of the largest excursions of the year.

Mrs. Peter Hoagland, who has been suffering with an attack of appendicitis, is reported to be slightly improved and hopes are entertained of her recovery soon.

Assignment of a Coal and Lumber Firm.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Aug. 6.—Mrs. Margaret Chamberlain, widow of Nathan Chamberlain, has made an assignment of the coal and lumber firm of Nathan Chamberlain & Son, at Rahway, to Charles R. Oliver, for the benefit of creditors. The deed of assignment has been filed here with the Clerk of Union county. Nathan Chamberlain, founder of the firm, was once Mayor of Rahway, and also served two terms in the Legislature. He ran for County Clerk in 1892, but was beaten by the Democratic tidal wave of that year. He died two years ago. He was a strong Republican.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Aus der Rheinpfalz.

Speyer. Stadtvikar Dr. Beyschlag hat im Auftrage des Ausschusses der hiesigen Protestationskirche bei seiner Mission in Nordamerika im Ganzen etwa 92,000 Mark für den Bau der Kirche gesammelt.

Goellheim. Der Steuereinnehmer Hartard stellte sich selbst dem Staatsanwalt. Die Unterschlagungen Hartards haben sich nachträglich als bedeutend umfangreicher herausgestellt, als man bei der ersten Kassenrevision annahm.

Ludwigshafen. Ein Stadtanlehen von 2,340,000 Mark für ein Elektrizitätswerk und Straßenfüllung wurde durch die Bürgerversammlung beschlossen.

Württemberg.

Stuttgart. Im laufenden Sommersemester beträgt die Zahl der Studirenden an der hiesigen technischen Hochschule 659, gegen 627 im vorigen Sommer. Von ihnen sind 398 Württemberger und 261 Nichtwürttemberger. —Jüngsthin wurde unter der Firma Württembergischer Brauereiverband von 14 der größeren Brauereien in Stuttgart und Umgebung eine Gesellschaft mit beschränkter Haftung errichtet. Ihr Zweck ist die Förderung der gemeinsamen Interessen der Gesellschaften, insbesondere die Bekämpfung unlauteren Wettbewerbs im Bierbrauereigewerbe.

Kannstadt. Während einer Vorstellung im Wilhelma-Theater feuerte ein junger Mann Namens Dallmaier auf die Schauspielerin Fräulein Saccur drei Revolverschüsse ab, ohne sie glücklicher Weise zu treffen. Der Attentäter erklärte nach seiner Festnahme, daß er seine That nicht bereue. Man glaubt, daß man es mit einem geistig nicht Zurechnungsfähigen zu thun hat.

Ulm. Unlängst fand die Uebergabe von 80 weiteren durch die Stadt hergestellten Arbeiterwohnungen an die Käufer statt. Im Ganzen wurden bis jetzt 82 Wohngebäude mit 190 gesunden Wohnungen erstellt. Die Preise bewegen sich zwischen 6000 bis 13,000 Mark; zehn Prozent werden als Anzahlung entrichtet, der Rest wird verzinst, bei jedem Haus befindet sich ein Garten; 32 weitere Häuser sollen noch erbaut werden. Die gemeinnützige Aktiengesellschaft „Wohnungs-Verein Ulm" hat zudem auch schon 13 Häuser erbaut, die einen Werth haben von fast 224,300 Mark. Das Aktienkapital beträgt 80,000 Mark, das Hypothekenkonto 107,873 Mark. Die letzte Abrechnung ergab einen Ueberschuß von fast 3900 Mark.

Baden.

Karlsruhe. Durch einen Sturz mit dem Pferde ist in Lausanne in der Schweiz der 19jährige Student Simon von hier verunglückt. Er erlitt einen Schädelbruch und starb auf dem Transport nach dem Spitale.

Bruchsal. Der 18 Jahre alte Sohn des Verlegers der „Kraichgauer Zeitung," Weber, hat sich erschossen, weil er im Durlacher Gymnasium das Einjährig-Freiwilligen-Examen nicht bestanden hatte.

Heidelberg. An der hiesigen Universität hat sich in der naturwissenschaftlich-mathematischen Fakultät ein Siamese, Mom Rajawongse Toh aus Bangkok, den Doktorgrad erworben. Seine Dissertation handelt über die Landwirthschaft, insbesondere den Reisbau in Siam.

Konstanz. Zum Todestag von Johann Huß kamen heuer weniger Pilger aus Böhmen als in früheren Jahren. Etwa 25 Mann marschirten diesmal an den Hussenstein und legten dort prachtvolle Kränze und reichen Blumenschmuck nieder. Bekanntlich wurde der Reformator Johann Huß im Jahre 1415 in Konstanz auf dem Scheiterhaufen verbrannt.

Leimen. Hierorts hat man den im Kriege gegen Frankreich gefallenen Ortsangehörigen ein schönes Denkmal gesetzt, dieses aber leider durch die Inschrift verunziert: „Seinen im glorreichen Feldzuge 1870 auf 1871 gekämpften tapferen Kriegern." Bei der Abfassung dieser Inschrift scheint der „Schulmeister von Sadowa" nicht mitgewirkt zu haben.

Elsaß-Lothringen.

Straßburg. Unter den Freiwilligen, welche nach China abgingen, befindet sich eine ungewöhnlich große Anzahl Elsaß-Lothringer. Diese Thatsache bildet wiederum ein nicht zu unterschätzendes Symptom für den Fortschritt der Germanisation. Noch in den achtziger Jahren wären derartige freiwillige Meldungen zur deutschen Fahne als Verrath und Renegatenthum bezeichnet worden und einfach unmöglich gewesen.

Kolmar. Vom 22. bis 26. September d. J. findet in Kolmar der 19. deutsche Weinbau-Kongreß statt. Mit dem Kongresse wird eine Ausstellung von Geräthen und Bedarfsgegenständen für Weinbau und Weinbehandlung sowie eine Trauben- und Obstbehandlung in größerem Stile verbunden werden.

Metz. In dem Sensationsprozeß, den die fünf Erben des verstorbenen Rentiers Boulcourt gegen den Universalerben Architekt Herzog anstrengten, wurde Letzterer zur Herauszahlung von 148,000 Mark verurtheilt.

OUTING STYLES.

Cloaks, Hats and Costumes For the Bicycle.

Dust cloaks this year are made of gray, brown or blue heavy linen or even of white pique. They are constructed with more or less elaboration and have stitched plaits, triple capes, piping, straps and similar tailor made details.

Outing hats are of plain or stitched felt, linen, crash or pique. The felts are in all shades of brown and gray and in navy blue, black, Yale blue, red and white. The cotton and linen hats are white, gray, tan or navy blue. There is almost no decoration, sometimes simply a cord around the crown. The most elaborate have a striped or spotted silk handkerchief twisted about them.

Bicycle skirts of the most approved description are now made just like an ordinary skirt, except much shorter. The bloomer effect, whether genuine bloomers or the divided skirt, is quite abandoned. Little trousers of silk, alpaca or other goods matching the skirt in color are worn beneath it. The materials preferred for bicycle costumes are thin cloth, corkscrew, serge, cheviot and alpaca, mixed goods and fine checks or plaids. Dust colors, brown, gray, black and dark blue are the chief colors.

The bathing gown illustrated is of red serge. It is trimmed with white braid, which forms a straight border around the foot and is arranged in scallops to simulate a tunic. The blouse has shawl revers which are scalloped and edged with the braid, and there are no sleeves. The plastron is of white serge with horizontal tucks, and the belt is of white braid. A red cap is worn.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THIN COSTUMES.

Dainty Attire For the Summer Season.

Wash dresses should be fastened with little bone or pearl buttons in place of hooks and eyes, as these often rust during the laundering and make discolored spots upon the fabric.

A pretty effect is given to a plain silk waist by laying the silk in plaits before the garment is made, pressing the plaits firmly with a warm flatiron and then pulling them out again. These waists are pretty for a slender figure.

Gowns of lace made over a foundation of white silk are worn for elegant occasions and are in high esteem among the best dressed women.

Belt buckles are large again, and belts themselves are much wider than they were last year, when a narrow strap was the most fashionable kind. Now an inch and a half or two inches is considered proper.

The picture shows a charming gown of batiste with a printed floral pattern. Immediately in front the skirt is plain, but at the sides and back it is shirred. Around the foot it has, first, a flounce of guipure about which are groups of tucks alternating with bands of guipure insertion. The bodice is gathered at the waist. A wide pelerine collar of embroidered muslin and guipure covers the shoulders. The sleeves have cuffs matching the collar, below which are two puffs of muslin and a band of guipure finished with a frill. The hat of bise straw is trimmed with flowers and tinted foliage.

Mocha Coffee.

Mocha coffee formerly came from Arabia, but the trees were destroyed by a plague, and that country now raises scarcely enough for its own consumption. What is known as mocha in the markets of the world is grown in Central and South America, where it was introduced by the Jesuit fathers from Arabia.

REBECCA, THE OWL.

Story of a Bird Whose Annual Advent Is an Event in the Mountains of Virginia.

In the mountains of Virginia this owl bears the name of "Rebecca." For many years she has come and gone with the seasons, built her nest, reared her young and prophesied for the benefit of the people, who hold her in great veneration. To molest or harm her in any way would be looked upon as a punishable offense.

So great is her age that the present generation remembers when the grandfathers talked of this wonderful bird, whose wisdom so far surpassed their own that when heeding her example she never failed to lead them to success.

When springtime came, and with it the ambition of the farmers to be up and doing, so impatient were they for the coming of Rebecca that some one was chosen whose duty it was to announce her arrival and note her movements. When the welcome intelligence, "Rebecca has come," went forth, the good housewives knew she would soon be putting her house in order, and made haste to follow her example.

But seedtime had not yet come—not until the discovery of the first egg laid snugly in the nest. Then would plowing and planting begin and all kinds of farm work go confidently forward, for never once in all the years had Rebecca misled them.

Up to this time each year she reigned supreme, but later her duty in that direction was done. Two round-eyed babies with hungry mouths laid in the downy nest, and Rebecca in her devotion was oblivious to the world and did not bother about the outcome of the crops, as maternal duties occupied her mind for the rest of the season.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

COMMON EARTHWORM.

The Despised Little Wriggler Is a Most Important Factor in the Economy of Nature.

To see really what sort of a fellow the common earthworm is, first put him into a bowl of water. He will soon wriggle himself free from every particle of dirt, and you may then make him more comfortable on some dry, smooth surface while you study the peculiar movements of his remarkable body, which consists of a series of segments, or rings, all alike in form, except at the two ends, the anterior end tapering to a blunt point, the hinder end being broadened and flattened.

Watch the worm shorten himself after a long stretch. Projecting from the sides and the lower part of each ring, you will see the tiny bristles, called setae, with which he manages to walk. When he lengthens his body, the setae on the hinder rings prevent him from stretching backward, because they in pointing backward stick into the ground. The worm can therefore stretch only forward. In the same manner, when he shortens his body, the setae in the front rings, sticks into the ground, and the hinder part of the body is drawn up; he repeats this process every time he moves along.

That way of walking may seem very complicated and wonderful, but it is no more wonderful than that you should be able to balance your body on your two feet and walk without giving a thought to how you do it, or how wonderful it is that it can be done without thought. Watch a baby's efforts to keep his balance in learning to toddle only a few steps, and you will understand that walking seems easy to you because you have had so much practice.

The usefulness of the worms may be seen at once when you compare some of the things that they do with those that they are unjustly accused of doing. They do not destroy the roots of trees and plants. They eat half-decayed leaves, which they are able to grind with the muscles of the mouth; but they have no teeth with which to gnaw. They are useful to man in boring through the ground and loosening the soil to make it ready for the fibers of plants to enter. Surface soil is more or less loose, but the subsoil is hard and compact until the earthworms have worked it. Our tallest trees, even, would soon die if no opening were made by the worms for their root fibers to enter.

To keep worm life in check nature has provided the birds, and anyone who has watched the robin dine will see that there is no danger of the earthworm supplies exceeding the demand.—Our Animal Friends.

Wanted No More Brothers.

"Mamma," said a precocious youth of five, who had been assigned the task of rocking the cradle containing her little baby brother, "if the angels have any more kids to give away, don't you take 'em."

WORSHIP THEIR ANCESTORS.

THE PARAMOUNT TENET OF A CHINAMAN'S FAITH.

MUCH has been written lately about the religious fanaticism of the Chinese; and most of it is a mere pack of lies. The average Chinaman is not a religious bigot. He is averse to persecuting anyone on account of his spiritual leanings and countenances almost every form of worship. The bulk of China's population is divided into Buddhists, Taoists and the orthodox followers of Confucius; but very few writers mention the fact that scores of sects—some quite antagonistic to what might be called "established churches"—are prospering in every section of the great empire. The only ceremonial which unites the followers of all these schools is family worship, better known as worship of ancestors. The ancestral tomb is the family altar around which the Chinese pater familias, from the emperor down to the humblest coolie, assembles his children and all his servants and offers up to deity his prayers and his sacrifices.

The family idea is the fundamental principle of national and private life. The ancestors are considered at one with their posterity, and are supposed to intercede with the powers above for the children they have left behind. They are consulted at the family council and have the power to sanction or condemn all proceedings. All the descendants of a house pay homage to the founder, and the living head of the family is under moral obligation to take care of and provide for the poor of his clan. This is a duty that is never shirked, although in times of famine and failure of crops it usually ruins men who have been famed for their wealth and business sagacity. Future happiness and celestial bliss depend upon fidelity to the living and sacrifices for their sake will be rewarded by the ancestors who have gone before. The belief that the dead are exercising an ever-present influence on their posterity has, in the course of time, given rise to a system of superstition which might be called a mixture of spiritualism and necromancy. In its trail have followed witchcraft, animal worship and other demoralizing and grotesque practices.

The Christian missionaries, instead of trying to refine the worship of ancestors, have endeavored to stamp it out entirely; and that is the principal reason why their otherwise conscientious work has hitherto been virtually ineffective. The natives do not object to the teachings of Christ, but they cannot understand why they should not pray to their ancestors who, they firmly believe, dwell in the paradise of God and, as angels, are entitled to the worship of their children and children's children. From their point of view, which is based on the faith of scores of generations, and consequently a part of every individual life, they are not as unreasonable as the European and American emissaries of the Christ who, instead of adapting their doctrines to the understanding of the persons they desire to reach, ask them to renounce their ancestors altogether and worship the triune God.

It would seem that a man who is not a diplomat has no business to engage in missionary work in what is called semi-civilized countries. Paul, the most successful organizer the Christian church has ever had, was essentially diplomatic. He was not afraid to preach the truth, but he never preached a dogma or a schism. He studied the mental and traditional characteristics of his hearers and organized them, not according to a cast-iron plan, but according to their understandings. He knew full well that, the seeds of Christianity once planted in a community, a rich harvest was sure to follow, and that the minds and consciences of the most degraded believers would expand and be purified under the influence of divine love. In China, on the other hand, many Christian preachers, good and sincere men, have succeeded in nothing except giving life to a deep seated prejudice which has found its culmination in the outrages which are now startling the civilized world.

TOMBS OF THE NOBILITY LOCATED NEAR PEKING.

When the excitement was at its height some of the foreign generals suggested that a threat be communicated to the imperial government that the tombs of the emperors north of Peking would be destroyed in case of a wholesale massacre of white people. Fortunately wiser counsel prevailed. An ultimatum of this kind would have aroused the hatred and vengeance of every Chinaman and led to the annihilation of every white person in China. It would, moreover, have alienated the viceroys of the southern provinces who, so far, have stood up bravely for the maintenance of law and order.

MOSQUITOES and MALARIA

EUROPEAN DOCTORS' ODD TEST IN ROMAN SWAMPS

WHILE in many parts of the world armed forces are arrayed against each other for the sole purpose of destroying human life, two scientific men, dwelling in an uninviting house on the Roman Campagna, are risking their health to save the lives of countless thousands now living and not yet born. The most disastrous of all diseases, according to medical authorities, is malaria. Many theories have been advanced concerning the way in which malaria germs are introduced into the blood of human beings, the one most generally accepted in recent years being that the disease is spread by mosquitoes. Among the most noted believers in the latter theory are Dr. Louis Sambon, of the English School of Tropical Medicine, and his assistant, Dr. G. C. Low, who are now shut up in a mosquito-proof house in the marshes near Rome, the world's malarial hotbed, to demonstrate the truth of their arguments. They will remain in voluntary captivity until October to prove that under certain conditions it is possible to insure immunity from malaria in the worst of fever districts. It has been stated that a person cannot remain a single night in the Campagna without contracting malaria. The two English experimenters say this means that the average person cannot remain there a single night without being bitten by a mosquito bitten.

Drs. Sambon and Low expect to demonstrate that if a man can live all summer in the Roman Campagna without being bitten by mosquitoes he will escape malaria. The structure which they are inhabiting was constructed for them in London. It is a long, low building with a high, pitched roof. Its special feature is the use of very fine wire gauze, of the same texture as ordinary mosquito nets. This has been employed in the various casements of the building, while a quantity of the same material has been inserted between the roof and the tops of the supporting walls for purposes of ventilation. To make assurance doubly sure, ordinary mosquito nets are employed in the bedrooms. During the daytime the two doctors conduct experiments in the fever-stricken swamp around their house. Just before sunset they return to their domicile, and, after making sure that no stray mosquito has entered it, hermetically seal themselves up until sunrise.

MOSQUITO PROOF HOUSE ON THE ROMAN CAMPAGNA.

The scientific world is watching the present experiment with profound interest. If successful, it will prove that the spotted-winged mosquito of Europe, Asia and Africa is responsible for the worst of all diseases and that the adoption of modern drainage systems will do more toward stamping out the fever than all the quinine in the world. The mosquito breeds in swamps and nothing is so inimical to its existence as drainage. Nature has given man an ally in the dragon fly, which feeds on mosquitoes, and experiments are now under way in Europe and West Africa for breeding these gaudy-winged insects in great numbers and turning them loose in malarial districts.

POWER AND DIGNITY

Both Go with the Speakership of the House of Representatives.

All National Legislation Directed and Shaped by the Presiding Officer of the Popular Branch of Congress.

[Special Washington Letter.]

SPEAKER HENDERSON'S portrait has been placed in the speaker's lobby of the national house of representatives, alongside the portraits of his predecessors in that high office.

That lobby, which has become a picture gallery, is worthy the attention of everyone who visits the national captial. There are all sorts of pictures, representing the growth of the art of portraiture, representing the queer costumes of the several generations, and placing forever before the public view the features of the men who have achieved this distinction.

The speakership is a position to which all representatives aspire, because it is second in power to that of the presidency of this republic. The vice-presidential office is second in honor and dignity, but the speakership is second in power. All national legislation is directed by the speaker, even of measures which originate in the senate, because no measure can become a law without the coordinate consent of the house as well as of the senate.

During the past 40 years the power of the speaker has gradually been increased, until now it is almost autocratic. Ten years ago Speaker Reed declared that the minority of the house of representatives should not obstruct legislation. That was, indirectly, a claim that the speaker should have all power in shaping legislation. Subsequently similar power was conferred upon Speaker Crisp, and to-day all political parties and factions admit that this power shall be vested in the presiding officer of the house. That it is dangerous to permit one man to have this power, all theorists admit, and are ready to prove. That it is necessary to give this power to one man seems conceded because without it the majority might always be hampered by the minority, and that is a condition which is repugnant to the fundamental principles of our form of government.

Thousands of pages of the Congressional Record contain the printed arguments of eminent statesmen on the rights of the minority. It was claimed that the minority might prevent legislation in various ways, and under cover of rules provided for that very purpose. Ex-Speaker Randall during the last days of his public career made some of the most impassioned speeches of his life in demonstrating what he believed to be the rights of the minority. But that theory has been completely abandoned now, and the right of the majority to go forward with legislation, assuming all responsibility before the people, nobody questions.

SPEAKER HENDERSON.

All men are more or less ambitious, and politicians are particularly so. There is not a member of the national house of representatives who does not openly or secretly aspire to the speakership, and there are few who do not hope that they may reach the presidential office. All ambitious men love power, or crave power. Therefore it is that so many aspire to the speakership, an office more potential than kings can hold in modern times.

The men whose portraits are exhibited in the speaker's lobby did not wield such power in the early days of the republic; and yet, with the appointment of committees, they were rulers of men. You know that the speaker of each house of representatives is chosen by the majority of the representatives. In the first place, every two years the congress convenes by direction of the constitution on the first Monday in December. The representatives belonging to the party which has a majority meet and choose a candidate for the speakership; the man receiving a majority of the votes of the members of the majority being the man selected. This is done in caucus, usually on the Saturday preceding the convening of the congress. When the congress convenes all of the members of the majority vote for the man selected in caucus, and he is elected.

Thus it happens that the men who have been chosen to the speakership have been those who have been often reelected, who have made many friends, who have demonstrated their abilities and qualifications for leadership, and who have carefully cultivated popular manners with their colleagues. The only man that was ever elected speaker without having served previously, and long sought the coveted honor, was Henry Clay, who was elected speaker at the beginning of his representative career. Necessarily all of the men whose portraits are exhibited in the speaker's lobby were men of superior ability which enabled them to command the support of others who were their peers by virtue of their election to the house.

Personal acquaintance with speakers during the past quarter of a century warrants the assertion that no weak man can secure that prize, and that many strong men are denied the honor because they excite the antagonisms by reason of their aggressive natures. As an example of the latter class, the late Ben Butterworth, of Ohio, may be mentioned. He was a man possessed of superior abilities, of great learning, pleasing and convincing public speech, and every way qualified for the high office. But he could not play the role of self-seeking politician, could not keep silence on any subject in which he was interested, and he trampled over all opposition by the very forcefulness of his powerful nature. Such a man, while every way qualified, could not secure the support of his colleagues, and hence he never tried to secure the prize; at least he never was openly a candidate.

CHARLES F. CRISP.
(The Only Speaker Who Never Wounded Any Member's Feelings.)

Schuyler Colfax, of Indiana, was the first speaker with whom the writer had personal acquaintance. He was a companionable man, an aggressive speaker in debate, but always genial and considerate of others in his utterances. He was a better politician than Speaker Blaine, because Blaine seldom made a speech on the floor of the house in which he did not hurt the feelings of somebody. His abusive characterization of Roscoe Conkling afterwards cost him the presidency, to which he had so long aspired. Speaker Randall was one of the most honorable of men, and probably the best guardian of the public treasury that has occupied the speakership within the memory of the present generation. Speaker Carlisle was a great parliamentarian, and his rulings were always absolutely fair. Speaker Reed was a masterful man, who was elevated by his colleagues because of his conceded abilities, and not because he was popular. Speaker Crisp was one of the best-loved men that ever held the position. During his whole public career he never wounded the feelings of any man.

Speaker Henderson, whose portrait has just been placed in position, is a man whose life's history should be an inspiration to young men. Born in Scotland, he was brought here when only six years of age. Before attaining his majority he lost a leg in battle. Handicapped as he was, he did not despair, he aspired. He studied law and became a successful practitioner. Eighteen years ago he was elected to the house of representatives, and has been reelected every two years. Wounded and maimed, he exemplified the wisdom of that saying of Confucius: "Our greatest glory is not in never falling, but in rising every time we fall." Success in most things depends on knowing how long it takes to succeed. Valor is stability, not of the legs and arms, but of courage and the soul. Of Speaker Henderson it may be said, in the words of Dryden:

"What the child admired,
The youth endeavored, and the man acquired."

He is a man of great self-confidence, and has secured his elevation by forever working and striving. His journey has been a long one, from the farm to the speakership, from the battlefield's agony to the national leadership.

All speakers have aspired to the presidency, and one of them, James K. Polk, attained that honor. Speaker Henderson is deprived of that ambition, because of his foreign birth. He can never be made president, on account of the constitutional prohibition. Many ambitious speakers have died unsatisfied, if not unhappy, because they could not achieve the presidency. James G. Blaine and Henry Clay are the most conspicuous examples of this fact. All other honors and glories were insufficient to gratify their ambitions, and their distinctions did not bring happiness.

William McKinley wanted to be speaker, but he was defeated by the republican caucus in December, 1889; and then was defeated at the polls in 1890. William Jennings Bryan was ambitious for the speakership, but he was defeated at the polls. These defeats made one of them a successful candidate for the presidency, and made the other a great party leader with presidential possibilities. The speakership is a position of great power, but it is not a good stepping stone to the presidency.

With all of the glittering allurements of public life, for power and fame, there is so much of disappointment and bitterness, as the writer has seen for many years, that on every occasion young men are advised to seek real happiness and contentment in business pursuits in private life. There is more happiness in a humble home than in a palace.

HUMOROUS.

"So Miss Primrose has purchased a kodak?" "Yes; I presume she thinks she can catch a man that way."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

"What is a bargain, pa?" "A bargain, Freddy, is any shop-worn thing we don't need that your mother feels compelled to buy because it's cheap."—Indianapolis Journal.

Real Cruelty.—"Oh, mummy, do come and speak to Johnny; he's tweading on all the worms in the garden." "How unkind!" "Yes, and he won't let me twead on any."—The King.

"I sold newspapers when I was a boy," declared the statesman, proudly. "And now you are selling the public," remarked an unsympathetic auditor.—Philadelphia North American.

"The Jenkins girls are awfully cut up because they were not invited to the Beeson reception." "Yes. I heard they threatened to ride by the Beeson home every day for a week in their new automobile."—Indianapolis News.

And Fool the Flies.—"I wish," said the Infant Prodigy, "that I was a self-made man, like Uncle Henry." "Why?" asked the person who is always playing second fiddle in the conversational orchestra. "Because I would have left my head bald, too. It is so much trouble to comb it."—Baltimore American.

"No," replied the pirate, after a moment's thought, suspecting nothing, "I have never molested ships that pass in the night." "Then you are not a literary pirate?" observed the captive, and laughed loudly. Of course he only hastened his doom by such perfectly killing witticism as this.—Detroit Journal.

The Price of Success.—The final election returns had been received. Hon. Joshua Hayrick wore an expression of great sadness. "What's the matter?" they said to him. "Your election is conceded." "That's true, boys," he replied, gloomily, "and nothing under heaven will keep the village band from serenading me."—Philadelphia Press.

THE AGE OF MEMOIRS.

When Notable Persons of the Present Die There Are Many Books Printed.

On every hand there are signs that an age of memoirs is upon us, says the London Spectator. There have been such periods before, when the memoirs of some "person of quality" and the "remains" and "additional remains" of some divine were the most common outputs of the press. Then biography was a decent mark of respect, less necessary than a tombstone, but of a rank with the mutes and weepers. My lord was scarcely gone from his earthly tenement when his confidential secretary or his domestic chaplain had begun the work, which in time came into print with a frontispiece wherein Muses wept over their patron's bier. It was all an innocent convention, and the products, save in some few cases where the subject had made history, have departed into limbo. After all, the chaplain did his work with care and leisure, and the books had dignity if they lacked interest. To-day we are in a different case. No sooner does a notable man die than his memoir is forthcoming, and the same newspaper which prints the account of his funeral advertises his life in two volumes with photographs. Anyone with the smallest pretensions to fame may count on a hastily written biography, and the fashion goes further, for the majority make it their business to forestall the biographer and publish their annals in their lifetime. It is ungenerous to find fault with the good people who keep diaries and long memories, for we owe them many pleasant hours; but the fashion is a dangerous one, and there are sad examples of its degeneration. To have known eminent men and women is well, and to remember their sayings better; but more than this is required for the making of a good book. The truth is that a man's life is now regarded as a commercial asset. While he lives publishers pester him for his memoirs, and after his death there is always some willing scribe for the work. And the great public likes it, and money is made, and everyone is satisfied. . . . The public are in a hurry and must be waited on. While Mr. X.'s name is still in the papers it wants to know all about his education and his family, his recreations, his taste in wine, his opinions on his contemporaries. The habit is part of the vulgar curiosity which gives personal journalism its vogue; and, indeed, this type of memoirs is simply a systematized and padded journalism. . . .

The memoir has become too common and too careless, and all grievances culminate in the great complaint that it is rarely literature. For literature involves distinction, conscience and a nice discrimination. Its bounds are very wide, but for that reason its limits, when they appear, are impassable. There is all the difference in the world between the gossip of a Pepys and a Boswell and the chatter of the hack journalist.

Dry Air in Houses.

Observations by Mr. R. DeC. Ward on the relative humidity of the air in a room supplied with heat from a furnace indicate that the atmosphere in dwelling houses is sometimes drier than that of many desert regions. Even the mean relative humidity in Death valley, California, is but slightly lower than that of the room in which Mr. Ward's experiments were made.—Youth's Companion.

Another Way of Putting It.

"Is it proper to say that a person commits matrimony?" asked the ignorant one.

"Well," replied the sarcastic bachelor, "it would make it somewhat plainer to say that he was guilty of it."—Chicago Post.

Four Typical American Women

The Wives of the Four Principal National Candidates

Mrs. Ida Saxton McKinley is a granddaughter of John Saxton, the founder of the Canton Repository. The families of both her parents were among the pioneers of Ohio. She was born in Canton June 8, 1847. She was sent to the seminary at Media, Pa., but delicacy of constitution compelled her to leave the school at 16 years of age and continue her education at home. Her father, James Saxton, was an advocate of business education for women, and she spent some time as his assistant in the Saxton bank at Canton. After the close of the civil war she was sent to Europe to finish her education, and upon her return made the acquaintance of Maj. McKinley, to whom she was married on January 25, 1871. The invalidism which has so strongly brought out President McKinley's devotion to his wife did not attack her until after her marriage. The home life of the president and his wife is ideal, and despite her physical weakness Mrs. McKinley says she is the happiest of women. The president likes nothing better than to tell of the assistance his wife has been to him in his work.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt was Miss Edith Kermit Carow when she was married to the now candidate for vice president in 1886. She is a handsome woman, well educated, and thoroughly familiar with the requirements of society. She is a warm admirer of Mrs. Grover Cleveland, especially as a wife and mother, and warmly approves the declaration of the former president's wife that children belong exclusively to the home and fireside, and should never know they are objects of public interest, especially during a political campaign. She is careful to screen her children in all ways possible from photographers, and likewise shuns publicity for herself. She declares children, if promiscuously admired, become self-conscious, vain and conceited, and lose those traits of innocence and loveliness beautiful in children. There are six children. The eldest, Alice, aged 16, is a child by Gov. Roosevelt's first wife. The rest are Theodore, aged 13; Kermit, aged 11; Ethel, aged nine; Archibald, aged six, and Quentin, aged three. Mrs. Roosevelt was at Philadelphia with her husband.

Mrs. W. J. Bryan was Mary Baird, of Perry, Ill., and was married to Mr. Bryan on October 1, 1884. She attended the female academy in Jacksonville when he was in another school at the same place, and was graduated the same week that he was, and was also the valedictorian of her class. She studied law and was admitted to the bar without any idea of practicing, but simply to be more thoroughly companionable to him. She is a year or two younger than he. Mrs. Bryan has an immense amount of determination and aggressiveness, is studious and reserved. She does not care for fashion or society. Attention was at first drawn to her at the time Bryan made his famous tariff speech in the house, when it developed his wife had helped him write it. Mrs. Bryan has a great liking for politics and accompanies her husband on his campaign tours. Her tastes are essentially literary.

Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson is a daughter of Dr. L. W. Green, who was president of Center college, Danville, Ky., when the democratic candidate for vice president was attending studies there. She is of revolutionary stock, being a great-granddaughter of Joshua Fry, and has been president of the Daughters of the American Revolution. It was while he was learning logarithms of the father that Adlai Stevenson first met the daughter. The marriage did not take place until 1866, 15 years later. There are four children. Mrs. Stevenson went to Washington with her husband when he was elected to congress in 1874, again when he became postmaster general, and later vice president, and altogether has lived 16 years in the capital. She is essentially a home-loving woman, devoted to her family, and entertained little in Washington. Her taste in dress is extremely quiet and she seldom wears jewels.

HAIR BRUSH AND COMB.

Their Neglected Condition Is Said to Be Responsible for Many Cases of Scalp Trouble.

"The thing I'd like to impress upon the public is the vital importance of clean hair brushes," says a scalp specialist. "The condition of the average hair brush is simply disgraceful and makes a perfect mass of infection. The brush should be washed every week, and washing isn't enough. It should be thoroughly sterilized at least twice a month. All hair does not need much brushing, and the kind of brush required depends upon the peculiarities of the scalp. A stiff brush is necessary for some heads and fatal to others, and one's brush should really be prescribed by a competent specialist. Then, the comb should be a different thing from the ordinary affair. It should be coarse. A fine comb is all wrong. The teeth should round both on the sides and the ends, so that it will glide smoothly through the hair, and there shouldn't be any corners between the teeth.

"Women keep their hair better than men. In the first place there's more of it and their scalps are better protected, but they wear their hats so much less than men, and the hats, when they are worn, do not fit the head so tightly and create such a heat and moisture, generating poison, as the man's hat does. A leather hatband should be changed frequently. It gets dirty, and decomposition of leather is a wonderful microbe promoter."—Cincinnati Tribune.

But It Did Not Work.

Singing of birds was tried to overcome the insomnia of Maecenas.

THE TRAILING SKIRT.

Condemned by Medical Authorities Who Declare It to Be a Veritable Microbe Collector.

The physicians of Europe have banded together against the trailing skirts. During the scientific congress held at Rome the delegates from the various countries of Eurape have come to the conclusion that long skirts are eminently dangerous to health.

Dr. Philip Casagrandi demonstrated in a most original and impressive fashion the inconveniences and the sanitary perils of this garment. He sent into the streets a number of ladies carrying trailing skirts, with instructions to walk about for an hour.

When the ladies returned the dangerous vestments were submitted to a microscopic examination, and on each of the skirts Dr. Casagrandi discovered whole colonies of microbes and bacilli.

The physicians determined that the germs of influenza, consumption and typhoid fever are the least of the evils which careless mothers, after an hour's promenade, bring home to the cradles of their children.

In view of these alarming revelations made by Dr. Casagrandi the hygienists present at the congress promptly condemned the wearing of long skirts.

Iced Water Is the Best.

Ice-cold water is not so good as iced water—that is, water cooled by ice without coming in contact with it. The less of either the better. It is an excellent practice to drink water — an abundance of it—just before retiring; also the first thing in the morning. It is a cleaner of the system, especially of the stomach, and is a good diuretic.

PLENTY OF SMOKE.

Oiled Rag Thrown Behind a Door in Hedden's Livery Stable Caused an Alarm of Fire.

The fire department was called out Saturday afternoon by an alarm from Box 13, corner of Park and North avenues. The fire was discovered at Hedden's livery stable on East Fourth street. During the morning the floor in the office was oiled. A large rag was used, after which it was thrown behind the door to the stairs that lead to the hay loft. Toward night it began to smoke and an alarm of fire was sent in. Assistant Chief Murray was the first to discover the cause of the fire and it was quickly put out with an extinguisher.

Frank Hart May be Lucky One.

At the regular August meeting of the Common Council this evening a regular man will be appointed to service in the fire department to fill the vacancy caused by the death of James Bailey. It is rumored that Frank Hart will receive the appointment, but it is not known who will be selected as Chief Doane's permanent driver. The selection will be made by Chief Doane tomorrow. At present Bert Townley is filling the position.

Fish Hook in His Ear.

Fred Allen, a young son of David C. Allen, of Harrison street, had the misfortune this morning to run a fish hook in his left ear, making it very sore and painful. Dr. Merrell treated the wound. The hook penetrated the flesh to a considerable depth and caused the ear to swell to large proportions.

this purpose on the part of the powers makes it appear to China that by unjust force and un-Christian invasion the ancient empire is likely to lose its existence. These words from the Empress Dowager would be deemed commendable patriotism at the lips of the ruler of any Christian nation. Meanwhile, the fact remains that within this century western civilization has carried to China more immediate evils than it has wrought immediate good. If only a pure Christiaty had been represented the case would be different. Greed of commerce, lust of sea-going and commercial men, dishonest practices and political scheming have gone before the true teachings of Christianity, and in the Chinese mind these influences are a part of the Christian system. Under the extended treaty rights which have been secured, by force or threat, Christianity has come in for a large share. These are just and necessary in many cases, but the fact remains that they appear to the Chinaman not so much religious truths as political schemes for baser purposes.

As a result of various influences a Liberal party, favoring western ideas, has grown up with great rapidity within the last few years. It was represented by the young Emperor, and under his edicts a revolution began which threatened all the interests of conservative China, social, religious, commercial and political.

To check the revolution which was carrying China toward Western civilization, the young Emperor was pushed aside and the Queen-Dowager, with her conservative advisers, assumed full command of the Government. Pushed by greed, most of the powers united in making an attack upon the forts at Taku—we are thankful that the American Admiral was wise enough not to take part in that attack—and the results with which you are all familiar have swiftly followed.

In many respects the Western powers have sown to the wind, and Christian missions, which have sought to carry the higher principles of Christianity into China, have begun to reap the resultant whirlwind. Taken as a class the missionaries in China are consecrated, devoted and God-fearing men and women.

These Christian interests must be protected as far as possible, and China must be compelled to abide by the just international laws of the world. In the meantime the Christian powers ought to repent for much which they, and the Christian people of the world muust unite to exalt true Christianity in China, separated from political and commercial schemes. Probably a revolution in Christian mission work in China has already begun, which will continue for half a century, perhaps more, and we trust that many valuable lessons will be learned. Above all else, the representatives of Christianity must put aside every thought of vengeance, seeking only such righteous justice as can be attained by diplomacy, and avoiding, unless it be to overcome a lawless mob, war and bloodshed. If anything is gained for the future of Christianity, and if Protestant efforts in China shall not share the fate of the experients which have been made hitherto, it will be because in this time of terrible confusion the Chinese people shall be taught that Christianity has something better for them than the greed of commerce and the chicanery of politics. Revolotion in China must come. After thousands of years of isolation China herself will finally hail the changes that are now inaugurated. But from this time forward the purest motives and the highest endeavor for the good of China, rather than her exploitation in the interest of politics, must be the watchword of the hour on the part of all true Christians.

CHINESE WIDOW'S ARCH.

When a Woman's Husband Dies and She Remains Faithful One Is Erected in Her Honor.

In China when a woman's husband dies she has the choice of a second husband, that is if she can get one, or of a widow's arch at her death. A few take the ante-death prize, but many of them prefer the beautifully carved gateway. The accompanying picture shows a group of American missionaries standing about one of these arches.

A widow's arch, says the Cincinnati Enquirer, is a very common sight in China. It matters not what part of the Celestial empire one visits these "works of art" are noticeable many times in large numbers. They are found in the streets, near the gates of a city or out in the open field. The object of erecting the structures is to show reverence or esteem for the departed. Sometimes they are erected to other than the widows who refuse to marry again. Distinguished men are allowed to rear them to themselves. No man, however, can build one without the permission of the emperor. When such permission is granted a note of it is made, in Chinese characters, on the top part of the arch and the man's name becomes famous from that time.

WIDOW'S ARCH IN CHINA.
(Peculiar Structure Popular in All Parts of the Empire.)

The arch to the memory of a widow is usually built by her friends. As in the case of burial, the elaborateness depends upon the wealth of relatives to a great extent. The difference in a great measure is noticeable in the carving, especially in the number of carved characters placed thereon. It is seldom that an arch more than 25 feet in height is found. The one shown in the accompanying illustration is about 15 feet in height. These arches are built of either wood or stone. The stone ones, like those of wood, are fastened by mortises and wedges.

In country places a number of them will often be found side by side forming a straight line for some distance, though it is more of an honor to have them built near a temple. The widow who decides that she will win an arch at her death at once goes into the family of her deceased husband and begins a life of servitude in many cases. She is under the direction of her mother-in-law from morning till night.

KNOWS CHINA WELL.

Mr. Rockhill, President McKinley's Special Commissioner.

Formerly Served as Secretary to the American Embassy at Peking—Has Had Wide Experience as a Diplomat.

W. W. Rockhill, director of the bureau of American republics, has been appointed special commissioner to go to China and report upon the situation there.

In appointing William W. Rockhill to represent this country in China the president has not only shown his readiness to disregard party affiliations but at the same time has selected a man who of all others is likely to understand the hidden causes of the disturbances in China. Mr. Rockhill has had ample diplomatic experience to fit him for the delicate position which he will now occupy. He was secretary of legation in China and also in Corea, and as chief clerk of the state department under Secretary Gresham received a practical training in all the mysteries of diplomatic life.

Later he became third assistant secretary of state and went through all the trying work incident to the Venezuelan negotiations, and later took a prominent part in the negotiations of Spain regarding Cuba.

Mr. Rockhill was a steadfast follower of President Cleveland. When John Sherman was put into the state department Mr. Rockhill proved invaluable to the administration and was appointed minister to Greece as a special recognition of his services. Later on Mr. Rockhill was recalled and put in charge of the bureau of American republics, which he gives up to go to China.

The particular value of Mr. Rockhill at the present crisis lies in the fact that he has special personal knowledge of the orient. He was the first white man to make any extensive exploration of Thibet. Mr. Rockhill went into the country at a time when it was practically closed to the outside world, lived with the people, adopted the native dress, and learned not only languages but dialects. His book on Thibet is an authority the world over.

WILLIAM W. ROCKHILL.
(President McKinley's Special Commissioner to China.)

Besides that, Mr. Rockhill is an accomplished orientalist, and ever since he was in China as secretary of legation he has kept up his studies of the character of the people and their institutions. As soon as the danger to Minister Conger became apparent Mr. Rockhill was called into consultation by Secretary Hay, and has been of immense service. He goes to China as a sort of special agent of the administration, but he will have large diplomatic powers. It is fully realized that in the breakup likely to come in China it will be necessary to have as a representative there not only some one versed in European diplomacy, but a man able to judge the motives and methods of the Chinese themselves.

Mr. Rockhill has lived a good deal among the great people of the earth, but he has not forgotten the time when he trudged, a barefooted pilgrim, across the plains of Thibet and along the mountain trails when a discovery of his identity world have meant a cruel death.

Mr. Rockhill came particularly near being the minister to China himself. He wanted to go and really applied for the place, but it was considered a little too good a berth for such a recent convert to the administration. Col. Bryan, of Chcago, was appointed and then transferred to Brazil, and thus the exigency of politics saved Bryan and Rockhill from Mr. Conger's fate.

Slate Roofs Banish Storks.

Naturalists in North Germany are watching an interesting development. The stork is a migratory bird which year by year has returned to its old haunts, choosing for preference to build its nest on a thatched roof. The modern introduction of slate roofs in the country—now compulsory in the case of new houses—has greatly troubled Brother Longlegs, as the children call him, who is concerned as to his future habitation. Stork stories are the fashion in some North German journals just now, and certainly the birds adopt some queer dwelling places, if the reports are true. The obvious suggestion would seem to be that he should get him to a haystack, but hay is stacked only in a few places in Germany, and in any case the instinct would probably guide the stork to recognize the temporary nature of these thatched possibilities.

Density of Population.

In Switzerland, says Consul General Dubois, there are 73.2 inhabitants to 247.1 acres; England has 120; Germany, 96.7; Russia, 49.9; Belgium, 206; Austria, 79.6; Hungary, 54.2; Italy, 110.5, and France, 71.8, or the third lowest of the European powers, Russia and Hungary having less than France.

HUSBAND'S TOWN TOO DIRTY.

Peculiar Plea for Divorce Filled by Wife of Wealthy Man.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, August 6—Charles Weber, a wealthy clay manufacturer founder of the town of Weber, has applied for a divorce from his wife, alleging desertion. Mrs. Weber left him in 1896, because he wanted her to live at Weber, a village that has grown up around Weber's big fire brick factory.

She declared Weber had no society that it was lonesome and dirty, and that all the wealth of the Astors would not pursuade her to live there. She secured a South Dakota divorce, alleging ill treatment.

Special Master in Chancery J. Kearney Rice, of this city, has recommend that the Dakota divorce be set aside and that a decree be granted to Weber.

COUNCILMAN CRAIG AGAINST SEWAGE BEDS

Declares That the Present System Used by the City is a Rank Failure.

"MUST GO TO TIDEWATER."

HE HAS OPPOSED BEDS FROM THE VERY OUTSET.

Mr. Craig Says That the Operation of the Beds Have Drove the Tenants Out of Houses He Owned in That Vicinity.

When it was first proposed over five years ago to establish the city sewage disposal beds in the west end, there was no more vigorous opponent to the plan than James Craig. Since that time Mr. Craig has been elected a member of the Common Council, but his views in regard to this municipal institution have not changed. Councilman Craig still believes that the sewage beds are a failure and that there is no alternative for the city but to send its sewage to tidewater. Councilman Craig was seen by a Press reporter and he talked freely about his ideas of sewage dispcsal.

"I am in favor of the removal of the beds," said Mr. Craig. "It is only a matter of time when it will have to be done, as the capacity of the beds is not large enough. There is no way of extending them, except by coming on the south side of Dunellen avenue which would place them almost directly upon Front street. Even if they could be enlarged it would be of no use, as the soil in this vicinity is not adapted to filtration purposes. The promoters of the scheme have had four years in which to verify the truth of their statements regarding the working of the beds, and the result has been as I told them at the time. They must now take care of it until some other means of disposal can be secured. I do not favor putting any more money into the beds, except that absolutely necessary to provide for the sewage until tide-water can be reached, as that is the only method of disposal. There is no theorizing or experimenting about tide-water

"I am almost positive that the expense of running the present beds would pay for the bonds necessary for the trunk line. Civil Engineer Nelson, who lived in Dunellen when the disposal bed question was first agitated, told the Council they would be a failure and offered for a little more than the sum needed for the beds to take the contract to run the sewage to tide water. But as Mr. Frost said: 'Remonstrance or no remonstrance, the city would have them.' The city got them and it has proved a rather costly experiment.

"In the present state of the beds it is impossible to lay new tile or get that already laid. Most of them were laid on quicksand with the result that they became uneven or sank. I told Mr. Frost when they were laid that his theory of filtration was not practicable. Any man versed in farming would say the same. No better proof is needed than that shown by clothes left out over night in my yard. An odor clings to them for some time afterward. Yet the system is supposed to be odorless. When the sewage was first thrown in the beds it would all filter through the ground before reaching the other side. Now the ground has become saturated to such an extent that it remains on top for six months.

"As for putting in septic tanks or anything else," continued Mr. Craig, "I do not believe in it. I have heard from different sources that it would cost $55,000 to put in the tank and bacteria beds as proposed. By putting them in I understand it would leave but two beds with which to dispose of the filtered sewage. When it can't be disposed of by twenty now, it is a question as to how it can be done then.

"In regard to the effect the beds have had on surrounding property, take may own case. Before they were located here I had four houses all rented. Three have been vacant ever since and one rented for almost nothing. When the plant was being built I had a tenant in one house by the name of DeMazier. He had seen the beds in operation at Berlin and knew all about them. He declared the present ones would be a failure and as soon as disposing was commenced he would move. He did so and his statement as well as mine has been verified. At the present time the sewage is being run upon the beds direct without any screening, and to prevent an odor quick lime is used. From one of the lower beds the sewage is run directly into the brook, polluting that stream, which the city has no right to do. Anyone who visits the beds can see this for themselves."

STREET IN BAD SHAPE.

WEST FRONT STREET NEEDS TO BE PERMANENTLY PAVED.

Trolley Tracks to Blame for the Present Condition—Most Used Street in the City.

There is a matter that will at an early date call for the attention of the Councilmanic street committee, and that is the condition of West Front street, between Park and Gaant avenues. It is only a comparatively short time since that street was fixed, but today it is by far the worst one in the city. There are any number of places where the trolley tracks project for several inches above the roadbed, and people in carriages are forever fearful lest the wheels go to pieces. Then, again, it is dangerous for wheelmen, who have to be considered at all times. Scarcely a day passes but what some accident is reported where a wheelman is thrown or a wagon wheel dished along that thoroughfare.

Of course, the condition of the road near the tracks is bad enough, but that is not the worst feature. The other part of the road between the points mentioned is just full of bumps, holes, etc., of every description, and it is almost sufficient to give a person nervous prostration to ride over the road on a wheel. For the main thoroughfare through the city leading as it does to other places nearby in the state, it is a shame that it should be in its present condition.

The question arises as to the cause and how it can be prevented. In the first place the trolley is largely responsible for the condition of the street. The tracks occupy a prominent position in the centre, and all hopes of ever having a crown in the street has to be given up. The trolley company should be compelled to look after their part, or if they have arranged to pay their proportionate share of the expense and the city is to attend to it, it should be looked after and not allowed to go until the present condition is reached.

West Front street is travelled a great deal and it is only a question of time when some permanent pavement will have to be laid. Whether it will be brick, asphalt, or what not, some sort of pavement will have to be put down that will stand the heavy travel. When this is done the trolley company should be compelled to pay a good share of the expense, for in a great measure, as stated, they are responsible for the present condition of the street. A stranger passing through the main street of the city does not get a good impression of Plainfield's streets, which are begining to assume their former appearance before the sewer, water, etc., caused them to be torn up.

It is the opinion of many that road bonds should be issued for permanent pavement and that the coming generation should help to pay for something from which they will derive a benefit. If permanent pavement is not started Plainfield's streets will be just as bad fifty years from now as they are today.

PUTTING OUT THE LIGHTS.

A Keystone Stable Man Extinguishing Danger Lights

Charles Payne, of Bethlehem, Pa., admitted to Judge Runyon this morning a charge of drunkeness, but he denied being disorderly. But for all that, Payne was busily engaged in putting out the lanterns on Watchung avenue, where repairs are being made, when detected by a conductor last night. Payne objected to stopping and a struggle was in progress between he and the conductor when Officer McCarthy took a hand. Payne didn't realize he was putting his life in danger by extinguishing the lights and it cost him $3 to become acquainted with the fact.

NEW DRIVER FOR CHIEF.

CHANGES MADE IN THE FIRE DEPARTMENT LAST NIGHT.

Fred Breen Transferred to Chemical Engine and Edward Vail Takes His Place on the Truck.

Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, announces several changes in the department which take effect today. He has selected William Townley, formerly driver on the chemical engine, as his driver, and Fred Breen, who has been driving the truck team, team, has been put on the chemical engine. Mr. Breen's place on the truck has been taken by Edward Vail, who until now has been shifting about and working in the place of the other men when they were off duty.

While it cannot be said that the above changes are perfectly in accord with the wishes of all the men in the department, it is conceded that they are generally satisfactory, and inasmuch as it is the Board of Engineers, together with the Common Council, that governs the fire department, and not the men in the department, the judgment of the governing body must be considered as the proper thing. In a way the changes are in the line of promotion, the position of driver for the chief being considered the highest in the department, and the other positions follow in succession.

Frank D. Hart, who was made a full paid fireman last evening by the Council, will take the place of Edward Vail—that is, he will shift about and take the place of the other men while they are on their vacation or off duty for any other reason. Mr. Hart was a call man, and he is an experienced driver.

UNABLE TO ACCEPT HONOR.

J. E. Martine Asked to Serve on Democratic Notofication Committee.

James E. Martine received a telegram from W. B. Gourley, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, yesterday afternoon, asking him to serve from New Jersey on the committee that will notofy Bryan and Stevenson of their nomination as candidates for President and Vice-President at Indianapolis. Owing to important business that demands his attention at home, Mr. Martine was unable to accept the honor. Col. George Pfeiffer, of Camden, who was selected for the duty by the New Jersey delegation at Kansas City, is sick and unable to go.

A Small Fire.

A small fire occurred last evening about 8:45 o'clock in the hallway leading to the Young Women' Club rooms that are now located over Gus. Martin's grocery store on West Second street, near Park avenue. A lamp was lighted and put inside of a glass case and placed in the hallway, and in some manner the oil ignited causing quite a blaze. Word was sent to No. 1 house, West Second street, and Driver James Daly responded. He carried the lamp into the street and then with the aid of an extinguisher put the flames out. There was no damage.

Mt. Marcy Uneasy.

The Daily Saratogian, published at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., in its issue of Aug. 6th, says that Mt. Marcy, the highest mountain in the Arondack Range, is very uneasy, with volcanic tendency. This mountain is one of the curiosities of the Arondack section and it is said to be the first mountain in the world to have received the cooling breezes after the chaos period, and to this fact is attributed the continued salubrity of the air and general healthfulness of the Adirondack Mountains.

EXCESSIVE BAIL FOR HARMLESS MAN

Justice Mosher Demands $1,000 Bond for Appearance Before Grand Jury.

A REMARKABLE DECISION.

PRESUMPTIOUS LAW STUDENT HUSTLED AROUND A BIT.

Willie Sweeney Makes the Complaint Saying That an Italian Threatened to Kill Him—Judge to be Appealed to.

The court (?) presided over by Justice Mosher has been the scene of some remarkable exhibitions of judicial practice and decisions in times gone by, but this morning a case was heard there which will undoubtedly be recognized as one of the most remarkable ever recorded by the diminutive Dogberry. The justice went to the extreme of demanding that an Italian, who had been provoked by the presumptious conduct of a young law student into pushing the youth around a bit, furnish the exorbitant bail of $1,000 or be incarcerated in the county jail until the Grand Jury meets.

In the most extreme cases of assault and battery—and if a man lays his hand on another ever so lightly that constitutes technical assault and battery—the bail demanded by justices seldom exceed $500. In this case, however, where the complainant was not in any way injured, and probably stood in no danger of being, Justice Mosher imperiously ruled that a bond for not less than $1,000 was necessary!

By attempting, it is alleged, to prevent Constable John Gjetelsen and Law Student William Sweeney from making a levy upon his store yesterday, John Wilson, as he is known, of Liberty street, was arrested upon a charge of assault and battery. He was brought before Justice Mosher this morning, before whom he waived examination. The man was then held in the exorbitant sum of $1,000 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

In justice to Wilson it may be said that he had a perfect right to object to Sweeney's entrance to his store. Beside this, the store does not belong to Wilson, but to his wife. Wilson did not object to Gjetelsen's entrance to the store, but he insisted on Sweeney remaining inside. This the youngster refused to do and Wilson attempted to force him out.

Naturally, Sweeney was hustled a little and this is the extent of the assault. Wilson left the store in search of his lawyer. The levy was then made amid the protestation of Mrs. Wilson and an inventory of the stock was being made when Wilson returned. Sweeney declares that he then drew a revolver and threatened his life.

He swore out a warrant for his arrest and Wilson was taken to jail last night. He was released later through the efforts of Lawyer Harry C. Runyon and appeared for trial this morning. After a most farcical proceeding the man was held in the bail already mentioned. His lawyer refused to furnish it and Wilson was taken to the city jail. His counsel will probably go before Judge Vail this afternoon and have the bail reduced or institute habeas corpus proceedings.

DEATH OF YOUNG WOMAN.

Miss Maude Fleming Succumbs to an Operation Performed for Acute Peritonitis.

Miss Maude Fleming, aged twenty-one years, died yesterday at the hospital, following an operation Saturday last for acute peritonitis. She had only suffered a few days with the disease, and her condition after the operation was such that it was believed she would recover. Yesterday there was a turn for the worse and the end came quicker than was expected.

Miss Fleming was the daughter of Rachel and the late John Fleming, and she and her mother moved from Dover, Morris county, to Plainfield three months ago, when the silk skirt factory was located on Watchung avenue.

She worked in the factory at Dover, and was highly esteemed by all who knew her for her many excellent qualities. Her death is a severe blow to her mother who is now left alone.

Since coming to Plainfield the mother and daughter made their home at John Hope's residence, 353 East Third street, and the funeral services will be held from that place tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

PLEASANT RELATIONS BETWEEN CENTRAL AND ITS EMPLOYES.

Negotiations for New Agreement is Progressing Favorably and There Will be No Trouble.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Jersey City, August 7.—Out of the conferences begun here between officials of the Jersey Central Railroad and their employes arose rumors of a coming strike. No foundation for these rumors has been discovered, and trouble seems exceedingly improbable.

Fifteen years ago the Jersey Central Railroad Company and its employes entered into a contract for mutual benefit. Since that time occasional differences have arisen which have tended to vitiate some parts of the agreement.

The officers of the road have taken no active steps to have the old arrangement revised, preferring that the men should realize that by reason of the changes in railroad train service and the conditions governing operating methods that revisions or new agreements were necessary. The men have realized this, and a short time since took the initiative to have the rules changed, and submitted a number of them to the officers. The general officers then appointed a committee of division superintendents, who disqussed the subject with the various committees of the different brotherhoods. The framing of the new agreement is still under discussion and is being conducted amicably on both sides, with the expectation that a satisfactory conclusion will soon be reached. The officers representing the company do not purpose suggesting any rules that would be to the disadvantage of the men.

BUMBLEBEES IN AN ICEHOUSE.

Trying to Burn Them Out Caused a Bad Fire at Somerville.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Aug. 7.—A swarm of bumblebees and a lighted torch in the hands of a carsweeper were the cause of a fire here at a late hour Saturday night, which destroyed the big ice house of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, and blocked traffic on its main line for about two hours.

The bees had recently held poesession of the icehouse to the consternation of the car tenders, who were obliged to get ice from it for the water tanks in the passenger coaches. Saturday night an aged carsweeper tried to rid the place of the pests by applying a lighted torch to their nests. Before he had succeeded the big building, containing several hundred tons of ice, was on fire. Situated near the icehouse was a large oil tank and the big carhouse of the Central Railroad Company.

Just the Place to Go.

If the hot weather continues until Thursday a chance will be given to everyone to escape the heat that day by attending the excurion of the Crescent Avenue, Grace and St. Stephen's churches and Bethel chapel Sunday-schools to Asbury Park in two sections. Schoolhouse Improvements.

Some improvements are being made at the Watchung school in the borough, including the building of additions to the two rear entrances to the building. This is intended for stormy weather and will allow the children to stand inside while removing their wraps and overshoes. Wm. Smith, the mason, is doing the work.

Miss Schoonmaker Wedded.

PERCHED ON THE PILOT.

YOUNG MAN'S NERVY TRICK TO STEAL A RIDE ON A TRAIN.

When He Was Pulled Off He Fought Special Officer Martin—Was Penitent in City Court.

In his anxiety to get to Port Oram in search of a position, John Deavy, of Jersey City, selected the pilot of the 1:01 p m. train from the North Avenue station, yesterday, as a means of reaching his destination. Deavy, who is but a mere lad, had been visiting a relative in North Plainfield, and after bidding him good-bye, indulged in several drinks. He found his way to the North Avenue station, where his actions attracted the attention of Special Officer Thomas Martin. According to the latter's statement the young man had several narrow escapes from death while attempting to board trains, and also from falling in the tunnel excavation. He finally disappeared on a coal train only to turn up later on the 1:01 train. He was ejected from it by the conductor who said he had gotten on at Netherwood.

Not daunted in the least by his failure to secure a ride, Deavy moved up and unnoticed, perched himself on the front of the engine. The train started and he was congratulating himself on being started on his journey, when he was seen by the crew of drill engine and the train was stopped. He was rudely hauled off by the train crew. A struggle followed and it became necessary to secure Officer Martin's assistance. Deavy refused absolutely to being arrested by Martin mainly on account of the latter's color. A crowd of several hundred people were attracted to the scene none of whom, as Martin declares would help him. Upon the arrival of Officer Flynn, however, the young man submitted to arrest.

In the city court this morning, Martin urged punishment for Deavy but after hearing the evidence, Judge Runyon decided he had been punished enough for him. He suspended sentence on the lad on condition that he keep away frym the railroad and also to apologize to Martin for the things he had said about him. Deavy agreed to this and the two shook hands in presence of the court.

STONES WILL BE RELAID.

More Substantial Gutter on Park Avenue When Macadamizing is Finished.

The fact that the stones used in paving the gutter along Park avenue are being carted away while the roadbed is being macadamized has led many to believe that it was the intention of Street Commissioner Gavett not to use the stones again. Such is not the case, however. The stones are being taken away temporarily so that it would not be necessary to pile them up on the sidewalks and thus impede traffic there. When the macadamizing is finished the stones will be laid in the gutter again in a much more substantial manner than heretofore.

Partners at Odds.

Law suits are coming thick and fast upon Leonardo Vitromil, or, as he is known, John Wilson. The latest is a suit for $200 brought against him by Pasquale Pisanelli. The two have been in partnership as the Pizzo Tailoring Company. Some time ago Pisanelli sold his interest in the business to Wilson, but not various goods in the store. Wilson appropriated the goods for his own use and Pisanelli objected. He brought suit before Justice Mosher yesterday, who after hearing the case reserved his decision for one week.

Betts was Indignant.

William Betts, a familiar character in Plainfield, was arraigned in the City Court this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct on North avenue, preferred against him by Roundsman Mattox. Betts explained his actions were caused by his indignation at certain liberties taken with his rooms by a colored woman living next to him. During his absence she used them to entertain her friends and also as a playroom for her baby. The Judge decided that Betts was justified in his indignation and discharged him.

CENTRAL WANTS TO CLOSE CHURCH STREET

A Lawyer for the Company Appeared Before the Council to Urge Favorable Action.

MAY NOT BE DONE, THOUGH.

COMPANY DOES NOT WANT TO BE RESPONSIBLE FOR DAMAGES.

Tax Ordinance Amended—New Men Appointed in Fire Department—Other Routine Business Brought Before the Council.

The August meeting of the Common Council held last evening was void of any sensational features, and, as the members were anxious to get through with the business on hand, there was not much delay. Frank D. Randolph, the Councilman-elect was present to take the place vacated by former Councilman F. H. Smith. He was assigned to the seat formerly occupied by President Dumont when he was on the floor. Councilman Mellick was the only member absent from the meeting.

Mr. Tolles moved that the regular order of business be suspended to allow for a hearing on the question of closing Church street according to an ordinance previously introduced. Letters were read from the Plainfield Gas Company, Charles McGinley and other owners of property on the street, in which they dedicated their property to close the street and waived all right and claim to an award for damages. The property represented was nearly 80 per cent. of the whole amount affected.

There was no one present to speak against the proposed closing of the street. George Holmes, of Jersey City, one of the counsels far the Jersey Central Railroad, was at the meeting and he argued for the closing of the street, and the abolishment of a dangerous grade crossing. He cited the fact that there are numerous undergrade crossings nearby and it would be to the advantage of the city to have the street closed. He had investigated the matter and found only a footpath there and the street covered with high weeds. It was evident that the street is used very little and argues strongly for the closing of it. Mr. Holmes stated that the railroad company had never made an agreement to stand for all suits brought against them in such a matter and they did not feel willing to do so now in this case. Persons who would not think of bringing action against their neighbors or their city, would do very quick against a railroad or any large corporation, and for that reason the railroad company are not willing to break the rule.

He stated further, however, that the railroad, through their counsel, would assist the city in any suits brought against it for damages, and he thought the city should be willing to stand its share of the burden with the railroad company.

While it was not so stated in the meeting, the point of objection to granting the request from the railroad company is that the Council believes that the company should take all risk and stand for any suits. It was through no efforts of the city that the grade-crossing was established, and the officials do not want to stand for any expense in the matter, inasmuch as it is wholly to the benefit of the company to close the street, whereby they will reduce their expense by the removal of a flagman. This is what argues against the adoption of the ordinance, and it is quite likely that the railroad company will have to agree to all risks if they succeed in closing the street. The consents were filed, and the ordinance will come up at a future meeting for final action.

The regular order of business was then taken up, when F. W. Coleman and others asked for an electric light between Belvidere and Woodland avenues on Park lane. This was granted, as were also four more on the motion of Mr. Clifton. Of the four lights granted, one will be placed on Park terrace and another near the corner of Park terrace and Berkely avenue, and two on Jefferson avenue.

Jacob Schlick and others asked for a sidewalk on the northern side of South Second street near Spooner avenue. The chairman of the street committee from Fanwood Council, in a communication, asked for a conference with the street committee from the Plainfield Council regarding the care of that section of the road set apart by the Union County Board of Freeholders as a county road. When the road was set apart as a county road the matter was so left that the

It was a grand thing for this community that such an enterprising firm as L. W. Randolph secured the Agency for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, the wonderful remedy that has startled the world by its marvelous cures. The furor of enthusiasm over it has boomed their business, as the demand for it is immense. They give free trial bottles to sufferers, and positively guarantee it to cure Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, and all Throat and Lung troubles. A trial proves its merit. CUBAN TEACHERS COMING.

Will Visit Washington and Call on the President.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The delegation of Cuban schoolteachers now receiving a course of instruction in English branches at Harvard university, Cambridge, Mass., will visit this city on the 18th inst. for the purpose of paying their personal respects to the president of the United States and to inspect public institutions and attractions of the national capital. Adjutant General Corbin has been informed that arrangements have been made for the visit to Washington on the date named. The schoolteachers, numbering 1,400, will arrive here in the morning and leave in the evening for New York, where they will board army transports in waiting to take them back to their homes in Cuba.

Although the national government defrays all their traveling expenses to and from Cuba, it is unable to make provision for their care and entertainment while in this country, the entire expense connected with their sojourn in Massachusetts being defrayed out of the fund of nearly $100,000 contributed by public spirited citizens of Boston, and it is probable that the expense of the trip to Washington and then to New York will be met out of the same fund.

So far as known no arrangements have been made for the entertainment of the visitors while in this city, but it is probable that a movement will be made to raise a fund sufficient to provide them with breakfast, luncheon and dinner, as they will be in Washington during the usual hours for those meals.

The matter of receiving them at the White House having been presented to the president, he has promised to arrange his movements so as to be in Washington on the day fixed for the visit of the teachers.

Cuban Marriage Law Changed.

HAVANA, Aug. 7.—The new ecclesiastical marriage law, revoking the decree issued in May of last year by General Brooke, will go into effect next Monday. The Brooke edict prohibited ecclesiastical marriages, recognizing only the civil ceremony. After much consideration and taking into account the best opinion of ecclesiastical and political functionaries here, Governor General Wood directs that the ecclesiastical ceremony be recognized as on a basis of legality like that upon which it rests in the United States. From Monday next, therefore, parties wishing to marry may go through the ecclesiastical or civil ceremony or both, at their option. This decision restores to the church the privileges it enjoyed prior to the American occupation. Next Saturday Governor General Wood and the members of the cabinet will leave Havana for a tour of investigation around the island.

To Keep Up Pig Iron Prices.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 7.—At a meeting of the Bessemer association here an important step was decided upon with the object of preventing a further decline in the price of pig iron. It was agreed that all the furnaces producing Bessemer pig iron should go out of blast on Sept. 1 with the exception of the furnace of the Brier Hill Iron and Coal company and that of the Andrews-Hitchcock company at Youngstown. One of these will run on contracts, and the other will produce foundry iron. The members of the Bessemer association say this step is necessary. Not a ton of this iron has been contracted for in several weeks, and notwithstanding a reduction of $8 a ton in the price it cannot be sold. It is hoped that the shut down, which is to be for an indefinite period, will result in a restoration of prices by working off the surplus stocks.

Damage by Storm.

SENECA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 7.—A small cyclone struck this place about 6 o'clock last night and did considerable damage. Many large trees were broken off like pipestems. Telegraph wires were also down. The electric light company suffered the greatest loss, its poles and wires being blown down all over the village, leaving the streets in total darkness. The thermometer registered between 98 and 100 degrees all day. The storm came on suddenly and lasted only ten minutes and was accompanied by hail.

Stabbed by a Burglar.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Oliver P. Watson, a prominent citizen, was stabbed by a burglar at his home last night. Watson went into his drawing room to get a drink of water and ran into the burglar. Watson grappled with him and was stabbed twice, once above the heart and the other in the left arm. The burglar then escaped. Watson's wound may prove fatal.

Vanderbilt Yacht Wins.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—The 70 foot sloop Rainbow, owned by Cornelius Vanderbilt, won the commodore's cup for sloops of that class yesterday in the New York Yacht club's race, sailing over a 21 mile course on Long Island sound. She defeated August Belmont's Mineola 3 minutes 39 seconds and Harry Payne Whitney's Yankee 6 minutes 7 seconds.

Mr. Charles Giese, Cigar Manufacturer ~~of 25~~ Elm Place says:—"I was subject to attacks of kidney complaint for 2 or 3 years, Most of the pain was in my back and hips and I could not stoop or straighter without feeling sharp, shooting twinges. When I sat for any length of time I grew stiff and sore and was compelled to get up and move about. I grew so bad I had to do something for it. I had read a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills being such good medicine for kidney troubles so I got a box of them at L. W. Randolph's drug store. I used them according to direction and after 2 or 3 days I felt better I continued their use until the pain disappeared."

A BATTLE REPORTED

Allies Defeat Chinese In a Sharp Engagement.

FORMER LOSE TWELVE HUNDRED MEN

Casualties Chiefly Among Russians and Japanese—General MacArthur Reports Sending Additional Artillery to Taku.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The announcement, received through Admiral Remey and Commander Taussig, of reported heavy fighting on the road beyond Tien-tsin is the news of interest in the Chinese situation. Little doubt is expressed at the navy department that the news was substantially correct. It is probable that a later report may reduce the list of casualties among the international forces, but it is evident that the move on Peking is at last fairly under way and that strong opposition has been encountered. The war department officials, who have been exceedingly reticent for several days as to news from the seat of war, admitted when the naval dispatches were received that the announcement of trouble was not unexpected.

The engagement at Peitsang is understood here to be the result of a reconnoissance in force, and while Commander Taussig mentions only the Russian and Japanese troops it is apparent that other troops were engaged, because he says the loss was sustained "chiefly" by the Russians and Japanese.

The report also disproves the statements sent from Washington about the Chaffee dispatch making it appear that the Russians were sulking in their tents and would not move.

The dispatches are as follows:

"Chefu, Aug. 6.—British Fame reports, unofficial, engagement Peitsang Sunday, 3 to 10:30. Allied loss killed, wounded, 1,200, chiefly Russian, Japanese. Chinese retreating. TAUSSIG."

"Chefu, Aug. 6.—Unofficial report, believed reliable, about 16,000 allies heavily engaged Chinese at Peitsang daylight 5th. REMEY."

No mention is made of what position the American troops held in the line of battle, but the authorities do not doubt they took an active part.

Opinion among the various officials now in Washington is somewhat divided as to just what is presaged by yesterday's events. The more optimistic are inclined to think that such a severe blow as the Chinese must have received at Peitsang will result in the speedy disintegration of the forces now opposing the march of the international column. In line with this prediction it was prophesied that the Chinese government would find means to send the ministers from Peking under escort and thus stave off the advance upon the capital. On the other hand, there was a number of officers in a position to judge equally well who held that the fight at Peitsang was only the beginning of a strenuous resistance that would be continued to the gates of Peking or beyond.

It was urged in support of this view that the Chinese had 100 men to lose against one of the allies, that they were well armed with modern guns and had apparently an abundance of ammunition. It is stated that considerable apprehension exists among those conversant with oriental affairs at the reappearance in Peking politics of that rabid antiforeign fanatic Li Ping Hung. It is understood that his appearance in Peking affairs may have had something to do with the Shanghai rumors of Li Hung Chang's suicide. It is certain that with Li Ping Hung and Prince Tuan in control of the de facto government in China a religious war of dervishlike fanaticism probably will be waged against all foreigners, and friends of the more liberal Chinese statesmen are exceedingly anxious as to their fate under the Tuan-Li regime.

The war department is in receipt of a dispatch from General MacArthur announcing that he has shipped additional artillery supplies to Taku for use in the Chinese campaign. These supplies include several Gatling guns and the remainder of the rifle and howitzer siege train left in Manila, which up to date has remained useless in that country on account of the bad roads. How much better General Chaffee may be able to handle these monster guns through the almost impassable rice swamps of China no one at the war department was willing to guess, but his recent dispatch contained an urgent appeal for more artillery, and he is getting it. The ordnance experts at the war department say that if it comes to a bombardment of Peking these five inch rifles and seven inch howitzers, with their enormous bursting charges of high explosives, will be the most effective battering weapons in the international column.

ADVANCE REPORTED.

Safety of Legations Aug. 1 Confirmed—Probable Use as Hostages.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—"The advance of the allied forces commenced today," cables the British consul at Tien-tsin under date of Aug. 4. This is the first official information received here that the attempt to relieve Peking has begun. It is accepted as correct.

The British consul does not mention any fighting, but the Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Mail, telegraphing Sunday, says:

"The Peking relief column is reported to have suffered a check. The Chinese are said to have adopted Tugela tactics and after several hours of fighting to have retreated."

This is the only message received in London this morning bearing out the reports of Admiral Remey and Commander Taussig regarding an engagement at Peitsang. The fact that the advance did not begin until Saturday is taken to strengthen the accounts of a battle Sunday, especially when it is said to have occurred so near Peking as Peitsang.

In the same cablegram, which was read in the house of commons, the consul at Tien-tsin says:

"News from the Japanese legation has been received up to Aug. 1."

Therefore the edicts announcing the safety of the ministers on that date are confirmed.

Yesterday the Chinese minister Sir Chih Chen Lo Feng Luh communicated to Lord Salisbury a message from the tsung-li-yamen, dated July 30, reiterating the statement that the ministers were safe on that day and recounting the friendly relations existing between them and the tsung-li-yamen, as well as reporting the sending of supplies to the legations by the tsung-li-yamen. The message contains this important statement:

"A successful termination of the conference with the ministers for their conveyance under escort to Tien-tsin is expected, but on account of the recommencement of hostilities at Tien-tsin code telegrams for transmission to the representatives are considered undesirable."

This appears to confirm the statement that the Chinese government will endeavor to stop the march to Peking by using the ministers as hostages.

The Lokal Anzeiger of Berlin, publishing an interview with Li Hung Chang, quotes him as declaring emphatically that China must not in any circumstances cede any more territory to any power. In reply to a question why the rebellion was not put down Earl Li is represented as having said:

"I blame Prince Tuan, the empress dowager and the whole Peking government. But for their lack of energy the situation would never have become so serious."

The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Mail says:

"Active negotiations are proceeding between Russia and the United States, the probable outcome of which will be a resolution to uphold the integrity of China unconditionally."

A Shanghai correspondent of the same paper says that the Americans there are urging the appointment of General MacArthur as commander in chief of the allied forces.

The Standard's Shanghai representative, wiring Sunday, says:

"It is clear that the march to the relief of Peking will be anything but a walkover. Japanese scouts have discovered a large force of Chinese southwest of Tientsin and another large force in the vicinity of Lu-Tai, to the eastward.

"It is learned now that the members of the tsung-li-yamen who were put to death for their alleged proforeign proclivities were not beheaded, but were cut in twain, this being the severest penalty under the Mantchoo code."

A Shanghai special, dated Aug. 6, says:

"Li Hung Chang has officially informed the consuls that the ministers left Peking for Tien-tsin last Friday, Aug. 3, with General Yung Lu in command of the escort. The consuls are by no means disposed to credit Earl Li's statement."

All other reports that have reached London up to this hour indicate that the ministers have not left Peking.

EARL LI'S OPINIONS.

Boxers Not Rebels, He Says—Native Christians Blamed.

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—The German foreign office announced last evening that it had received no fresh China news and that it doubted whether the advance of the allied forces from Tien-tsin had begun.

The Lokal Anzeiger publishes an interview which Dr. Zaker, its special China correspondent, had with Li Hung Chang at Canton July 5. Earl Li told the correspondent that the Boxers were not rebels, but were true to the royal house.

Their movement, he explained, was directed chiefly against native Christians who had been using international protection to oppress Boxers.

With reference to the missionaries he said:

"It is my firm conviction that the missionaries are always in danger, for the relations between the Chinese population and foreigners have been the cause of nearly all the troubles and will always continue to be."

Earl Li went on to say that Chinese hatred of foreigners had been increased of late through the action of the powers, particularly in the seizure of Kiaochau, which he described as "an exorbitant penalty for a couple of missionaries."

Referring to the murder of Baron von Ketteler, German minister at Peking, he gave a positive assurance that neither Prince Tuan nor any other member of the government knew of the intended killing, and he also declared that Baron von Ketteler was not killed because he was a German, but simply because he was a foreigner. In a word, he was a victim of the Chinese hatred of foreigners.

"The Chinese government is not strong enough to put down the Boxers," said Earl Li, "but the thought of accepting assistance from the powers to put them down is extremely repugnant to the government."

In reply to a question as to who was then the head of the central government he said it was administered by Prince Tuan in the name of the emperor.

Fighting on the Amur.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 7.—The fighting between the Russians and Chinese in the Amur district was continued on Aug. 3, and at last accounts Aigun was in flames. The Chinese loss was 200. The Cossacks captured a gun.

Paterson Italians Sorry.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—There was a meeting at Paterson, N. J., last night of Italian residents of this city who deplore the killing of King Humbert. Resolutions were adopted expressing sorrow and regret over the death of the king, and these will be forwarded to the Italian royal family through the Italian legation. Mr. Antonio presided. Miss Ernestina Grevallo spent the day at Rockaway Beach. When she returned, she said she did not know Marie Casser, the woman arrested in Italy as an accomplice of Bresci. There are Italian detectives in Paterson seeking some trace of this woman, but it is said they have not succeeded.

Stevedores Strike.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 7.—All the union stevedores in Baltimore, numbering about 2,500, went on strike yesterday because the steamship agents refused to agree to employ no more nonunion men. The trouble began several days ago, when Patterson, Ramsay & Co. of the Johnson line were fined $50 by the Stevedores' union for employing nonunion men. This fine the firm refused to pay, and the stevedores claim that the other steamship agents united with the firm in question to employ nonunion men and break up the union.

Building a New Trail.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 7.—Jack Dalton, builder of the original Dalton trail, is building a new one to Porcupine to be all American at a cost of $4,000. The new boundary line threw the old trail into British territory. A rate war has commenced on the Yukon. Passengers are now being carried from Skaguay to Dawson for $30.

Small Raisin Crop.

FRESNO, Cal., Aug. 7.—It is reported that the raisin crop will not be as large as expected. Estimates place it at 3,000 to 3,400 car loads. The red spider is responsible for much of the damage.

ALABAMA ELECTION.

Democrats Elect State Ticket by Large Majority.

WHEELER'S SUCCESSOR CHOSEN.

Four Tickets In the Field—Populists and Republicans Put Up a Weak Fight and Elect but Twelve Members of the Legislature.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 7.—A general state election for state and county officials and for members of the general assembly was held in Alabama yesterday, and a large majority was returned for the Democratic ticket, headed by William J. Samford of Lee county, who will be inaugurated as governor on Dec. 1. The Republicans, Populists and Prohibitionists had tickets in the field, but returns so far indicate a victory for the Democrats by an overwhelming majority. The Populists and Republicans will together possibly have 12 of the 133 members of the legislature, a loss of about 50 per cent. The Democrats have elected county officers in several counties which heretofore have been Populistic. General apathy marked the election, and a light vote was cast.

Reports are slow in coming in, and Captain Smith of the Democratic state campaign committee gives out no figures, but it is estimated that the majority will be more than 50,000. The only issue was the question of holding a constitutional convention which will eliminate the negro from politics. The legislature, which meets in December, will elect Senator Morgan to succeed himself. In the Ninth district Congressman Underwood was nominated to succeed himself without opposition. In the Eighth district Judge William Richardson of Madison county was elected to succeed General Wheeler.

Following are the newly elected state officers:

Governor, William J. Samford of Lee; attorney general, Charles G. Brown of Jefferson; secretary of state, R. J. McDavid of Montgomery; treasurer, J. Craig Smith of Dallas; auditor, Thomas L. Sewell of Waller; commissioner of agriculture, Robert T. Poole of Marengo; superintendent of education, J. Abercrombie of Calhoun.

Not as Bad as Reported.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—A letter dated July 22 has been received at the treasury from a former employee of the department now at Cape Nome, Alaska. The writer, who has the entire confidence of the officials, says: "The reports of disease and death that have been taken back to the United States are untruthful. The smallpox scare is all over. There were 20 cases in all, and all of them came on the Oregon. As yet there has been no typhoid, but the season has been dry, which probably accounts for its absence. There have been 12 violent deaths here since June 10. Four men have been drowned, three have committed suicide, and five have been shot. Prospectors who have been out over the country are just beginning to bring in quartz. Every sample carries a little gold, and some have been worth $60 a ton.

The Sultan Failing.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 7.—The sultan's health is failing fast, and his weakness is increased by his fear of assassination. He fainted yesterday morning, and this caused a rumor that he had been poisoned. He has ordered the dismissal of all Italians connected with his household or employed near the imperial palace. Just before the last selamlik the sultan gave orders that all visitors withdraw from the ceremony. Every stranger was removed from the palace and its vicinity. Among those excluded were several prominent Germans and Russians. The embassy officials are indignant over the expulsion.

Odell and the Governorship.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Information having been received that the Newburg (N. Y.) Journal had stated that Chairman B. B. Odell, Jr., would not accept the Republican nomination for governor, a reporter last night interviewed Mr. Odell. "I suppose," said Mr. Odell, "that the editorial was based on the statements I have made in talks with some of my neighbors in Newburg." "Is it true that you have determined not to be a candidate for governor?" was asked. "I have nothing to say on that subject," was his reply.

Secretary Hay's Condition.

SUNAPEE LAKE, N. H., Aug. 7.—Secretary Hay, who reached here for his vacation last Saturday, is resting comfortably. The cold which he contracted on the way from Washington has caused a slight fever, and the secretary is very much exhausted by the strain of his duties in connection with the Chinese situation. Neither his physician nor the members of the family consider that he is suffering from anything more than a slight indisposition, and they say a few days' rest will thoroughly recuperate him.

Fires In Yellowstone Park.

HELENA, Mon., Aug. 7.—It is reported that a forest fire is sweeping the magnificent timber belt between the upper Geyser basin and the lake in the Yellowstone National park. The fire started Friday and was soon beyond the control of the soldiers and road crew, all of whom were hurried to the scene. The line of fire is about ten miles long and spreading rapidly. Besides the irreparable loss to the park many hotel buildings are threatened with destruction.

Hawaiian Affairs Prosperous.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—W. S. Chance, chief of the special agents' division of the treasury department, has returned from a three months' trip to Hawaii, where he inaugurated the new customs regulations for the island. He states that the customs receipts at Honolulu are large and increasing and that the affairs of the islands are in a prosperous condition.

He Bit a Torpedo.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—A number of youngsters playing on Mulberry street, near Prince, found a railroad torpedo. Peter Gucliоа, 6 years old, put it between his teeth and bit hard. Peter is in St. Vincent's hospital minus several teeth and a portion of his jawbone.

Great Storm In England.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—A regular cyclone has prevailed throughout the United Kingdom since early last evening. Loss of life on land and sea and the destruction of shipping and other property are reported.

WATCH YOUR KIDNEYS!

Never for one moment forget that your constant duty to yourself, to your business, to your family, is a constant watch on your kidneys. As the careful engineer watches each pulsation of his faintly tended engine, so should you give the closest scrutiny to your kidneys, for are they not the great engines of human life? The kidneys filter the blood, all its impurities are left in the kidneys, to be, in turn, passed to the bladder and so find escape from the human system. Can you not readily see how with improperly working kidneys the blood scatters its poison, and before you know it you are in the clutch of Bright's Disease and death is upon you.

Hundreds of the sudden deaths you hear and read about are due to neglect of the signals nature gives, such as weak back and pains across the small of the back. If you ever have backache, don't hesitate, but seek the best and surest and quickest acting remedy at once are made from the formula of a practicing physician and guaranteed to be the most efficacious in all diseases of the bladder and kidneys. They go at once to the weak spot and give quick strength; they are vegetable, easy to take and pleasant. Thousands owe life and health to them, and take them occasionally as a preventive, and thereby forestall the possibility of the inroad of disease.

Look out for substitutes and take only the genuine Dr. Holtin's Kidney Tablets. Price 25 and 50 cents per package.

Fasted Forty-one Days.

TRENTON, Aug. 7.—There comes to this city an apparently truthful story telling how Thomas Good of New Brighton township, Bucks county, Pa., a hamlet several miles up the Delaware river, fasted and refrained from drink for 41 days. Mr. Good is 79 years old, a Quaker and well known. He has been a sufferer from stomach trouble for years. Physicians say that no human being can live without drink for 41 days, and this part of the story makes it appear improbable. But an official of a bank in this city declares he personally knows that the old gentleman went without food or drink for many days.

A Guardian For Hoyt.

CLAREMONT, N. H., Aug. 7.—The appointment of Hon. James O. Lyford of Concord as guardian of Charles H. Hoyt of Charleston, N. H., the playwright, was made by Judge Tenney in the Sullivan county probate court yesterday. The appointment was anticipated and was made at the request of Mr. Hoyt and was acquiesced in by Frank McKee, who is business partner of the playwright. Mr. Lyford will assume management of all the business affairs and will endeavor to preserve as much as possible of Mr. Hoyt's personal estate, the monetary value of which is a matter of conjecture.

Cyclists Repel Sham Invasion.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Major General John Frederick Maurice, commanding the Woolwich district, who superintended the experiment in connection with the volunteer maneuvers which began Saturday of holding 40 roads in the north of Sussex with several thousand cyclists—the idea being to check an invading army until British troops of all arms could collect in large numbers nearer London—reports that the cyclist defenders have successfully repelled the supposititious invaders. The result is regarded as establishing the superior mobility of cycle forces.

Escape From Auburn Prison.

AUBURN, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Two convicts escaped from Auburn prison at 5 o'clock yesterday. The men were Albert Dean and Edgar Pratt. Dean was serving a 15 year sentence for kidnaping. Edgar Pratt is an Otsego county man. The men had been employed in a storehouse located between the men's and women's prisons. They sawed the bars off a window and got into the yard of the women's prison, where a lumber pile made it easy for them to scale the wall.

THE LOGAN ARRIVES.

Transport Brings Many Refugees From China.

STORY OF THE TIEN-TSIN FIGHT.

The Logan Landed the First American Troops In China and Brought to San Francisco Many Sick Soldiers and Siege Sufferers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—Bluejackets, marines, ex-soldiers of the Ninth infantry and refugees crowded the decks of the transport Logan, from Taku via Japan, which has just reached her dock here. There were men, women and children on the vessel direct from Tien-tsin, who had escaped from the mobs of Boxers and the imperial Chinese troops. Nearly all of the passengers in the cabin had felt the depressing effects of a siege and were more than glad to get back to civilization. Among them were Dr. Diffendorfer and Mr. O. McIntosh, who were in the mill at Tien-tsin where the Chinese were held at bay before the first relief came through.

Master Earl Ragsdale and Miss Effie Ragsdale, children of the United States consul at Tien-tsin, were also on board. A large number of the refugees left the transport at Yokohama to return to various parts of Europe and America by regular steamers.

Among the passengers who arrived here were the following:

J. M. Mussen, Shanghai; Mrs. Drew, Mrs. Tenny and four children, Mrs. Pike and four children, Mrs. Lowry and three children, Mr. and Mrs. Maynor and three children, Miss Jones, Mr. Pike, Mr. Diffendorfer and Mr. McIntosh, Taku; Rev. H. W. Houlding, wife and son, Mrs. Frank F. Davis, Mrs. Montelle and Miss Tillie Fahr, Tien-tsin; Dr. N. S. Hopkins, wife and three children, Mrs. H. E. King and three children and Mr. and Mrs. S. Smith, Chefu; the Misses Drew, Mr. L. Drew, O. C. Clifford, wife and child and Edward Wilson, Yokohama, and about 100 invalided soldiers.

There were three deaths on the Logan during the voyage, two occurring before Taku was reached.

Private James McNerney of Company D, Ninth infantry, died June 30, and James D. St. Croix on July 5. Private David Nutes of Company G, one of the men who started homeward owing to illness, died at sea July 22.

To the Logan attaches the distinction of being the first vessel to land American troops in China. She conveyed the gallant Ninth infantry from Manila to Taku, together with a detachment of the signal and hospital corps.

Among the passengers brought here by the Logan were 61 sick men of the Ninth. At Taku 170 Christian refugees from Tien-tsin were taken aboard. All except 48 of these left the Logan at Nagasaki.

Dr. R. E. Diffendorfer of Philadelphia, the builder and manager of the first woolen mill established in the Chinese empire and a personal friend of Poo Tong, a brother to the former Chinese emperor, tells the following story of the attack on Tien-tsin:

"On the morning of July 17 the first clash between the foreigners and the empire's soldiers occurred. On the afternoon of the same day the bombardment of the Taku forts began.

"Captain Bailey of the British ship Orlando was commander of the allied forces at Tien-tsin on July 17, as Captain McCalla was absent with Seymour at the time. About 11 o'clock in the forenoon he saw smoke rising from the railroad track about four miles distant from the city, and, suspecting that the Boxers had fired another bridge, Captain Bailey ordered 30 of his bluejackets, commanded by a midshipman, to investigate. We had a three inch gun, and the men were fully armed.

"When our flat car had traveled about three miles, we found a bridge in which the timbers had been burned away from the iron girders, and considering it unsafe to cross our commander ordered his men to return to the city. We had gone about 300 yards on the back trip when we saw a lot of Chinese soldiers, about 150, crossing the track at a point about a mile ahead of us.

"They were walking very rapidly, and as we approached them all doubts as to their being imperial troops disappeared. They did not wear the red turban and sash that distinguished the Boxers, and as soon as we got within about 800 yards of them they scattered and got behind grave mounds, with which the surface of the country was thickly studded. Regarding this action as suspicious, our midshipman gave the order to fire a volley, and they quickly and vigorously returned the salute. Our field piece was minus a sight, and most of its shots passed over the enemy, so that after ten minutes of hot fighting we resumed our retreat, the Chinese firing at us as long as we were within range. There were no casualties on our side.

"If it had not been for the action of our party that morning the bombardment of Tien-tsin might not have commenced that afternoon. In other words, I am inclined to believe that our attack on the Chinese troops precipitated this bombardment of the city. And for that reason the skirmish may attain some importance when final settlements are being made."

General Diffendorfer believes that the trouble in China will last a couple of years.

"It will be a repetition of the Taiping rebellion," he said. "When the allies have captured Peking, the Boxers will be broken into bands of marauders."

President's Quiet Day.

CANTON, O., Aug. 7.—President McKinley kept close to the library yesterday, partly because there was a large amount of work to dispose of and partly because it was too hot to do any unnecessary moving about. He went for a short drive during the evening and later resumed his work. There were no political visitors during the day.

Big Order For Meat.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Chicago packers have been asked by the government to furnish 2,000,000 pounds of meat within 30 days for the American soldiers in the orient. This is said to be the largest requisition ever issued by the government of the United States.

Child Scalded to Death.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 7.—The 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Duffy of New York Mills fell backward into a pail of scalding water and died two hours later. She was playing about the kitchen and was alone at the time.

The Anarchist.

The mental picture which the average person associates with an Anarchist is a rather weird one—a dark room in a low-down grog-mill; a schooner of frothy beer; red bloated face; long fiery red hair; ill-fitting clothes and loud and thrilling discussion, punctuated with a ready flow of profanity. This is undoubtedly the type which the newspapers have thrust to the foreground, but it is not the really true one as viewed in the following word-picture of the Newark Advertiser:

"The real anarchist is not the creature depicted in cartoons. He does not wear a month's growth of beard, and have a wolfish visage, and he doesn't display the forbidding characteristics that the cartoonist credits him with. The dangerous anarchist, he who means business, is 'as mild a mannered man as ever scuttled a ship or cut a throat.' He is well dressed, of quiet and even gentle demeanor, unobtrusive, and usually of more than ordinary intelligence. And he always has money. The noisy fellow like John Most, who declaim anarchy with their potations of beer, are as harmless as barking dogs. It is the quiet, well-behaved man, with 'wheels in his head,' who is to be dreaded. And this is the last sort of man that we can keep out of the country. Coming here unknown, and having money in his pockets, how can he be stopped by the immigration officials!"

The hope of the New Jersey Republicans that President McKinley would visit this State will not be realized. Yesterday Senator Pitney received a letter from Senator Hanna in which the latter stated that the President would not come to New Jersey this summer. A visit from the President would undoubtedly serve to enthuse the Republican workers, but perhaps Gov. Roosevelt may be here and he will rally the boys around the G. O. P. banner.

The Pittsburg Dispatch, referring to the preparations for the reburial of the Confederate dead by the National Government, says: "The act is a graceful one on the part of the National authorities, to which none but the extremists on either side may objeet. The honor conferred is that due to heroes who died bravely, and it may be left to higher than human authority to decide whether they died in a mistaken or just cause."

Alabama went 75,000 Democratic yesterday. But as Alabama always does this the result of the election in that state is scarcely indicative of what will happen in commonwealths that are not so overwhelmingly partisan one way or the other.

"You lie like Shanghai" is the proper way now for a dispute as to veracity to be settled—that is, so far as words go. What might happen to a man after making such a statement as that is hard to tell.

After a few years' experience in having the State Democratic headquarters in Newark, the party leaders have now decided to go back to Jersey City for an official home for the State organization.

The allied forces have defeated the Chinese in a battle at Peitsang, but at a loss of 1,200 men to the former. It was a victory dearly won.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

In describing some curious freaks of legislation the Boston Transcript speaks of an act passed in New Jersey for taxing bachelors. No such act is on the statute book of the State. A couple of years ago a bill was introduced in the Assembly for that purpose, but it was regarded as a bit of legislative humor.—Newark Advertiser.

* * * * *

New Brunswick is in a bad way. One man had to get a divorce from his wife because she would not live in the dirty town; then they had a shower of frogs; the railroad company is going to straighten their line and leave the town; and a man who has moved away has threatened to kill the "half-starved lawyers" who lie about him. Verily, as the showman said, life is short; we are here today, and tomorrow in Brunswick.—Trenton Sunday Courier.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

That Scotch Plains, our veteran neighbor has known a day when her "advancement" exceeded that of Plainfield, is told in an interesting illustrated article by "Prescott" on "An Ancient Library" in Saturday's Illustrated Magazine, supplementary to The Mail and Express. If a guest might be permitted as to the identity of the nom de plume we would suggest that Prescott comes between David and Hall. The pictures of the old time book case, the old school house at Scotch Plains, the Baptist church, the parsonage and the new school house are excellent reproductions of familiar realties.

Scotch Plains superiority over her neighbors and her desire to share the benefits of her library are evidenced in the minute of a meeting held in 1825 in which a committee was appointed "to consider the propriety of amending the constitution in such a manner that a branch of said library may be taken to Plainfield."

The writer of the article makes this statement that when Rev. William VanHorne, pastor of the church from 1785 to 1807, removed to Ohio, "services were conducted for some months by a member of the Reading society, Jacob F. Randolph, who upon that account probably is named in the record as "Rev."

Jacob F. Randolph's title to "Rev." was based on the best of claims. His first pastorate was at Mt. Bethel, after which he was pastor for twenty-five years of the Samptown Baptist church and 1818 he was elected to the pastorate at its organization of the First Baptist church of Plainfield where he remained until his death in 1828. His second was that of a man of sound judgment, clear perceptions of truth, ardent piety and great zeal.

The writer, making this passing comment, well remembers a picture of him in the home of one of his descendents in Plainfield, the style of hair-cutting being so marked as to make an indelible impression on the youthful mind. The old dominie wore his air banged as children and young women wore it a few years ago. The perfect regularity of the bang, we were told, was achieved by placing a saucer over the forehead and cutting close to to its edge.

Prescott's article will be read with interest by residents of both Scotch Plains and Plainfield.

Gentlemen:—My mamma has been a great coffee drinker and has found it very injurious. Having used several packages of your GRAIN-O, the drink that takes the place of coffee, she finds it much better for herself and for us children to drink. She has given up coffee drinking entirely. We use a package of Grain-O every week. I am ten years old.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, August 7. — Bertrain Smalley, of Brooklyn, was in town yesterday for the purpose of making arrangements for locating a camp at Washington Rock. If everything is satisfactory Mr. Smalley will bring his family here in a short time and remain a month.

At the meeting of the Borough Council held last evening several matters of importance were considered. The first was that of the contract for lights with the Dunellen Electric Light Co. After some discussion the contract was passed for five years. The petition of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company for a franchise to build a line on Washington avenue was passed on its third and final reading. It was ordered advertised for two weeks in the Dunellen Call. The streets and sidewalks committee reported favorable progress in borough work. The committee appointed to secure keys for the town hall reported that six had been secured. A written guarantee was received from the Eureka Hose Company for new fire hose recently purchased.

It may be of interest to boroughites to know that 2,500 tickets were sold for the Central's excursion to Mauch Chunk, Sunday. At one dollar each it remains to be seen whether these popular excursions pay or not.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Scotch Plains, August 7—The Township Committee, with commendable foresight and thought, has placed at the disposal of the residents of the township a very neat and useful little book containing a copy of all the ordinances now in force in the Township. The ordinances are a credit to the committe who framed them and if these are enforced Fanwood township cannot help but take a place of honor as being one of the model towns of New Jersey. The book will serve two purposes. It will give the residents a chance to learn and become familiar with the several ordinances and will not leave the breaking of one of them open to the excuse of "ignorance of the law." The book can be had by applying to Township Clerk Hand for a copy. Better get one and become familiar with the work being done by your Committeemen.

Charles N. Flanders, an old and respected resident of the village, was taken suddenly ill on Sunday evening. Mr. Flanders had started to cross the room when he fell and was unable to get up. His fall alarmed his wife, who was in another part of the house. Dr. Westcott was called in and found that Mr. Flanders was suffering from the effect of the warm weather which had completely played him out. Mr. Flanders is a very active man for one at his age and had been working about his place a great deal of late. This, with the warm weather of Sunday, brought on the sudden attack. Dr. Westcott is still in attendance and Mr. Flanders is improving very nicely.

THE MODE.

Materials For Summer Tailor Made Gowns.

Pique, greatly in favor during the last few summers, is now found in all colors, light and dark, and in a variety of weaves. The plain kind is always worn, but there are also woven checks, plaids, dots, figures and stripes, and the characteristic pique rib also varies in size, being sometimes much exaggerated in the newer sorts. Allowance must always be made for great shrinkage in the laundering in the case of pique, galatea, duck and other thick cotton goods.

For the materials mentioned tailor made styles are usually adopted, with stitching, straps and stitched plaits as a decoration, although heavy, firm embroidery is also admitted. The skirt and jacket or bolero, with a thin shirt waist of lawn or nainsook, composes the regulation costume, which is light, cool and at the same time trim and neat, a combination not easy to find in very hot weather, when all clothing is apt to look tumbled and untidy.

The cut illustrates an empire toilet. The foundation is a princess gown of electric blue silk, with a yoke of finely puffed blue silk forming the top of the sleeves also. From this yoke falls a transparant overdress of black spangled tulle. The sleeves are also of the tulle, draped without a lining, and a drapery of black mousseline de soie passes around the top of the tulle portion of the gown and forms a knot in front. The hat of black horsehair braid is trimmed with roses and foliage. JUDIC CHOLLET.

DUST CLOAKS.

Disadvantage of Linen as a Dress Material.

The old fashioned linen duster has reappeared at last, but in a glorified form. Traveling dust cloaks of heavy gray linen are new this year, laid in stitched plaits from the shoulders to the knees. Others are trimmed with linen plaid of attractive coloring, forming pipings, cuffs, capuchon, pocket flaps, etc. Linen, although delightfully cool, has one serious drawback in the eyes of women who like to always present a "smart" appearance. This drawback is that it does not retain its pristine freshness for any appreciable length of time, but sags and becomes stringy very soon after it is first worn. Linen duck, linen lawn, twilled linen—all varieties, in fact—have this fatal peculiarity, which gives any garment made of them an aspect of dowdiness, no matter how elaborately it is ornamented or how immaculately clean it is.

The cut shows a costume of cream voile. The front of the skirt is adorned with a rich embroidery of cream silk. The bodice, plain at the back, is plaited and crossed in front and has a guimpe of cream guipure, which also forms the top of the sleeves. The upper part of the voile sleeves is plaited to match the bodice, and there are plaitings of tulle at the wrists. The narrow belt is of black velvet, fastened by a chou. The straw hat is faced with pink tulle and is turned up in front. The trimming consists of pink tulle and deep pink roses.

It is told of a Mrs. Leith, whose home is at Babylon, Long Island, that she for a considerable time was troubled with stomach pains caused by dyspepsia. These were particularly severe in the early morning. She was also, at intervals, a great sufferer from piles. There was a sense of fullness, a distended condition to be noted almost every morning that was particularly uncomfortable, and this had gone on for months and grown worse, causing great distress to her and anxiety to her husband. She tried various remedies. Rochelle salts afforded her some relief for a time. Her husband first had his attention directed to Ripans Tabules by an acquaintance who gave him a few. The lady was attracted by the elegant form in which the medicine was packed and to her the odor was especially attractive. Very soon she told her husband that were the very best thing she had ever tried. Within less than three months she was a well woman. No more constipation. The tendency to piles had disappeared totally. She is very grateful to her husband's friend who first brought Ripans Tabules to her attention. In her case it was found that one gives relief.

HOLDER FOR LETTERS.

Brand New Idea for a Present That Is Easily Made, Inexpensive and Useful.

Take a smooth pine board, 9x12 inches, and half an inch thick; cover it with a thin layer of cotton batting, and over that stretch a piece of gray blouse linen, fastening it with very small tacks on the back of the board. Then get some satin ribbon, half an inch wide, of any desired color, and place it on criss-cross, in the manner shown in the picture. Wherever the ribbon crosses, put in a small, brass headed tack. Then, over the back of the board nail on very smoothly and neatly a piece of blouse linen, to cover the board and the ends of the ribbon, which, of course, must be carried well over the edges.

A PLAIN LETTER CASE.

To hang it up, use broader ribbon of the same color as that used to cross off the face of the board; or a brass ring, with a screw attached, such as may be bought at any large hardware store, may be screwed through the ilnen and into the board at the top.

Thus finished, you have a card rack, or, if the crossing of the ribbon is not too close, a letter rack, that will be very useful if hung near a writing desk.

Another way to treat a board of the same dimensions is to cover it with cotton batting and then with blouse linen, as first suggested, but instead of crossing it with ribbon, use a long piece of blouse linen (about 12 inches wide and a yard long), that will fold so as to make six shallow pockets, each an inch and a half deep, in which to stick cards. On the outside of the top pocket write in pencil "Monday," and then outline the word in colored "filo" silk. Let the other days of the week follow.

If a longer board is used as a foundation, there will be room for a broader pocket at the bottom, which should be marked "Letters." Three or four broad pockets might be made, instead of the six narrow ones. Of course the foundation board may be of any size or shape.

If more decoration is wanted, embroider at the top (as shown in the picture) the initials or the monogram of the person for whom the present is meant. If the pockets show a tendency to sag outward, two or three brass-headed nails (or possibly a stitch or two) will correct this fault. But the linen named has little elasticity, and if carefully made there will be no sagging at all.

If a much larger board is used and crossed off with ribbon, the result will be a charming rack, in which to stick photographs. For instance, if the board is first covered with a thin layer of cotton batting, then with a piece of white muslin, carefully tacked on (using the smallest sized, flat-headed tacks) then with flowered India silk, using green satin ribbon, the color of the leaves, to cross it off with, the result is an extremely pretty photograph holder, suitable for any boudoir. The muslin foundation is only necessary when India silk or any other very thin fabric is used.—Mary V. Worstell, in Brooklyn Eagle.

Bran Jelly for Breakfast.

Bran jelly is a wholesome food which may take the place of other cereals. Cover two cupfuls of bran with cold water, let settle; then pour off all the water, and add three cupfuls of boiling water and stir well; place on the stove and boil slowly for two hours; then strain, return to fire, let come to the boiling point, add one teaspoonful salt; then pour into a mold and let cool. You will have a delicate jelly, and very wholesome. The siftings from graham or whole-wheat flour can be used for this jelly.—Rural New Yorker.

Pocketbook to Match Gown.

No woman can have too many pocketbooks, as the fad of this summer, to have everything to match about a costume, renders it desirable to have a purse to match every gown. Choose some pretty, delicate tint in the leather of the prevailing pastel shades, as gowns will follow the vogue in color.

SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICK.

A Performance in Legerdemain Which Ended in an Unexpected Manner.

In a restaurant where patrons who wish to dine quietly away from the rush and bustle on the lower floor go upstairs two gentlemen were lunching a few days ago, says the Washington Star.

Both were talking very animatedly and were apparently oblivious to the colored waiter. If they knew that that individual was on earth, much less in their immediate presence, their attention to his whereabouts gave no clue to their knowledge.

One of the diners was a young man of powerful build. He was evidently the host. When the waiter laid the check down on the white table cloth and stepped back and watched them carefully, as is the custom of waiters who scent a tip, he carelessly reached in his vest pocket, and, without appearing to look at the servitor, placed both check and a new banknote side by side, without a break in the argument.

In a few moments the waiter reentered, carrying a silver salver, in the center of which lay a ten-cent piece. Then he stepped back again, his glance alternating between the salver and the man who paid the bill.

The argument came to an abrupt termination. The young man's eyes swept the immovable face of the waiter with a curiously searching glance not unmixed with amazement. Then he whispered a word to his friend, whose eyes also scanned the face that impassively returned their glances. There was an eloquent silence. The young man beckoned the waiter to his side.

"You are a slick one," he said, quietly, but there was a ring in his tone that did not augur well for one of the party. "Just hand it over, please."

"Hand over what, sir?" asked the waiter, innocently, and with a pronounced rising inflection.

"The change."

"There it is, sir," indicating with a sweep of the hand toward the ten-cent piece.

"Part of it; I want the rest."

"'Deed, that's all that is coming to you, sir. You gave me a one-dollar bill, and your check was 90 cents."

The young man's features broke into a smile that made the lines of his mouth mold in a manner in which determination and amusement struggled for mastery.

"That was a $20 bill I gave you," he said. "Because it was rolled tightly and we appeared to be absorbed in our conversation that you thought I did not notice you reduce it, after securing the change, to a one. I will give you ten seconds to deliver up the balance or I will choke the life out of you and have you arrested for theft. Come, I will count one—two—three—four—"

"'Deed, boss, you is mistaken. That was a one spot—"

"Five—six—seven—eight—nine—ten!"

"You is certainly mistaken, boss, that—"

The young man was on his feet as he counted out the waiter. He seized the latter by the throat, and with a quick movement forced the man to the floor.

"Here it is, boss!" cried the waiter, in terrified accents. "For the Lawd-a-mussy sakes, boss, don't pinch so hard!"

He extracted from his coat pocket $19 in bills, which he eagerly pressed in the left hand of the young man who stood above him. The latter released his hold, and counting the bills passed out of the room with his companion with not so much as a second look at the amateur prestidigitator kneeling on the floor ruefully rubbing his neck.

The young man is a member of the United States secret service, and he knows the appearance of government currency better than most bank tellers, rolled or unrolled.

Tucks and Plaits.

It is the extreme delicacy of the new cloths which has initiated the movement toward tucks and plaits in skirts; a movement which is proceeding with such vigor that something new appears every day, and it is difficult to foresee the end. For the present, oddly enough, these plaits and tucks are far more seen in day than in evening gowns, although for evening wear they would be far less convenient. A novelty is fringed lace tinted to the color of string. It is at present expensive, and it cannot be recommended to any but those who can afford to indulge in the fleeting whims of fashion. Far better is it to purchase a piece of good lace, which is always pleasing to the eye, even if not considered by the ultra particular as "quite the thing." This fringed lace is also made in that coarse maltese style, which is in appearance much like yak lace. It is distinctly smart in conjunction with black, but it is not so happy when used as a trimming on light gowns, the coarse, stiff fringe being somewhat ineffective.—Washington Star.

Training a Nose.

Mothers should care for the noses of the children and see that they grow properly. The soft tissues of the organ can be molded in early life. A thick nose can be made thinner by regular treatment, such as compressing it daily, either with the fingers or with instruments made with springs and padded ends, so as to clasp the nose. A clothespin has been used and so adjusted as to bring about the right amount of compression. Many noses are wrung and twisted out of shape by the vigorous use of the handkerchief. The delicacy of the structure of the nose is not appreciated.—Harper's Bazar.

BURIED THEIR GODS.

Chicago Chinamen Protect Deities from Profane Hands.

Fear of Desecration by Americans Cause of the Action—Denude Joss House of Images Revered for Many Years.

Two wagon loads of Chinese gods—a motley assortment, including dragons rampant, idols quiescent and images ancestral by the basketful—were removed shortly before daybreak the other morning from the Chicago josshouse, 319 Clark street, and, under a picked guard of heavily armed Mongolians, were taken 25 miles into the country in a southwestern direction and buried for safe keeping in a deep pit on a pretty hillside near Mount Greenwood cemetery in Morgan Park.

In that pit, dug broad and lined with tawdy silk stuffs, inclosing rice and fruits for food, the artificial divinities will have a secret hiding place from vandal hands should an uprising occur against Chicago's colony of celestials because of the atrocities perpetrated upon Christians by anti-foreign revolutionists in the far-away empire of China.

Having placed beyond harm's reach ancestral statuettes or idols which they worship as deities, the delegation of Chinamen who attended the quaint ceremonial returned to their customary haunts in the street, ready to await with the stoicism of their race any fate which may be their portion. For they had discharged their whole duty to their gods. Them they had to the best of their ability placed safeguards about. Having in this respect displayed their piety, they are careless alike of death and all other misfortunes, knowing that so long as their gods are not desecrated the very swiftest or most terrible of the winged devils cannot get hold of them after they die.

Unusual hubbub prevailed in the josshouse when the two wagons of Sing Law, a Chinese expressman, backed up to the perpetually guarded doors and the squad of selected Mongolians whispered the sacred password in the dimly lighted hallway. The vestibule of the temple was thronged with yellow men conversing in low tones. Sentinels were posted in the balconies, upon the roof and in the streets outside.

It was designed that no profane eyes of the Caucasian neighborhood should witness the sacred rite of the hegira of the gods—or, at least, should not comprehend it if seen. But all precautions were useless, says the Chicago Chronicle. From a window across the street Inspector Hartnett and four officers of his command saw all. The scenes and incidents enacted before their eyes convinced the observant and interested police officials that Chinatown is utterly panic-sticken from fear of a massacre in retaliation for the "Boxers'" deeds of slaughter in the orient.

From a conspcuous place in the altar of the inner shrine of the temple the great dragon of leather and sawdust that had been brought hither from China many years ago had been displaced in preparation for the removal ceremony, and in its stead was a dragon image cut from a sheet of paper, pigmented in gaudy hue. This last representation of the sacred reptile of the Mongolians was about all that remained of the plethora of divinities usually crowding the niches and pedestals of the fane. The whole array of waxen gods had been carefully taken from its moorings the previous afternoon, and the eidolons, after being dusted reverently, were hidden or packed away in baskets of fruit and hampers of raw rice.

These waxen images represented the departed ancestors of the worshipers, and after a short ritual service was read over them by high priests of the joss they were lifted up by the Chinese expressman and borne to the wagons at the street doors.

Not having any interest in the proceedings, except that of the curious spectator, the secreted police inspector and his squad of officers took no measures for a pursuit of the picturesque caravan. It was long after the breakfast hour when the Chinese party returned to the city. In the afternoon its members were in council, taking measures for maintaining a secret guard at the grave of the gods they had buried, as well as at the Chinese lots at Oakwoods and Rosehill—the two cemeteries where have been buried all the children of the sun and moon who have died in Chicago.

THEY ALL EAT RICE.

Everything in China Depends on the Price of This Cereal.

Crude Methods of Preparation—How the Grain Is Adulterated by Dishonest Dealers—Annual Consumption.

[Special Hinghua (China) Letter.]

OF THE cereals in China rice is far in the lead in importance over all but the northern provinces. The price of labor and of nearly everything else depends largely upon the price of this great staple. When the crop is short there is a famine, when there is a famine there is often a rebellion more or less formidable. So important is this that even the corrupt government understands the necessity of having government warehouses in which to store grain in order to prevent the rich dealers from running up the price in times of scarcity. Several times recently the Hinghua prefect has attempted to regulate the price of rice by proclamation, though with poor success. Like the prudent housewife who knows her lord will be tractable when he is well fed, so the Chinese mandarin, though he fears not God nor regards man, exerts himself to keep the populace submissive by feeding it as best he can.

Owing to their crude methods of preparation and their customs of adulteration, rice after it is cleaned can only be kept a month or six weeks without spoiling. So only the rough rice or "paddy" is stored in bins, and it is cleaned as needed.

The outside husk is removed by a simple but effective hand mill made of bamboo woven-work and hard mud. It is turned by hand; and one man can clean about 800 pounds a day.

The hand winnowing mill, very much like the one our grandfathers used to have, cleans out the chaff. Even this is not wasted. Perhaps its most philanthropic service is as a mosquito smoker. A few ounces of it burned in a room will clear it of these pestiferous insects in a few minutes. Let New Jersey and Texas friends take notice!

The inner hard coat of the rice is then removed by pounding with a stone hammer in a stone mortar. The hammer is large and heavy, and is generally worked by foot power by two men. White clay is used as a powder to brighten it. In true oriental fashion the rice is sold with four per cent. of it this clay, and another two per cent. water, which is put in to add weight and make it clean easier. The ordinary Chinese rice would not sell in the American market at all, unless it was run through a proper machine and cleaned again.

This custom of adulteration varies in different localities. It is said to be worse in Hinghua than in most places; but it is more or less prevalent everywhere, as the clay and water are necessary for their crude methods of cleaning. These methods will pass away with the opening of the country. When the price of labor increases, machinery will do the work more effectively and more cheaply. In Japan much the same methods prevailed until recent years. Of course, it will be a long time before these methods will be obsolete in domestic use. The farmer who raises his own rice will continue to clean it in his own house in this way, perhaps for generations to come. But the people in the large towns and cities, who have to buy, will in time learn that it is not economical nor necessary for them to buy three or four pounds of clay with every hundredweight of rice.

Now that we have our rice we must get it ready for eating. The typical celestial appreciates the importance of this more keenly than anything else. Every Chinese of both sexes knows how to do it. It takes at least one hour. You miss you servant or workman at about 11 o'clock. He returns in a leisurely manner at about one p. m. or later.

"Why did you leave your work so early?"

"I went to cook my rice."

The chair coolies put in an appearance at about 8:30 a. m. instead of seven, as was agreed the night before.

"Why are you an hour and a half late?"

"Our rice was not cooked done."

The large place the rice question occupies in Chinese thought is shown by the fact that the most common salutation is the question: "Have you eaten your rice?" The form of expression is modified as the day passes, each man inquiring of his neighbor with the regularity, if not with the tender solicitude of the faithful physician to his patient, whether or not he has eaten his breakfast, his dinner or his supper, as the case may be.

But we are not making much progress with our cooking. It goes without saying that this dirty rice must be well washed, and that more than once. The milky-looking water that we pour off must not be thrown out. It makes feed for the goats and pigs. We can not only sell it for a good price, but the buyer will come and carry it away.

The range is a model for economy of fuel. It is built of brick and mud. It burns wood, dry grass or brush. Our kettle is round and shallow, fitting low, close to the fire. It is cast in a clay mold, and is made of raw iron.

If we can afford to eat all we want, we will steam the rice; but if we have to practice rigid economy we will boil it soft, with plenty of water.

The rice being done, the cook dips it up into a large jar. There is little ceremony in the ordinary villager's meals. Each member of the family takes his bowl and helps himself. Another jar with salt or fresh vegetables, and perhaps a little fish or pork, is on the table. He puts a few pieces on his bowl of rice, or takes another bowl for them. A pair of chopsticks as long as a penholder, made of bamboo, completes his outfit.

The table only serves as a place at which to replenish his bowl. He eats as it suits his convenience, in groups or alone, in the sun or in the shade. But always and everywhere he sucks in the soft semi-liquid rice with that unpleasant sound that our mothers taught us we must avoid in the eating of soup. Unfortunately, Confucius failed to call attention to the manifest impoliteness of this manner of eating, and I fear the habit is now too thoroughly established ever to be eradicated, except among the few who are favored with western education and culture.

Of course, the wealthy and educated classes generally have their meals served at a table around which only the male members of the family and guests gather; but three-fourths of the people eat their ordinary meals in the manner above described.

The number of times the bowl is replenished depends upon the size and occupation of the eater, and the amount of rice in the jar. Our school boys average one and one-third pounds a day. But a boatman's allowance is three times that. A good average is about two pounds a day.

Counting that there are 400,000,000 of Chinese, of whom, say, one-fourth eat little or no rice, and one-fourth have all they want to eat, and the remaining two-fourths eat half of the average of two pounds daily, or one pound a day, we would have a daily consumption of rice by the Chinese nation of 400,000,000 pounds, or six and two-thirds million bushels. This amounts to an annual consumption of 2,434,000,000 bushels. If this is too liberal a count, throw off the millions, and we have still 2,000,000,000 bushels, which is probably a conservative figure.

The world's wheat crop of a dozen years ago, as estimated in the Encyclopedia Britannica of 1889, was about 2,000,000,000 bushels.

China, before very long, will become an integral part of this planet, and then this enormous production and consumption of rice will be a large figure in the statistics of the world's food supply.

WILLIAM N. BREWSTER.

All His Fault.

A woman employed at a Yorkshire factory took her five-year-old boy to the hospital and asked the surgeon to look at his hand. By some freak of nature his finger and thumb had interlocked, causing him great pain at times. "Why didn't you come here earlier, my good woman?" asked the surgeon, in a tone of sharp reprimand. "The little chap has evidently been suffering from this extraordinary defect since the day of his birth. If you had brought him soon after he was born I might have done something for him, but I very much fear I cannot now." The woman, aware that she was sadly to blame, but loath to take the full responsibility, immediately turned to her unfortunate offspring. "Dost ta hear what the gentleman says, Tommy?" she cried. "Tha ought to 'ave mentioned it five years sin'. Oih've no patience wi' folk 'at suffer an' say nowt."—Spare Moments.

A SOUTHERN WRITER.

As a Delineator of Negro Life Mrs. Ruth McEnery Stuart Is Without a Rival.

The south has come to the front in a very marked way in recent years in the development of American literature. Some of the strongest and most enduring work of the past quarter of a century has been done by southern writers.

Among these writers of southern life has been Mrs. Ruth McEnery Stuart, of whom a recent writer has said: "It is true that the stormiest experiences of the war passed over her as a child; but its effects remained, and the situation augmented the sensitiveness of a mind peculiarly sensitive to mental impressions. The McEnery strain of blood has had ample time, in its three generations of southern life, to mingle with its Scotch-Irish clearness and directness of purpose and perception, the sympathetic, suave and kindly temperament of the warmer clime. The result in Mrs. Stuart is an ability to feel and to present every-day phases in a manner inimitable for truth, kindness, humor and pathos."

Those who have read Mrs. Stuart's stories know this to be true. Her negro types are characters toward which one finds one's self irresistibly drawn. She finds something wonderfully human and good in all of them. It is evident that Mrs. Stuart is a believer in the innate goodness of human nature. There is never anything morbid or misanthropical about her work. It fairly radiates good humor, and such writers are needed in an age when there is so much that is morbid and depressing in our literature. Who that has read her "Sonny" has not been made better by the cheery, sparkling humor of that book? It overflows with humor as delicate as it is delicious. And who that has read "The Widder Johnson" has not found himself moved to smiles for months afterward by the remembrance of the sly widow's cunning in her final matrimonial venture? This is one of the cleverest tales of negro character ever written, and it takes on a fresh charm when one hears it read by its author. Mrs. Stuart is one of the writers who read their stories well. Her imitation of the peculiarly soft, liquid notes of the negro are perfect and she interprets her stories as well as she writes them.

Mrs. Stuart does not belong to that class of literary women who are indifferent to dress or who do not know how to dress to advantage when they would. She dresses with exquisite taste and has a fine stage presence. She was born in Louisiana, but she now has a summer home in the Catskill mountains, while her winters are spent in New York city. She has a son in college to whom she is devoted with all the strength and warmth of her southern nature.

With true southern hospitality Mrs. Stuart always has a great deal of company, and she is one of the most agreeable of hostesses. There is a delightful lack of formality in her way of entertaining, due to her abundant good humor and her genuine kindness of heart. She is a true-hearted American woman as well as one of the cleverest of American writers.—Detroit Free Press.

Protection Against Moths.

Upholstered furniture is liable to collect moths, even in rooms commonly used in summer. Crevices and corners are their hotbeds. To sprinkle with benzine or gasoline is dangerous work unless the room is to be locked all summer. Turpentine poured into the dark corners, followed by a good airing upon a shaded veranda, seems to be the only safe protection. Where the house is to be closed, beat the furniture coverings well, reach into the hidden places with a small, stiff brush, then lay over all the cloth pieces of tar roofing paper, and cover the whole with muslin, new or old. The upholstered legs must be wound with strips of muslin over tar paper. To cover with holland or cretonne will keep out dust but not moths.—Good Housekeeping.

They Call This Pin Money.

The princess of Wales has $50,000 a year as pin money, and if the prince were to die before his august mother, the princess would have $200,000 a year as princess dowager of Wales. Queen Adelaide, wife of William IV., had $200,000 a year while her husband was king, and as queen dowager she was allowed $500,000 a year, the greater part of which she spent in wise charities in England, which received back all it gave this good and kindly-disposed woman. If the duchess of York had the misfortune to become a widow while holding her present title her financial position would be a very trying one, as no official provision has been made for such an emergency, and she could claim no fixed income.

REMEDY FOR STYE.

Good Results Obtained from the Use of Yeast in the Treatment.

As is well known, stye, or orgeolet, makes its appearance in the form of a hard red pimple, very sensitive to the touch, which forms on the outside edge of the eyelid—most frequently the upper eyelid. It genrally begins with the small point of induration, about the dimensions of a grain of millet, but on becoming an inflamed tumor, assumes the dimensions of an oat, and is sometimes accompanied by oedema of the eyelid. At the end of a few days, says the New York Herald, the tumor accumulates, becomes white and breaks, discharging a small quantity of pus and a greenish core. Cicatrization usually takes place rapidly and without leaving any trace.

A stye is neither more nor less than a boil on the outer edge of the eyelid. It is the result of inflammation of the glands that surround the eyelashes. It is of no gravity in itself, but in the case of some persons it returns with such tenacity that it becomes a real infirmity. With persons of this class, therefore, preventive treatment requires to be conducted with extreme care. As soon as the stye appears an attempt may be made to stop it at the outset by a slight cauterization with nitrate of silver, or else with a pencil dipped in tincture of iodine. When it has reached the full period of inflammation the treatment should be limited to the application of a few poultices of starch or of compresses dipped in a slightly antiseptic liquid. If the pus does not discharge by means of a slight incision.

The favorite results that have been obtained in the treatment of boils by taking yeast have suggested to M. Terson, of Paris, the idea of resorting to this treatment for persistent orgeolot. In fact, in several cases in which this affection of the eyes recurred indefinitely the patients found very good results from the use of yeast. As soon as the point on the eyelid made its appearance and began to be painful, indicating the advent of a stye, an administration of dry yeast in doses of four grammes 50 centigrammes to nine grammes per day, in capsules, before each meal, frequently sufficed to bring about a complete reduction and disappearance of the inflammation and swelling. When they did not succeed in arresting the stye there was at least a rapid calming of the painful phenomena. A stye being nothing but a boil, it is only natural that it should be beneficially affected by the well established curative action of yeast from beer on boils. The only thing was to think of it.

TO MAKE CONVERSATION.

A Novel Idea for Furnishing Topics for Talk at a Luncheon or Dinner.

A little suggestion about placecards for a luncheon or dinner; instead of having the names of the guests upon them, cards may be prepared by cutting pictures and letters from magazines and newspapers and pasting them neatly and carefully to make some illustrated device, sentence or verse characteristic of the guest and the occasion, writes Sadie American, in Woman's Home Companion. The guests walk around the table seeking their places, and the various cards are apt to put the company at once at ease and to be the source of a free and general flow of conversation, a thing so really hard to be sure of. If the company is one of intimates, familiar with each others' affairs, a very delightful and mirth-provoking addition to the dessert may be made by having a surprise "skeleton story." Its subject matter should deal with the doings of the various members of the company. The story is written complete, except that no adjectives are used in the narrative, but as many places as possible are left blank for them. The company is then called upon to name adjectives in turn and the blank spaces are filled in. The completed tale is then read aloud, and wonderful and fearful the medley.

Tomato Salad.

Put six medium-sized fresh tomatoes in a frying-basket; dip them in a saucepan of boiling water; free them from the skin and lay the tomatoes for one hour on top of the ice. Shortly before serving, cut each tomato lengthwise into six pieces, and lay them in a salad bowl. Mix half gill of oil with half gill of vinegar; add two tablespoonfuls tarragon vinegar, half teaspoonful salt, one-quarter teaspoonful white pepper, one teaspoonful grated onion and one teaspoonful of each fine-chopped chives and English mustard; pour the sauce over the tomatoes and lay a border of small crisp lettuce leaves around it. Another way is to cut the tomatoes, without peeling, in fine slices, lay them in a salad bowl; mix half cupful vinegar with one teaspoonful sugar, half teaspoonful each of salt and pepper, and two tablespoonfuls water, and pour over the tomatoes. Fine-sliced onions may be added, if liked.—Ledger Monthly.

Strawberries with Stems.

A fashionable way to serve strawberries is with their hulls on. Only the most perfect fruit, fresh from the vines, can be served in that way. This is the way they are served at fashionable breakfasts or "company" luncheons. Sugar is passed around with them. The guest takes a little on his plate, and, holding the berries served to him by the stems, dips them one by one into the sugar and eats them from the hull.—N. Y. Tribune.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

Women have been elected to official positions in the vestry of the French Protestant Episcopal Church of St. Sauveur in Philadelphia.

Lord Salisbury said recently in London in an address before the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel that missionaries are not popular at the British foreign office.

A strange coincidence was the conferring by Cambridge university of the degree of LL. D. on Joseph H. Choate, our ambassador to the court of St. James, and the conferring of the same degree by Columbia university on Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador at Washington, D. C.

Father Patrick O'Connell, who was ordained in Cleveland, achieved success in another profession before he made up his mind to study for the priesthood. He was city engineer of Lansing, Mich., when he abandoned civil engineering to devote his life to the service of the church. He served two terms as city engineer.

The illiteracy of Russia exceeds that of any other country claiming to have a civilized government. In 10,000 villages of the vast empire there is not a school, and it is estimated that not 20 per cent. of the population of the empire has acquired even the rudiments of a common school education.

By the conditions of a new fellowship in sociology established at Harvard the holder will have to make his residence in the tenement district of Boston in a reading-room and general resort maintained by one of the students' charitable organizations. The fellowship is called the South End House fellowship, after the name of the institution.

For cool impudence, says the Boston Congregationalist, we have heard of nothing else lately which surpasses that of the English rector who wrote to a Nonconformist lady in the town, calling upon her, in view of her non-attendance at the parish church, to pay him sixpence a Sunday for the past year or more towards the cost of the parish choir and other expenses!

The public school authorities of Philadelphia have at last adopted a scheme which has for some years been advocated for the establishment of a number of special ungraded schools for children who are backward in their studies. To such schools will be assigned children who are mentally sluggish or deficient, who are careless or willfully neglectful of their lessons and who are irregular in their school attendance. They will be gathered into classes of not more than 25 or 30 each and be under the charge of teachers specially selected because of their ability to deal with such children.

THE SWISS ARMY.

Fighting Force Is Composed Entirely of Militia, Who Could Mobilize in a Week.

The Swiss army is quite unlike any other; in fact, it is a militia force, and every citizen is liable to serve in its ranks for a period of 25 years, says a London exchange.

The conscript has only 135 days of training during this long period of service, although he keeps his clothing, arms and equipment during the time. Those citizens who are exempted from service pay an annual tax.

The conscript has to undergo courses of instruction in musketry. In addition to these courses there are years in which he is not called out of training. These years he is required to fire at least 30 rounds in an acknowledged rifle club, under rigorous conditions.

Cartridges are sold to voluntary rifle clubs at under cost price, the loss to the government being about $100,000 during the years mentioned.

By supplying ammunition under cost price the Swiss authorities have done much to encourage rifle and revolver shooting. Some of the ranges are really magnificent. This applies especially to those at Zeirtch, which are considered to be without equal anywhere. Many of these ranges cost $200,000 apiece.

The number of shooting clubs is remarkable when the size of the mountain nation is considered. In this population of 3,000,000 there were no fewer than 3,446 rifle clubs, with a total membership of 210,000 in 1898; these numbers compare with 2,914 clubs and 125,000 members in 1889.

As to the ranges, there are a large number scattered up and down the cantons. There were 2,735 inspected in 1898, and many of these were really excellent. It will be of great interest to know that the largest proportion (62 per cent.) had a maximum shooting range of 400 meters (437 yards). Then follow those having a maximum shooting range of 500 meters (18 per cent.), and those of 600 meters (16 per cent.).

The Swiss army is remarkable for the speed and ease with which it can be mobilized, it having been estimated that in a pinch every able-bodied man in Switzerland could be at the capital in a week after hostilities were opened.

Royal Families Extinct.

There is no legitimate male descendend of any kind of England who sat on the throne before the reign of George I. Of the 25 barons who set their hands to magna charta not a single male descendant remains. There is not a single barony by writ now held by a male of the family in which it was originally created. There are only about 300 nobles or gentle families now holding the same land in male succession which their male ancestors held even so recently as the reign of King Henry VII.—Chicago Chronicle.

Sick Bed Marriages.

When a girl is married on a sick bed, the women think it is romantic, but the men look upon it as a shifting of the responsibilities of the doctor bills.—Atchison Globe.

SPORTING.

GOLF

Last Saturday morning the return match at golf was played on the Hillside course between Andrew Blair and W. J. R. Thiers, of the Park Golf Club, and W. L. Glenney and M. R. Brown, of the Hillside Club. Friday in the first play the Park team won by 4 up and 2 to play. In Saturday's game the Park duo was defeated 4 up and 3 to play. The greens were very slow, making good putting almost impossible. Glenney played exceptionally good golf. He made the outward journey in 39 and returned in 40, a total of 79. Thiers went out in 43 and returned in 40, a score of 83 for the 18 holes. It is quite likely that a third game will be arranged to decide which team is the better of the two.

ON THE DIAMOND

Several hundred people witnessed an excellent baseball game Saturday on the Washington avenue grounds between the St. Mary and Arion ball teams. Both sides did good work, but superior fielding by St. Mary's boys won the game for them. The score was 10 to 3. The batteries were Smith and Roseberry for the Arions and Montross and Barry for the St. Mary's.

GAMBLERS ATTACK EXCURSIONISTS

Revolvers Drawn, Missiles Thrown, and a Number of Them Were Injured.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Aug. 7.—The Turn Verein Vorwaerts of this city gave its annual excursion Sunday to Empire Grove, on the Hudson, and it was 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning when the Laura M. Starin and the barge chartered for the occasion reached the wharf at Elizabethport.

A fierce fight occurred at the grove between the pleasure seekers and a number of gamblers who attempted to fleece the excursionists in the grove. The excursionists outnumbered the gamblers, but the latter drew revolvers and drove the pleasure seekers back to the boats. The captain of the Starin blew his whistle for assistance and drove the gamblers from the wharf with a powerful stream of water from the steamer's hose. Before this was done, however, the excursionists were subjected to a volley of bricks, stones and bottles thrown by the gamblers. Two young men on the barge were badly cut on the head by bricks, and a number of others, including several women, were struck and bruised by the missiles.

COL. DOWNS A BANKRUPT.

Says Edwin Gould Froze Him Out of the Continental Match Company.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Aug. 7—Col. Wallace A. Downs, formerly of the Seventy-first Regiment, New York National Guard, who has filed a petition to be adjudged a bankrupt under the laws of New Jersey, appeared before Referee William V. Steele, at this place, yesterday for examination by his creditors. The amount of Col. Downs's assets, as stated in his petition, is $303,570, and his liabilities $21,794 80. An examination of Col. Downs's assets showed that they consisted of shares in the American Barrel Stave Company, aggregating $154,100, and stock of the International Shingle Company to the amount of $149,100. Evidence was adduced showing that both of these companies had passed out of existence.

Col. Downs was formerly connected with the American and International Match Companies and later associated with Edwin Gould in the Continental Match Company. Col. Downs says that Edwin Gould froze him out of the Continental Match Company. Among the papers filed with Referee Steele are copies of two promissory notes amounting to 15,000, given by Col. Downs to Edwin Gould and transferred by Mr. Gould to Otto Ottesen.

REPORT NOT CONFIRMED.

As a Result Assessment Comissioners Are Not Paid Yet.

Jas. O. Clark, a Cranford sewer assessment commissioner, E. M. Wood and William T. West being the other two members, requested Town Counsel S. J. Cox to ask for the confirmation of their report, which was completed last January. Judge Swayze being present in Elizabeth last week, to confirm the county road trolley awards, a favorable opportunity for so doing was presented, but no action was taken. As a consequence of the inaction of the two separate town counsels the commissioners are unable to collect any pay for their services, as their report must be confirmed by the court before they can present their bills for payment; also the town loses the interest on the assessments, which do not become a lien until confirmed by the court.

Harry Elliot Paroled.

Harry Elliot, a young man of this city, who was recently arrested for attempting to break into B. D. Newell's grocery, and who was sent to Elizabeth to await the action of the Court of Sessions, was paroled this morning in the custody of Benjamin Hand by Judge Vail. Mr. Hand has always taken great interest in Elliot and rather than have the boy sent to the Reform school he secured a place of employment for him, and promised Judge Vail that he would look after him in the future. On this condition he was released by the court.

municipalities through which it runs were obliged to keep it in repair until such a time as the Board wants to take charge of it. This the Fanwood Council deems unjust and they want to hold a conference so that some action may be taken.

The Plainfield Automobile Company petitioned the Council for a license to operate two automobiles in the city. The matter was referred to the license committee. The resignation of George R. Rockafellow as a special policeman was received and accepted. William Pearson and H. E. Gayle, formerly partners in business, asked the Council to apportion the taxes on a piece of property located on West Third street owned by them. The matter was referred. The Plainfield Electric Light Company informed the Council that the six lights ordered by the light committee have been erected according to instructions.

At this time several appointments were made by the Mayor. Frank D. Hart, formerly a call man in the fire department, was made a full paid man, and Herbert L. Overbaugh was appointed to the position of special policeman, and Frank Day and Bertram Frazee were appointed call men in the fire department to take the places of Daniel Force, resigned, and Frank D. Hart, who was made a regular. The appointments were confirmed by the Council.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that fourteen building permits were granted during July and Street Commissioner Gavett reported that four sewer permits were granted during the same time. A report for the last six months that George W. Grant was chief of police, was received and filed. It showed that 217 arrests were made, of which number 31 were colored.

President Dumont, at this time, appointed Mr. Randolph, the new member, a member of the police, alms and auditing committees, and Mr. vanHerwerden was taken off the auditing committee and put on the street committee.

Mr. vanHerwerden offered a resolution providing for the borrowing of $3,000 on account of general fund, and $4,000 on account of fire fund, in anticipation of the collection of taxes. Another resolution by the same member provided for the return of $15.52 to Emma VanName, of 808 Third place, upon the payment by her of $228 06, the amount due for taxes from 1897-99. The amount ordered returned was assessed in error.

Mr. Corlell stated that in effecting a settlement with Mrs. Bailey for the horse used in the fire department to the chief's wagon, and which was owned by her late husband, the committee had allowed her $70. The Council confirmed the action.

Mr. vanHerwerden called up the amendment to tax ordinance and it was adopted on its third reading. Mr. Tolles offered a resolution to the effect that hereafter whenever a connection is made to the sewer at a house it must be done by a master plumber who shall be registered, and that he must secure a permit from the Street Commissioner. The plumber must be registered at the Board of Health office. Mr. Tolles also called up on the third reading the ordinance to macadamize Orange place, and it was adopted.

The Council then adjourned to Tuesday evening, August 21st, at which time several matters of importance will be taken up.

M'DERMOTT FOR BRYAN.

Former State Senator and Democratic Committee Chairman Declares for Him.

Allan L. McDermott, Corporation Counsel of Jersey City, and former State Senator from Hudson county, who for several years was chairman of the Democratic State Committee, but who in 1896 repudiated Bryan and the Chicago platform, formally announced yesterday that he would this year vote for and support Bryan and Stephenson. In an interview Mr. McDermott said that the free silver question would injure Bryan in the east, "and I am sorry," continued Mr. McDermott, "that the Convention did not have sense enough to relegate that question to the settled issued. Free and unlimited coinage of silver would not prove the blessing claimed by its advocates, neither would it produce the evils claimed by its opponents."

Mr. McDermott considers imperialism the paramount issue.

"I believe it is my duty as a citizen of this republic," he said, "to vote for Mr. Bryan, although I regret the fact that the platform upon which he was nominated reaffirms doctrines that induced me to vote for Mr. McKinley four years ago."

BOROUGH CONTRACTS.

Work of Installing a Heating and Ventilating System in Schoolhouse Not Yet Started.

The work of installing a heating and ventilating system in the Somerset street schoolhouse has not yet started, neither has all the contracts been awarded. Mr. Giddis, of East Orange, who has general supervision of the work and who has made the plans, promised to have all the contracts fixed a week ago, but thus far has failed. It is understood that A. J. Winckler will get the contract for the carpenter work, while the mason work is a toss-up between Wm. Smith and James M. Lewis, both of the borough. The heating and ventilating apparatus will be arranged for by Mr. Giddis. As soon as the latter comes to Plainfield and definitely settles upon the contracts, the work will be started. The work will have to be so arranged as to not interfere with the school sessions, as it will be impossible to complete it before school opens.

The work of erecting the building for manual training has not yet been arranged and there is delay about starting that. The chances are that the building will be completed so that it can be used when school opens. After the structure is completed it will not take long to equip it and make it ready for use.

Ants, Cockroaches, Bed Bugs.

Mix, say, a 25c. box of "Rough on Rats" carefully with a pound or so of mashed boiled potatoes, or with a loaf of finely crumbled dampened bread, or two tin cups of fine powdered sugar, and place about their haunts, out of reach of children or pet animals. Even the hardier Black Cockroaches, Beetles, Wood or Water Bugs, in one or two applications will be completely annihilated. "Rough on Rats" is the only thing that will effectually and permanently annihilate Bed Bugs, and it stands unrivalled the world over for the prompt and effective extermination of Rats and Mice. 15 and 25 boxes at druggists.

BOARD OF EDUCATION WON'T RENT A ROOM.

Decide to Refuse Miss Maxson's Request to Lease Part of Wadsworth School.

MEETING CALLED AT 8:45.

SEVERAL APPLICATIONS FOR POSITIONS AS TEACHERS.

Not Ready to Receive Plans From Architects for Proposed New High School—Medical Examiners Reappointed.

The August meeting of the Board of Education was held in the Stillman building last evening. President Probasco and Messrs. Abbott, Lovell and Lounsbury, of the Board, and Clerk Clark were present. As usual, it did not require much time to transact the business intended for "open" session, and immediately afterward the regular executive session was called. It was about 8:45 o'clock when the meeting was called to order.

The clerk read the statement from Tax Collector F. H. Smith, which showed that a total of $1,030.60 collected as school money, together with interest, and the same has been deposited with the custodian of school money, City Treasurer W. F. Arnold.

Several applications were received for positions as teachers, but they were not read, simply referred to Superintendent Maxson. A petition was received by Mr. Lounsbury from Miss Mabel Maxson, and reported by him, wherein Miss Maxon asked for the privilege of renting one of the rooms in the Wadsworth school for the purpose of conducting a musical kindergarten. Mr. Lounsbury stated that he had received a letter from Superintendent Maxson, in which he says that he has no objection to renting the room, provided that the sessions are held outside of school hours and the people clearly understand that the school has nothing to do with the public school.

Mr. Lounsbury stated that it was Miss Maxson's intention to conduct her school outside of the regular hours for the public school sessions. Mr. Abbott and Mr. Lovell spoke adversely to renting the room to Miss Maxson for the purpose named, and the clerk was instructed to write Miss Maxson that the Board would feel obliged to refuse her request.

A resolution was adopted to the effect that the clerk be authorized to write to the various architects who have made applications for the programme for the proposed new High School, and inform them that the advertisement in The American Architect asking for plans, was a little premature, and that the programme for the proposed building is not yet completed.

Another resolution provided that all school money be turned over to the city treasurer, the custodian of that money. Still another resolution was offered providing for the drawing of warrants to pay all bills and claims against the Board of Education. In this connection Mr. Lovell moved that the president appoint a committee to draft a suitable warrant which will hereafter be used in the payment of moneys, as provided for by the State law, which created the board of estimate, under which the Board of Education is now working. Messrs. Lovell and Lounsbury were appointed a committee.

The president re-appointed Drs. W. H. Murray and T. H. Tomlinson as medical examiners for the schools for next year. Dr. Probasco stated that the superintendent of the electric light works had requested him to ask the Board for the privilege of locating an iron pole on the dividing line on Fourth street between the school property and that owned by S. D. Collins, upon which they wished to fasten a guide wire. The Board saw no objection and granted the request so far as their power extended.

Mr. Abbott called the attention of the Board to a complaint received by him from a prominent citizen in which the latter claimed that children at the Bryant school had been using tin cups to drink out of instead of the drinking fountain provided for that purpose. The Board thought that the practice would cease if the principal of the school was instructed accordingly, and this was ordered.

The Board then went into executive session to talk over matters pertaining to the new High School.

Going Back to Duty.

It is stated on good authority that Marshal Kliner, of the borough, who was suspended for a week without pay, has arranged to return to duty next week.

GAY AND SPECTACULAR

CRANFORD CARNIVAL WILL OUTSHINE ALL PREVIOUS ATTEMPTS.

More Boats and Finer Decorations Than Ever Before—Will Start at 7:30 o'Clock.

The fourteenth annual Venetian carnival and water parade of the Cranford Boating Association will take place next Saturday evening, and from present prospects it promises to be the finest ever held under the auspices of the association. The preparations for the affair have been on a more extensive scale than in former years, for this carnival is the last the association will hold in the nineteenth century, and the members are determined to surpass all previous efforts. More boats will be in the water parade and the decorations and illuminations will be more extensive. Two bands will be on hand to furnish music for the occasion.

The carnival will begin this year at 7:30 o'clock, at which time Bartow's New York military band, which will be stationed in the band stand, near the Eastman street bridge, will begin the rendition of a programme of music of the day. At 7:45 o'clock a signal will be given by the firing of a bomb, for those who intend taking part in the parade, to get ready and 8 o'clock the second bomb will be fired, which will be the signal for the procession to start.

The parade of gayly decorated and illuminated boats, canoes and floats will start in front of the band stand, and headed by Commodore Miller's boat, will proceed up the river to an illuminated post, which will be found in the river near Sanderson place. The procession will pass around this post and proceed down the river for a distance of a mile and a half to Bouchout's dam, where a turn will again be made and the return trip will be taken to the band stand, where the parade will be dismissed. The entire route of the parade will be illuminated by the discharge of fireworks, while red and green fire will be burned continuously on both sides of the river while the procession is passing.

The following is the programme that will be rendered by Bartow's Band:

No Underground Trolley, Says Young.

David Young, vice-president and general manager of the North Jersey Street Railway Company, in an interview, says that there is no prospect of an underground system in Essex county, or any other system which will do away with the overhead wire. Compressed air, he says, is noisy, and there is always danger of the power becoming exhausted. The underground trolley, while successful in New York and Washington, where there is a perfect system of storm drainage, would not be in this county, for lack of that system. Moreover, to install the underground trolley would cost $150,000, a sum which could not be well met out of the earnings of the local trolley lines.

AN ELMIRA BRIDE.

An interesting marriage of the month took place this morning, when Miss Edith B. Horton, of Elmira, N.Y., and Harry Williams, eldest son of Mr and Mrs. W. F. Williams, of Somerset street, were married at the home of the bride's parents. The affair was very simple and quiet, and immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom left to enjoy a wedding trip. Upon their return they will occupy a suite of rooms in the Jackson building on West Front street.

The bride has a host of friends both in the borough, where she resided on Fairview avenue for four years, and in this city, where she is well known. PRICE FOR BOXING EARS.

Glaser Said He Struck in Fun, But a Jury Decided He Must Pay.

The price for boxing a man's ears in Elizabeth, even though done in fun, has been placed by a jury at $15. Theo. Glaser, who is Elizabeth's garbage contractor, was a defendant yesterday in the Elizabeth District Court, where he was sued for $300 damages by Frank Starck, a farmer, who charged him with boxing his ears on the night of July 17th, because he objected to Glaser striking a colored man with an umbrella.

The Superior Officers' Police Association of Union and Middlesex counties held its annual clambake that day, and Glaser said he thought everything was proper on such an occasion, and that his side diversion with the Negro and Farmer Starck was only meant in a playful spirit. Starck swore, however, that Glaser struck him so hard on the ears that he had to consult a specialist, as his hearing was seriously impaired by the blows. The jury after being out an hour brought in a verdict of $15 and costs. After Glaser has paid this, together with fees, it will make his little amusement cost him about $45.

NTERESTED IN LIGHTHIPE SUIT.

Millburn People Following the Test Case on Water Pollution.

Residents of Millburn and property owners along the banks of the Rahway River tributary, which flows through that place, are much interested in the hearing of the case of the State Board of Health against Charles A. Lighthipe, who has been summoned to appear before Judge Storrs in the Orange District Court today to show cause why he should not be restrained from emptying sewage matter from his property in Millburn into the stream, which is alleged to be contaminated. The defendant owns several tenement and business houses on the stream, and the tail race from his paper goods mill flows into it. Since the recent efforts to purify the water Mr. Lighthipe has built cesspools on his properties.

This hearing is in the nature of an experiment, as it is the first case to receive judical attention. If the health authorities are successful they will go right ahead and proceed against other property owners along the stream who are said to be violating the order and sewering into it.

Former Councilman Ill.

Former Councilman Murray Burtis, of Fairview avenue, was taken very ill last Saturday with intestinal obstruction, accompanied with peritonitis, and his condition was such that it was deemed wise to remove him to Muhlenberg Hospital Monday evening. It is hoped that an operation will not be necessary, and this will be avoided if such a thing is possible. At present Mr. Burtis is much better than at any time since he was taken ill.

A Day Off.

Rushton & Hansen, painters and paper-hangers, will close their shop, corner of Fourth and Sycamore streets, all day Saturday. The firm will enjoy that day on a pleasure trip with their men. They will leave Plainfield on the 6:29 train in the morning for New York, where they will take a boat at the foot of Rector street, and the day will be spent in fishing. This generosity on the part of the firm is commendable.

AMERICAN FRUIT ABROAD

JERSEY GROWERS CAN COMPETE IN FOREIGN MARKETS.

Professor Smith Presents an Important Report, and Suggests Treaty With France.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, August 8—Fruit growers in the southern part of New Jersey will be interested in the result of the recent trip of Professor John B. Smith, State Entomologist, who has just returned from abroad where he went to investigate the restrictions against American fruits. Professor Smith also investigated the methods of handling insects in European countries.

With regard to the fruits Professor Smith ascertained that it would be practically impossible for American fruits to be shipped into France except by treaty management. French officials have an idea that all American fruits are tabooed. If the fruit is forcen through there is so much red tape about it that the fruit spoils before it reaches the hands of the customer.

Efforts to exclude American fruits have been abandoned in Holland, the Professor found, but in Belgium very few American fruits are received. Officials in Germany seemed to be fair-minded and disposed to treat shipments more considerately. He found that at Hamburg, while there, a consignment of 30,000 barrels of apples was received.

Dr. Brick, Chief Health Official for Plants, was seen and a copy of the inspection laws was procured. Professor Smith believes that if American fruit shippers will treat their customers fairly there will be no trouble about the sale of American fruits in foreign countries. Everything is sold at auction and never by surface show. One barrel in every ten is emptied out on the floor, and the sale is made upon the condition of the fruit thus displayed. The man who puts a lot of poor fruit at the bottom of the barrels stands a poor show.

Foreign officials are particular about the San Jose scale. If a single scale is found on one apple in a barrel the entire shipment would be excluded. The Germans have no orchards to speak of, compared with New Jersey, and there is no reason why apple trade should not increase.

Professor Smith was agreeably surprised to find that the American fruit exhibit surpassed those of other countries. He also found that the French commission merchants were greatly interested in these fruits, and it is his opinion that next year there will be a noticeable increase in the demand for Jersey fruits.

The conditions in Hungary were found to be similar in many respects to those of this country, with the exception that the fruit growers did not understand how to handle large crops to advantage. He thought Hungary, if separated from Austria, would make great strides in an agricultural way.

In the treatment of insects, Prof. Smith found that America was ahead of the European nations in many respects, and in France there existed a prejudice against the use of paris green or other poisons.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 8—Sheriff Houston, on September 5th, will sell at public auction the noted Library Hall building, on Broad street, this city, in which the Lyceum Theatre is located. The sale is caused by the foreclosure of a mortgage which is held on the property. It was threatened to be sold a year ago, but the owners—the Library Hall Association—managed at that time to stave off the proceedings.

A BRUTAL ASSAULT.

Martinville Man Attacked "Hank" Schneider and Beat Him Almost Into Insensibility.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, August 8—Officers are searching for Fred Lewis, a resident of Martinville, who last night assaulted in a perticularly brutal manner "Hank" Schneider, a well-known character of this neighborhood. Schneider is over sixty years old and has long followed the occupation of well-digging, always being a subject of comment on account of his nondescript outfit. It appears that Schneider had employed Lewis' wife to do some washing and at the time of the assault was owing her $1.50. Lewis came to collect this amount and, on being refused, he attacked Schneider and beat him almost into insensibility. Schneider's wife was also severely hurt by being hit by a teacup thrown by Lewis.

Schneider was a sorry-looking object when he appeared before Justice Brampton this morning to swear out a warrant for the arrest of his assailant. Both his eyes were closed and his features were much disfigured. Constable Sebring immediately started after Lewis, but the latter had evidently been warned, as he could not be found at any of his usual haunts and has no doubt left the vicinity.

TO MUCH MILK ADULTERATED.

There Are More Violations of Law at Seashore Than Ever.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Aug. 8—State Dairy Commissioner Maguire stated yesterday that never before had the milk supply been as full of adulteration as it has this summer along the seashore.

He announced that the complaints against dealers who have been putting formaldehyde in their product will be pushed to the extreme. If convictions are not reached in the lower courts, he says, appeals will be taken.

So far some twenty-five cases have been tried and $3,300 collected in fines There are about thirty cases yet pending, and it is expected that many more thousands of dollars will be added to the State's funds in these fines before the summer is over.

ALL ABOUT THE POLICE.

STATISTICS ABOUT LAST SIX MONTHS OF CHIEF GRANT'S TERM.

The Arrests Made Numbered 217—Fines Amounted to $305—$96 for Killing Dogs.

One of the interesting reports received at the regular meeting of the Common Council last Monday evening was that of Former Chief Grant. The report is the semi-annual one from January 1st, 1900, to July 1st, 1900, the date of the resignation of Mr. Grant.

This report shows that during that time there were 217 arrests, of which 204 were males and 13 females. Of the whole number 31 were colored. Under the charge of disorderly the most arrests were made, there being 100 who violated the ordinance in this respect. The next highest number of arrests was 56 for drunk and disorderly. For trespassing on the property of the Jersey Central Railroad there were 14 arrests, and for plain drunkenness there were eleven arrests. The rest of the list is composed of arrests for petty offenses. In 104 cases sentence was suspended, 67 were fined, 21 dismissed, 12 committed, 11 held for the Grand Jury and 2 were held in bond. There was collected in fines $305.

Another interesting part of the report shows the time lost during the six months by the regular policemen, including days off, sick time and vacation. Patrolman Higgins lost the most time, 40 days, of which 37 was for sickness. Then comes Patrolman Flanagan with 25 days, 24 of which was for sickness. Patrolman Wenzenreid lost 24 days which included 19 for sickness. The rest of the men lost anywhere from 18 to 3 days, and in most cases the cause was for illness. Sergeant Frederickson lost the least number of days, 3, of which 2 were sickness. The total figures were as follows: Days off, 93; sick time, 118; vacation, 16; total, 227.

In the itemized bill of expenses there were some interesting things. For instance, it cost the city $96 to kill dogs during the six months, and for the repair of bicycles it cost $11.40. The station house supplies cost $18.58, and repairs to the station cost $148.10. Other items figure up a total of $1,880,18. It cost the city for regular police duty $6,361.08 and $135 25 for special police duty. This expense together with the first named sum gives a grand total of expense of $7,496 51 for the six months.

YOUR RIBS MUSTN'T SHOW.

Founder Bradley Objects to Bathing Suits Cut Low Under the Arms.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, Aug. 8.—Founder Bradley had notices posted yesterday on his beach, warning all men bathers that their suits must conform to the rules laid down governing decency. He is particularly incensed at the action of a number of young men who wear jersey suits that show more of their ribs than they cover. The Founder says that the practice of wearing suits cut low under the arms is vulger. The beach police have received particular instructions to see that the new order is enforced.

Joint Action Necessary.

A committee from Fanwood Borough Council will confer with a committee from the Westfield Township Committee concerning North avenue, which is in bad repair. One Result of Good Crops.
(Special to the Daily Press.)

Swedesboro, Aug. 8—The deposits in the First National Bank of Swedesboro amount to $213,000, an excess of $35,000 over those of last year at this time. Prosperity among farmers, owing to good crops and fair prices, has caused heavier deposits to be made than were ever known in the history of the Swedesboro Bank.

The new trolley sprinkler was run over the tracks of the Plainfield company yesterday and experts were giving instructions to the local men how to handle the big car. BRILLIANT AFFAIR FOR CHARITY'S SAKE Progressive Euchre Party at the Hotel Netherwood was a Great Success.

A LARGE NUMBER PLAYED.

LIST OF THE PRIZE WINNERS IS A LONG ONE.

The Hotel Beautifully Decorated and Illuminated for the Occasion—Dance Followed the Card Playing.

Charity in its most noblest form, that of saving tiny little lives from the cruel heat of summer, was the object in view for which guests at the Hotel Netherwood played euchre last evening. When it was first suggested some time ago to do something in behalf of the Babies' Camp of the City Union of King's Daughters a progressive euchre party was one of the first things mentioned.

There were those at the hotel, however, who declared the task was too much for any one committee to undertake, on account of the large number of guests. But, fortunately, the committee in charge of a similar affair given last season were present this year and it was through their efforts that last evening's party was given.

They have been unceasing in their labors for the past two weeks to make this the event of the Netherwood season, and a glance at the game any time during its progress would convince the most skeptical that they had succeeded. In the large ball room, which was a perfect mass of bunting tastefully arranged, were placed thirty-three tables at which were seated four times as many players. Everyone seemed intent on defeating his or her opponent, thereby securing a point, the largest number of which entitled them to a prize. During the progress of the game special music was rendered by a selected orchestra and refreshing lemonade was furnished the participants.

Previous to the playing, the scene in and about the big hotel was one long to be remembered by those fortunate enough to witness it. The porch was illuminated by scores of colored lanterns. Brilliantly attired ladies, accompanied by gentleman, in their more sombre evening dress, moved about the corridor or engaged in conversation in some quiet corner. Promptly at 9 o'clock the notes of a bugle announced the time for the players to take their places and after a few well-chosen words from S. B. Garre the game commenced. Mr. Garre, assisted by Messrs. Wilson, Sisson, Carson, Mollan, Dickson, Wetzler and Jones gave each one their points as a game was won.

As the end drew near the interest increased and when the game was finished everyone anxiously awaited the result. The players' tickets were collected and the committee selected the winners. As their names were called off each one could select the prize they wished in the order finished.

The following are the prize winners and the number of points secured: Ladies' first prize, ten points, Mrs. Dickson; second, nine and a half points, Miss Woodward and Miss Angkins; third, nine points, Mrs. D. Smith and Mrs. Carney; fourth, eight and a half points, Mrs. S. H. Wilson, Mrs. K. Stearns and Mrs. Coleman; fifth, eight points, Mrs. Ricardo Struller, Miss Helen A. Garre, Miss Adams, Mrs. Glenny, Mrs. Carson, Miss Seargeant and Miss Yerkes. Men's first prize, nine points, J. G. Houghton; second, eight and a half points, Mr. Holbrook; third, eight points, Mr. Dickenson, F. Wood, T. Mantz, Mr. VanHerwerden, Mr. McAnenis, F. G. Smith and Mr. Wheeler; fourth prize, seven and a half points, Mr. Harbaugh, Mr. Beard, Mr. Greene and Dr. Browning.

While the prizes were being distributed the tables and chairs had been cleared away and dancing commenced which was kept up until after midnight. The committee, who so successfully conducted the affair, were Samuel Garre, Frank Wetzler, E. C. Sterling and S. B. Carson.

Another proof of the success of the affair is that shown by the receipts of the flower and lemonade sales. The former was under the charge of Mrs. Ricardo Struller, assisted by Miss Mildred Williams, Miss Worthington, Miss Woodward, Miss May Coleman, Miss Clarke and Miss Holing. Three little flower girls, Ruth Hall, Janet Mercer and Adelaide Pendergast saw to it that no one went without a boutennier. As a result of these sales over $50 was added to the receipts.

They Struck It Rich,

It was a grand thing for this community that such an enterprising firm as L. W. MISS CHANLER ANSWERED.

Had Severely Criticised Army Medical System.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Miss Margaret Astor Chanler of New York has forwarded from Manila to the secretary of war a severe criticism of the army's medical system in the Philippines, alleging that there is a lack of surgeons, lack of nurses, lack of medical supplies, including such articles as sheets, and asking that she be allowed 500 sheets for emergency distribution. A copy of Miss Chanler's criticism has been forwarded to Mrs. Cowles, the sister of Governor Roosevelt, and to several officials and individuals of prominence.

Secretary Root referred Miss Chanler's letter to Surgeon General Sternberg, who has been making a thorough inquiry into the various points raised. He has completed and submitted to Mr. Root what is regarded as a complete refutation of the arraignment of the medical service in general and of the specific points of arraignment made by Miss Chanler.

The correspondence has not been given out, but it is understood to be of rather spirited character. From the standpoint of the medical officials here Miss Chanler's criticism loses much of its force from the fact that it was written only two days after she arrived at Manila. It is said this shows the lack of that mature judgment and knowledge of facts which long observation would have given.

The records of the war department have been brought forward to show that many of Miss Chanler's specific charges lack ground. These records are said to disclose repeated telegrams from General Sternberg to the authorities at Manila asking them to state how many nurses and doctors they required and to give early notice of their requirements in order that all needs might be met promptly. It is said that practically the same showing was made as to supplies. Miss Chanler's specific criticism on the lack of sheets and her appeal for 500 sheets to meet pressing needs is considered unaccountable in view of the almost lavish provisions which are said to have been made.

Secretary Root's disposition of Miss Chanler's charges has not been made known, as he now has before him the original letter from Manila and Surgeon General Sternberg's comprehensive rejoinder.

in Dentistry is the best substitute for nature's work that can be done. Sound roots may be built up and crowned and thus fill up an unsightly space. FROM CONGER DIRECT Message Received at Washington Dated Aug. 7.

THE SITUATION MORE PRECARIOUS.

Chinese Government Insists on Legations Leaving Peking—Daily Rifle Firing—Ammunition and Provisions Failing—All Well.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Another cablegram came to the state department late yesterday from Minister Conger at Peking, the first which has come direct from the minister since June 12, the other having been received through the intermediary of the Chinese minister here, Mr. Wu. This telegram shows that the situation in the Chinese capital is of a very serious character, that the ministers are still in danger from the Chinese troops and that their supply of ammunition and provisions has been reduced to a very considerable extent. So important were the statements contained in the dispatch that a conference was held by wire between several of the officials here and the president at Canton, lasting for several hours.

The following is the cablegram from Minister Conger as received by the state department, dated Tsi-Nan Yamen, Aug. 7:

"Still besieged. Situation more precarious. Chinese government insisting upon our leaving Peking, which would be certain death. Rifle firing upon us daily by imperial troops. Have abundant courage, but little ammunition or provisions. Two progressive Yamen ministers beheaded. All connected with legation of the United States well at the present moment."

The cablegram came in the official cipher of the department. The dispatch reached the department at 4:20 p. m., but was not made public until late in the evening.

Those who were at the White House in conference with the president included Acting Secretary Adee of the state department, Secretary Root and Adjutant General Corbin. Captain Michael, the chief clerk of the state department, through whose hands the cablegram passed, was also present part of the time.

What the result of the conference was the officials declined to say. That it will stimulate the energies of the government to its utmost endeavor to press forward the advance movement toward Peking is certain, for Mr. Conger's message makes it clear that for the ministers to leave Peking would result in their death. Secretary Root did not care to make any statement when asked about the situation.

The officials had been led to believe from the more recent dispatches, which purported to emanate from Chinese sources as well as from imperial edicts, that the condition of the legationers was much improved, but this dispatch shows a very different aspect of affairs.

Secretary Root stated late last night that so far as he was aware there would be no change in the president's intentions to return to Washington on the 18th inst., making this reply to a question as to whether the latest developments in Peking would necessitate his return to the capital earlier.

The word "yamen" following the name of the city Tsi-nan, at which the cablegram from Mr. Conger was put on the wires, as understood here, probably refers to the official building or residence from which it was transmitted or at which it was received by courier from Peking.

The information that United States troops were engaged in the battle at Peitsang established positively for the first time that, notwithstanding the difficulties which General Chaffee had encountered in debarking troops and supplies, at least a part and a considerable part of our force was in the vanguard of the forward movement. General Chaffee's dispatch to the war department conveyed the most satisfactory evidences that the commanders had thoroughly agreed in advance upon a plan of action and that there is every indication that this plan has been followed, as General Chaffee on Friday sent the cable saying that the attack upon the Chinese at Pietsang would be made on Sunday, the day when Admiral Remey and the press correspondents say the fighting occurred. General Chaffee's announcement that the present objective of the international column is Yangtsun is interpreted by the officials at the war department to mean that this point, where river, railroad and wagon road meet, is to be made the advance base for the operations on Peking.

The most positive addition to the news of yesterday was the brief line from Tien-tsin stating that the Ninth and Fourteenth infantry, Reilly's battery and the marines were in the battle of Pietsang. It was this force which, with the British and Japanese, bore the brunt of the attack on the left flank, which was to turn the enemy's position. This plan had already been made clear by General Chaffee's dispatch, although he did not mention what American troops would be engaged.

LEGATIONS STILL IN PEKING.

Late Dispatch Fixes That Fact—Sunday's Battle Described.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—A message from the Belgian minister, dated Peking, Aug. 2, seems effectually to dispose of the rumors that the ministers have either left or are intending to leave Peking.

The Chinese minister in London, Sir Chi Chen Lofengluh, says he has received a telegram from China announcing that a long imperial edict issued on Aug. 2 authorizing the immediate and safe conveyance of all Europeans in Peking to Tien-tsin.

Several dispatches are printed giving hearsay accounts of Sunday's batle. The Daily Mail's correspondent at Chefu, telegraphing Monday, says:

"The fighting lasted seven hours, and the allies, when my report left, were pursuing the Chinese, but owing to the floods progress was difficult.

"Thus the Chinese will have time to reform and to recover from the effects of the battle. Only a small garrison, with 14 guns, remains at Tien-tsin, where some anxiety is felt because of a report that 15,000 Chinese are said to be moving two days' march to the southeast."

All the correspondents agree in praising the bravery and organization of the Japanese, but none of them brings the story much beyond General Chaffee's report.

Li Ping Heng, according to the Shanghai correspondent of The Standard, has been appointed generalissimo of the Chinese forces and has left Peking to command the troops outside the city.

A Shanghai special says that official advices from Tokyo announce that armed collisions have occurred between parties of Russians and Japanese outside Taku. This, however, as it comes by way of Shanghai, must await confirmation before being credited.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Mail, confirming the massacre of missionaries at Chu-Chow-Fu, says that two American women were among the victims.

The Sebastopol correspondent of The Daily Graphic asserts that the Russian government will send 125,000 additional troops from Odessa to the far east before the end of the year.

Berlin dispatches say it is rumored there that an agreement has been reached between Emperor Nicholas and Emperor William whereby the German troops will be permitted to proceed to China by way of Siberia.

The royal arsenal at Woolwich has been ordered to send 30,000,000 rounds of small arm ammunition to China.

Germany In the Dark.

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—The German foreign office up to midnight had not received any confirmation of alarming news from Tien-tsin or of the report that the advance on Peking had begun, but it considers the advices that the Japanese and Russian forces had a severe engagement with the Chinese Sunday and drove back the enemy to be reliable. It is pointed out, however, that the occurrence of such an engagement may not mean that an advance is in progress. Why no official news regarding these important matters does not arrive here the foreign office is unable to explain. It admits that serious differences have broken out between the powers.

Empress Dowager In Authority.

COLOGNE, Aug. 8.—The Berlin correspondent of the Cologne Gazette, in a dispatch to that paper, says that the Japanese reports regarding affairs in China have hitherto been trustworthy, now state that the supreme authority of the dowager empress still exists. It was by order of the empress that Li Ping Heng was appointed to the command of the Chinese troops in the north. The correspondent considers that this fact shows where the responsibility for China's action in the past lies and where the punishment of the future should be inflicted.

RATHBONE'S TRIAL.

Acting Director Fosnes Offers Additional Evidence.

HAVANA, Aug. 8.—Mr. Martin C. Fosnes, acting director general of posts, appeared for the first time personally yesterday against Mr. Estes G. Rathbone, the deposed director, and offered additional evidence in the court of first instance. Deputy Auditor Lawshe, who has been investigating Mr. Rathbone's accounts, disallows items aggregating more than $25,000. These include unauthorized personal expenditures and stuffed payrolls, together with a number of questionable contracts.

The fiscal is ready to go to trial after Judge Barrinaga makes a summary of the charges and the time allotted to the accused to answer expires. It is probable, therefore, that the trial will come on during the first week of September.

The question has been raised as to whether Mr. Rathbone can be legally convicted without the presence of C. F. W. Neely, the dismissed financial agent of posts, who is also charged with a heavy defalcation. It is held by some that Mr. Rathbone's alleged offense is quite distinct, despite the fact that an old Spanish law requires the same tribunal to try simultaneously persons accused of joint criminality.

Mr. Rathbone, when asked by a press correspondent to make a statement, absolutely declined to discuss any feature of the situation.

Fifty cases of yellow fever are now under treatment in Havana, and the disease is on the increase in Pinar del Rio. These conditions are said to be largely due to the advent of nonimmune Spanish immigrants, now amounting to some 20,000.

Buffalo Builders' Request Refused.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—James Knox Taylor, the supervising architect of the treasury, has received a letter from the superintendent of construction of the United States government buildings for the Buffalo Pan American exposition transmitting a request of the exposition company that only bona fide residents of Buffalo be employed as mechanics and laborers on the government buildings. It is represented that the exposition compapny has adopted a scheme of registration whereby only residents of Buffalo are eligible for employment on the works of the company within the exposition grounds, and it is especially desired that the government buildings be included in the restriction. The assistant secretary in reply states that the department deems it inexpedient to comply with the request, as it might result in jeopardizing the completion of the work within the specified time.

Cow Ate Pocketbook.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Aug. 8.—J. E. Hughey, a resident of Wayne county, while working in a field a few days ago dropped his pocketbook containing $414, and a cow chewed it up. Mr. Hughey at once hunted up the owner of the animal and purchased her. He killed the animal and in her stomach found the money, partially digested. He took the fragments to the Madison County bank and Cashier Watts will send the remains of the $414 to Washington to have it redeemed. In addition to the money Mr. Hughey found in the cow's stomach five tenpenny nails.

New Bank Record.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The comptroller of the currency has completed a summary of the condition of all the national banks in the United States on June 29, 1900. There were 3,732 banks, an increase of 149 during the year. Their aggregate assets were $4,499,956,623, the highest ever reached in the history of the national banking system and $235,331,719 more than on June 30, 1899, which had been the record.

No Change at Tampa.

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 8.—Dr. Porter stated last night that there had been no change in the fever situation here and that he had no announcement to make. It would be surprising, he said, if a case should develop.

Hot In Northern New York.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Northern New York is in the grasp of a hot wave, the most severe in years. The temperature reached 105 degrees.

KRUGER TO GIVE UP.

Ready to Surrender on Satisfactory Assurances.

THE ATTACK ON MINISTER STOWE.

Boer Leader Expressed Sorrow For the Act and Claimed It Was a Mistake—Lord Roberts Reports the Surrender of Harrismith.

PRETORIA, Aug. 8.—It is stated positively that President Kruger is willing and anxious to surrender, provided a satisfactory promise is given as to his ultimate destination.

Additional details regarding the attack on the train bearing Mr. Stowe show that 27 bullets traversed his compartment. Mr. Sharp, an American accompanying Mr. Stowe, was shot through the foot. Theron, whom Mr. Stowe hastily sought, expressed sorrow for the act, maintaining that it was due to a mistake. The Boers pushed Mr. Stowe's carriage back on the line.

Lord Roberts has forwarded to the war office the following report under date of Aug. 6:

"Harrismith surrendered on Aug. 4. The neighboring country seems to be quiet. Kitchener is with the force south of the Vaal river. He was joined yesterday by a strong detachment of Brabant's horse and the Canadian regiment.

"The Boers attacked the garrison at Elands river on the morning of Aug. 4. Information was sent to Carrington, who was on his way to Elands river. Ian Hamilton, who reached Rustenburg yesterday, reported hearing heavy firing in the direction of Elands river. Today the firing seems more distant, which looks as if the Elands river garrison had been relieved and was retiring toward Zeerust."

Attack on Schreiner.

CAPE TOWN, Aug. 8.—The speech of ex-Attorney General Solomon in the Cape parliament, explaining his course during the war and his support of the measures proposed by the Sprigg ministry, is universally praised. Even the Ons Land, the Dutch newspaper, admits that he justified his attitude by being consistent throughout. The Ons Land has another attack on ex-Prime Minister Schreiner, who, it says, has betrayed himself and his party.

Raiding Boers Punished.

KROONSTADT, Aug. 8.—Commandant Theron, who commanded the Boer flying patrol that derailed and burned last week near Honigspruit the train carrying United States Consul Stowe and flying the stars and stripes, has suffered a loss of three killed and ten severely wounded in a rear guard action near Kroonstadt with the Malta mounted infantry. The British sustained no losses. Mr. Steyn is seriously ill.

Dead From His Friend's Blow.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Michael Hayes died yesterday in the hospital in Hoboken, N. J., from the effects of a blow which he received two weeks ago. John Hekker, a Hollander, a lifelong friend of Hayes, is under arrest on the charge of manslaughter. The two men were on their way home from work about two weeks ago, and Hayes purchased the evening papers to read the war news in South Africa. He made the remark that 5,000 Dutchmen had surrendered. Hekker replied that it was too bad that it was not 5,000 "low Irishmen." That started the quarrel, and Hekker hit Hayes with his fist, knocking him down. In falling Hayes fractured his skull, and his condition gradually grew worse until yesterday.

Motor Boats on the Dead Sea.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—"The Dead sea, which for thousands of years has been a forsaken solitude in the midst of a desert, on whose waves no rudder has been seen for centuries," says United States Consul Winter, at Annaberg, in a letter to the state department, "is to have a line of motor boats in the future. Owing to the continued increase in traffic and the influx of tourists a shorter route is to be found between Jerusalem and Kerak, the ancient capital of the Land of Moab. The first steamer, built at one of the Hamburg docks, is about 100 feet long and already has begun the voyage to Palestine. An order has been given for the building of a second steamer."

Towne Finally Declines.

DULUTH, Aug. 8.—In a letter to P. M. Ringdahl, chairman, and the members of the committee of notification of candidate for vice president of the People's party Charles A. Towne has declined the nomination tendered him by the Populist national convention at Sioux Falls. The letter is of considerable length and sets forth fully Mr. Towne's views in regard to the nomination. It is believed the Populist committee empowered to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Towne's withdrawal will immediately indorse Adlai E. Stevenson for vice president on the ticket with William J. Bryan.

Bottle Blowers' Agreement.

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 8.—President Hayes of the Green Glass Bottle Blowers' association announces that the conference between representatives of the blowers and those from the manufacturers which has been in progress for eight days ended last evening and that the agreement signed includes an increase of 7 per cent on the net list, which restores the prices paid on the old list which was in force prior to 1893. Last year there was an advance of 8 per cent.

British War Loan Quickly Taken.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The entire British war loan of $50,000,000 could easily be obtained in America. It was authoritatively announced yesterday by J. P. Morgan & Co. and Baring, Magoun & Co. that subscriptions to the new British war loan of £10,000,000 had been closed. Inquiry at those offices showed that before the subscriptions closed in London applications had already been received in America for more than the entire amount of the loan.

A Cry For Succor From Nome.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Four thousand persons at Nome, Alaska, have signed a petition to the war department to send transports to them and take them away from Nome before it is too late. This cry for succor comes earlier than it was expected by the government officers whose duty it will be to render assistance to the stranded ones at Nome.

Many Anarchists Arrested.

ROME, Aug. 8.—Altogether 52 suspected anarchists have been placed under arrest within the last 48 hours.

Mark Twain's White Duck Suit.

Some years ago Samuel L. Clemmens, known to every American reader as Mark Twain, had occasion to take a trip over the Lackawanna Railroad from New York to Elmira. This journey led him across the beautiful meadows of New Jersey, up into the Blue Ridge mountains, along the tops of hills and mountains with an occasional dip into the valleys, the train most of the time skirting the picturesque Morris and Essex canal, the magnificent Delaware, or the beautiful Susquehanna river. It led him through Delaware Water Gap, one of the most magnificent natural scenes on the American continent, where mountain, cloud, and water literally meet. It led him through the busy coal mining region in Pennsylvania, and with it all he was delighted. Arriving at Elmira he sent the following telegram to a friend who had escorted him to the station in New York: "Left New York on Lackawanna Railroad this morning in white duck suit, and it is white yet." This testimony of Mr. Clemmens to the cleanliness of the Lackawanna Railroad is no fancy of the humorist's brain. The road burns anthracite coal, and there is, therefore, no smoke, and its road-bed is rock ballasted, hence there is no dust. Mr. Twain's white duck suit was white at the end of his journey because those elements of railroad travel which cause one usually to desire a bath immediately after leaving a train, are entirely wanting. 1-8

Miss Pauline Jennings, of Craig place, will go to Atlantic City next week where she will remain for the rest of August.

George Odlorne, business manager at the News office, has recovered from a severe illness, and returned to his position yesterday.

Astounded The Editor.

Editor S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., was once immensely surprised. "Through long suffering from Dyspepsia," he writes, "my wife was greatly run down. She had no strength or vigor and suffered great distress from her stomach, but she tried Electric Bitters which helped her at once, and after using four bottles, she is entirely well, can eat anything. It's a grand tonic, and its gentle laxative qualities are splendid for torpid liver." For Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Stomach and Liver Troubles it's a positive, guaranteed cure. Only 50c at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

NOTIFICATION DAY.

Bryan and Stevenson Reach Indianapolis—Crowds Along the Route.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 8.—William J. Bryan of Nebraska and Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois reached this city at 7:20 o'clock last evening. They came on a special train of 12 coaches, all filled with enthusiastic Democrats.

Today in Military park shortly after 2 o'clock Messrs. Bryan and Stevenson will be duly notified of their nomination by the Democratic convention at Kansas City. Stops of some length were made at Kankakee, Ills., and Lafayette, Ind. Large crowds gathered at every station and cheered lustily whether the train stopped or not.

Ten cars of the train were occupied by members of the Cook county Democracy. The eleventh was for use of press representatives. In the last coach were Messrs. Bryan and Stevenson, their families and friends, Chairman Jones of the national committee and wife, Governor and Mrs. Thomas of Colorado, Secretary Walsh and Sergeant-at-arms Martin of the national committee and many of the leading members of that organization. Hon. Samuel Alshuler, Democratic candidate for governor of Illinois; Mayor Harrison of Chicago and Webster Davis, former assistant secretary of the interior, were also among the guests.

Conferences between the leaders of the party who were brought together for the first time since the Kansas City convention filled the afternoon. The tone of these conferences was generally very hopeful. Senator Jones expressed himself as especially pleased with the outlook in New York. Webster Davis participated freely in the conversations and announced his intention to speak during the campaign in several states, including New York. He said he accepted the Democratic platform in toto, but that he would devote himself especially in his speeches to the exploitation of the subject of imperialism.

Mr. Bryan and Mayor Harrison rode on the engine at the invitation of the railroad authorities between Lafayette and Lebanon, Ind.

Brief stops were made at several places on the way, and there were crowds of people at many points at which stops were not made. The faces of the waiting people showed disappointment as the train whizzed by them, but they cheered loudly.

Troops Leave Porto Rico.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 8.—The United States transport Sedgwick, with four troops of cavalry and four companies of infantry, has sailed for New York. Many of the officers on board are probably on their way to China, notably Major John Van R. Hoff, who, it is reported, will be chief surgeon of the United States forces in China. The steamer San Juan sailed with 300 mules, and the chartered steamer Catania carries a troop of horses. All the appointees of President McKinley to posts in the Porto Rican administration are now here and at work with the exception of the members of the legal commission, who will revise the laws of the island. It is reported that these commissioners will arrive in the course of a week.

Prospects Better In India.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The viceroy of India, Lord Curzon of Kedleston, cables under yesterday's date that a very decided improvement in the crop prospects has taken place during the last ten days through the sudden and opportune renewed advance of the monsoon. Ample rain has fallen for the present agricultural requirements in Gujerat and the greater part of Rajputana and central India, and sowings are being actively prosecuted so far as the scarcity of plow bullocks permits. If the present favorable conditions continue considerable autumn crops will be secured and the tension will relax. There are now about 6,356,000 persons receiving relief.

Roumanians May Not Land.

MONTREAL, Aug. 8.—Three hundred and eighty Roumanians who arrived here from Liverpool on board the steamship Lake Champlain some days ago are detained in the steerage quarters of the steamer owing to the opposition of the Dominion government to their landing unless qualified in the matter of money or property. The Baron de Hirsch institute will give a guarantee that they will not become a charge on the public if they are permitted to send at least some of the people west, where they have created homes and settlements for such people of their faith. This the government objects to.

Emma Quazzi a Jersey Girl.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Emma Quazzi, the 19-year-old girl arrested in Italy in connection with Bresci's crime, lived with her father in Paterson, N. J. She sailed for Italy in May, ostensibly to visit her mother, who is ill. It is believed that she took the same steamer as Bresci, and the suspicion that she did accompany Bresci on the trip across the ocean is in a measure confirmed by a letter written by the girl to her father.

New Cable Completed.

HALIFAX, Aug. 8.—The British cable steamer Faraday, Captain Le Fanu, has arrived from sea, having completed laying the new cable of the Commercial Cable company between New York, Canso, N. S., and the Azores.

Hemp For the Government.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—On board the steamer St. Cuthbert, which arrived last night from Barry, was 400 tons of hemp consigned to the general storekeeper, United States navy yard, New York.

THE REVOLT MAY END

Filipino Leader Meets MacArthur and Offers to Surrender.

ALSO OFFERS TO BRING IN AGUINALDO

News Comes Through the Junta at Hongkong That Negotiations Are In Progress Under the Amnesty Proclamation.

HONGKONG, Aug. 8.—Manila advices to the Filipino junta assert that Major General MacArthur, the military governor of the Philippines, and General Alejandrino, a leading rebel commander, are negotiating for the surrender under the amnesty proclamation of the insurgent forces in central Luzon. These rebel forces include those under Colonels Lucuna and Tecson, who last Wednesday captured Lieutenant Alstaetter of the engineer corps and 11 cavalrymen.

Diligent inquiries at army headquarters in Manila failed to confirm the report of any such negotiations being on foot. It is known, however, that General MacArthur has been in constant conference with the rebel politicians and military leaders with the object of bringing about peace otherwise than by fighting.

On Saturday last General MacArthur, with an escort of officers, went to San Fernando and met Alejandrino at a conference which had previously been arranged. According to the Filipinos General Alejandrino then made his offer to surrender the central Luzon rebel commands and also to produce Aguinaldo under certain conditions which were not made public. The result of this conference is not known. At its conclusion General Alejandrino returned to the mountains.

A Mother's Heroism.

BRYANTS POND, Me., Aug. 8.—The death of Mrs. Daniel Sparing from burns and her heroic effort to place her babe in kind hands before she died form the subject of the most shocking but pathetic occurrence ever known here. An oil stove over which the woman, who was only 20 years of age, was cooking exploded and blazing oil was thrown in every direction. Much of it was dashed over the garments of the woman, and in a moment she was on fire from head to foot. No one was there to help her. Her husband was away in the woods at work. She was unable to do anything to extinguish the flames, and they burned until every shred of her clothing was destroyed except the collar about her throat. Her body was blackened and charred until it bore no resemblance to the flesh of a human being, and she was in indescribable pain. Realizing that her injuries were fatal and that she could not reach her husband, the woman took her babe and, making her way as well as she could, reached the house of the nearest neighbor, a quarter of a mile away, placed her infant in safe hands and was cared for herself until she died a few hours later.

Odell Will Not Run.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The situation relative to the nomination of a Republican candidate for governor, which for a few days threatened various complications, is clearing, and the matter may be settled before the end of the week to the satisfaction of all concerned. The Hon. B. B. Odell, Jr., chairman of the state committee, is not to be nominated for governor, according to present plans. He has never been a candidate for the nomination and has never said he would take it, and the attempt to force it upon him has been abandoned. Mr. Odell had a long talk with Senator Platt at the Oriental hotel.

Poor Fishing Season.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 8.—The fishery outlook is the most unfavorable known here in recent years. Owing to the ice blockade off the Labrador coast the catch of cod there shows a decided decrease which it will not be possible to offset during the remainder of the season. The fishery around the Newfoundland coast is also backward, and the prospect of even an average catch is equally hopeless.

A Destructive Blaze.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 8.—A fire started in the sawmill of S. Alfred Seeley at Spencer, Tioga county, at 6:30 o'clock last night, and before it was got under control at 9:30 his sawmill, gristmill, lumber dryhouse, dwelling house, lumber yards, the Grove hotel, milk station, Lehigh Valley railroad depot and the village electric light plant were destroyed. Loss $150,000.

Plain Mrs. West Now.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Lieutenant George Cornwallis West, who married Lady Randolph Churchill, has been placed temporarily on half pay in consequence of ill health. The question as to whether she would retain her title has been settled by her decision to be designated hereafter as Mrs. George Cornwallis West.

Green Goods Man Held.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Daniel Creel, who Anthony Comstock says is a prince of green goods men and leader of a band that has been operating extensively in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New England states, was held for the grand jury by Commissioner Morle in the United States court in Brooklyn yesterday.

American Students Arrested.

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—Eight Americans, students of the University of Munich, were arrested in the gardens of a brewery at Loewon because they had created disturbances and roughly handled the waiter, who is seriously injured. Thus far the United States embassy has not intervened.

Paying Cuban Teachers.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 8.—After many days the actual work of paying the August salaries of the Cuban teachers has begun. The total amount to be distributed is $59,550. The work is in charge of Bursar Mason, assisted by his clerks and one or two interpreters.

Time for Reform.

The courts of justices of the peace in New Jersey have been the scene of some extraordinary proceedings in times gone by, but none have been marked with more remarkable cases than that presided over by "Judge" Mosher. As one who is in his dotage, and probably at a disadvantage with the rest of the world in going out and winning a livelihood by the talent of his mind or the strength of his muscle, we sympathize with him, but that compassion can not go so far as to stand silently by and acquiese in such remarkable official action as he took yesterday in the case of a harmless foreigner who had been arraigned before him by presumptious youth who has yet to learn to "know his place."

The justice of peace system of this State is made odious and disgraceful because of just such acts as were perpetrated in this court yesterday. As lovers of justice and the fair name of the State in whose interests a justice of peace is supposed to act, we cannot too severely condemn such extreme action in so insignificant a case. There was absolutely no reason for demanding that the man charged with offense against this boy complaintant should be held in the exorbitant sum of $1,000 bail to await the action of the grand jury. On the contrary had he been released on his own recognizance the ends of justice would probably have been served quite as well.

It appears, however, that during yesterday afternoon Justice(?) Mosher decided to reduce the bail to $300. Such action affords a fair index of the character of the justice to be found in this court. What sort of judicial reasoning he is prompted by we can not appreciate when in the morning he demands a bail bond of $1,000 and a few hours after he suddenly concludes that $700 less will suffice. Such weak and unsettled conduct in an office that can affect the liberties of the people is abominable.

It is high time that Plainfield is rid of such disgraceful proceedings enacted in the name of justice.

Today will mark the formal opening of the great Presidential campaign. President McKinley has already accepted the nomination given by his party in the Philadelphia convention. At Indianapolis today William Jennings Bryan will follow suit in the case of the Kansas City convention. The Republicans undoubtedly intend to try to force the principal fight of the campaign on the money question, the same as four years ago. The Democrats, notwithstanding that they did not retreat from their position of four years ago so far as platform declaration gees, will push to the front as the "paramount" issue the question of what the foreign policy of this country is to be. When politicians disagree as to what the great issue in a National campaign should be, then the people must decide. Whichever side the great mass of people evidence the most interest in will determine where the lines will be drawn when election day closely approaches.

Congreeman Benjamin F. Howell's unanimous renomination by the Republicans of the Third District seems assured. The Republican candidates for the Assembly in Monmouth county will probably be William Hyres, C. R. Snyder and S. W. Kirkbride, the present members from Monmouth. For the Democratic Assembly nominations James E. Degnan, Cyrus B. Howe, Frank Durand and E. P. Longstreet are mentioned.

The situation in China is remarkable. While armed forces are marching to the interior and pitched battles and great losses are being suffered on all sides, there has not been a Nation that has declared war on China, and China has made no declaration against any other Nation. Theoretically and diplomatically peace reigns supreme in China. It is a strange kind of peace, though.

While no date has as yet been fixed for the State Convention of the Democracy, it is announced that the convention will be held about the middle of September, probably in Trenton. The exact date will be fixed at the next meeting of the State Committee, to be called at the discretion of the chairman.

Mayor Williamson, of New Brunswick, is called "economical" because he vetoed an appropiation to purchase fountain pens for the city officials. We should call him sensible.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Teamsters or drivers who have occasion to use Park avenue where the work of macadamizing is being done, should be extremely careful on account of the steam roller. The street is nearly always crowded with carriages of all descriptions and a runaway of any kind would be apt to cause considerable damage. During the past few days since the roller has been used there have been several short runaways and as many narrow escapes. The best way out of the difficulty is to use the street as little as possible.

Richard MacDonald, janitor of the Borough Public High school, has received two postal cards from H. J. Wightman, superintendent of the schools, who sailed in July on the steamer Barbarossa with the Honeyman party for Europe. The first postal card was written on the steamer going over and was received by Mr. MacDonald last week Thursday. The card bears a photo of the steamer and it makes a pretty sovvenir. It contains the following message from Mr. Wightman:

"Have had an exceptionally fine voyage. All of party are well and in high spirits. Cannot land at Cherboury because French fleet are manouvering there, but will go ashore on lighter."

The second postal, written July 27th at Paris, and received August 5th, gives a pretty scene in that great city, and this message from Mr. Wightman is written thereon:

"Paris is a great city, but it is killing hot now. Two of our horses dropped on street today exhausted by heat. All are well."

The Honeyman party will return toward the last of the month. The members are now doing the Paris Exposition and are evidently enjoying life at the French capital.

Washington, D. C.

Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.:

Gentlemen:—Our family realize so much from the use of GRAIN-O that I feel I must say a word to induce others to use it. If people are interested in their health and the welfare of their children they will use no other beverage. I have used them all but GRAIN-O I have found superior to any, for the reason that it is solid grain.

Yours for health, C. F. MYERS.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, Aug. 8—Four borough young men had been making preparations to go camping at Washington Rock for two weeks. The start was made yesterday and everything thought to be necessary was taken to the mountains. The lads worked industriously all the morning putting the camp into position. At noon time it was discovered that all the eatables brought along had been eaten by one man. The rest decided to come home for dinner. This was done, but then work in the morning and the walk home had tired them so, they did not care to go back. There is now an abandoned camp on the mountains, which anyone may occupy as the owners have decided not to go back.

Two lawyers were in the borough yesterday in search of information regarding Charles Vail's accident some time ago. One was from Jersey City and the other from Clinton. They met with very little success and departed no wiser than when they came.

Frank Smalley returned home yesterday after a two weeks' cruise with a party of friends from Brooklyn to different points of interest on Long Island Sound.

Alex. Vars and H. V. Dunham have been selected as delegates to the Seventh-Day Baptist conference at Adams Centre, N. Y.

Although Plainfield secured a refreshing and cooling shower yesterday not enough rain fell in the borough to sprinkle the streets.

There are letters remaining in the postoffice for John Taylor, Mrs. C E. Westphal, Fred Windell and Mrs. James Hayes.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sirisky, of Somerville, were the guests of the former's brother, Bernard Sirisky, yesterday.

Master Lawrence Thompson, of Freehold, has returned home after a week's visit with borough relatives.

Miss Imogene Smith left today for a two-weeks' vacation, which will be spent at Sparta and Newton, N. J.

Mrs. Maurice Barick left yesterday for Freehold, where she will spend a week with her parents.

John Meechrod left Tuesday for Brooklyn with the intention of joining the U. S. Navy.

William Dunham and family, of Church street, spent yesterday at Asbury Park.

Adam Dealaman has purchased a new team of horses for his delivery service.

Mrs. Charles Boice and daughter, Edith, spent yesterday at Boynton Beach.

John Blaine has taken a position on the Central with Fowler Vail's park gang.

George Huff moved a party from Plainfield to Whitehouse yesterday.

Mrs. Fleming enjoyed a short trip to New York yesterday.

Mrs. Jeremiah Dunham spent yesterday at Asbury Park.

Mrs. Harmon Apgar spent yesterday at Boynton Beach.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

New Market, August 8—An exciting runaway occurred in town Monday evening which for a time looked as though it would result fatally. In its efforts to dislodge a fly one of a team of horses belonging to Hoagland, the shoe dealer, of New Brunswick, got astride the pole. This frightened the other one and it started to run up Maple avenue. The first horse freed itself and followed suit. At Academy street the wagon was overturned and a young lad, who was in it, was pinned underneath. The horses freed themselves and ran through Jenner's cornfield to Mr. Richardson's place, where they were caught. The boy was uninjured, but the wagon had to be lifted up to release him.

Summons have been issued by Justice Storms in the contract case of Taylor Jellif against Winfield R. and W. H. Smalley. The summons are returnable August 13th.

Miss Hattie Herlick, of New York, is spending a few days with Mrs. C. T. Rogers.

Miss Rita Meeker entertained relatives from New Brunswick yesterday.

Mrs. W. J. Davis and daughter Leslie spent yesterday in New York.

The Township Committee met at Casterline's hotel yesterday.

The G. E Club met at Miss Emma Nelson's last evening.

Reginald Smith spent yesterday at Midland Beach.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Scotch Plains, August 8—The Central Hotel had a very narrow escape from being struck by lightning during the heavy shower which passed over town yesterday afternoon. The large pear tree standing at one corner of the building was struck by a bolt and split from top to bottom. Several persons, who were standing in the doorway, had very narrow escapes and were close enough to feel the effect of the shock for some time.

The Baptist and Methodist Sunday-schools enjoyed their annual excursion to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove yesterday. A large number of the friends of the members accompanied them and an enjoyable day was had by all.

Owing to the excursion yesterday the delivery boys of The Daily Press were a little late in leaving the paper. But Scotch Plains only has the one excursion a year, so the trouble will not occur again for one year.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Emery and daughter, who have been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Emery, have returned to their home in Bayonne.

Mrs. Frederick Vliet, who has been spending a week as the guest of her friend Miss Lily Gibbs, has returned to her home in Brooklyn.

Edward L. Hand has returned from a visit of several days with his wife and son, who are spending two weeks at Bradley Beach.

Mr. and Mrs George Schick have been entertaining Miss Martin, of Newark, for a short visit.

Mrs. Frank Hosinger, who has been quite ill for several days, is able to be about again.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

South Plainfield, Aug. 8—McGinley & Hanson, painters, of Plainfield, have completed work on Cormack McDonough's house.

George Clark has commenced moving his stable fixtures to the place being vacated by Stillman Randolph.

Stillman Randolph is moving to Plainfield this week, where he has a position.

Five weeks more until frost. The Katy Dids have been singing a week.

George Ryno is improving his home with a coat of paint.

The old school building is out of the way now.

The Sunday-school is at Boynton Beach today.

A Rowdy Set.

Milton, on the outskirts of Rahway, where is situated Milton Lake, is the pleasure resort of strolling couples Sunday afternoons, who are largely residents of Rahway. Recently a gang of young men have taken possession of the lake Sunday afternoons for bathing purposes, and last Sunday only the intervention of Veteran James Brunt and his son, William, both of Milton, saved three young ladies of Rahway from being grossly insulted by some of the bathers. Chief Wright has stationed an officer at the place now to prevent further trouble.

Borough Charging too Much.

Roselle taxpayers who have paid twelve per cent. interest on delinquent assessments are demanding that half of it be refunded to them, as Borough Counsel Bergen advises that six per cent. is all that can be legally charged.

GRANGERS' PICNIC.

The Annual Event to Take Place Next Week Thursday.

The twentieth annual picnic of the Grangers of Union, Morris and Essex counties will be held at Tuttle's Grove, Eagle Rock avenue, on the banks of the Passaic river, in Morris county, Thursday, August 16th.

The speakers will be Hon. Henry I. Budd, State Road Commissioner, "Good Roads;" Mortimer Whitehead, of Middlebush, "Grange;" Prof. C. M. Harrison, of Caldwell, "Peach Culture;" and Hon. John J. Farrell, State Riparian Commissioner, on "River Drainage."

The attendance at these annual events has grown so large that the committee finds it necessary this year to move further into the grove, and those who attend are requested to drive further in from the entrance. From 12,000 to 15,000 people are expected.

THE DEMOCRATS' OUTING.

Elaborate Arrangements for the Event on Tuesday, August 28th.

The Union county Democrats are busily engaged in arranging for their annual outing which occurs Tuesday, August 28th. This year the lovefeast will be held at Point View Grove on Long Island Sound. The steamer Isabel has been chartered for the day and will be used exclusively for the Democrats.

The managers expect to have as guests men high in the councils of the party from this and adjoining States. A large number of the faithful from the suburban districts will be on hand this year and participate in the outing. The famous Peanut Club from Rahway will attend in a body. The dinner at the grove will be an elaborate affair. Drake's full band has been engaged for the day and will tend to enliven things.

New Orange School.

The New Orange school committee of the Cranford Board of Education, consisting of Trustees Warner, Park and Plume, conferred with a like committee of the Union township Board of Education at the Livingston High School at Roselle at which time the contract to support the New Orange shool on shares was arranged. It will cost $1,200 a year to run the New Orange school, which will be located in the old college building at that place. Two teachers will be engaged, and the school will be conducted under the direction of the Cranford Board.

Jerry Was Offended.

William Drake, Frank McCabe, Henry Mattis and John Cline, four young men, were arraigned before Judge Runyon this morning charged by Jerry Cash as being drunk and addressing him in a profane manner. The incident occurred at the corner of Park avenue and Second street, Sunday afternoon. Cash's statement was denied by the defendants, who stated they had not spoken to him or mentioned his name in any way. Cash failed to prove his charge and the young men were dismissed.

His Medicine Too Much.

Feeling ill yesterday afternoon, Robert Kelly prescribed for himself a little rock and rye. The first dose failed to alleviate his sufferings and it was followed by two or three more. The result was different than he expected and Robert suddenly found himself in the grasp of Officer Meyers. In the city court this morning he was discharged with a warning to change the remedy the next time he became ill.

Address by Dr. Main.

The eighth annual conference of the Brotherhood of the Kingdom opened yesterday at Marlborough, N. Y., and will continue until Friday next. Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock Rev. Dr. A. E. Main, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, will deliver an address on "Federation of Churches and Christian Workers."

THE DOLLIES' PIC-NIC.

A number of sweet little dollies
Were lying close by on the shelf,
Contented to lay there together,
And not thinking at all of theirself,
When up jumped one bright-looking dollie
And cried out in a manner most gay:
Oh, dollies, let's have a real pic-nic!
And have it this day, right away!
So they got up a wonderful pic-nic,
And played till they could play no more.
If you want to see this fine pic-nic,

Während die beiden ersteren Frauen tödtlich verunglückten, kamen die Tante Martha Rademachers und der Führer ohne Schaden davon. Die beiden Leichen wurden nach Windischmatrei transportirt.

AUDACIOUS OUTING SUITS.

Some Startling Costumes Worn by Members of the Smart Set.

Every fall the smart set start out with a lot of hunting suits and others calculated to be worn on the mountains as well as a great array of yachting suits. The yachting and mountain suits are all right and generally have a reason for their being, but the hunting suits are more for show than actual use. It looks very sporty to see a lady with a gun, but it should be, and generally is, unloaded.

The newest of the riding habits and the most stylish of them are the divided ones. Many of the most rabid amazons wear these divided skirts and ride their horses as do their husbands. It is such an innovation that it strikes the person that sees it for the first time rather unpleasantly, but it is really a step in the right direction. No matter how good a rider a woman may be, she is never safe sitting sidewise on a horse, and anything tending to make her safer on horseback is well.

The fancy for knickerbockers for wheeling is apparently to break out again, and some of the swellest of the swells are wearing them. The waist is almost always of the shirt waist variety, and the hat is generally of the alpine shape. Some ladies prefer the divided skirt still, and others like the full one, so every one can have what she likes best; but, as I said, the smart set has suddenly pronounced in favor of the knickers. What with the bathing suits and the evening dresses and the knickers, I fancy that this generation will go down to posterity as the most audacious of all the women in history.

For the mere mortals there are some very pretty and modest suits for the wheel, and they are for the most part divided skirts, so arranged that while on the wheel there is no exposure and while off it it falls in close folds. Some neat ones are shown made of linen in the heavy crash quality in the natural thread color. Others are made of khaki, but the requirements of the different governments for this special material for uniforms has made this so dear that it is almost out of reach for dresses.

The short jacket is among the new features of the whole of the outing costumes. They are made of almost everything, from linen to covert, according to what the rest of the suit is made of. Strap seams and pearl buttons, with a little braid, form all the trimming. But they are jaunty and stylish. A novelty is the wide sailor collar, which is made so that it can be detached, and it is supposed to be a protection to the shoulders in sudden stress of weather—that is to say, others seem to think so, but I do not see what good a flapping thing like that could do. Still it gives a new effect to the jacket, and that is enough for those who wear them.

The advent of the automobile has created a new need, and naturally something has been supplied. The dust has made it imperative to have a protection for that, and so the coats are long and somewhat in the shape of a raglan, though we also see the regular ulster shape, and some are very like a redingote. All, however, are long and intended to cover the whole dress.

At the present time, it is more necessary to provide against the dust that flies than cold, and so light alpaca and taffeta and surah are used to develop these garments. These are all arranged so they can be buttoned down to the very bottom and thus the hands are left free, while the dress is protected. As no woman can operate her automobile and hold a parasol, it is necessary to have a hat that will shade the face and yet be pretty. Some wear lovely creations and others seem to glory in exposing their faces to the sun on purpose to get tanned, and in a few months these same women will be spending piles of money to get the tan off.

There are some beautiful hats for riding in this delightful fashion with many fluffy plumes and no end of other delicate things on them, but if it is necessary to wear dust coats to protect the dress it seems to me a plainer hat would be better. Some do wear alpines and others affect sailors, the kind with the bell crowns. These have to be well fastened on.

Tennis as a game has fallen somewhat in public favor since golf has gained such an ascendency among the smart set, and the dress for that game is now of light and dainty materials, and the maiden who plays tennis can look so sweet and fresh and neat and altogether lovely that she can easily compete with her wind blown and frowsy sister who goes in for golf. Any dress that is short enough not to get in the way is considered suitable for tennis. Dimity, pique, lawns and light silks are all quite suitable for this pretty game. Some made of a combination of plain and figured material are pretty.

A merchant whom I know always has a supply in his desk at the office. I have seen them in his traveling bag. In a drawer of his dining-room sideboard there is a constant supply. Once I saw some in his fishing kit, for he is something of a sportsman, and he generally can fish one up from his waistcoat pocket on occasion. The Tabules seem to be with him in about as constant demand as tobacco with a sailor. I asked once how he could have such frequent use for RIPANS TABULES, and he told me this: "If something in business annoys me it upsets my stomach, but a Tabule taken at the time neutralizes the bad influence. When I travel I am apt to be troubled with constipation, but a Tabule at night insures a pleasant and healthy movement in the morning. If I drink a glass of wine too much, or eat a dessert that has a tendency to upset me, a Tabule is an antidote. When fishing in the sunshine threatens a headache, a Tabule cures the tendency, and what is good for me is often just as great a boon to a chance companion. For that reason I always have them within reach. They don't cost much, and they never do any harm. I would no more think of depriving myself of their beneficial ministrations than I would of going without my frequent bath or occasional cigar. Since I first learned about Ripans Tabules and their wide application, I have had fewer sick days and life has more sunshine in it."

NEW DRESS NOTES.

Fresh Finery for Feminine Followers of the Fads and Fashions.

Fringed sashes on hats went out of date with the suddenness which results from overpopularity. They are seen on no new head covering of good style. The exception to the spring and summer rule that sashes must not hang is found in a pretty use of point lace ends on a visiting hat of white neapolitan braid. One may do what she likes with fine lace. In itself it is sufficient reason. White violets, with white Louisine ribbon, and the lace, complete the pleasing hat, which might seem characterless without the band of black velvet worn at the throat, says the Washington Star.

Pearl robes have lost none of their popularity, but a short necklet of pearls, with pearl clasp and pendant set with pearls or other gems, is very fashionable over the lace stock. Miniature ropes of pearls and other stones, with pearl drops at the end, are used for fastening lace scarfs and feather boas, and of these, pearls, cut amethysts and topazes are most in demand. Earrings have become quite the fashion, but they are very small, and, if not in screw form, set very close to the ear. The only bracelets possible with the long sleeves are those of the loose, flexible kind, with pendant hearts, charms, or other drooping ornaments. Brooches are still of the long pin type, or in Louis Seize designs, with fine lattice work set with tiny gems. The very tiny brooch watches are quite neglected, but a few of these watches are worn loose on the long chains, where they appear very insecure.

Among the new military models there is a bonnet with a crown of fancy straw and crinoline, which is trimmed with soft glace ribbon in two pretty shades of maize color, and a wreath of black cowslips with pale green stalks. Two pretty diamond pins are stuck into the bows, and long strings of the paler shade of yellow tie under the chin. A large black hat of fancy straw has the edge of the brim lined with white straw, and is trimmed with soft folds of tulle, long black ostrich feathers and an ornamental paste buckle; under the brim at the back there are some yellow roses.

A year ago it was considered graceful to have the belt merely a folded string around the waist. The shirt waist or bodice came into this belt with fullness and there was no attempt to make the lines trig and smooth. To-day all the fashions of the shirt waist have changed. Even the most negligee shirt waist fits in with that trig, bias look under the arms and across the back of the waist; the belt must be smooth and shapely.

The old leather belts will not do at all. Do not think yourself economical in using one, for it is not the shape required. It is as broad in front as in the back, and keeps that square look under the bust which is now considered one of the marks of ignorance in dressing.

I advise every woman strongly that, no matter how much she is tempted by the glittering patent-leather belt, nor how pretty it looks on the slim waist of a girl she has seen, she measure her waist well before she attempts to buy one.

Woman's Telegram in a Theater Diverted the Audience from the Performance.

When a woman receives a telegram at her home it causes her heart to palpitate at a greatly accelerated rate and she hesitates long before opening the envelope. What must be the effect upon her when the missive comes to her, with every appearance of urgency, when she is seated in a theater? A young woman on a visit to Wilkesbarre, Pa., says the Chicago Chronicle, underwent the experience while the entire audience, gathered to witness a performance by a distinguished actor, watched the effect the missive had upon her.

The orchestra had just begun to play after the curtain had dropped upon the second act when the manager of the theater appeared before the curtain and motioned the leader to silence. His face was very grave and he held a telegram in his hand.

"Is Miss Vermont, of Washington, in the house?" he asked. "A telegram has been brought to the theater addressed to her."

Miss Vermont turned suddenly cold with terror. Mother has had a stroke or father's automobile has run away with him, or brother Jack had been capsized on the river and drowned. She saw every detail of her fearful journey home—the sleepless night of waiting for the first train, the interminable crawling of it Washingtonward. She saw herself in the deepest mourning. In a half second she lived a week of misery. Her two cousins were gazing at her in frightened helplessness. She staggered to her feet.

"I am Miss Vermont," she said, with an effort.

An usher ran down the aisle. Every eye in the theater was on her. Every woman there felt for her. For a moment she could not nerve herself to open the envelope. She must. She must know which one it was. The message was a blur before her. It was signed Jack. She caught the words: "Wire at once." It was mother, then, or father. She looked closer. This time she made out the whole message. It read:

"Mother left out pink organdie. Do you need it? Wire at once."

The Odds and Ends of Fashion at Gay Newport

Notes on Several of the Subjects Dear to the Feminine Heart—Latest Thing in Sleeves

SO RAPIDLY does the whirl of fashion pass prospective subjects before me that I hardly know which to choose and which to let pass unnoticed. And yet this is not an unusual season in fashions; if unusual at all, it is more because of a lack of novelties than because of their number. But there are little things that go to make the fashionable woman's toilette, and little things that are designed to suit all tastes, all forms, and all complexions.

To mention one of these little things as a starter, we will take the girl who has not what is styled as the "hot weather arm." To be more exact, the girl who is not blessed with that plumpness of arm that looks well under a thin sleeve. There was a time, not so very long ago, when the girl who was afflicted in this way was rather to be pitied for more than one reason. First, the thin sleeves that showed a plump arm through the soft gauzy materials were the only correct thing to wear. The long sleeved under waists of a year ago disappeared early in the season with most people, but the girl without the needed plumpness of arm had to retain them in self defense, and so not only suffered from remorse at being out of fashion, but with the heat as well, and it was the suffering from the heat that comprises the second of the reasons why such girls were to be pitied.

But while Dame Fashion may have been a little backward about providing for these unfortunate maidens the relief has come at last, and the girl with an unshapely arm can now wear light sleeves without the necessity of a warm and uncomfortable under waist, or without the necessity of displaying them to the public. All of this has been accomplished by means of the puff. To-day puffed sleeves are quite as fashionable—some say even more so—than the tighter ones that have been the delight of the girl with the "hot weather arm." It does not take a great imagination to realize what a comfort it is to the slender girl, with long slender arms, to be able to don a pretty muslin gown made with four or five puffs around the upper part of the sleeve, with a large one at the elbow, and the lower part plain to the wrist, and to know that in this dress she is not only in style, but able to compete with her more favored sister of the "hot weather arm."

TWO PRETTY AFTERNOON BLOUSES.

One is of white swiss trimmed with Valenciennes lace. It has pointed tucked yoke of the swiss with a finish below of Valenciennes insertion in a square design. A frill of the lace around the high stock. The other is a light pink batiste blouse with a tucked vest of white China silk. Plain sleeves, with a cuff of the tucked white silk.

BLOUSE OF PALE BLUE MOUSSELINE DE SOIE.

This blouse is shirred in a pointed yoke effect, with point D'Alencon lace over the shoulder forming a broad rever. At the side there is a piece of lace coming from under the arm to the waist line. It has fancy shirred sleeves, with lace forming a V cuff.

On the whole puffs are satisfactory affairs for sleeves anyway. Tucked sleeves made of the pretty flowered materials of the season always give one a nightmare to see how the flowers have been transformed into botanical monstrosities by the tucks, and this the puffs relieve, for they do not distort the patterns of the flowers. Puffed sleeves are daily growing in favor, and the girls with the slender arms are praying that they may continue to do so.

Another of the subjects which have been hovering about is the development of the fichu. True, there have been fichus of one kind and another for the past season or two, but they are not the charmingly pretty old-time effect that is popular to-day. Just imagine one of muslin with big soft pink roses on a white ground, worn over a simple little white gown, and with a big white hat simply trimmed of the same material. Imagine that if you can—and what woman could not—and then you have the fichu of the day with all of its charming sweetness. Truly it is worthy of the popularity which is being bestowed upon it, and long may that popularity live.

Now to go to another subject, but one that is not nearly so attractive, I must mention the use of carrots as a trimming for summer hats. Just think of it, carrots used as trimming on the charming hats of the summer, those pretty creations of all the soft fluffy materials that are manufactured, and nestled among these—a carrot. I do not ask you to imagine such a thing; I do not like to imagine it myself, and I do not have to to realize that the using of them in this way is a reality, for I have seen it—and have tried hard to forget it, but without success, for the idea haunts me. I suppose next it will be potatoes and onions or miniature pumpkins.

Among the unfortunate mortals who must wear a frock more than one season—and I am sorry to say that I am numbered with them—the use of black velvet ribbon as a trimming for gowns is popular. This is true because the ribbon can be washed with the gown without damage to either, and the operation saves, oh, so many stitches. To those who have never tried this experiment but wish to, I would say that they should be prepared to witness a change in the appearance of the ribbon after it has passed under the iron, for then it will look more like black satin than black velvet, but will otherwise be quite as good as new, and that cannot be said to be a detriment.

There is one subject, large in its dimensions to the extent of columns if space permitted, which I must pass over with but a mention. That is the use of colored silk laces on some of the new gowns. One finds these in all shades, but they are used only where they exactly match the materials with which they are used, and in this way are decidedly pretty.

SARAH M. DAVIDSON.

Worship Clay Images.

The effete religious systems and idolatrous practices of China represent an annual expenditure of $400,000,000. There are 4,000,000 deities, 300,000 temples. Some temples are served by a hundred priests. These men are illiterate, and often from the very scum of society. About 70,000 pigs, rabbits, sheep and deer and 27,000 pieces of costly silk are annually offered at the sacrifices. They worship clay images of men, dogs, turtles, snakes, lizards and insects. The people live in dread of evil spirits, which are supposed to cause disease and calamity. They propitiate the evil spirits rather than pray to the good, having a belief in the cruelty and heartlessness of the gods.

The Chinese in CHICAGO and the Chinese in CHINA

In these days when the air is full of "riots," "massacres," "Boxers" and other interjections of a more or less warlike sound, Chicago is to be congratulated upon the stand taken by its chief of police to avert a repetition of the horrible outbreaks which have taken place in the ancient city of Peking. If the Chinese situation does nothing more, it will at least have revealed to Chicagoans that they have in Chief Joseph Kipley not only a large-hearted police official, but a genuine diplomat.

Outbreaks Will be "Nipped in the Bud."

Chicago has in the neighborhood of 2,000 Chinese residents, and if the wishes of Chief Kipley are carried out not one of them will receive the slightest personal injury. It is urged upon commanding officers to see to it that small outbreaks and annoyances by mischievous persons are "nipped in the bud."

This is as it should be. "We are," as Chief Kipley rightly declares, "neither a pagan nor irresponsible people." While Chicagoans do indulge in an occasional outbreak in the nature of a sympathetic strike, they have too much sense to allow their sympathies to so get the better of them as to involve us in greater international complications than already exist.

A careful canvass of the district in Clark street, just south of Van Buren street, reveals the fact that, while Chinatown is not without its social castes, the number of residents who may be said to belong to the Boxer element is insignificant. From Hip Lung, who is generally looked upon as the mayor of Chinatown, down to the humblest opium smoker in the settlement, they give every indication of being a peculiarly hospitable people.

The writer visited some of the important merchants of Chinatown as the guest of a United States official, who was well known to them, and this may have been the cause of the smiling, hospitable faces; or, the crisis in China may have aroused in them a particular desire to show that they are "heepee, heepee Americanee."

Chicago's Chinatown.

Hip Lung holds his position as the so-called "mayor" of Chinatown by virtue of his superior cunning and craftiness. If he were in city hall politics he would no doubt be a powerful ward boss. So far as the Chinese residents of Chicago are concerned, he might as well be the proprietor of a real golden scepter and wave it to suit himself. He is the owner of one of the finest Chinese stores in Chinatown, and his power in the courts surpasses that of any other Chinaman in Chicago. It is his marvelous success as a go-between that has earned for him the imaginary title which he, himself, accepts and acknowledges as his own by right.

Chinese Playing Bung Loo.

There is as much acknowledged difference between the east and west sides of that portion of Clark street known as Chinatown, as between the two sides of State street down in the business district. It is well known that no Chicagoan who considers himself eligible to the very best society will so far debase himself as to walk with the "common herd" on the west side of State street, where the "cheap stores" are. So it is in Chinatown. Hip Lung and merchants of his class live on the east side of the street, while the unregenerate among the Chinese live in the filth of the west side.

Every Chinese store is not only a place of business, but serves the purpose of a home, a club and a religious edifice. Not a foot of space is wasted. One sees chests of tea, packages of rice, medical herbs and a thousand and one curious articles of Chinese manufacture packed closely together. In the back there is invariably a kitchen, sleeping loft and a room devoted to the gambling game, bung loo, without which a Chinaman's life would be a mere miserable existence.

School for Circus Riders.

Uncle "Billy" Davenport, who lives in West Madison street, Chicago, is a very ordinary sort of a man so far as external appearances go; but he knows more about circus performers than almost any other man in the country. The Davenport family of performers is a large one, and all of them have received their training from Uncle Billy.

Necessary Preliminary Training.

The school presided over by Uncle Billy is an immense hippodrome situated on his own premises. Occupying most of the ground within is a large circus ring. Swinging from a solid center pole is a mighty arm, which reaches out nearly to the rim of the circle. There are pulleys attached to this arm and through them a rope is run, the rope being used for a safeguard when a rider is practicing. The writer visited Uncle Billy's school at a time when the ring was comparatively deserted. There were, however, two or three youthful performers in the ring who were doing their daily practice work of jumping and turning free somersaults over pieces of red carpet. They went about it in a businesslike and methodical way, which showed them to be free from all expectations of applause. The watchful eye of Uncle Billy noted each attempt, praised a well executed turn or ordered another trial when the pupil came down too hard upon his feet.

"You see, this is the preliminary training," said the veteran circus trainer; "when we've got 'em so they'll do it perfect on the ground, we put 'em on a horse. Bring in the horse and let the boy do his turn again," he called. A moment later a pure white, well-built horse trotted into ring. "Circus riders have to have white horses," explained the teacher, "for this reason: At most times your tent canvas is dark as a shadow, and so, to be sure of your footin', you've got to have a white animal under you—it ain't all for show, as a good many folks imagine it is."

Lessons in Riding.

The first thing done was to rosin the horse's back. Fixing a belt about him the future star rider mounted the animal and the guard rope which hung from the end of the practice arm was attached to his belt in the back. The well-trained horse was then urged into a slow gallop and the youthful rider gave proof of the thorough training which had been his. The arm followed him around the ring, being pushed by a man at the center pole, whose duty it was to hold the other end of the guard rope, keeping it free from slack. But not once did the youthful rider have to depend upon the rope to lessen the force of a fall.

Practicing the Regular "Turn."

"Circus riders," said Uncle Billy Davenport, with an impressive nod, as he paused to take his blackened clay pipe from his lips, "are born and not made. I've been in the circus business for about 50 years and it's my observation that if a man ain't got the proper action in his joints to begin with, he never will have. Now that boy there," continued he, with a wave of his hand toward the 14-year-old boy who had just finished the turn, "has it in him to make a boss circus rider, and he's been at it about two years. He's in the eighth grade at school and till just lately has done most of his practicing Saturdays and nights. Next summer he'll be doing his turn in the regular circus."

To Clean Up the River.

If we have at any time made light of Chicago's efforts to resuscitate the Chicago river, and to make it again the pride and joy of a critical public, we beg leave to retract and become serious. It now seems that the old "boneyard" of the lakes—the north branch of the river—is to be cleared of all the old decaying hulks which have been eyesores for many years. Visitors who have viewed these dismantled hulks and have wondered at their origin, are informed that these insignificant vessels once comprised Chicago's proudest fleet. Can it be possible! Truly, perpetual reminiscence is the price of progress! Chicago's old settlers may drop a few tears when they learn that even the graveyard of their city's departed glory is to be abolished. The new generation, however, have no such sentimental weakness and will rejoice to see the north branch take its rightful place as a sanitary thoroughfare.

The Bone Yard of the Lakes.

In this connection it might be suggested that there are two or three hulks out in the lake front harbor which are of no real use to the people of Chicago. In fact, one of them proved to be a decided nuisance at the time of the Dewey parade. It was given out at that time that Dewey's arrival would be announced by the admiral's salute of 17 guns, both by the batteries on land and by the boats in the harbor. A great crowd gathered on the viaduct to see the naval display, but they were doomed to disappointment. The only vessel that pretended to fire the salute stole off behind the old abandoned hulk as an excursion steamer and amused itself with sending out muffled explosions at intervals that were long and tiresome.

DR. DANIEL BONBRIGHT.

Famous Scholar Chosen President Pro Tem. of Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill.

Dr. Daniel Bonbright, who has been choen to serve as president of Northwestern university until that position is filled permanently, has twice been asked to become the head of the institution. He was offered the presidency upon the retirement of Dr. Fowler and again in 1890, when the place was made vacant by the death of Dr. Joseph Cummings. Upon both occasions he told the trustees that he was not adapted for the work which they wished him to assume, and would positively not accept the place, preferring to continue as professor of Latin.

DR. DANIEL BONBRIGHT.
(Temporary President of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.)

Dr. Bonbright is the oldest living professor connected with the university. He has been head professor of Latin, language and literature since prior to 1860, and now occupies the chair of Latin, language and literature endowed by Gov. John Evans, the first president of the board of trustees and after whom Evanston was named. Since the death of the late Oliver Marcy, LL. D., Dr. Bonbright has been dean of the faculty of the college of liberal arts. He was quite ill early in the winter, but has entirely recovered his health.

"Not only when the university, during the last 40 years, has been directed by an acting president," said Trustee J. H. Raymond, "but also during the periods when it has had an actual president Dr. Bonbright's quiet, but forceful, personality has been a power in the direction of its affairs."

Dr. Bonbright married the daughter of the late Joseph Cummings, D. D., LL. D., who for years was president of the university, and, while somewhat reserved in his social relations, has the confidence and respect of all his neighbors in Evanston and of every member of the nine faculties of the university.

When Dr. Bonbright was graduated from Yale in 1850 he went to Europe for two years before coming to Evanston with President Woolsey of Yale, and the two became fast friends. In 1870, while in Berlin he purchased the Schultz library, which had been collected by a member of the Prussian ministry, and the valuable collection is now a part of Northwestern university library.

POLITICS IN KENTUCKY.

There Will Be a Hot Time in the Blue Grass State from Now Until November 6.

The state election in Kentucky promises to be a hot one this year, and fears are expressed that shotguns will play an important part in the settlement of the issues before the Blue Grass voters. The only state office to be filled is that of governor, made vacant by the assassination of Gov. Goebel and the flight of Gov. Taylor, the republican claimant. The present governor, Beckham, will hold this office, according to judicial rulings, until his successor is elected and qualifies. As he has been nominated by the democrats, he stands a fair show of being his own successor. So much has been written about him that his personality is familiar to all newspaper readers.

JOHN W. YERKES.
(Republican Nominee for Governor of Kentucky.)

John W. Yerkes, the republican candidate, on the other hand, is comparatively unknown, although a man of great prominence in his native state. He lives in Danville, and is a gradute of Center college. He is a prosperous lawyer and is a professor of law in Center college. He is worth about $200,000, is a typical Kentuckian, six feet tall in his stockings. He is handsome and popular, makes a good speech, and tells good stories. He is collector of internal revenue in his district, and is the attorney for several railroads. He is regarded as the strongest man in the republican party of Kentucky.

The Rise and Development of the Pipe Organ

It Forms a Story Which Is Interesting to Every Lover of Good Music

IMAGINE a band of wind instruments 5,000 strong, ranging from small whistles to large tubes 32 feet in length and large enough for a boy to crawl into and get lost. Then supply a mechanism that will put this immense band directly under the control of one player's hands and feet, and supply the necessary wind to blow the instruments, by means of hydraulic or electric pressure, and you have the pipe organ of the present day.

Perhaps the largest organ to-day in many respects is that in the cathedral at Ulm, which contains 6,564 pipes, divided among 100 stops, and which require 18 large bellows to supply the necessary wind pressure.

There are many large organs in the cathedrals throughout Europe, and in many of them more than one instrument is to be found within the walls. In St. Peter's at Rome there are four separate organs, any one of which would grace a fair-sized church.

For the peace jubilee in Boston was built what was then termed "the great monster organ of the new world," and it merited the superlative adjectives that were used in describing it. Between the two sides the case extended for 47 feet, and the central towers were 60 feet in height. The bellows chamber contianed 400 cubic feet of air. This supplied the motive power for the five organs inclosed within the black walnut case. This organ, that was erected at a great cost, the result of six years' labor on the part of a noted German builder, was sold afterwards for a ridiculous figure because it was too large and unwieldy for any practical purpose other than that for which it was designed.

The growth of this king of instruments has been, like the proverbial oak, from a small and insignificant beginning.

The earliest form of instrument that may be called the forerunner of the organ is that wherein a set of single-toned pipes is blown by the breath of the performer. The Greeks had a number of whistles tuned to the tones of their scale, called the Pan's-pipes; and the Chinese have to this day an instrument called the "Cheng," which is a set of tubes having free reeds, held in the hands when played. We have a simple representative of such forms in the common mouth-organ or harmonica, which consists of a set of free reeds with the tone usually enforced by the hollow of the hands. The first mode of applying artificial wind pressure in place of the breath was to attach the leathern receptacle of the bagpipe to a set of simple tubes like enlarged Pan's-pipes, the tubes being made of brass or other metal. One of the earliest medieval references to organs is to that sent by Constantine to King Pepin and placed in the church of St. Corneille at Compeigne, about the middle of the eighth century. This organ was small and portable, had brass pipes blown with bellows bags, and the keys were struck with the hands and feet.

BELLOWS IN THE ORGAN AT HALBERSTADT.

AN ORGAN IN MILAN IN 1492.

An early difficulty of organ building was in getting an equal wind pressure, for neither the receptacle of the bagpipe nor the simple bellows of the forge could be so manipulated as to furnish a steady current of air. This difficulty was overcome to a certain extent by the use of many bellows, and it is recorded that in the organ at Winchester cathedral, built in the tenth century, there were 13 pairs of bellows used. These bellows were worked by foot, each pair requiring the attention of a man who rested his weight alternately upon them, steadying himself by grasping a horizontal pole. It, therefore, required 13 men to furnish wind for this old organ that had but 400 pipes. The pipes were so distributed that 30 or 40 of them were under the control of each key, 12 keys in diatonic succession constituting the keyboard.

The art of organ building made very slow progress, but as the art of music improved the keys of the organ were reduced in size and semitones were introduced into the manual, so that the keys could be played with the fingers and simple combinations of tones produced. Many of these improvements were due to the skill of Francis Landino, an organist of the fourteenth century. The invention of the pedal is attributed to this artist. Until a later period the keys were not at all like the ones with which we are familiar, but were of many shapes and of no uniform color. An instrument in the Tyrol had two manuals, one with white natural and the other with black. The cases were built in the Gothic style of architecture, three of them existing to a late date that were built before the discovery of the new world, one at Sion, Switzerland, in 1390; one in Amiens in 1429, and another at Perpignon in 1490.

The introduction into Europe of the Chinese instrument mentioned, the "Cheng," gave an organ builder of St. Petersburg, Kratsenstein, the idea of applying the principle of reeds to organ stops, so that modern instruments have both flute and reed pipes in their construction.

The most noticeable object that will confront one as he enters the back of an instrument will be the immense horizontal reservoir with flexible sides that is weighted with iron or lead to the extent of about ten pounds to the square foot. This reservoir is fed by two, three or four bellows similar to those used by blacksmiths, worked by hand, water or electric power. These bellows fill the reservoir and the weights serve to force the air in a steady stream towards the pipes. A glass tube, called an anemometer, shows to the pumper when the bellows are filled, and, should there by any mischance be a greater amount of wind supplied than is necessary, there is a safety valve that opens as the danger point is reached. Where the motive power is water or electricity this is governed automatically. When the air passes through the wind trunks into the wind chest it lies immediately under the sound board on which the pipes are.

Not all the stops or sets of pipes are under the control of the keyboard, but, on the contrary, an instrument may have as many as five manuals in addition to the pedals, and these groups of stops that they control are spoken of as separate organs. The "Pedal Organ" embraces the various stops of a low register, and enables the performer to control the bass with the foot, leaving his hands free for the other parts. The principal manual is called the "Great Organ" and controls the principal stops of the instrument, particularly those of great power. The lighter stops that are used for accompanying voices are grouped in the manual called for that reason the "Choir Organ." Part of the instrument is inclosed in a box that has shutters, opened and closed at the will of the player. This is the "Swell Organ," called that for the reason that the shutters enable the player to swell or diminish the tone. In addition to these manuals there may be an "Echo Organ," a small swell situated at some distance, and various other devices, as a chime of cathdral bells. All of these organs may be connected with each other by couplers known as the "Great to Choir," "Pedal to Choir," "Great to Swell," etc., so that, when necessary, the entire instrument may be thrown into one manual and the pedal.

There have been great strides made in the last few years in the mechanism that controls the opening and closing of the pipes, chiefly due to the introduction of electric and pneumatic connections. The pipes are placed over the sound board in ranks, so that in one direction the pipes of a certain stop are in line, while the line running in a contrary way contains all the pipes sounding the same tone of the scale. A groove runs under each line of pipes that requires the same key to make them sound, and pressing the key on the manual allows the wind to enter this groove. No sound will issue, however, unless the stops are opened that control the pipes corresponding to them. The communication between the keys and the pipes was formerly, and is yet in old organs, carried on by means of levers and trackers, but in instruments where electricity or compressed air is used the key merely serves to set the mechanism in action, the advantage being that the pressure is taken from the fingers and the keyboard may be any distance from the instrument.

With an instrument that is to such a degree mechanical, and in which no change of tone can be produced by the manner of pressing the keys, there is a great field for the application of purely mechanical methods of performing music.

SPORTING.

GOLF

Very few golfers visited the Hillside course on Saturday and there was still a smaller number that played the game. This is the dullest season at golf known for some time past, which is accounted by the fact that nearly all of the members are out of town. Occasionally, a few members gather at the clubhouse and enjoy some of the social features.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Charles G. Embleton, of this town, and Peter Simmons, the well-known colored rider, of Plainfield, have been matched to ride an unlimited pursuit race at the Vailsburg board track. The date has not been fixed, but probably it will take place one week from the coming Sunday.—Westfield Standard.

ON THE DIAMOND

Cranford's baseball team has suffered from injuries to players more this season than any previous one. Hall, the catcher, has one of his fingers broken, and Hennessy, a pitcher, is just recovering from poisoned hands.

Democratic Activity.

A large number of Democrats gathered in the Grand Jury room at Flemington Saturday evening to further the interest of organizing a Bryan and Stevenson campaign club. A temporary organization was effected and the political aspect of the county as well as in the State was gone over by the leaders. Former Senator Richard S. Kuhl was chosen president and Anthony Killgore was selected secretary. Another meeting will be held Saturday evening next, when a permanent organization will be perfected.

Amos Moffett, of Central avenue, returned home today after a few days' visit in Brooklyn.

MURDER OR SUICIDE.

New Market Gossips Much Agitated About a Sensational Story in Circulation.

The usually quiet and peaceful little village of New Market is at present stirred to its depths over an attempted suicide and possibly murder which occurred in a prominent household Monday afternoon. The affair has been kept rather quiet but the facts have leaked out nevertheless. The head of the family had been indulging in certain stimulants and had gone home in a rather inebriated condition. A quarrel ensued between he and his wife when the latter siezed a revolver and threatened to kill him and then shoot herself. A struggle for the weapon followed, during which it was discharged. The belligerent wife was finally pacified and the matter patched up. The villagers are thankful no tragedy was enacted and are hoping a repitition of the affair will not happen again.

Sues Estate for Back Pay.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 8.—A suit for $5,000 has been commenced in the Union County Circuit Court here by Mary Ellen Adams against City Attorney James C. Connolly and Edward Griffin, the executors for the estate of the late Annie Evers, deceased, of this city. Miss Adams is a neice of the dead woman and acted as her housekeeper and nurse from November 1, 1893, to October 31, 1899, for which she claims pay at the rate of $25 a month. When Mrs. Evers died she left her neice nothing in her will, athough, it is alleged, she had promised to amply compensate her. Miss Adams still occupies her aunt's house and an ejectment suit has been brought by the executors of the estate to put her out. Through her lawyer, Charles A. Trumble, she has now begun this suit to recover pay for her services. Both issues will be tried at the October term of court.

To Tear Down City Assembly Rooms.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Aug. 8—The noted City Assembly Rooms, on Elizabeth avenue and Spring street, here, which for many years was the headquarter of the Elizabeth Democratic city executive committee, and which has been the scene of many notable political gatherings, is to be torn down. The property passed some time ago into the hands of Peter Breidt, the rich Elizabeth brewer, and father-in-law of Lieutenant-Colonel Collins, of the Second New Jersey Regiment, who is also chairman of the city Democratic executive committee. Mr. Breidt intends to erect on the site of the assembly rooms thirty handsome flats, the plans for which are now being prepared.

OFFSET OFFERED.

Charles J. McNabb Suing George Hummer, but Latter Claims That He is Owed Double That Amount.

The case of Charles J. McNabb against George Hummer was tried this morning before Justice Smalley and a jury of twelve men. The plaintiff represented himself, while Willie Sweeney represented the defendant. The jury was composed of the following persons: Abram VanCleef, Charles Harris, William Pangborn, George Ralph, Spencer Scribner, Charles G. Wood, E. A. Leland, Andrew Lutkins, W. P. Jeroloman, Herbert Willett, L. A. Hummer and David O'Conner.

Mr. McNabb brought action against Mr. Hummer for $100, claimed as fees for services rendered, and a set-off was filed by Mr. Hummer for about double the above amount, claimed as pay for carpenter work performed for the plaintiff. Mr. McNabb presented his bills and offered his book accounts in evidence, and the plaintiff took exception to several amounts cited in the bill presented, and tried to prove that Mr. McNabb owes the defendant, instead of vice versa.

The case was hotly contested from start to finish, and it was given to the jury about 1:30, and ten minutes later the jury brought in a verdict of no cause for action.

WALTER SCOTT WINS.

Right to Build the "Straight-run" Press Decided Against the Goss Company.

Judge Bradford, of the United States Circuit Court, District of New Jersey, has just decided a suit between the Goss Printing Press Company, of Chicago, and Walter Scott, of Plainfield, N. J., in favor of the latter. This suit was to determine the right to build what is known as the "Straight-run" printing press.

It has been pending for many years and is probably the most extensive suit which has ever taken place in connection with printing machinery, each party being represented by able counsel and skilled experts in printing press litigation.

The "Straight-run" press, as introduced and now built by Walter Scott & Company, is one in which the webs are printed, associated and folded without turning or reversing, differing from Walter Scott's former patents, known as the "angle bar" press, in which the webs are associated by means of angle bars.

Trenton, Aug. 9—The Republicans will not open their campaign in this State until the first week in September and after their State convention for the naming of Presidential electors is held. This was the decision arrived at the other day at an informal conference held by several members of the State committee. By that time Franklin Murphy will have returned home from the Paris Exposition, and he will be ready to take hold of the helm once again as chairman of the organization. It is the intention of the Republican managers to have the State convention on September 6th addressed by speakers of national reputation, such as Senator Foraker and Congressman Dolliver, so that the opening gun of the campaign may be fired in real earnest and made resound throughout the State. The Republicans will endeavor to make the paramount issue in this State the 16 to 1 plank in the Democratic platform.

Chairman Gourley, of the Democratic State Committee, evinces a disposition to inagurate a hustling campaign in this State. He is very busy making preparations with that object in view. During the week he had a conference with Chairman Jones, of the National committe, when assurances were given that New Jersey would not be slighted by that body when the proper time arrived for the opening of hostilities. It is Mr. Gourley's intention to have his party through the State thoroughly organized so that its strength may be ascertained in every voting precinct. This work will be done on the Hudson county plan, where "Bob" Davis has built up a machine which is a terror to the Republicans and is a model for all political organizations.

If the Democrats in other counties would only take a lesson from the handiwork of Mr. Davis there would not be such a lamentable condition of affairs which now exists and which has prevailed for several years back. Under the direction of Mr. Gourley, who means serious business, it is believed that the dormant Democracy in the various counties will wake up and become sufficiently animated to make a decent fight against the common enemy.

Mr. Gourley must begin work right away so as to have his new organization ready for battle before the Republicans have made their intended conquests. Of course, he will need money to do this work, and as long as he cannot raise it in the State Chairman Jones should not hesitate to open his barrel.

It is stated that the Democratic State committee will issue an invitation to the old leaders of the party, who have been out of harness since Bryan became the national leader to rejoin the fold and take a hand in the management of affairs. Such old leaders as Henry C. Kelsey, Allan L. McDermott, Henry Stafford Little, Benjamin F. Lee, G. D. W. Vroom, Miles Ross, Edward F. C. Young, J. Howard Carrow, Judge Gottfried Krueger and former Senator Smith are among those to whom such invitations will be sent. It is very doubtful, indeed, if favorable responses will be received from all those mentioned because of the prominence of the free silver question, and to which their party is committed.

The death of Congressman Daly will prove a great loss to the Democratic party in this State, and will be missed in the national councils of the party, too. No politician in New Jersey had a larger personal following or more friends in all parties. Good-natured, large-hearted, genial and kind to a fault at all times, he was always at the command of his friends. He would always do a kind turn when in his power, and politics nor race nor creed never interfered with his personal associations.

As a politician he met with much success and had he lived he was fairly in the line of promotion at the heads of his party. His brief term in Congress added much to his popularity, and his industry as a legislator and lawyer attracted wide attention, while at the same time it was so excessive as to hasten the end of his days. Mr. Daly was more of a stump orator than he was an organizer. His party will be at a sore loss for his services in this campaign, and it will be difficult to replace him.

M'DERMOTT WILL STUMP.

Offers His Services to Collector Davis—Will be Assigned to Hudson County.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Jersey City, Aug. 9.—Senator Allan L. McDermott, who this week declared for Bryan, called on Democratic Leader Davis this afternoon and tendered his services for campaign work as a campaign speaker. Collector Davis will assign McDermott to mass meetings in Hudson county in October. Mr. Davis said:

"When Hudson county, in the past, has been in need of speakers the State committee has not found it convenient to furnish them.

"The Hudson County committe will, therefore, try to get a list of good speakers on its own account and it will keep them in Hudson county and not ask favors from the State committee.

"Mr. McDermott will speak under direction of the Hudson County committee in Hudson."

SUIT LASTED FOUR YEARS.

At Last Mrs. Streitwolf Will Get the Divorce She Asked.

Vice-Chancellor Pitney has filed at New Brunswick an opinion in the suit brought by Mrs. Elizabeth Streitwolf against August Streitwolf, advising a divorce for the complainant and fixing the alimony at $16 a week. The case has been before the Chancery Court since Aug. 3d, 1896, when Mrs. Streitwolf filed a bill for divorce on the ground of extreme cruelty.

On Aug. 17th, 1897, the wife was served with papers in a suit for divorce instituted in South Dakota by Mr. Streitwolf, the ground being cruelty, infidelity and the drinking of intoxicating liquors. The husband was granted his divorce Oct. 7th, 1897.

Mrs. Streitwolf then filed a supplemental bill praying for relief from this decree, and Nov. 18th, 1898, the Dakota divorce was decreed void. This was appealed, and the decree setting aside the Dakota divorce was affirmed by the Court of Errors. The original case then came to trial.

A very pleasant lawn party, which was a decided success financially as well as socially, was given by the Ladies' Aid Society of Hope chapel last evening at the residence of Mrs. Jacob Cose, of Grant avenue. There was a very large attendance present and a delightful time was had by all. During the evening phonograph and voluntary vocal selections were rendered. As a result of the affair a neat sum was realized which is to be used for missionary purposes. The committee in charge was Mrs. Cose, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Radford and Mrs. Hangliter.

CONCERTS FOR BOROUGH

PLAN ON FOOT TO HAVE BAND PLAY ACROSS THE BROOK.

Boroughites Have Agreed to Contribute Financial Aid for Carrying Out the Scheme.

The people of the borough are beginning to feel jealous of the city regarding band concerts, and believing that they are of as much importance as Plainfield, they cannot understand why a band should not come to the borough occasionally and discourse sweet music for their amusement. It is not always convenient to walk to the city on a Friday evening to hear the concert, and they want the music brought nearer them.

In view of the above a movement has been started to bring about a series of concerts for the borough people. One important question is where the band will play so that it will be convenient for all the residents to attend. The corner of Grove street and Prospect place has been considered. The lot at the corner of Jackson avenue and Somerset street has also been mentioned as a suitable place.

An effort will be made at once to secure the necessary funds to give the concerts, and then it will be decided where to hold them. A number of prominent boroughites, it is said, have have agreed to contribute liberally to the concerts, as they believe it would be a good thing to give the people in the borough a chance to hear some good music. This is considered as one of the means whereby North Plainfield can be heard from and given prominence throughout the county and State.

It is understood that Mayor Smalley favors the scheme heartily and will do all that he can to make it a success. Other officials are reported as favoring the concerts.

BRADLEY AFTER THE MEN.

They Must Wear Decent Bathing Suits or Go.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, Aug. 9.—"Either wear decent garments or get off the beach and bathe elsewhere," is Founder Bradley's ultimatum to all male bathers who wear their own bathing togs. The Founder Tuesday afternoon posted along the boardwalk the following notice, the first paragraph of which is the basis for the comments appended:

"A woman familiar with the New Jersey seaside resorts declares that men more often violate the proprieties than women in the style of their bathing suits. There is no more repulsive sight, she exclaimed, than the spectacle some men make of themselves. If they only knew the sentiments they inspire these vulgar creatures would never again appear in public in so disgusting a guise. Asbury Park should direct its attention to some of these men.

"There is much force in what the lady says, and any man or boy who is not willing to abate the nuisance must bathe elsewhere. Asbury Park does not solicit their patronage.

"The beach police must see that this rule is enforced."

Mr. Bradley aims in this at the custom of wearing upper garments that are cut so low as to expose a man's bare sides under the armpits and at the brevity of the same garments.

His Finger Poisoned.

While working about some brass work at the Pond Tool Works a few days ago, William Jeffry, of West Front street, accidentally scratched a finger on his left hand. Before stopping work that night the finger had swollen two or three times its natural size. It spread to the whole hand and Tuesday, Dr. Clawson was forced to lance it three times. The hand is still swollen and very painful and great care is being exercised to prevent the poison from spreading to the arm.

Hurt His Face.

T. F. VanHorn, of this city, met with an accident a few days ago whereby his face was severely injured. He was getting out of his wagon with a five-gallon can of kerosene, when his foot slipped and he was thrown against the front wheel of the wagon, lacerating the flesh in two or three places. The injuries do not prevent him from working.

Alderman Badly Hurt.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Rahway, Aug. 9—Alderman Charles H. Lambert, of the Second ward, was dangerously injured while riding his bicycle on Cherry street last evening. He collided with a team and was run over, the horse trampling on him. He was injured internally, his left arm was broken and some of his teeth knocked out.

GOVERNOR MOVES UPON ANARCHISTS.

Foster M. Voorhees Personally Visits Paterson to Urge Officials to Action.

FAVA'S DEMAND THE CAUSE

CHIEF OF POLICE AND COUNTY PROS CUTOR POWERLESS.

No Law in New Jersey That will Permit the Punishment of Anarchists Who Meet and Theorize—Officials Unable to Act.

Governor Foster M. Voorhees has begun a personal inquiry into the existence in Paterson of anarchy and anarchist plots to kill the crowned heads of Europe. Yesterday the Governor visited Paterson and was closeted for an hour with Prosecutor of the Pleas Eugene Emley, of Passaic county, and Chief of Police Graul. The visit of the Governor was the outcome of a communication received by the State Department from Baron Fava, the Italian Minister at Washington, relative to the assassination of King Humbert.

Chief of Police Graul gave the history of the case and insisted that the duty of the police had been carried out under the law. Governor Voorhees and Prosecutor Emley discussed the law with reference to the assemblage of anarchists. A discussion in which the life of a foreign ruler might be threatened or his removal by knife or pistol declared a necessity, they determined, might be held every evening in any city in New Jersey and the authorities were powerless.

Governor Voorhees after the conference ended admitted that he had journeyed to Paterson in reference to alleged anarchist plots. He said:

"Chief Graul says there are anarchists in Paterson who meet and theorize, possibly make threats in angry argument; that is all. Once in a while a poor, misguided wretch like Bresci makes up his mind that he must kill a king and off he goes with murder in his heart. Because of Bresci, Paterson seems to have suffered unenviable notoriety."

Prosecutor Emley spoke of the conviction of Spies and Parsons, the Chicago anarchists. He said there was no law in New Jersey for the capital punishment of accessories. In Illinois the person who stands by or aids and abets, or who not being present aids or abets the perpetrators of a murder or assists or encourages the same, is treated as a principal and punished accordingly. In New Jersey there is no similar statute.

POLICEMEN NOT FORCED TO PAY.

Reports That Part of Their Salaries Were Held Back Are Untrue.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Aug. 9—Comptroller Carlton, of this city, denies the printed stories that policemen here were forced to pay their taxes by holding back part of their salaries. The Comptroller says that he simply asked certain policemen why they had not paid their last year's taxes, and advised them that they should do so when they drew their salaries on August 1. Each one paid, but somewhat grudgingly.

"The worst feature of the story, however," said Mr. Carlton, "is the absolutely untrue statement that owing to the failure of the city to float the new bonds the Comptroller is trying to collect all back taxes in order to meet the $4,500,000 budget for the year. The budget for this year is $538,062 88 (including county taxes), which is raised by taxes due October 20. The city's credit was never better than at present. The debt is now about $3,097,000, and has been reduced nearly $1,000,000 in the last ten years."

Phillipsburg, August 9.—Rev. J. Dinan, a Catholic priest, was arrested yesterday and held in bail for court on a charge of forgery. The reverend gentleman went about the town asking subscriptions for building a church for Italians at Alpha, five miles from here, and it is alleged forged the names of several prominent citizens in his books in order to get others to subscribe.

MUSICIANS DINED.

The Inter-National Club Enjoyed a Social Time and Banquet at McVey's Last Evening.

The Inter-National Club, a musical organization of note and prominence, held one of its regular meetings and banquets at McVey's Hotel last evening, which was one of the most successful in the history of the club. The club has five members as follows: Nat Samuels, of New York, pianist; Ben Pollak, of New York, banjo; Frank Irwin, of Philadelphia, mandolin; Max Linderman, of Philadelphia, guitar; and George Leland, of this city, violin. During the evening the club rendered a number of classical selections that were greatly enjoyed by a large crowd of people who gathered outside the hotel.

After presenting several members, the members sat down to a banquet, which was a feature of the occasion, and after the inner man had been filled, part second of the programme was rendered in a finished and enjoyable manner. The club has no regular times for meeting, but come together subject to the call of the president. These meetings are held for the advancement of the musical interests of the members. The next meeting will be held in Philadelphia Aug. 14th.

Repairing West Front Street.

To do this some filling will have to be done, but the improvement will be appreciated when completed. The work does not want to stop at that point. It should be continued until the street is made a good one.

BROTHERHOOD GETS TOGETHER.

Special Meeting of Painters and Decorators Being Held.

The various lodges of the Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators of America are holding special meetings throughout the country and sending referendum votes to Washington, D. C., to a committee appointed by the Federation of Trades, for the election of officers for the ensuing year.

This extraordinary way of voting is being done with an idea to reorganize the brotherhood since its split at the Buffalo Convention in 1894, when many delegates bolted the convention because Washington McKenny was elected Supreme Secretary and J. T. Elliott turned down. The bolters organized a Supreme Lodge in Lafayette, Ind., where they sent their dues or taxes. The other wing of the order maintained the original Baltimore Supreme Lodge, but the Lafayette contingent gradually grew in numbers until it is said the receipts of the Baltimore lodge were not large enough to support it. The order numbers 15,000, of which the Lafayette lodge has fully 9,000. The committee will sit in Washington August 15th, when the vote will be counted.

No Baby Parade This Year.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, Aug. 9.—The baby parade is doomed. Founder Bradly has thrown cold water over a scheme to pull off the event even at this late day, by declaring he will not lift a finger to assist the promoters. Since Mr. Bradley is the most important factor in the infant fete, next to the youngsters themselves, the parade has been postponed till next year, when, it is said, the most elaborate event of its kind will take place.

Poll Officers to be Named.

The Somerset County Board of Elections, consisting of W. H. Cawley and Charles A. Houston, Republicans, and Jacob Shurts and J. H. Mattison, Democrats, met at the Court House, Friday, and organized by the election of Mr. Cawley as chairman; J. H. Mattison, secretary. The chairman of executive committee of the Democratic and Republican parties, respectively, should send in their list of poll officers within the month.

Off for Europe.

Louis Perrin, of the firm of Perrin Brothers, the celebrated glove manufacturer, sailed today for his former home at Grenoble, France, taking passage on the French line steamer, "Touraine." Although Mr. Perrin has only resided in Plainfield but a short time, he has, by his genial traits, won a host of admiring friends, who greatly regret his departure and hope for his early return to the United States.

Trenton's Gain.

On account of business arrangements, J. P. Laire, secretary of the Morey-LaRue Laundry Company, is compelled to take up his residence in Trenton, and about September 1st Mr. Laire and family will remove from Plainfield to Trenton, and Plainfield will lose one of her most honored citizens.

School of Instruction.

It is reported that the officials of the Elizabeth and Westfield Street Railway are about to start a school of instruction for the conductors on that line so that they may in time become thoroughly acquainted with the rates of fare between the towns and cities through which they pass.

Will Be Appealed.

It is quite likely that the case of Charles J. McNabb against George Hummer, which was tried yesterday before Justice Smalley, will be appealed. The jury rendered a verdict of no cause for action.

LOOKS LIKE RICH FIND OF COPPER AND IRON

Discovered a Few Days Ago in the Stone Quarry Owned by Smalley Brothers.

AWAITING DEVELOPMENTS.

THE FIRST ASSAY SHOWS GOOD PERCENTAGE OF ORE.

Seams of the Mineral Wealth Appear to Run Upward a Distance of Fifteen Feet and are Eighteen Inches Wide at Widest Point.

From time to time thoughts of making a big strike in copper and iron in this vicinity have filled the minds of many Plainfielders, but invariably the strike has never amounted to anything. Various articles have been published regarding mines that have been discovered within a few miles of Plainfield, but nothing further has ever been heard of them.

There has been a discovery of copper and iron ore, however, and it is the real stuff. Whether it will develop in a sufficient quantity to pay for its mining is a question, but in this case the all-important fact is that the copper and iron ore has been found. And the quantity is sufficiently large to warrant further investigation. The place of discovery is at the stone quarry owned and operated by A. I. & N. B. Smalley, in the "Notch." A good-sized piece of the copper ore and iron has been assayed, and the test shows 8½ per cent. copper and the balance iron. The assay work was done by Horace Woodward, clerk at Frank Rowley's drug store, and it was absolutely correct.

Smalley Bros. have noticed small streaks of the ore in their quarries for some time past, but never in sufficient quantities to make much ado concerning it. Recently, while blasting, they came upon three or four seams running up and down and they became interested in their discovery. The seams run upward a distance of about fifteen feet and they are about a foot and a half wide at the widest point. As soon as this discovery was made an assay was made with the above-mentioned result. The firm are not saying a great deal about the discovery at present, for they do not know in what quantity they may find the ore and iron. If a small quantity is found it would not pay for the working, but if the revere is true, then further developments may be looked for.

Mayor Smalley, in conversation with a Daily Press representative, gave the opinion that if the discovery pans out well the ore would be worth about $25 a ton, and the price obtainable for the iron would pay for the mining of the copper. Further investigations will be made and large quantities of the mineral will soon be taken to an official assayer for the purpose of learning definitely the value of the copper and iron. The seams appear to extend for a considerable distance in the quarries and they lie beneath a stratum of trap rock and shale. If Smalley Brothers receive their shipment of dynamite to day a large blast will be made at the quarries and then it can be learned just how much of the copper and ore is in that part of the quarry. There is every appearance now that there is considerable of it in that particular spot. What makes the prospects even more bright is that the place of discovery is directly on a line with the location of the old copper mine of which so much has been said from time to time. This gives rise to the opinion that the entrance to the old copper mine has been discovered and that at last Plainfield has developed something which may bring it fame, wealth and distinction.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Beyond the official news given out yesterday the morning papers contain no direct information of importance from China. Thanks to the dispatches of Sir Claude MacDonald and Rear Admiral Bruce, there is a general disposition to take a more hopeful view of the situation. The report of the appointment of Field Marshal Count von Waldersee as commander in chief of the international forces meets with general approval.

The Rome correspondent of The Daily Mail announces the reception there of official dispatches from the Italian minister in Peking, Marquis Salvago Raggi asserting that he left Peking on July 31, presumably for Tien-tsin. This, however, is so utterly at variance with the action and intentions of the other ministers heard from that it seems almost incredible. If true, it opens up an interesting field of speculation concerning the fate of the Italian representative.

The text of the edict of Aug. 2 authorizing the escort of the ministers from Peking to Tien-tsin given out at the Chinese legation says in part:

"In view of the existence of hostilities between certain Chinese rebels and foreign powers, caused by the Christian feelings of Chinese people, we have afforded reasonable protection to the foreign representatives in Peking, and the tsung-li-yamen has sent to the legations letters of inquiry and proposals for their safe conveyance under escort to Tien-tsin in order to avoid apprehension of further attack from rebels before the complete restoration of peace and order in the capital.

"We have now, on the advice of Li Hung Chang and Liu Kun Yi, to authorize Yung Lu to escort them to Tien-tsin. If there be any rebels en route trying to endanger the safety of the party, the officials have to destroy the rebels at once."

The Chinese legation believes that the members of the foreign legations have not yet left Peking, but that they will do so, and declares that the edict would not have issued had not the foreign ministers signified willingness to accept the escort.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Daily News, wiring yesterday, says:

"United States Consul Goodnow strongly opposes Admiral Seymour's intention to land 3,000 troops on the ground that such an act would not be warranted by the circumstances and would be likely to create trouble. M. Bezaure, the French consul, agrees to the arrangement, but says that if the British land forces the French will do likewise. The Austrians also will land men. My personal opinion is that the landing of troops here at the present moment would be a grave mistake."

Towne's Withdrawal a Blunder.

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—Mr. George F. Washburn, treasurer of the national committee of the People's party said regarding the withdrawal of Towne as the vice presidential candidate of the People's party: "The withdrawal of Mr. Towne without our party's consent is both humiliating and embarrassing. To my mind it is a political blunder. Had he remained our vice presidential candidate he would have attracted audiences second only to Bryan himself and have held in line the Populist vote as well as the Silver Republicans throughout the country."

A New Back for An Old One—How It Is done in Plainfield.

Sometimes the back aches with a dull indescribe feeling making you weary and restless; sometimes pain shoots across the region of the kidneys and again the loins are so lame to stoop is agony. Mr. Charles Giese, Cigar Manufacturer of 25 Elm Place says:—"I was subject to attacks of kidney complaint for 2 or 3 years, Most of the pain was in my back and hips and I could not stoop or straighter without feeling sharp, shooting twinges. When I sat for any length of time I grew stiff and sore and was compelled to get up and move about. I grew so bad I had to do something for it. I had read a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills being such good medicine for kidney troubles so I got a box of them at L. W. Randolph's drug store. I used them according to direction and after 2 or 3 days I felt better I continued their use until the pain disappeared."

FORMALLY NOTIFIED.

Bryan and Stevenson Told of Their Nomination.

CROWDS BRAVE HEAT AT INDIANAPOLIS

The Populist - Democratic Nominee Read a Carefully Prepared Address In Which Imperialism Is the Chief Topic.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 9.—William J. Bryan and Adlai E. Stevenson were yesterday in this city officially and formally notified of their nominations by the Democrats at their recent Kansas City convention to the offices respectively of president and vice president of the United States. The ceremony was made the occasion of a demonstration with which the Democrats may be fairly said to have begun their national campaign.

The notification occurred in the Military park, a beautifully shaded tract of ground in the center of the city. The park contains probably 30 acres of ground, and it was well covered with people. In the vicinity of the speakers' stand the crowd was very dense, and the entire park was well filled. Probably a majority of them were residents of Indianapolis, but many were from other portions of Indiana, while many also came from distant states. There was also a quite general gathering of the members of the Democratic national committee, while of course the members of the two committees appointed to make the official notifications were also present. The occasion was therefore regarded as of national political importance.

The ceremony was preceded by a parade through the principal streets of the city, which was participated in by a number of visiting and local Democratic clubs. These acted as an escort to the notification party, and the cavalcade was an imposing one. The meeting began a few minutes after 3 o'clock and concluded at 5:40 p. m. Five speeches were made, Mayor Taggart of Indianapolis adding a welcoming address to the notification speeches of Representative Richardson and Governor Thomas and responses made by Mr. Bryan and Mr. Stevenson.

The weather was hot, but toward the close of the ceremonies a slight breeze alleviated to some extent the suffering occasioned by the high temperature. At one time it appeared as if actual suffocation might be the result of the terrible crowding in front of the stand where the ceremonies occurred, but beyond a few fainting attacks and much personal discomfort no evil resulted.

The platform on which the speeches were made was elevated about six feet above the park lawn, and upon it sat the candidates and their families and the members of the national committee and of the two notification committees, as well as a few invited guests. Mr. Bryan sat near the center of the stage just to the left of Chairman Jones, who presided. Mrs. Bryan and William, Jr., occupied adjoining chairs. Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson also sat in the neighborhood, as did Mrs. Senator Jones, Congressman Richardson and Governor and Mrs. Thomas.

Probably no man ever made an important speech under greater difficulties. The sun was throwing its rays directly upon many of his auditors, and besides they were present to hear Mr. Bryan. In this crowd, where a hand once down could not be raised and once raised could not be lowered, were old men, frail women and small children. Soon the mass began to sway back and forth through the efforts of those in the rear to get nearer the speakers. There were a few screams, more groans, and it became necessary to get some of the feebler people out of the crush. There were loud cries of "Cut it short!" "Give Bryan a chance!" "We can't stand it here!" and other signs of impatience.

For a time Mr. Richardson did not appear perturbed by this clamor, but when there appeared to be real danger of serious results he brought his remarks to a somewhat precipitate close, speaking for only about 15 minutes. Notwithstanding the general confusion, Mr. Richardson was liberally applauded, especially when he spoke of "Sulu slavery and oriental harems."

There was an immediate change of deportment on the part of the crowd when Mr. Bryan arose. He was introduced at 3:30 by Chairman Jones. As if ordered for the occasion, a light breeze sprang up, bringing some relief to the overheated mass of humanity. After one burst of applause the crowd quieted down and remained well behaved throughout the delivery of the speech. There were occasional cries of "Louder!" when Mr. Bryan first began to speak, but these were offset by huzzahs for the speaker. After a few contests of this kind the auditors made no further signs except to applaud the points of the speech.

Mr. Bryan read his speech, departing not from his manuscript except in a word of explanation at the beginning of his address.

The meeting was called to order in a brief speech of welcome by Mayor Taggart of this city, who introduced the permanent chairman of the meeting, Senator James K. Jones of Arkansas.

Senator Jones made no speech upon taking the chair, but confined his remarks to the simple introduction of the speakers to the audience.

Congressman James D. Richardson of Tennessee, to whose lot as permanent chairman of the national convention fell the duty of notifying Mr. Bryan of his nomination, made the first of the notification addresses.

Mr. Bryan's address was of considerable length and was given up entirely to "imperialism" and "militarism." No mention was made of the financial question. The main points are given briefly as follows:

Mr. Chairman and Members of the Notification Committee—I shall at an early day and in a more formal manner accept the nomination which you tender, and I shall at that time discuss the various questions covered by the Democratic platform.

When I say that the contest of 1900 is a contest between democracy on the one hand and plutocracy on the other, I do not mean to say that all our opponents have deliberately chosen to give to organized wealth a predominating influence in the affairs of the government, but I do assert that on the important issues of the day the Republican party is dominated by those influences which constantly tend to elevate pecuniary considerations and ignore human rights.

The Democratic party is not making war upon the honest acquisition of wealth. It has no desire to discourage industry, economy and thrift. On the contrary, it gives to every citizen the greatest possible stimulus to honest toil when it promises him protection in the enjoyment of the proceeds of his labor. Property rights are most secure when human rights are most respected. Democracy strives for a civilization in which every member of society will share according to his merits.

In attempting to press economic questions upon the country to the exclusion of those which involve the very structure of our government the Republican leaders give new evidence of their abandonment of the earlier ideals of the party and of their complete subserviency to pecuniary considerations.

But they shall not be permitted to evade the stupendous and farreaching issue which they have deliberately brought into the arena of politics. When the president, supported by a practically unanimous vote of the house and senate, entered upon a war with Spain for the purpose of aiding the struggling patriots of Cuba the country without regard to party applauded. Although the Democrats recognized that the administration would necessarily gain a political advantage from the conduct of a war which in the very nature of the case must soon end in a complete victory, they vied with the Republicans in the support which they gave to the president. When the war was over and the Republican leaders began to suggest the propriety of a colonial policy, opposition at once manifested itself. When the president finally laid before the senate a treaty which recognized the independence of Cuba, but provided for the cession of the Philippine Islands to the United States, the menace of imperialism became so apparent that many preferred to reject the treaty and risk the ills that might follow rather than take the chance of correcting the errors of the treaty by the independent action of this country.

I was among the number of those who believed it better to ratify the treaty and end the war, release the volunteers, remove the excuse for war expenditures and then give to the Filipinos the independence which might be forced from Spain by a new treaty.

Even now we are beginning to see the paralyzing influence of imperialism. Heretofore this nation has been prompt to express its sympathy with those who were fighting for civil liberty. While our sphere of activity has been limited to the western hemisphere our sympathies have not been bounded by the seas. We have felt it due to ourselves and to the world as well as to those who were struggling for the right to govern themselves to proclaim the interest which our people have from the date of their own independence felt in every contest between human rights and arbitrary power. Three-quarters of a century ago, when our nation was small, the struggles of Greece aroused our people, and Webster and Clay gave eloquent expression to the universal desire for Grecian independence. In 1896 all parties manifested a lively interest in the success of the Cubans, but now when a war is in progress in South Africa which must result in the extension of the monarchical idea or in the triumph of a republic the advocates of imperialism in this country dare not say a word in behalf of the Boers.

If we have an imperial policy, we must have a great standing army as its natural and necessary complement. The spirit which will justify the forcible annexation of the Philippine Islands will justify the seizure of other islands and the domination of other people, and with wars of conquest we can expect a certain if not rapid growth of our military establishment. That a large permanent increase in our regular army is intended by Republican leaders is not a matter of conjecture, but a matter of fact. In his message of Dec. 5, 1898, the president asked for the authority to increase the standing army to 100,000. In 1896 the army contained about 25,000. Within two years the president asked for four times that many, and a Republican house of representatives complied with the request after the Spanish treaty had been signed and when no country was at war with the United States. If such an army is demanded when an imperial policy is contemplated, but not openly avowed, what may be expected if the people encourage the Republican party by indorsing its policy at the polls?

Mr. Bryan outlined his Philippine policy as follows:

There is an easy, honest, honorable solution of the Philippine question. It is set forth in the Democratic platform, and it is submitted with confidence to the American people. This plan I unreservedly indorse. If elected, I shall convene congress in extraordinary session as soon as I am inaugurated and recommend an immediate declaration of the nation's purpose, first, to establish a stable form of government in the Philippine Islands, just as we are now establishing a stable form of government in Cuba; second, to give independence to the Filipinos, just as we have promised to give independence to the Cubans; third, to protect the Filipinos from outside interference while they work out their destiny, just as we have protected the republics of Central and South America and are by the Monroe doctrine pledged to protect Cuba.

In closing he said:

I can conceive of a national destiny surpassing the glories of the present and the past, a destiny which meets the responsibilities of today and measures up to the possibilities of the future. Behold a republic resting securely upon the foundation stones quarried by Revolutionary patriots from the mountain of eternal truth, a republic applying in practice and proclaiming to the world the self evident proposition that all men are created equal; that they are endowed with inalienable rights; that governments are instituted among men to secure these rights and that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed. Behold a republic in which civil and religious liberty stimulates all to earnest endeavors and in which the law restrains every hand uplifted for a neighbor's injury, a republic in which every citizen is a sovereign, but in which no one cares to wear a crown. Behold a republic standing erect while empires all around are bowed beneath the weight of their own armaments, a republic whose flag is loved while other flags are only feared. Behold a republic increasing in population, in wealth, in strength and in influence, solving the problems of civilization and hastening the coming of a universal brotherhood, a republic which shakes thrones and dissolves aristocracies by its silent example and gives light and inspiration to those who sit in darkness. Behold a republic gradually but surely becoming the supreme moral factor in the world's progress and the accepted arbiter of the world's disputes, a republic whose history, like the path of the just, "is as the shining light that shineth more and more unto the perfect day."

Mr. Bryan concluded at 4:40 and was promptly followed by Governor C. S. Thomas of Colorado, who introduced Mr. Stevenson. Mr. Thomas spoke only ten minutes. He received very general attention and was given frequent and generous applause.

Mr. Stevenson was apparently slightly nervous as the time approached for him to take the stand, but he soon gained confidence as he proceeded. Mr. Bryan led the liberal applause which greeted the appearance of his fellow candidate as he advanced to the front, and many points of the speech were liberally punctuated by a repetition of applause as the speech proceeded. He read from his manuscript, but held the majority of his audience to the end. Mr. Stevenson closed amid liberal applause at 5:46 o'clock. Senator Jones then declared the meeting adjourned sine die.

Texas Democrats.

WACO, Tex., Aug. 9.—At 1 o'clock yesterday the Democratic state convention was called to order by State Chairman Bell of Fort Worth in the Auditorium, which, with its seating capacity of 5,000, was filled to overflowing. A noticeable feature of the gathering was that all the party state leaders were present. Marshall Hicks of San Antonio was elected temporary chairman and James Hays Quarles of Fort Worth secretary. After an address by the temporary chairman and the appointment of the usual committees the convention recessed until 5 o'clock.

British to Guard Foreign Settlement.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 9.—Vice Admiral Seymour has arranged with the viceroy of Nankin for a British occupation of the foreign settlements at Shanghai. The German warship Seeadler has arrived at Tsin-Tau from Apia.

REFUGEES FROM CHINA.

Stories of Shocking Treatment at the Hands of Boxers.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 9.—Among the passengers on the Empress of Japan, which arrived from the orient yesterday, were 29 missionaries, who were fugitives from north China. Many of them had narrow escapes. One of the number, a Miss Hawes, was in the compound at Weinshan when it was rushed by the Boxers. In company with several others she escaped over a rear wall by means of a ladder.

Rev. Jonathan Lee and Miss Lee and Corporal J. Kennedy and Private Scott, who are among the Empress' passengers, were present at the siege of Tien-tsin. Mr. Lee sustained a wound during the firing.

Stories of atrocities of shocking horror are related by Kennedy and Scott. Among them is a tale of the slaughter of 200 helpless coolies who were going up the Pei-Ho on a lighter under an engagement to do transporting for British parties. Another harrowing story is related in connection with the fate of a party of British under command of Captain Bates, which was cut off from Admiral Seymour's column. According to the account, the captain and his men were killed by Lin Chee. It is stated that the victims were hacked in pieces and the reeking flesh of the first slain forced in the mouths of those not yet put to the sword. The passengers bring a report of the suicide of Mrs. Westwater, a woman missionary and wife of Dr. A. MacDonald Westwater of Liao Yang, Manchuria, who took her own life at Arima while suffering from mental depression, caused by exciting experiences through which she passed while at Newchwang.

BRITISH GARRISON CAPTURED.

Ten Days' Futile Resistance at Eland's River.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Lord Roberts fears that the Eland's river garrison has been captured after ten days' resistance. The war office has received from him the following dispatch, dated Pretoria, Aug. 7:

"Delarey, hearing of Ian Hamilton's approach toward Rustenberg and seeing that he had no chance of capturing Baden-Powell, hurried off to Eland's river. Hamilton reported that firing in the Eland's river direction ceased yesterday and that Lieutenant Colonel Hoare's garrison had evidently been captured.

"Hamilton left Rustenberg this morning, bringing Baden-Powell's force with him.

"De Wet commenced crossing the Vaal river yesterday. Kitchener is now moving in pursuit. Methuen, on the right bank of the Vaal, has evidently come in contact with De Wet's advance guard, as his guns were heard by Kitchener this morning."

Attacked by Stable Hand.

SARATOGA, Aug. 9.—John E. Madden, the Kentucky horse owner and breeder, narrowly escaped serious injury at the hands of a discharged negro stable hand last evening. The negro, who was formerly employed as foreman by Madden, went over to his ex-employer's stable on the backstretch of the race track and attacked Madden with a bowie knife. Madden warded off the blow, which was directed at his heart, with his left arm, the knife striking a glancing blow on the hand, cutting open and lacerating the flesh on the thumb for several inches. Madden grappled with his assailant, and after throwing him with much force to the ground, knocked him senseless with a pitchfork. An officer was summoned, and the negro was taken to jail and held on a charge of felonious assault.

Funeral Train En Route.

ROME, Aug. 9.—The funeral train bearing the remains of King Humbert left Monza at 4:28 last evening accompanied by the Duke of Aosta, the Count of Turin and the Duke of Oporto. A large crowd witnessed its departure in silence. Telegrams from the various cities and towns through which the funeral train has passed say that the authorities and populace displayed signs of the deepest sorrow and of loyalty. The decoration of Rome is almost completed, and already the scene is extraordinary. Nine hundred municipalities have sent delegations to attend the funeral ceremonies. No fewer than 150,000 foreigners have arrived. Funeral wreaths are so numerous that it is impossible to find room for more on the ground floor of the Quirinal.

Murder and Suicide at Rockaway.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Despondent over his inability to live as he wished on the sum allowed him by his father, Joseph Rabiner, a consumptive patient, last night at Rockaway Beach shot and instantly killed Isaac Stein, his brother-in-law, badly wounded his father, Jacob Rabiner, and then turned the weapon upon himself with what is said to be fatal effect. The shooting occurred on the piazza of a hotel in full view of scores of persons who had been attracted by the quarrel which preceded the tragedy. All of the parties to the shooting were from this city.

A GRAVE SITUATION.

Our Demands on China Not Yet Complied With.

A SECOND AND SHARP MESSAGE SENT

Serious Apprehensions For Safety of the Legations, Still Reported Under Fire—Americans Not In the Peitsang Fight.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The Chinese situation is considered very grave by the authorities in Washington. The receipt of the message from Minister Conger, which indicated a continuation of the firing upon the legationers and the Chinese government's insistence that the ministers should leave Peking, which Mr. Conger considered certain death, brought matters to an acute stage. All yesterday the cabinet officers who are in town were consulting with each other, and the president was communicated with by telegraph and over the long distance telephone. Secretary Root held two conferences with Attorney General Griggs and several with Acting Secretary of State Adee, and their views were communicated to the president. As a result of these consultations it is announced officially that a message to the imperial government at Peking has been delivered to Minister Wu for transmission to his government. The text of the message was prepared by Acting Secretary of State Adee and Secretary Root and in its final form was made known to the president in a talk conducted by Mr. Root over the White House long distance telephone. It was then stated definitely that the authorities of this government would not make public the text of this latest communication to China till Minister Wu had had opportunity to forward it to his government. The chief officials of the government were not willing to outline in any definite manner the contents of the message, although it was generally accepted that the communication was emphatic and to the point.

The state department sent a cipher cable message to Minister Conger, responsive to his message made public Tuesday night and intended to test the assertion of the Chinese edict that free cipher communication would be allowed.

The message sent to the Chinese government through Mr. Wu, according to the best information obtainable, informs that government that the removal of the restrictions upon communication with our minister, evidenced both by the receipt of Mr. Conger's message and the transmission of the edict of the 5th, is very gratifying, but is not an entire compliance with the original demands of the president in his reply to the appeal for mediation. The president in his own original communication to the emperor of China laid down three conditions precedent to any action looking to negotiations for the settlement of the difficulties between China and the powers. These conditions, in the president's own words, were as follows:

"First.—I most solemnly urge upon your majesty's government to give public assurance whether the foreign ministers are alive, and if so in what condition.

"Second.—To put the diplomatic representatives of the powers in immediate and free communication with their respective governments and to remove all dangers to their lives and liberty.

"Third.—To place the imperial authorities of China in communication with the relief expedition so that co-operation may be secured between them for the liberation of the legation and the protection of foreigners and the restoration of order."

These three demands practically were reiterated in the dispatch which Secretary Hay sent to Consul General Goodnow at Shanghai Aug. 1 for submission to Earl Li Hung Chang. The authorities consider that the opening of communication with Minister Conger therefore only partially complies with the president's demand. With the legationers still under fire, the Chinese government cannot be said to have removed "all dangers to their lives and liberty," and, moreover, so far as known here, the imperial authorities of China have made no efforts to communicate and co-operate with the relief expedition. The demand upon the Chinese government is for square toed compliance with these conditions. There is hope, growing out of the fact that the Chinese government has yielded partially, that when confronted with the firm position taken by the United States it will be sufficiently impressed to make complete acquiescence. This government's determination, it is hoped, will show the Chinese government that the United States is not to be trifled with and will bring the shifting, evasive authorities in Peking to a full realization of the situation and the consequences of refusal.

Minister Wu early in the day brought to the state department the imperial edict removing the restrictions from free communication with the ministers. He was plainly perturbed over Minister Conger's report that the legationers were under fire, but still contended that his government was acting in good faith and protested against a misinterpretation of the situation. He pointed out the fact that the absence of artillery fire might indicate that there were no regular troops engaged in the assault and that the rifle fire spoken of by Mr. Conger simply might be the sniping of disgruntled irregulars who were engaged in guerrilla tactics.

Two dispatches were received during the day, one from Admiral Remey and the other from General Chaffee. Both related to the fighting at Pietsang. Admiral Remey's dispatch stated specifically that the Americans were not engaged, and General Chaffee's dispatch explains how it was that they were practically out of it. They occupied the rear of the turning column. Owing to the limited ground of operations which he mentions, it is probable that the Americans could not be brought into the thick of the fighting, and they thus escaped without casualties. The fact that the American troops did not have an opportunity to distinguish themselves was something of a disappointment to the officials at the war department, but knowing General Chaffee as they do, they are confident if his men were not engaged it was because it was physically impossible to bring them into action. The continued brilliant work of the Japanese, who seem to have borne the brunt of the fighting at Pietsang, as well as at Tien-tsin, attracts unstinted praise for the doughty warriors of the mikado's realm.

The gravest apprehensions are felt here in official circles for the safety of the imprisoned ministers in Peking. The alleged statement of Li Hung Chang that it is absolutely impossible for the allies to enter Peking to escort the ministers to Tien-tsin adds greatly to the seriousness of the situation. It clearly implies the purpose of the Chinese government to resist the advance movement of the allied forces to the full extent of its power, coupled with the further implication that further hostile demonstrations on the part of the allies may jeopardize the lives of the ministers.

So far as known there is no present purpose of calling a halt in the allied movement against Peking. It is acknowledged that the relief column is not strong enough to maintain war against the Chinese kingdom for any great length of time, but heavy re-enforcements are en route to China. Their arrival on the scene may alter the situation entirely and bring the obstinate orientals to their senses.

It is the present situation, however, that worries the administration, and there is general chagrin that it is not in a position to enforce its demands and bring the Chinese authorities to instant terms. In the course of the next two months there will be about 6,000 American troops on Chinese soil, not counting many thousands more that could be transferred from the Philippines in case of necessity. The Chinese will be held to a strict accountability for any injury that may be sustained by American interests in the present crisis. What should be done for the immediate relief of the ministers is the problem now confronting the administration and is the subject of anxious conferences between the officials in this city and telegraphic correspondence with the president at Canton and the secretary of state at Sunapee, N. H.

Acting Secretary Adee received a cablegram from Consul Goodnow at Shanghai giving the latest information in his possession in regard to the situation in China, including the operations of the allied forces engaged in the advance on Peking. It was referred to the secretary of war and was not made public.

The following brief dispatch, dated Taku, Aug. 6, was received at the navy department from Rear Admiral Remey, commanding the naval forces in Chinese waters:

"Chaffee reports Japanese took Peitsang morning 5th. Engagement over before Americans could arrive. Movement probably continued to Yang-tsun. Inform secretary of war."

This dispatch gives a somewhat different aspect to the battle at Peitsang on the 5th, as it indicates that the American detachment took no part in that engagement, not having arrived until after the Japanese forces had effected the capture of the city. Admiral Remey confirms General Chaffee's statement that Yangtsun is the next objective point of the relief column on its march to Peking.

Following is the cablegram from General Chaffee, which is dated Chefu, Aug. 5: "Pietsang handsomely taken early this morning by Japanese troops supported by English and Americans. Japanese loss considerable; English slight; Americans none. Ground very limited. In morning American troops occupied rear position which was to form turning movement, but were unable to form in line. We will cross Pei-Ho to left bank tomorrow morning and move on Yang-tsun. Consul at Chefu furnished copy dispatch from tsung-li-yamen on July 30, which he has cabled."

Wisconsin Republicans.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 9.—The following ticket was nominated by acclamation at the Republican state convention yesterday: Governor, Robert M. La Follette, Madison; lieutenant governor, Jesse Stone, Watertown; secretary of state, William H. Frochlich, Jackson; state treasurer, James O. Davidson, Soldiers Grove; attorney general, Emmett R. Hicks, Oshkosh; state superintendent, Lorenzo D. Harvey, Milwaukee; railroad commissioner, Graham L. Rice, West Superior; insurance commissioner, Emil Giljohann, Milwaukee; chairman of state central committee, General George E. Bryant, Madison. Robert M. La Follette, thrice a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination on the Republican ticket, was successful for the first time. His name was the only one presented to the convention to head the ticket, all other anteconvention candidates, five in number, having withdrawn several weeks before the date of the convention. The balance of the ticket is made up of present state officers.

Against Proposed Drydock.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The naval board of engineers appointed under the terms of the current naval appropriation bill to examine and report upon the desirability of the location of a drydock at the mouth of the Columbia river has reported to the navy department against the project under present conditions. The board is unanimously of the opinion that under present conditions the location of a drydock and the naval station which would inevitably result from the building of a dock would not be of sufficient benefit to warrant the expense of its establishment and maintenance.

New Ice Company Incorporated.

ALBANY, Aug. 9.—Articles of incorporation of the People's Co-operative Ice company of New York city have been filed with the secretary of state. It is proposed to harvest and deal in ice, to manufacture the artificial commodity and to lease wharfs and vessels and do everything connected with a general ice business. The company has a capital of $200,000 divided into 40,000 shares. Of this stock $100,000 is common and $100,000 preferred.

Boers In Berlin.

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—The Boer delegation and Dr. Leyds have arrived here. They will be received today at the foreign office by Herr von der Enthal, Count von Bulow's representative. It is understood that the purpose of their visit to Berlin and also to St. Petersburg, where they will go next, is to induce Germany and Russia, when peace comes, to try to get some measure of independence for the Boers.

Thread Mills Shut Down.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Aug. 9.—The mills of the J. & P. Coates company (limited) of this city and Central Falls, employing upward of 3,000 operatives, shut down today and will remain idle until Monday. The company officials refuse to state whether this is the beginning of three days per week time or not.

European Market for Fruit.

A European market for New Jersey fruit, as pointed out by the report of Professor John B. Smith, State Entomologist, the substance of which was printed in The Daily Press yesterday, is an alluring subject for the horticulturists of this State to study and profit by. In the great staple products of agriculture, like wheat and corn, New Jersey is utterly unable to compete with the western country. As for truck gardening, this business is already overdone in many sections and is suffering seriously in competition with the south. The ground and climate of New Jersey is highly favorable for fruit culture, and there is no reason why the farmers should not turn their attention to that branch of tilling the soil, especially since there is such splendid chances of marketing fruit at high prices and with great consumption across the ocean.

Professor Smith says that he found no foundation whatever for the popular impression that the German authorities are inclined to discriminate against our fruits. On the contrary, they are fair-minded and universally disposed to treat the questions involved more sensibly than the officials of any other nation. They simply insist that the fruit which they admit shall be absolutely honest. Inasmuch as Germany consumes more fruit from all sources than any other nation of Europe, she therefore presents a most alluring market to the American growers.

With such a market at command, New Jersey agriculturists should find the industry profitable.

The law explicitly provides that minors cannot be complainants or defendants in a court of justice except as represented through a guardian or "next best friend." And yet under the present custom of some justices of peace minors are permitted to appear in their courts as pleaders for parties to legal actions. Certainly, it would seem to be the presumption of the law that if a minor is not entitled to stand alone as a party to an action he should not be allowed to appear there under the anomalous condition of representing as legal advisor a party occupying a place before the court which the law denies the right of the "boy-lawyer" to assume alone.

Senator Allan L. McDermott is not an aspirant for the Democratic nomination for the Democratic member of Congress to succeed the late William D. Daly. This was officially announced by Robert Davis, who said that Senator McDermott could not be persuaded to accept the nomination, and added: "He would be an excellent man for the place, but he will not take it." Among the new names mentioned for the nomination is that of Dr. John D. McGill, Surgeon-General of the State, president of the Jersey City Police Board and a brother of the late Chancellor McGill.

Lewis Nixon, who runs the great shipyards at Elizabethport, may be the next Mayor of New York. It is known that Mr. Nixon stands high in the estimation of Richard Croker and other prominent Tammany men, who admire him as a model and successful young busines man fully capable of presiding over the official life of the great metropolis. Those who try to keep in close touch with the political affairs of New York believe that Mr. Nixon's chances of being made the choice of Tammany are excellent.

Attention is called by the Boston Evening Transcript to the fact that the modern rapid transit systems in our large cities are potent factors in checking the growth of centres of dense population. The low fare for long distances permits persons of moderate means to live in the suburban or semi suburban sections.

Lovers of justice and admirers of judical dignity and commonsense in Plainfield are thoroughly aroused over the wonderful proceedings that have characterized the court (?) of Justice Mosher, and it is entirely probable that there will be reform brought into play there before long.

A Presidential elector in New Jersey receives the sum of $15 for each day in attendance at Trenton, together with "10 cents per mile each way from his place of residence, by the most travelled route, to the place of meeting."

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The Republican political pot is beginning to simmer in rather an unpleasant way in Somerset county. Frank W. Somers, the County Clerk, is seeking a renomination, and he has a dark suspicion that his Democratic foes are trying to instigate a faction fight against him, in the hope that a Democrat may slip in between the divided Republican forces, and be elected. Somers, who has made a good clerk, and is popular, feels, however, confident of a renomination, which would be equivalent to an election.—"Trenton" in Herald.

Referring to the card of Davis S. Crator, of Monmouth, declining a nomination for Congress, which was published in a recent issue of this paper, The New Brunswick Home News says that Middlesex has a number of eligible candidates. We might also mention that Somerset will probably present the name of Samuel S. Childs, of Bernards township. If Monmouth and Middlesex decide to allow us to select the nominee we can promise to make things very interesting during the campaign.—Somerset Democrat.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

One pretty fashion which has been making headway at the New Jersey summer resorts for several years has this season become almost universal. It is that of young persons of both sexes going without hats. You will see these hatless ones at golf links, on wheels, afoot, on the beach, climbing the hills, in sailboats and rowboats and at all sorts of outdoor recreations. And very brown and healthy and handsome these young amazons and athletes look.

Governor Voorhees is in the proper mood to write a book with the inviting title, "What I Know About Newspaper People." Two years ago his faith in the fourth estate was firm and buoyant. He was then the "newspaper men's" candidate for Governor, and he was given a good deal more space in the State and metropolitan journals than any other aspirant for Gubernatorial honors. When he was made Governor he said: "I will have no staff, the newspaper men will be my colonels." The writers on State topics always had easy access to the Governar's ear, and he occasionally sought their advice; but the Governor has apparently been cured of his infatuation for the newspaper fraternity. The distortions given to the Girl's Industrial School troubles annoyed him, and, when the correspondent of the metropolitan papers began to give him his daily duties, he became disgusted. The Governor has issued his edict to Headkeeper Moore, of the State Prison, to give reporters who come to romance about the "prison kid" dignified silence and no quarters. The result has been that reporters find a chilly draught coming through the door of the State Prison when they call. One successor of Nellie Bly came to the prison last Thursday, armed with a list of questions a yard long, and a camera. She hardly announced her reportorial mission before her camera was temporarily confiscated, and little Charley and his convict mother placed beyond scrutiny. The "lady" reporter was shown the institution the same as any other visitor, and when she became inquisitorial the keeper retreated, with the words: "I've nothing to say, by the order of the Governor."

THE AUGUST - - - - - FURNITURE SALE.

In connection with this sale we wish to emphasize the fact, that our Furniture comes from the best manufacturers in the country. The woodwork is of the highest character and the workmanship is of the best. Varnish and veneer can cover more sins than charity and there is a kind of furniture that gives a great deal of shine for a little money. YE CADDIE!

Who, at the golfer's soft behest,
Comes running with a short-lived zest?
Ye caddie!
Who starteth out with good intents
And seizeth bag and implements
Because he scenteth fifteen cents?
Ye caddie!

Who, at the start, keeps watchful eye,
And knoweth where the ball doth lie?
Ye caddie!
Who goeth soon into a trance,
Nor at the flying sphere doth glance,
But with our putter slayeth ants?
Ye caddie!

Who, not content with being blind,
Drags leisurely along behind?
Ye caddie!
And while the golfer at the tee
Waits for his driver angrily,
Who sleepeth on yon hill, care-free?
Ye caddie!

Who ne'er with flag in hand is seen
Till all are waiting on the green?
Ye caddie!
Who telleth us the mode of play,
And grinneth if we go astray,
Until we long his hide to flay?
Ye caddie!

Who, when we wildly, vainly try
To leave a bunker's sand, doth guy?
Ye caddie!
Who doth the rival balls confuse,
And with our clubs himself amuse,
And our new balls for marbles use?
Ye caddie!

Who with suggestions bold doth teem
And maketh life a hideous dream?
Ye caddie!
Who loses three balls every day,
Yet waits, persistent, for his pay?
Whom do we often long to slay?
Ye caddie!

CHILDREN'S PARTIES.

Some Novel and Sensible Ways of Entertaining Young Folks.

In the fashionable sets of the largest cities so called children's parties are given every season. These, however, little deserve the name, save in the smallness of stature and fewness of years of the guests.

They are elaborate functions, take place in the evening, and the little maids and masters come in expensive and showy dress. A german is danced, which duplicates the cotillon of the adult belles and beaus, smart favors are distributed and wonderfully criticised and estimated by the precocious youngsters. Finally an elaborate supper is served, of which croquettes, salads, spirituous ices and rich cakes and entrees make up the menu. In England the lines of these juvenile balls trend even closer to those of adult society than here. An English family journal of prominence has thought it necessary to inveigh against the "crying evil of serving champagne and other wines" to such a tender company. Mention is made in the article of the flushed cheeks and sparkling eyes, the loosened tongues and unsteady steps of the young guests after supper. We Americans who read it are glad that at least that pitiable custom is not ours. We may be foolish; we are not wicked in this matter.

In point of fact, a children's party needs no elaborate accessories. There is no entertainment in all the list so sure of being an unqualified success. Turn 40 children dressed in their best clothes loose in a parlor for three hours, with the knowledge that they are at a party, serving them ice cream and macaroons at the end of the first hour and a half, and they will every one go home in a state of blissful happiness.

The hostess—that is, the mother of the host or hostess—may not be so happy, and the parlor will probably look as if a cyclone had swept over it, but the guests will have but one verdict—that of satisfied pleasure.

More rational happiness and less damage are secured with a little effort to direct the children's amusement. Donkey and observation parties still please though they are not new; cobweb parties have also reached permanent popularity. In arranging for one of these the effect is heightened if gray cord is used, which better simulates the the spider's weaving, and to put a few huge manufactured spiders about among the meshes adds to the effect. There should be four prizes attached to the intertwined cords—a girl's and boy's first and a girl's and boy's booby prize; each of the latter is fastened to a very short cord which leads its possessor so quickly to the prize that his or her skill is not tested. Often additional prizes are added.

Auction parties for children are new. Little bags of gay tarlatan, holding each 50 beans, are distributed to the little guests as purchasing money, who then bid upon "lots" which an auctioneer offers. The lots are prizes, of course, and each parcel should be tied, with ribbons or colored cord, in bright tissue paper. Very big ones contain often the tiniest of trophies—a penny doll, perhaps, gowned in a scarf and tiny bow of ribbon. Much depends upon the auctioneer, who should be a young man or woman with a notion of children's tastes and limitations.

Still another way for the little folks to earn their favors is to suspend them, attached to cords of uneven length, upon a frame or rod; the curtain of a portiere between two rooms answers nicely, or an old fashioned clotheshorse will serve. Each child is blindfolded in turn, and given a pair of blunt pointed scissors; he then makes the effort to reach the frame and cut down one of the swinging parcels, which, if he does, he confiscates. About 15 prizes should be provided for a company of 45 children. That proportion, it being estimated, would achieve success.

Dancing can never be relied on in a company of children of various ages; only simple dances, like the polka or plain waltz, ought to be attempted. Children like plays with music accompaniment; the old fashioned "going to Jerusalem" seems never to pall. Kissing games have quite gone out, even among the youngsters. This is not to be deplored. They were usually romps of partiality and favoritism.

For refreshments for children's parties too much cannot be urged in favor of their wholesomeness and simplicity. Dainty sandwiches of potted ham, breast of chicken or turkey, with a plain jelly, like currant or cranberry, and chocolate not too rich are a sufficient first course, with ice cream and some simple cakes to follow. Don't give the children coffee or rich nut cake or layer cake. Little patties frosted of any simple make delight them equally well and are not so difficult to digest.

Have an abundance of everything. The capacity of little folks is startling to those who are not used to it. Often candies are not served with the supper, but are put in little white boxes, tied with blue ribbons for the boys and pink for the girls, and passed to the children as they leave the house.

A Jack Horner pie always pleases and is passed after the children have returned to the parlor from the supper room. Trifles, with narrow ribbons attached, are packed in a large tin pan which is covered with perforated tissue paper, the ribbons being skillfully drawn through the perforations.

Another and prettier way is to select small favors of as near as may be identical size and wrap them in fringed tissue papers of variegated hue. These tasseled parcels are then packed in a large dish, the fringed ends forming a fluffy mass of color to choose from. The Japanese stores, which are now in almost every community, offer usually excellent facilities to secure prizes.

FANCIES OF FASHION.

The Sleeve Question Claims General Attention Just Now.

Summer Substitutes for the Ever-Popular Cloth Tailor Gown—New Fabrics That Are Useful as Well as Charming.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

ONE of the most interesting topics under discussion in the world of fashion at the present time is the new sleeve.

The most unobserving person among the throng cannot have failed to notice haw this altogether necessary adjunct to the sleeve proper has gradually been growing larger and larger, until now the sleeve looks voluminous indeed compared to the one worn only two short seasons ago; and, while there is no immediate sign of a return to the erstwhile balloon sleeve, there is no denying the fact that the tide of popular favor is slowly but surely turning in the direction of the large sleeve either puffed or draped in some manner. Within the past week I have seen some truly charming models in which this latest whim of Dame Fashion was most successfully carried out. One pair of sleeves I distinctly remember as taking my fancy, owing to their oddity, were composed entirely of any number of tiny puffs which reached from the shoulder to the wrist. Another pretty pair was made somewhat on the lines of the old-fashioned leg-of-mutton sleeve, the loose-fitting upper portion being deeply slashed and then filled in with soft puffings of lace, while the lower part, which was of lace, was finished in the popular lingerie style. Still another pair was made of numberless tiny pointed caps. This sleeve reached only to the elbow where it was finished by a full frill of lace, headed by small rosettes of narrow black velvet ribbon.

The popularity of the Marie Antoinette sleeve seems rather to wax than wane, despite the fact that its reign began very early in the season; and those in high authority, who are supposed to know all about such matters, predict that with its growing popularity and the craze that exists for the Marie Antoinette fichu there is bound to be a revival of the drooping shoulder of the Louis period and a return of the panniers of the Pompadour time. Let us hope, however, to the contrary, for while the quaintness and beauty of both these styles cannot be denied, yet at their best they would prove vastly unbecoming to the generality of womankind.

The gown of the moment is of the airiest, fairest construction, while transparent yokes and sleeves of all sorts and description are are de rigueur.

Muslins were never prettier or more ethereal-looking than now. Some of the most beautiful are hand-painted and are most exquisite in both design and color, but of course are terribly costly in price. Many of the handsomest of these hand-painted muslins are made in the empire style, which is perhaps the one fashion that shows to the greatest advantage the delicate beauty of the fragile summer fabric. These muslins are considered more chic than the less novel foulards, yet the latter material holds its own with wonderful tenacity among good dressers. Some of the newest foulards come in very swell-looking patterns. The "thunder-and-lightning" design is the favorite of those who ever seek the latest, but it is a pattern that needs careful toning down with much dark ribbon and velvet or else its good effect is entirely spoiled. The trimming on these gowns usually takes the form of a jaunty little bolero of dark-colored panne velvet, while much velvet ribbon put on in some fantastic manner adorns the skirt. A few other models are trimmed with a profusion of handsome lace, but the best dressmakers claim that this produces too elaborate an effect, consequently they are turning out their finest early autumn gowns with the skirts of foulard, while a coarse guipure lace trims the slightly pouched Russian bodice.

Linen gowns are constantly growing in favor. They come in all the beautiful pastel shades, as well as in darker, stronger colorings suitable for September and October wear.

A very pretty addition to the linen frock of the moment, and one that can easily be made at home, at small expense, is the large hand-embroidered linen collar, cut somewhat like the square sailor collar worn by small boys.

A tailor gown has become an absolute necessity to the average woman. Of course, for warm weather wear the cloth costume, even though of light weight material, is not quite the appropriate thing and just what to wear in its stead has long been a perplexing question to the up-to-date dresser. To fill this long-felt want an enterprising tailor in a fashionable down-town district has "created" some exceedingly chic-looking gowns, made of a material showing a mixture of silk and linen. It is ideal for the purpose, and aside from its charm of novelty has much to recommend it from the standpoint of good looks. At a distance it has all the appearance of fine broadcloth, and if half is true that is claimed for it in the matter of general utility and dust-resisting qualities it is certainly the correct thing to buy for the summer "tailormade."

There is also another new material, very similar to the one I have been describing, which is much in demand for smart afternoon frocks. It is, however, much finer and softer to the touch than that used for tailor gowns and in appearance is a cross between the old-fashioned surah silk and the ever-present taffeta. Gowns of this altogether delightful fabric should be made in the simplest manner, but the simplicity aimed at by the average dressmaker of the moment is not the sweet simplicity of other seasons, but, on the contrary, a combination of elaborate details which is trying to savings accounts.

Smart summer style, expressed in the most delightfully original manner, and indicating in a marked degree the modes of to-morrow rather than those of to-day, lend striking attraction to the gowns shown in the picture, one being made of fine French cashmere, the other of dainty foulard.

Never were negligee garments more fascinating than at the present moment. The new tea gowns are delightfully "Frenchy" and artistic in every detail, while the manifold charms of the latest tea jacket must be seen to be appreciated. The handsomest tea gowns are fashioned of crepe de chine in charmingly delicate colorings, while the tea jacket of lace and chiffon is the most dainty and tempting thing yet seen. More useful, and quite as pretty in its way, is the one given in the illustration made of striped taffeta and trimmed with yards and yards of soft lace and velvet ribbon.

England's Army in India.

The full strength of Great Britain's Indian army is 300,000 men, of whom 230,000 are native and 70,000 British soldiers. In addition to this military force there are about 20,000 enrolled European volunteers and a native police, officered by white men, nearly 200,000 strong. Every regiment is divided into ten companies, each of which is usually made up of a different nationality—such as Goorkhas, Sikhs, Dogras, Pathans and Punjaubis. It is owing to this precaution that a combination of forces for the purposes of mutiny becomes almost impossible.

PIGEON RACES A TRAIN.

Starts Out Regularly Every Morning for a Fly Alongside the Engine.

There is a pigeon in Belgium which regularly flies with the morning train that goes from Liege to Waremme. It began to accompany the train toward the end of January, and it has done so every day since then, except on three occasions, says a London paper. The Meuse, one of the leading newspapers in Belgium, vouches for this fact, and gives other curious details about the remarkable bird. The train starts at three minutes to ten a. m., and a crowd gathers daily to see the pigeon go with it. The bird wheels around the station while the passengers are taking their seats, and as soon as the whistle is blown and the journey begins it takes up a position a little behind the engine, and there it flies surrounded by the moist, though warm, steam, which it evidently enjoys. It retains this position even while the train is passing through tunnels, and apparently is not incommoded in the least by the warm vapor. When the train reaches its destination the bird flies swiftly along the railroad track back to Liege, where it arrives about half-past eleven o'clock.

This pigeon was born at the railroad station in Liege, and consequently is familiar with trains, smoke and steam. Until a few months ago it occupied, with eleven others, a comfortable cote, and when this was removed from the station by order of the authorities it refused to abandon its old home, though its 11 companions at once sought for shelter elsewhere. This fidelity was suitably rewarded. The railroad officials gave the bird carte blanche to search for food wherever it pleased, and the public liberally supplied it with corn and other dainties. A singular fact is that on the three days when it failed to accompany the train a Belgian engine was used instead of an English one, and the assumption is that the fuel consumed by the latter gives forth a steam which the bird prefers to that from a Belgian engine.

East India Marine Hall.

Salem, Mass., is the home of this building, which contains collections of the Essex institute and of the East India Marine society. The scientific cabinets of the Essex institute are extensive and well-arranged, and the collections of the Marine society include many curiosities from oriental countries and other distant nations. Among the numerous curiosities is a piece of wood carving in the form of two hemispheres 1½ inches in diameter, in the concavities of which are carved representations on the one hemisphere of Heaven and on the other of hell. There are 110 full-length figures in the carving, and the whole is very skillfully executed. It is said to be the work of an Italian monk of the fourteenth century.—Detroit Free Press.

An Advantage in Being Short.

Col. Burn-Murdoch, who is now in South Africa in command of the "Kaiser's Own," owes his life to his short stature. When the square was broken at Abu Klea, Col. Burn-Murdoch was standing by the side of two other officers, both taller than he. The onrushing dervishes fired a volley, and, unhappily, both of his tall neighbors fell, shot through the head, while Col. Burn-Murdoch was hit in the helmet. That helmet is now in the ancestral hall.—Chicago Times-Herald.

SHREWD DETECTIVE WORK.

Unique Method Sometimes Employed to Compel Confessions from Murderers.

"In every city," said a New York detective to a Washington Star reporter recently, "they have different methods of securing evidence, and where the police have no evidence of extorting a confession from a suspected man.

"In cities the size of Washington and larger it is a comparatively easy matter to identify the corpse and connect the murder with the right criminal, but in New York the annual number of unidentified dead is so large that the securing of evidence fixing the crime upon the right man is another matter. A large proportion of the unidentified dead of the metropolis are the victims of murder, but in that great whirlpool of humanity a score or so of untraced murders annually don't count.

"I served under former Inspector Byrnes, and I will tell you of one or two instances, illustrating his peculiar methods when he started after a criminal against whom there was no positive evidence.

"A man had been murdered by being thrown from a rowboat in Jamaica bay, in the outskirts of Brooklyn. There was no clew save that he had been seen in company with four men the day previous. Byrnes learned that these men were members of a gang. He knew that when gangs commit a crime their leader is usually the perpetrator and always particeps criminis. The leaders of New York gangs of toughs maintain their prestige by their offenses against the law, and if one shows the white feather he is 'bounced,' and a tough of more courage takes his unenviable place.

"This gang had its headquarters near the dock yards on the East river near the Brooklyn bridge. Byrnes arrested the leader and six of his followers. He placed the leader in a room in the Tombs, which overlooked the courtyard of that gloomy historic building. Each day Byrnes visited him, and 'sweated' him for a confession, but the fellow's nerve was all right, and he stuck to one story—that he was in a river front saloon all day on the day of the murder. Members of a gang, as a rule, are loyal to each other, and especially their leader, and this fellow counted on a dozen followers to swear to the truth of his story and prove an alibi. But Byrnes knew his game.

"The suspected man was not informed of the arrest of his followers. After being in confinement for several days, Byrnes visited him and called his attention to the courtyard. As detective and criminal appeared at the window, one of Byrnes' officers, with one of the arrested members of the gang, entered at the side gate with the tough handcuffed to his wrist, and walked across the courtyard into the building. In a few minutes a second officer appeared with another of the murderer's followers handcuffed to him, and this procession was kept up until the entire six had been thus silently paraded before the culprit's eyes. As they turned from the window the pawnbroker with whom the victim's watch had been pawned by the leader entered the room quietly, and, laying the timepiece upon the table, withdrew without a word. The murderer, supposing that his pals had peached, and that the police had positive evidence against him, confessed and begged for mercy. I afterward saw him executed.

"In another case, where the evidence was incomplete, and it seemed as though the suspect would be released for want of proof, Byrnes caused a room in the police headquarters to be fitted up precisely, in every detail, including the wall paper, as the apartment in which the crime was committed. The bed was stained with beef's blood, and the victim's clothing arranged as when the body had been discovered. Byrnes, sitting on the side of the bed, with a smile on his face, ordered the murderer brought suddenly into the room. The sight was too much for his nerves and he weakened."

Military Halifax.

There are just three cities in North America that have a foreign atmosphere. They are New Orleans, with its French quarter; Quebec, with its frowning fortifications, reminding one of Ehrenbreitstein, and its wonderful patois, and Halifax, with its British garrison, which gives a dash of red to the streets, the public parks, the theaters and other places of amusement. Tommy Atkins is greatly in evidence in Halifax. The high privates, corporals and sergeants stroll with the nursemaids in the public gardens. The officers are conspicuous at the clubs, at dances and other social affairs.

"Oh, how I love you, Tommy Atkins," is strictly true of Halifax. It would seem a dull little place without the military. At the same time it is believed that Halifax would be of far more commercial importance if less time were given to society and more to business. A commercial traveler once told me that Halifax was his bete noir. The men whom he wanted to "drum" were difficult to find in their business places, because they had engagements with Capt. or Col. or Maj. So-and-So at the club.—Gustav Kobbe in Truth.

Filipino Cannon.

Three curious water pipe cannon, which were actually used by the Filipinos against the Americans in the late campaign, have just been lent to the museum of the Royal United Service institution. How primitive they really are may be judged from the fact that the exterior surfaces are bound with hemp and galvanized wire and telegraph wire.—London Chronicle.

The balance of power, children, is simply the agency through which power is unbalanced.—Puck.

Life at NOME CITY, ALASKA

A Big Town Where Eating Is Indeed a Luxury

NOME CITY is destined to go down in history as the most wonderful of the many mushroom towns which at various times have sprung up over night in the mining districts of sparsely settled countries. Absolutely unknown two years ago, located in a region shunned by all save a few Esquimau traders, it is to-day the Mecca of a vast multitude of gold hunters who were drawn to its inhospitable shores by wild reports of auriferous wealth that could be picked up on the streets by anyone willing to stoop long enough to transfer it to his pockets.

Just one year ago the first announcement of Nome's alleged golden sands reached the press of the United States. Nuggets as large as hen's eggs, it was said, were found by the score; and a number of men who had reached the foggy Alaska cape in June returned to San Francisco in the fall, bringing with them a fat harvest of yellow lumps and a fund of stories unparalleled for the magnificence of their mendacity. Prospectors from Dawson and other Klondike mining camps, carried away by the superlativeness of the tales they had heard, forsook well-paying claims and undertook dangerous winter journeys to reach the new Eldorado in time to have the choice of claims. Fortune hunters from the states and Canada left their homes early in the spring so as to secure passage in the first ship from San Francisco or Seattle.

On the first day of June Nome City had a population of 2,700—30 days later it was a booming, bustling town of 25,000, with a municipal government, churches and newspapers. Buildings of some size, rough lumber shanties and tents, irregularly located along the beach, without regard for comfort or sanitary conditions, the entire population confined to two streets, that is the metropolis of Alaska, the northernmost city in the western hemisphere. Its inhabitants are peaceful folk, as miners and goldseekers go; but the spirit of selfishness which dominates everything and everybody is calculated to shake one's faith in humanity. Everybody is "on the make," from the trader who sells poor merchandise at fantastic prices to the bedecked and bedizened "soubrettes" in the dance halls back of the beach.

Lumber yards, restaurants and bakeries do a rushing business. The poorest kind of lumber sells readily at $150 a thousand and coal is in brisk demand at $80 a ton. Canned goods sell at half a dollar a can, no matter what their contents may be, excepting condensed milk, which can be had at 35 cents a can. Potatoes are 5 cents a pound; butter, $1 per pound and a half; doughnuts, 50 cents per dozen; eggs, 50 cents a dozen, and flour is $4 for a 50-pound sack. The restaurant keepers are still more unreasonable, as the following extracts from a recent bill of fare will show: Corned beef hash, $1; Boston baked beans, 50 cents; bacon and eggs, $1; sirloin steak, $2.50; porterhouse steak, $3; lamb chops, $1.50; pork chops, $1.75; pork sausage, $1.50; Hamburger steak, $1; hot cakes and coffee, 50 cents; pies, 50 cents; coffee, tea or cocoa, 25 cents. Water is very bad and full of disease germs and costs from 7 to 10 cents per gallon.

In a country where the pauper of to-day expects to be the millionaire of to-morrow labor naturally is hard to obtain. Common laborers ask and receive $1 per hour; mechanics, $1.50 an hour, and teams, $10 an hour. The city administration is unable to obtain sufficient help to remove the garbage and filth of the monster camp, and disease is consequently claiming scores of victims every day. The government officials are as helpless as the mayor and can do nothing toward bringing order out of chaos. The apathy of the people, as far as sanitation is concerned, is described as "appalling;" and as the days go by without bringing the fortune they had hoped for many come to the conclusion that it is cheaper to die than to live and lose all interest in their surroundings.

CITY OF NOME AS IT APPEARED LATE IN JUNE.

GRAND ARMY Encampment

What CHICAGO Is Doing to Make It a Success

THE various committees in charge of the preparations for the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, which will be held in Chicago during the last week of August, have completed their preliminary work, and are now awaiting the arrival of their honored guests. It is estimated that fully 50,000 veterans will participate in this year's grand parade, and hoped that both in number of visitors and in the arrangements for their comfort the Chicago meeting will surpass everything in the history of the order.

The committee on decorations has worked especially hard, and the result of its labors has been highly commended by the artists of Chicago. Aside from the appropriate decoration of the down-town streets, the committee's scheme includes the construction of two large arches and a colonnade. One of the arches is to be placed at Van Buren street and Michigan avenue, the other at Park row and the avenue. The arches will be connected by Corinthian columns, placed at regular intervals on both sides of the street, forming a magnificent colonnade, broken only by the pylons which will flank the reviewing stand. One of the arches will be dedicated to the army, the other to the navy, and each will bear bas-relief panels portraying some famous triumph of arms. In general effect this decoration will equal the famous Dewey colonnade at New York. In length it will surpass it.

The formation of the grand parade by states has also been agreed upon. Wisconsin will head the line, followed by Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Maine, California and Nevada, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Vermont, District of Columbia, Virginia and North Carolina, Maryland, Nebraska, Michigan, Iowa, Indiana, Colorado and Wyoming, Kansas, Delaware, Minnesota, Missouri, Oregon, Kentucky, West Virginia, South Dakota, Washington and Alaska, Arkansas, New Mexico, Utah, Tennessee, Louisiana and Mississippi, Florida, Montana, Texas, Idaho, Arizona, Georgia, Alabama, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Indian Territory and Illinois.

The committee on invitations announces that among the distinguished visitors will be the president of the United States, most of the members of his cabinet, scores of United States senators and representatives, the Spanish minister at Washington and many other diplomats, 16 governors of states with their staffs, and Col. William Jennings Bryan, democratic nominee for president. All of these have formally accepted the invitations sent them, and many others will no doubt be added to this list before the end of the month.

Preparations for the entertainment of veterans who do not feel able to pay large hotel bills have been completed by the Chicago board of education and an order has been issued directing the janitors of school buildings to place all assembly halls, corridors, playrooms, gymnasiums and kindergarten rooms at the disposal of the grand army entertainment committee. These rooms will be furnished with comfortable cots and decorated with flags, and the stars and stripes will be displayed on the school premises day and night from August 25 to 30.

G. A. R. COURT OF HONOR, MICHIGAN BOULEVARD, CHICAGO.

SPORTING.

ROD AND GUN.

U. B. Crane spent yesterday crabbing at Sewaren and returned with three crabs.

Expended—One night's sleep and one day's work for three men, horse and wagon hire for a night and a day, boat for a day, besides refreshments. Profits—Twelve weak fish. That is the record of Theodore Smith, Alex. Sargeant and Wm. Brown, who spent Tuesday night and Wednesday at Amboy trying their luck with the finny tribe.

Says it is Inconsistent.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In your report of the meeting of the Borough Council, held Friday evening last, I notice that Mr. Clark, in referring to the question of macadamizing the so termed Willow avenue extension, stated that he had not been able to effect a proper adjustment of affairs, as the property owners had shown no disposition to pay their proportionate share. Does Mr. Clark consider the signers of the petition irresponsible, and their agreement to pay worthless? Had the Council intimated their willingness to commence the work, there is no doubt that the property owners' share would have been forthcoming. After reading a very impressive article describing the wonderful advantages accorded residents and property owners in the borough this disposal of a petition for a much needed improvement seems particularly inconsistent.

Very truly yours,
One of the Petitioners.

Reilly-Apgar Nuptials.

Miss Florence Apgar, of Bloomsbury, and Paul Reilly, of Little York, were married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride, and last evening they came to Plainfield to spend a portion of their honeymoon with Mrs. Reilly's cousin, George B. Wean and his family, of West Fourth street. They were heartily congratulated and given a cordial reception. Today they left for New York, where they will remain for a time. Upon their return they will reside at Little York.

Returns to the East to Live.

Jeremiah Brown and his wife and six children arrived in Plainfield yesterday from their home in the West and in the future they will reside with Mr. Brown's mother, Mrs. Moses D. Brown, of Washington avenue. Mr. Brown and his wife have been in very poor health for a long time past, and at times Mr. Brown's condition was critical. They have disposed of their property in the West and will locate permanently in the East.

A Big Excursion.

One of the largest excursions to leave Plainfield this season was that of the Crescent Auenue, Grace and St. Stephens P. E. and Bethel chapel Sunday-schools, which occurred this morning. It is estimated that 1,200 people attended. There were two sections comprising twenty-one cars, nearly all of which were well filled. The excursion should reach home tonight at 7:30.

Hackmen Make Trouble.

Asbury Park City Council is having a serious time with the hackmen. The latter refused to pay the license fee demanded by the city. They were then sued and as fast as the cases came to a hearing, after the fine of $100 is imposed, the cases are certioraried for decision of the higher court. From six to eight thousand dollars are involved.

Excursion to Boynton Beach.

The Plainfield branch of the Mutual Firemen's Benefit Association held an excursion to Boynton Beach yesterday. There were a large number present from this city and other places. During the day a prize waltz was held and it was won by Miss Nellie Parkinson and Marion Brokaw, of Plainfield.

PRANKS OF LIGHTNING.

Grooved a Tree on Grove Street Without Destroying It—Other Incidents of the Storm.

The sharp lightning that accompanied the heavy thunder storm that visited Plainfield yesterday afternoon did little damage, but not as much as was expected. Perhaps one of the most noticeable freaks of the lightning was the bolt that struck the very large elm tree standing on Charles Matthews' property, corner of Grove street and Prospect place. This large and handsome tree was the objective point for a severe bolt that struck the tree at the highest point and followed a perfectly straight course to the ground, leaving a wide groove the entire length. The tree was not ruined, however, and in time the opening will grow together. Peter B. Matthews was sitting on the front porch at the time and it gave him quite a shock.

The lightning also played about Jerry Manning's woods at Clinton avenue, and six fine chestnut trees were struck and considerably torn. It is not believed that they are ruined.

The storm was not as severe in this city as the indications pointed to, but from appearances it was more severe in the direction of New Brunswick. The clouds were unusually black, and contrary winds carried them hither and thither in many directions. At times it looked as though there might be a cyclone, but the winds from the north finally prevailed and they were carried rapidly to the south of the city. For a time after the shower the atmosphere was a trifle cooler, but by evening the humidity became great and people suffered very much from its intensity. The downpour of rain that came along with the thunder and lightning was a blessing to the farmers in this vicinity and they were exceedingly thankful for the rain.

New Lippincott Magazine.

The name of Thomas Cobb is not yet identified in America with gay social fiction; but from the complete novel printed as the salient feature of the "New Lippincott" Magazine for September (issued August 21) it is judged that he is destined to become as enduring a friend as "The Duchess" or Mrs. Alexander. He has some of charm of these with a fine masculine dash which they lacked. His Lippincott novel is called "The Dissemblers." It is about a very preety love affair in which for obvious reasons the future lovers pretend to be engaged, and the situations thus developed are "as good as a play." Mr. Cobb has had great vogue in England with brilliant novels like "The Dissemblers."

Paterson's Chief Visited Here.

Chief Stagg, of the Paterson Fire Department, accompanied by his wife and daughter, came to Plainfield yesterday by trolley and were the guests of Chief Doane and his family. They left Paterson at 9 o'clock in the morning and arrived in Plainfield at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, and they were delighted with the ride, which to them was not in the least tiresome. They left the city on the return trip at 3 o'clock and expected to reach their home by 6 o'clock.

For Support of Tracks.

Nearly everyone who saw the two carloads of spiles unloaded at the North Avenue station this morning wondered to what use they would be put. They are to be driven under the roadbed for the support of the tracks while the work of excavating for the subway is in progress. The spiles will be driven twenty feet underground and there will be twelve placed under each track. The entire weight of the heavy trains will then be borne by these spiles.

Malicious Young Men.

Two young men who paid a visit to Tier's lake-house one night recently may find themselves in a serious predicament unless sundry missing articles are returned. The boys had been eating ice cream and upon leaving the house it was discovered that several spoons and small articles had disappeared. Both parties were immediately notified by Mr. Tier and unless they are returned or redress made warrants will be issued.

A Secret Meeting.

Mayor Smalley and the Borough Council met with Assessor French last evening to examine the books of the latter. Contrary to precedent, the session was a closed one, or in other words the members resolved themselves into a committee meeting, and reporters were not allowed to enjoy the usual privileges. After the meeting it was stated that very few changes were made in the books of the assessor.

PINE APPLE DESSERTS.

Some Delicious Dishes for the Warm Weather, and How to Prepare Them.

A Muscovite pineapple cream is a delicious iced pudding. Peel and chop fine a small sweet pineapple; add a pound of sugar and let it cook until it is soft and clear; rub it through a sieve. It should all pass through; add two tablespoonfuls of gelatine which has been soaked for two hours in half a cupful of cold water; let the mixture cool by setting it in a pan of ice water. When cold, put the mixture in an ice cream freezer, and when it is nearly firm add a pint of whipped cream. It can be made of peaches, strawberries or apricots cooked in the same way, says the New York Tribune.

Another cold pineapple pudding is made of a quart can of preserved pineapples, or a fresh pineapple chopped and cooked with sugar, as described in the Muscovite ice cream. Drain off the sirup from the pineapple in either case. There should be about a pint of the sirup. Heat it boiling hot and stir in it a third of a box of gelatine which has been soaking in a cupful of cold water for half an hour. Strain the gelatine and sirup over the preserved pineapple. Cool it in a pan of cracked ice. When it is thick stir in two pints of whipped cream. Pour it into a mold, and when it is hard serve it at once on a low crystal platter, with a border of whipped cream flavored with orange extract, and with a few tablespoonfuls of candied pineapple cut in bits and candied cherries cut in two scattered over it. This dessert looks very pretty and is delicious. It must, however, be made and served as soon as it is done, as all desserts containing gelatine and pineapple should. There is a ferment in pineapple juice that destroys the substance of gelatine if the gelatine is left to stand in it for any length of time.

THE SAGE OF CHINA.

Li Hung Chang, Newly Appointed Viceroy of Pe-Chi-Li.

He Is Clever and Cunning, an Adept in Oriental Statecraft and Past Master in the Art of Deceiving His Best Friends.

"Dreaded and obeyed," said an English writer, "Li Hung Chang is the powerful arbiter, whose word is law to 450,000,000 human beings." Li Hung Chang is now 77 years old and he is both beloved and feared.

"Never can it be said," wrote a Hong-Kong correspondent some time ago, "that up to the present day any foreign minister has succeeded in outgeneraling this astute Chinaman in anything relating to Chinese affairs."

Li Hung Chang is descended from a race of conquerors; his high muscular stature shows it. In his expressionless features, in the furtive depth of his intelligent look, in the studied reserve of his words, in his unimpulsive courtesy to strangers, race is evident and the politician is revealed. In his thin lips, his wrinkled forehead, looking like a block of carved ivory seasoned by time; in his drooping lids, veiling when necessary the expression of the eyes; in his features, drawn and puckered by the incessant preying on the mind of a single aspiration, ever keenly alive but cautiously restrained, one can trace the working of that powerful mind which guides the destinies of the celestial empire.

At the outset of his political career Earl Li followed in the footsteps of Tseign-kwo-Fan, whom he was designed to succeed as viceroy of Nanking, and who died without leaving a single enemy behind him; having, according to some of his satirical countrymen, suppressed them all while he was alive.

Li Hung Chang is, in every sense of the word, a self-made man. His father was an official of one of the lower ranks and held an unimportant civil position in Peking, and out of his small pittance could give his son but little opportunity for an education. But these chances Li took every advantage of and chose literature as his profession.

LI HUNG CHANG.
(Newly-Appointed Viceroy of the Province of Pe-Chi-Li.)

When he arrived at the age of manhood he saw that he did not have the time to waste in continually studying the classics necessary to a successful literary career, so he abandoned literature and turned his attention to the profession of arms. Having successfully passed the requisite military examination he entered the imperial army and thenceforward his rise to his present high position has been rapid. He is one of the very few instances of a Chinese military mandarin rising to eminence in civil life, and gaining the title of the "grand old man" and the "Bismarck" of China.

In 1860 he cooperated with Gen. Gordon in suppressing the Tai-Ping rebellion, being then governor of the Thiang-Sin province. The other Thiang province being added to his rule he was created viceroy of the united countries in May, 1865. The following year he was appointed minister plenipotentiary and in 1867 viceroy of Hong Kuang and a grand chancellor in 1868. He was the mediator for fixing the indemnity for the murder of Mrs. Mangary, who was killed in 1876 while endeavoring to explore southwestern China, and was prime minister of China up to the late war with Japan. It may be here explained that Li is his family name, while Hung Chang—meaning "vast ornamentation"—is merely a personal name, or, rather, the official form of his personal name. He uses it when he addresses the emperor, and the officials use it when speaking to the emperor of him, otherwise it is improper for his colleagues to use it in his presence; it is also printed on his visiting cards. His literary name, however, is Shaots'uan, or "young spice," and this is the one by which he is known to his friends and by which he is spoken of in the native press. He is also chung-tang, or "central hall," which is the complimentary title of a grand secretary. Li is a man of liberal views and has, on the whole, been a fair partisan of British commerce in the empire of the east.

WANDERER RETURNS; HIS MIND A BLANK.

Lewis D. Westbrook Visits His Aunt After a Month's Mysterious Absence From Home.

HE REMEMBERS NOTHING.

FIRST INTIMATION WIFE HAD OF DISAPPEARANCE WAS FAREWELL NOTE.

Brain Injured by Overwork—Former Grand Trunk Ticket Agent Has Been Placed in a Sanitarium for Rest and Recuperation.

Lewis E. Westbrook, ticket agent of the Grand Trunk Railroad in New York city, who disappeared from his home in Westfield, Monday morning, July 9, appeared unexpectedly in Port Jervis, N. Y., Wednesday. He first visited the home of his aunt, Mrs. Jennie Dorr, in Orange street.

He came from the direction of the mountain just behind Port Jervis, and seemed to be walking aimlessly until he reached the door of his aunt's house. He seemed to be confused, and could give no account of his doings for the last month.

Mrs. Dorr telegraphed to Mr. Westbrook's wife, in New York City, and to his father, George Westbrook, of Ellenville. Both arrived last evening. They had given him up for dead, for every possible effort had been made to find him. His father asked:

"Do you know where you are?"

"I am at Aunt Jane's," he replied, but he did not know where he came from and remembered absolutely nothing that had happened since he left Westfield for his office, four weeks ago.

At the time of his disappearance it was thought that he must have become temporarily deranged from overwork.

Bert Westbrook, of Goshen, N. Y., a brother, arrived and placed the wanderer in a private sanitarium. Last night Mr. Westbrook complained of a pain in his head.

The first intimation his wife had of anything wrong was when she received a note from her husband, in which he bade her farewell and urged her to make no attempt to find him, as the next time she would see him he would be dead. His business affairs were not complicated, and his railroad accounts were correct. He was born near Port Jervis thirty years ago.

Meat Prices are High.

Prices of meat, especially of beef, are higher this Summer than they have been for several years past, and there are no indications at present that they will be lower. There has been a tendency toward higher prices for some time, as the amount of live stock raised in this country has not been increasing so fast as the demands for American meats. This is especially true since the beginning of the Spanish War. The United States is supplying by far the largest part of the beef that goes to Cuba and the Philippines, and it is said the demand from England has rapidly increased.

WHO'LL OPPOSE HIM

REPUBLICANS OF MIDDLESEX LOOKING FOR A CANDIDATE.

Two Candidates Mentioned by the Republicans—Other Political Gossip of That Section.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Aug. 10.—The political situation in Middlesex county is just now somewhat clouded in respect to the selection of a Republican candidate for Senator. It is practically settled that the Democrats will renominate Senator James H. VanCleef for a third term, but the Republicans are by no means so well fixed in the matter of a candidate. This is not because there not Republicans in the county ambitious to occupy the Middlesex seat in the upper House of the State Legislature, but because there is a hot fight on between the supporters of Theodore Strong and former Assemblyman Edward Hicks.

Mr. Strong's candidacy is being boomed by Robert Carson, Collector of the Port of Perth Amboy, who talks enthusiastically of Mr. Strong's ability to fill the position to the entire satisfaction of the Republicans of this county. Collector Carson is a warm personal friend of the candidate, and he is working day and night to further his interests.

The attitude of Mr. Carson is something of a surprise to many of the Middlesex Republicans, who had been led to believe that the Collector was in favor of the nomination of former Assemblyman Hicks. The latter has a long line of support, and it was thought that the Carson influence would be with him for the nomination. Both sides are very much in earnest, and the workers are already taking up the fight on behalf of their respective champions, with the prospect of a more than interesting battle in the convention.

In regard to the Assembly nominations there seems little reason to doubt that the ticket will contain the names of the present representatives Adrian Lyon, John E. Montgomery and Harvey Raymond Graves, the six-foot, tall "baby of the House." This trio of young men rendered good service in the last session, and it is the general sentiment among the leaders and workers alike that they should be given another term.

Among the sure things that the Middlesex Republicans are looking forward to is the renomination of Congressman Benjamin F. Howell, in the Third district, made up of Somerset, Middlesex, and Monmouth counties. A canvass of the district has demonstrated that there is very little opposition to the renomination of Mr. Howell and the prediction is made that he will be chosen by acclamation at the convention, which will be held early next month. Mr. Howell has served three terms in Congress, and it is the intention of the Republican leaders in the district and the vast majority of the workers as well, to give him another chance.

ARMY HOSPITAL IN JAPAN.

Two Trained Nurses, One From Elizabeth, the Other From Lambertville.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Aug. 10.—Mrs. Marguerite Salter, of Elizabeth, and Miss Lucy Kelly, of Lambertville, graduates of the New York City Training School for Nurses, have entered the services of the United States Army. Yesterday they left for SanFrancisco, on their way to Japan.

Mrs. Salter is going to be appointed chief nurse, and will take one hundred nurses to Japan with her, where she will establish a hospital until it is safe to go to China. Mrs. Salter established the training school for nurses in the Plainfield hospital. For some years past Mrs. Salter has held the position of supervising nurse at the Hospital of the House of Refuge, Randall's Island, New York.

Miss Kelly, her assistant, was a volunteer nurse during the Spanish-American War and nursed in the southern camps. When Miss Kelly resigned her position in the army her name was placed on the reserve list of the United States Nursing Corps, and now she once more goes forth to serve her country.

Trunk Line Telephone.

After several months of delay, the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company began work on their new trunk line from Dunellen to New Market yesterday. But four pole holes were dug opposite the depot park, when the men were stopped by the Central Railroad officials. Their action was caused by certain disagreements which the two companies have had recently. It is expected that matters will be settled satisfactory to both sides today and the work resumed.

HOT AT THE SHORE.

An Unpleasant Day Encountered by the Excursionists Who Went to Asbury Park Yesterday.

The combined excursion of the Crescent Avenue church, Grace and St. Stephen's P.E. churches and Bethel chapel to Asbury Park, yesterday, was a success so far as the management was concerned, but, unfortunately for this occasion, suffered the entire day with a very hot northwest land breeze that at times seemed almost unbearable. The trip in the morning was made in about one and three-quarter hours, but coming home repeated delays made the trip two and a half hours in duration. The Crescent Avenue church took as "their guests" the little folks of the Children's Home, eighteen in nunber, a very nice thing for the church to do. They were a well-behaved lot of children and they had a glorious day. They were in charge of Mrs. Hendrickson. the matron, assisted by Miss Brewer and Miss Hedden, and they found it necessary more than once to "count" the little flock in order that none be lost.

BURGLARS AT WESTFIELD.

Attempted to Enter Enter S. W. Reese's House, But Were Scared Away Before Doing the Job.

Burglars are at work in Westfield again and the city police are taking extra pains to capture the culprits.

Early Wednesday morning they attempted to enter the residence of S. W. Reese, on Prospect street, and would have been successful had it not been for the timely awakening of one of the inmates.

Miss Grace Cummings, who, in company with her mother, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Reese, was aroused shortly after midnight by peculiar noises coming from the lower side of the house toward the kitchen. Miss Cummings' room on the opposite side of the house directly over the parlor. She went to the window and listened, thinking that someone next door had awakened and was walking about the room, but she soon heard the noise again and hastened to arouse her aunt, who was sleeping in the next room. Mrs. Reese awoke her husband, who seized his revolver and rushed down stairs to the kitchen just in time to hear the thief run off down the road. The burglar had succeeded in opening the window and was about to enter the house when he was frightened away. This is the fourth time burglars have attempted to enter the Reese residence in two years. During the burglar scare of '98, when so many houses were entered and robbed, three different attempts were made to plunder the Reese house, and each time the burglars were unsuccessful.

Two years ago Westfield was greatly alarmed at the frequency of burglaries; many houses being successfully looted in a night without awakening any of the occupants. The citizens organized vigilant committees to patrol the streets and large sums of money were offered by private citizens for the capture of the burglars, but all attempts to bring them to justice were unsuccessful. There have been several attempts made recently to enter houses, two of which have been successful, and the people are again in arms. Many think the old gang is at work again, and the police have been authorized to arrest all suspicious-looking characters seen lounging about the streets after dark. Every effort will be made to capture the burglars.

HOMEWARD BOUND NOW.

New Jersey Endeavorers Should Have Sailed From Boulogne Yesterday.

If the schedule has been carried out the party of New Jersey Christian Endeavorers, who left for Europe the latter part of June, sailed for home yesterday from Boulogne on the steamship Belgravia, of the Hamburg-American line. They are due to arrive at Hoboken August 20th.

The Jersey folk numbered 120, of whom ten were from Essex county. The primary object of the journey was to attend the Christian Endeavor convention in London, but the excursionists have had two chances to see the Paris Exposition in full swing, and besides have taken trips to Germany, Switzerland and other European countries.

MINING EXPERT SAYS ORE IS VERY RICH.

Encouraging Report About Copper and Iron Found in Smalley's Stone Quarry.

IS THERE ENOUGH OF IT?

THAT IS THE QUESTION TO DETERMINE THE REAL VALUE.

Specimens to be Tested by the Expert—Smalley Brothers Will Find Out How Big the Vein is Without Any Special Outlay.

The exclusive announcement made in The Daily Press yesterday of finding a rich vein of copper and iron ore in the stone quarry of Smalley Brothers on the Watchung mountain, caused a good deal of talk and gossip about town last evening as to what might happen if the vein should be found to be a large one and the ore could be taken out in paying quantities.

Yesterday afternoon V. P. Davis, a mining expert in the employ of the American Copper Extracting Company, whose plant is located at Garwood, visited the quarry and made a cursory inspection of the vein that had been disclosed while blasting the rock to be used in the stone crusher operated by the Smalley Brothers. Mr. Davis said that the vein as it appeared now was a remarkable rich one—one of the best, in fact, that he had ever seen. The question, however, is whether or not it will last. That, of course, can only be determined when it is opened up further. The ore may be found to exist there in large quantities, and again it may be limited so that it would not pay to mine it. However, Mr. Davis said that if it was two per cent. copper it would pay to mine it, and if it assayed eight per cent., as some of the specimens of the ore have already shown, it would be very valuable.

Smalley Brothers are at an advantage whatever may happen. If the copper and iron is found in paying quantities, they will profit by the minerals, but if the vein already opened up is found to be a small one they will be at no loss as the property was purchased and is being operated for a stone quarry. And while they are going further into the mountain determining the extent of the mineral properties they are at the same time operating and profiting with the stone cracker.

Mr. Davis took away with him several specimens of the ore which he will put under a thoroughly scientific test to determine exactly what proportion of copper and iron there is in the rock. He will make a report to Smalley Brothers in a few days.

The Smalley Brothers own twenty-one acres of mountain land around their quarry, and from all appearances it is solid trap rock throughout. Although they have been quarrying the stone for about ten years, they have made no appreciable inroads into the rocky formation and as nearly as can be judged they will never run short of an ample supply of stone. The property was purchased by them from North Plainfield township by the payment of back taxes, the real owners for years previous having abandoned it as worthless.

At the present time 200 tons of crushed stone are being turned out daily.

GIBBONEY REDUCES HIS BILL.

Files a New Suit in the United States District Court.

The claim against the Camden County Board of Freeholders for $20,018, filed by D. C. Gibboney, has turned up in the United States District Court, where Mr. Gibboney claims only $9,018, being $991 less than one half of his original bill.

The suit grows out of an alleged contract entered into by Gibboney and the late Prosecutor Jenkins, under the terms of which Gibboney was to be paid, he claims, $20 for each county case and $10 for each city case brought against saloonkeepers in Camden county.

A reign of terror followed the advent of Gibboney and his agents. Over 1300 specific charges were entered and the county collected $18,800 in fines and cost.

Prosecutor Jenkins died; his assistant, Carson, was murdered, and Gibboney could not produce a written contract that bound the county to pay him a cent. Hence the suit.

SUMMIT TO PAY LESS.

Connection With the New Trunk Sewer Will Not Cost as Much as was Expected.

Under the new apportionment of cost to the various municipalities interested in the joint sewer scheme, the city of Summit will have to pay less than was originally stated, while other places concerned will have to pay more.

Summit's apportionment was originally $84,000. This was on a basis giving Summit a capacity of 3,200,000 gallons of sewage a day. This was more than Summit wanted by 200,000 gallons, and in the new estimate of cost Summit's capacity in the sewer has been fixed at exactly 3,000,000 gallons. The cost of Summit under the new arrangement will be $76,978. Below will be found the figures for the other points interested.

At the meeting of the Joint Sewer Commission yesterday in the rooms of the Board of Street and Water Commissioners, Engineer Alexander Potter submitted his new figures. After these had been received, the legal committee, which is composed of Colonel Price, Corra N. Williams, Adrian Riker and J. Randolph Woodruff, was instructed to draw a new ordinance which will be submitted to the various municipalities for final action.

HATS ON IN CHURCH.

Bayonne Parson Decrees That Women Must Not Attend Services Bareheaded.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bayonne, Aug. 10—Bayonne, always up to date, is in the centre of the whirlpool of controversy agitating feminity and the Protestant clergy in regard to the covering of women's heads in church.

Rev. E. Jenner, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, Avenue C and Thirty-fourth street, has decreed that women must wear hats in his church, and he has taken active steps to enforce his ruling. Last week Rev. Jenner directed the sexton of the church to notify all hatless women who came to church that it was against the rules for women to attend the services bareheaded.

"I'm afraid Dr. Jenner has kind of put his foot into it," said a well-known resident of Bayonne today. "He's an enthusiast in church matters, and I'm afraid he has let his conservatism go too far this time. I predict that the women will win in the no-hat controversy."

Oh! That Watermelon.

Last evening after the regular monthly meeting of the consistory of Trinity Reformed church, Clerk F. E. Smith invited the brethren to partake of ice cold watermelons at his store on West Front street, as has been his custom for several years. The invitation was accepted, of course, and this morning a pile of rinds met the gaze of the young man who opened the store that staggered him and he was led to believe that a "watermelon party" had indeed been held during the night.

M'DERMOTT STOLE THOUSANDS.

Investigation Develops Charges of Forgery Not Reported Before.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, August 10.—The investigation into the affairs of Charles McDermott, the defaulting Collector of Belmar, was begun yesterday by Commissioner Richard F. Stevens, who was appointed by the court to take testimony. Samuel L. Gillen, chairman of the borough finance committee, was the first witness. He fixed McDermott's shortage at about $20,000.

"The missing Collector," he said, "began his speculations right after his first election, in 1894."

It developed that the borough finance committee had certified to the correctness of McDermott's books March 21, when there was a deficiency of $20,000 or more. They also certified as to the correctness of McDermott's Board of Education accounts, when there was a deficiency of over $4,000

It was also shown that McDermott had introduced to entries, amounting to $4,500, in his bank book.

The evidence shows that the borough books had always been carelessly kept. Taxpayers who had remitted their taxes received no credit on the books. It also came out that there were a number of forged notes in existence. The investigation will be resumed Monday.

Informal Reception.

An informal reception was tendered last evening to Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Mettler, of East Second street, who have recently returned from a western wedding trip. There were about fifty friends present from Plainfield and other places. The evening was passed in listening to vocal and instrumental music and in having a good time. The serving of refreshments brought the evening's enjoyment to a close.

THE AUTOMOBILE AS TROLLEY'S RIVAL.

Growing Demand for Trolley Service in Morristown May Have a Novel Outcome.

RICH RESIDENTS' SCHEME.

TO PREVENT TROLLEY INVASION THEY WILL ESTABLISH AUTOMOBILES.

The Idea Meets With Popular Approval, but Still There are Many Who Still Insist That There Should be a Trolley Line.

Staid old Morristown is without social life at present, and the residents are wrestling with weighty problems concerning the commonwealth. The question of local rapid transit is now being discussed by the citizens, who have divided themselves into two factions.

One year ago the Morris County Trolley Company was organized for the purpose of building a road from the outskirts of Chatham, connecting with the North Jersey Traction Company at that point, and running through Chatham, Madison, Morristown, Morris Plains, Denville, Rockaway, Dover and thence to Lake Hopatcong. Since that time the right of way has been virtually secured for the proposed route through every place but Morristown. Cabs and stages are the only means of local transportation, and the clang of the trolley cars is a sound strange to the ears of the Morristown native. When the traction company expressed a desire to lay its tracks through the town the wealthy residents emphatically announced that they would not submit to the noisy trolley car.

Today, among the majority of citizens, the subject is meeting with favor and commendation, and the interest, instead of abating, has multiplied and and developed until all classes discuss and indorse the scheme. In fact, the trolley fever is epidemic, and those who have not been attacked by it are of the class inoculated with the virus of old fogyism, or the wealthy who do not want their comparative privacy destroyed by the influx of a great population.

The advocates of the trolley argue that it is a necessity, and that the beauty of the town will not be impaired, nor its fair name tarnished, by the admission into its limits of such a legitimate enterprise. Everywhere in the State, where promises of fair remunerative results are given, is the trolley being established, and they say that the time has arrived for Morristown to have itself incorporated in the list of up-to-date towns.

The latest outcome of the agitation is the proposed formation of a company by residents of Morristown to operate a line of automobiles for Madison through Morristown and Morris Plains. It is said that several well-known Wall street men have signified their willingness to subscribe for several thousand dollars' worth of stock in the company in order to defeat the trolley magnates. The autocars are to be in the form of stages, and not necessarily to be propelled by electricity.

Some interesting developments in this connection are proposed during the coming month.

ADMIRAL DEWEY'S VIEWS.

His Opinion Concerning the Philippine and Chinese Situations.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—A Washington dispatch to the Brooklyn Eagle says that Admiral George Dewey came to town yesterday from his country home in the suburbs of Washington.

"I regard the news from the Philippines as particularly encouraging," the admiral is quoted as saying. "Aguinaldo's lieutenants are surrendering one after another. Whatever show of resistance to our authority there is at the present time in the Philippines will be kept up until after our election in November. The insurrection is kept alive by the leaders, who hold out to the soldiers the hope of Bryan's election.

"I regard the situation in China as exceedingly grave. The difficulties that our soldiers will have to contend against are many and various. The conditions that exist there are very much the same as those in the Philippine Islands."

When asked whether in his opinion there was really a condition of war now existing between this country and China, he said:

"I should say most assuredly yes. They are killing our people, and our soldiers are fighting hard for their lives.

"The navy can be of little service in this Chinese difficulty. Our warships can, however, keep things quiet at Hongkong and Shanghai. Our naval commanders can do just as I did at Manila when Aguinaldo said he was going to take the city. I sent him word that if he did he would not find one brick upon another and that I would raze the city to the ground. This I certainly should have done if he had persisted in his purpose. The warships of the allies ought to be able to keep things straight in those cities within the reach of their guns on the coast. It is very significant the sending for Li Hung Chang by the dowager empress. In this day of dire distress it is not surprising that such government as there is at Peking should turn to the only really great man of the country. I think that the allies are doing well to keep Li Hung Chang where he is. It is better for our people to have him under their eyes than at Peking."

Boss Anarchist Interviewed.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Malatesta, the anarchist, who is considered by the Tribuna of Rome the leader of the regicide conspiracy, was interviewed in London. He is represented as having said: "Signor Sarraco (the Italian premier) is our best friend. He pays the detectives such small salaries that we can buy them cheaply. A few francs and a handful of cigarettes, and you can buy an Italian detective. The Spanish police are the cheapest, the Italians come next, and then the Russian, American, French and English in that order. The German detectives are the dearest, because they are the most stupid. With all the arrests they have not arrested any real revolutionist. We shall shortly establish in Italy economic equality and social brotherhood. Then the whole world will follow the example of Italy."

Not Obliged to Contribute.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The civil service commission, following its usual practice, has requested various heads of departments to issue an order warning against political assessments in order that employees may be fully informed of their rights in making or withholding political contributions and also warning officials against violation of the penal provisions of the law. The law provides that employees are under no obligation whatever by reason of their being in the public service to make contributions or subscriptions for political or other purposes and that they will not be molested or in any way discriminated against for failure to so subscribe or contribute. The commission announces that it is its duty to see that the provisions of the law are strictly enforced.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 10.—The grand jury has indicted five white men for murder as leaders in the mobs which during the recent antinegro riots beat and shot a number of negroes and six negroes for assisting the negro murderer Charles in resisting arrest and in firing on and killing a number of policemen. Other indictments of the leaders of the rioters are promised.

YANG-TSUN IS TAKEN

International Forces Win Another Important Victory.

CASUALTIES INCLUDE 60 AMERICANS.

Allied Army Will Reach 50,000 by Aug. 15—Demand of the United States Upon China Is Made Public.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The capture of Yang-tsun, the first objective point of the international forces, is the supreme news of importance received on the Chinese situation. The first word of this capture, effected last Monday, came in a brief dispatch dated Aug. 6 to the signal office at the war department from Colonel Scriven, the signal officer at Chefu, saying:

"Yang-tsun captured today. Wire up. Need own transportation. All well."

Half an hour after this message a cablegram came from General Chaffee, dated Aug. 6, giving additional details of the capture and showing that it had been at the cost of about 60 casualties among the American troops. General Chaffee's dispatch is as follows:

"Yang-tsun occupied today. Wounded—Second Lieutenant Frank R. Long, Ninth infantry, moderate. Casualties about 60 men, Ninth United States infantry, Fourteenth United States infantry and Battery F, Fifth United States artillery. Nearly all from the Fourteenth infantry. Names later. Many men prostrated by heat and fatigue."

Hardly less important was a dispatch from General Terauchi, second in command on the Japanese staff, sent to the war office of Japan and transmitted to the legation here, stating that the international army would total 50,000 men on Aug. 15, at which time the real advance on Peking would begin. General Terauchi's dispatch stated that on the 4th, when it was forwarded, the advance had not yet begun. This was at first incomprehensible in view of the fact that fighting had actually occurred. But the latter statement that the international force would total 50,000 men on the 15th appears to make clear General Terauchi's meaning and to reconcile it with General Chaffee's dispatches. The present movement of some 16,000 men doubtless is viewed in the light of a reconnoissance in force, the main movement of the army of 50,000 to follow on the 15th. This makes clear the meaning of General Chaffee's dispatch that Yangtsun was the objective point. The war department here has been considerably puzzled over this statement of an objective point far short of Peking. It would appear, however, from General Terauchi's dispatch that the first force of 16,000 men, having opened up communications to Yang-tsun, brought forward supplies and established this advance base, the way would then be clear for the advance of the larger force on the 15th.

The capture of Yang-tsun is therefore an important strategic branch of the fast maturing military plans. The place is about 18 miles beyond Tien-tsin and little less than a quarter of the way to Peking. Colonel Scriven's statement, "Wire up," contains much meaning, as it is accepted as showing that there is direct telegraphic communication with the army in the field. Aside from the assurance this gives of speedy transmission of news from the front it gives the additional assurance that the line of communication is intact back to the first base of operations. The capture of Yang-tsun on the day following the battle of Pietsang is regarded as a highly successful military achievement, especially in view of the fact that it was looked upon as a stronghold whose capture might give the foreigners considerable trouble.

Aside from the military developments the diplomatic aspect of the crisis is made more clear by the publication of the demand made by the United States on the imperial government of China and transmitted to Minister Wu Wednesday evening. The document is as follows:

"We are availing ourselves of the opportunity offered by the imperial edict of the 5th of August, allowing to the foreign ministers free communication with their respective governments in cipher and have sent a communication to Minister Conger, to which we await an answer.

"We are already advised by him in a brief dispatch received Aug. 7 that imperial troops are firing daily upon the ministers in Peking. We demand the immediate cessation of hostile attacks by imperial troops upon the legations and urge the exercise of every power and energy of the imperial government for the protection of the legations and all foreigners therein.

"We are also advised by the same dispatch from Minister Conger that, in his opinion, for the foreign ministers to leave Peking, as proposed in the edict of Aug. 2, would be certain death. In view of the fact that the imperial troops are now firing upon the legations and in view of the doubt expressed by the imperial government in its edict of Aug. 2 as to its power to restore order and secure absolute safety in Peking it is evident that this apprehension is well founded, for if your government cannot protect our minister in Peking it will presumptively be unable to protect him upon a journey from Peking to the coast.

"We therefore urge upon the imperial government that it shall adopt the course suggested in the third clause of the letter of the president to his majesty the emperor of China of July 23, 1900, and enter into communication with the relief expedition, so that co-operation may be secured between them for the liberation of the legations, the protection of foreigners and the restoration of order. Such action on the part of the imperial government would be a satisfactory demonstration of its friendliness and desire to attain these ends."

Minister Wu worked assiduously on the message during yesterday, translating it first from English to Chinese and then from Chinese into the cipher code of China. Owing to the gravity of the document this work required scrupulous exactness and time, but it is probable it is by this time on its way to the Chinese government. The various foreign representatives in the city showed keen interest in this latest move by the United States and called at the state department to inquire concerning it. They were furnished copies of the demand and in an informal manner expressed their approval of what had been done. This action by the United States was taken solely on its own responsibility without consulting other powers as to the advisability of the demand.

Acting Secretary Adee of the state department made public the following cablegrams from Consul Fowler, at Chefu, dated Aug. 9, which reached the department at 11 o'clock last night:

"Morning 8th. Telegraphed governor yesterday protesting against limiting correspondence with Conger and requesting governor to forward Peking. Governor telegraphs following:

"'Received note from tsung-li-yamen dated 5th. Yamen just received edict permitting ministers to have peaceful secret telegraphic communications with their countries. All ministers at Peking have telegrams for transmission to their governments. It is proposed after dispatching same to send originals to consuls for verification.'"

THE YANG-TSUN FIGHT.

Allies Lost Two Hundred, Mostly Killed—Chinese Well Intrenched.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—The commissioner of customs at Shanghai has received a routine message from Sir Robert Hart, director general of imperial customs, showing that the latter is still conducting the business of imperial customs, a rather curious condition of affairs when taken in conjunction with the words "Happily still alive" which he included in the dispatch which was dated Peking, July 27.

In the capture of Yang-tsun the losses of the allies, according to a dispatch to The Daily Express from Chefu, dated Aug. 8, purporting to give an account of that engagement, were 200, the majority of these being killed.

"The allies marched on Yang-tsun," says this report, "at dawn Monday. The position held by 1,500 Chinese was well intrenched to the east of the river. After four hours' heavy fighting the Chinese were driven from their defense works."

Another dispatch to the same paper, dated Tien-tsin, Aug. 6, recounts a reconnoissance that morning by the Japanese beyond Hsiku, the result being that the enemy was developed in strong force, well fortified, at Wei-ho. The Chinese were superior in numbers, and after facing the fire of seven guns the Japanese retired on Hsiku with 3 killed and 27 wounded, but having captured 200 horses.

With the exception of these messages General Chaffee's report is the only account publishd by the London morning papers telling of the capture of Yangtsun.

The editorials generally incline to view the progress toward Peking as thus far splendid, but one which cannot be maintained at the present rapid rate, as the concentration of supplies and the establishment of bases will cause inevitable delays.

Commenting upon Washington's latest communication to the Chinese government, The Daily Chronicle describes it as "idyllic diplomacy," and it declares the Chinese attempts to get the ministers to leave Peking, as described by M. Pichon, have convinced everybody except the Washington officials that a steady application of force is the only argument Peking can understand.

State of the Legations.

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—The government has received another telegram from Herr Below, first secretary of the German legation in Peking, which is not dated, but says: "The French legation building, although half destroyed by the Boxers, not only affords shelter to the members of the French legation, who are all in good health, but also to the members of the Austrian legation, who sought refuge there after the complete destruction of their own building. The French legation building is surrounded by Boxers." Herr Below does not mention the Belgians, but it is supposed that, as they took shelter in the Austrian legation, they are now in the French.

Coggeshall Out at Last.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 10.—The Oneida county Republican convention was held yesterday in Rome. Thomas Wheeler was chairman. The interest centered in the nomination of a candidate for the state senate. Henry J. Coggeshall, who has represented this district in the upper branch of the legislature for 16 years, announced himself a candidate for reelection recently despite the determination of the Republican leaders that he should step aside. At the convention, however, Senator Coggeshall formally withdrew and presented the name of Colonel Cary Sanger of Sangerfield, at present absent in Europe on a mission for the government, for the nomination. The contest dwindled down to Colonel Sanger and Garry A. Willard, editor of the Boonville Herald, and the latter won with 50 votes to Sanger's 48.

King Leopold Doomed.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 10.—A swarm of anarchists are here, and King Leopold is doomed. The following notice was posted on the door of the king's palace and on all public buildings: "In 1896 785 workmen were condemned to 1,269 years' imprisonment, and 700 workmen were assassinated in the streets of Milan. The starving workers and our murdered brothers in Italy have been avenged by Bresci. Vive Bresci! Vive l'anarchie! Mort a la bourgeoise." Americans are suspected. Members of the anarchist group of Paterson, N. J., have been traced to Antwerp.

Killed by the Heat.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—Three deaths and 20 prostrations occurred in this city yesterday from heat. The maximum temperature was reached at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when 94 2-10 degrees were registered on the government thermometer on top of the postoffice building. In the streets, however, it was much hotter, and thermometers placed in the sun registered as high as 120 degrees.

More Time Refused Canal Company.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Aug. 10.—The representatives of the Interoceanic Canal company have been unsuccessful in their efforts to get an extension of time for depositing with the government of Nicaragua $400,000 in gold and beginning the construction of a railroad and canal across the country.

Will Disfranchise More Negroes.

CHATTANOOGA, Aug. 10.—Returns from the Alabama elections show that the Populists and Republicans combined have chosen only ten members of the legislature against 24 at the last election The outcome of the election will be a constitutional convention to disfranchise the ignorant negroes.

Rabiner Slowly Dying.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Joseph Rabiner, who shot and killed his brother-in-law, Isaac Stein, at Rockaway and then shot, but not seriously, his father and then turned the revolver against himself, is slowly dying in St. John's hospital in Long Island City.

ITALY'S KING AT REST

Humbert's Funeral Conducted With Great Pomp In Rome.

THE CITY IN DEEPEST MOURNING.

Immense Crowds Filled the Streets Along Which the Procession Passed, and Flowers Were Cast Upon the Casket.

ROME, Aug. 10.—With as much simplicity as the last rites to a king would permit the remains of the late King Humbert of Italy received their last honors and tributes from his loving country yesterday. The casket containing his body, borne on a gun carriage, preceded by his general aid-de-camp carrying his sword, followed by his favorite war horse and surrounded by those who were closest to him in the councils of state, was deposited after an imposing ceremony in the Pantheon. The city was a mass of somber decoration, giving Rome the appearance of being weighted down by deep grief and sorrow.

The funeral train arrived here at 6:30 a. m. Immediately after that hour the funeral procession began to form.

The procession marched in perfect order and at a slow pace. King Victor Emmanuel, who was on foot, bore himself with dignity and carried his head high.

No less than 650 senators and deputies took part in the procession, many Radicals and Republicans being among the number.

During the march flowers were thrown from the windows on the passing casket. The whole portico of the Pantheon, where the procession arrived at 9:15 a. m., formed a veritable flower bed of wreaths and flowers. The exterior decorations, however, were extremely simple.

When the casket reached the Pantheon, ten noncommissioned officers of cuirassiers lifted it from the gun carriage and carried it into the church, where it was received by Mgr. the Count of Reggio, archbishop of Genoa, in his pontifical robes, surrounded by the cathedral functionaries. The casket was then raised to the top of a catafalque surmounted by the iron crown, and on it was placed the helmet and sword of King Humbert.

At that moment so touching was the beautiful scene that the emotion of those present was plainly audible within the stilled church. Tears dimmed many eyes, and sobs could be heard throughout the hall.

There was the usual funeral liturgy, which was chanted, and then absolution was again bestowed. As the archbishop, assisted by all the clergy, blessed the body he bowed and inclined as he passed before the king and queen.

During the celebration of mass the Roman orchestra, assisted by a choir of 180 voices under Mascagni, rendered a selection from the old Italian masters. The effect was beautiful, and the execution was perfect.

It is almost literally true that Rome did not sleep Wednesday. People from the provinces poured into the capital to witness the ceremony until the sidewalks were crowded so that circulation was practically impossible.

It was a weird sight, for, in addition to the funeral decorations, the electric lights and other illuminating apparatus covered with black bunting gave everything a peculiarly somber hue.

At dawn the people began to seek various points of vantage in order to witness the cortege, while an immense crowd gathered in the plaza before the railway station, where a genuine crush occurred, it being estimated that no fewer than 100,000 persons assembled there.

During the ceremony all business was suspended. The cortege was an imposing sight. It was six kilometers long, and as the procession solemnly moved along the avenues that were hung with deepest mourning between the station and the Pantheon the spectacle was one never to be forgotten.

A crush in the Via de Serpenti was caused by the shying of an Alpine officer's horse, frightened by the fall of a chair from a balcony. The crowd fled in all directions, but as soon as the cause of the panic was known calm was restored and the cortege proceeded.

A categorical denial is given to the report that the crush was caused by a protest against the municipal flag. The crushes elsewhere were also caused by unimportant incidents.

During the afternoon the Pantheon was opened to the public, but the crowd was so great that the gates had to be closed in order to prevent accidents.

The "iron crown" which was carried behind the casket is the celebrated "iron crown of Lombardy," constructed of iron and gold for the king of the Lombards in 591. This is the crown which Napoleon Bonaparte first joined to that of France at Milan in 1805. It was used at the coronation of Charlemagne.

Chicago Sweltering.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Hot weather records for this city were broken yesterday and will be broken again today and again tomorrow and probably for several days after that. The local forecaster will not hazard a guess after the next three days, all of which he says will be of the same torrid nature as the last six days. For 25 years or since the weather bureau was established there has been but one term of hot weather in which the mercury reached 90 for five consecutive days. The average maximum temperature for those five days was 92. There have now been six days on which the tempature has gone above 90, and the average maximum for the six days has been 93.5. Yesterday was the hottest of the present heated spell, the mercury reaching 95 in the Auditorium tower at 3 o'clock. At the street level, where brick walls and sidewalks were given a chance to radiate, it was 2 degrees warmer than in the tower. Many prostrations were reported.

Candidates In Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—W. J. Bryan, his wife and son, the Stevenson party, Governor and Mrs. Thomas of Colorado and Colonel Martin, sergeant-at-arms of the national committee, arrived over the Big Four in this city at 4:30 p. m. yesterday. Mr. Bryan and party were driven to the Auditorium, where Mr. Bryan will remain for several days for the purpose of consulting with Chairman Jones and members of the national committee regarding the conduct of the campaign. When Mr. Bryan leaves here, he will go to his home in Lincoln, where he will remain during the balance of the month. Mr. Stevenson will proceed to Lake Minnetonka with his family, where he will remain for some weeks.

CROPS IN NEW JERSEY.

Generally Speaking They Are in Good Condition, But Need Rain.

In commenting upon the weather and crop conditions in the State, the weekly bulletin issued yesterday by the State Experiment Station, at New Brunswick, says:

During the past week the temperature and precipitation have been below the average, very cool nights prevailing. The rain of Monday, July 30th, was well distributed and sufficient for crop needs, except in a portion of Cape May, Cumberland and Gloucester counties, where it was light and insufficient.

Garden truck, field corn, melons and pasture lands have suffered serious injury from the long absence of rain.

In remaining portions all crops are in a very promising condition; corn has obtained a good growth and is earing well; orchard fruit, except apples, which are still dropping, are in fine maturing condition, and grapes are very promising.

The oat harvest has been completed in the northern section and fall plowing has begun. The cranberry growers in Ocean county report that "the berries are in good condition, and the outlook is favorable for a large yield."

A general, soaking rain would now be of incalcuable benefit to meadows, pastures and orchard fruit.

—The work of placing an electric light conduit in East Second street, between Park avenue and Watchung avenue, is progressing favorably.

—The fire alarm boxes ordered by the Common Council have been erected by Manager Runyon, of the telephone company, who has charge of the system in Plainfield.

Astounded The Editor

Editor S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., was once immensely surprised. "Through long suffering from Dyspepsia," he writes, "my wife was greatly run down. She had no strength or vigor and suffered great distress from her stomach, but she tried Electric Bitters which helped her at once, and after using four bottles, she is entirely well, can eat anything. It's a grand tonic, and its gentle laxative qualities are splendid for torpid liver." For Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Stomach and Liver Troubles it's a positive, guaranteed cure. Only 50c at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

—We guarantee Brazilian Balm to cure hay fever.

—Another popular lie nailed. Hay fever can be cured. Brazilian Balm cures it every time.

GRATEFUL CUBANS.

The Teachers Not Unmindful of the Favors Received.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 10.—The Cuban teachers as a body who have been trying to devise some suitable means of expressing their thanks to Harvard and to all people who have helped them have adopted plans. A loving cup to be presented to the university and the national concert which will be given next Thursday evening will partly serve the purpose. Yesterday, however, neatly printed cards were handed about by the Cubans to the guides, instructors and all other Americans in Cambridge who have been friendly to them in any way bearing the following words:

"The Cuban teachers who, through the efforts of Mr. Frye, have been enabled to attend the course of instruction in the Harvard summer school cannot find words to express their gratitude toward the American people and in particular toward all the officers of the university.

"They also thank the commercial establishments in general for the kind way in which they have been treated.

"Hurrah for the American people!
"Hurrah for Harvard university!
"Hurrah for the American government!
"Hurrah for Mr. Frye, President Eliot, the professors of geography and the instructors of English!

"The people of Cuba will never forget them."

A Miraculous Cure.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 10.—A sensation has been created at the shrine of Our Lady of Victory on the lawn of Sacred Heart convent in this city by the miraculous and sudden cure of Mrs. James McCormick, wife of Captain McCormick of the lake tug Seymour of the Ogdensburg Coal and Towing company's fleet. For over a year she had been an invalid, suffering severest pain from acute rheumatism. Believing she would be benefited by worshiping at the shrine, she was wheeled there in her chair, and, pushing up close to the foot of the statue, began reciting the litany. Suddenly, with a cry of joy, she arose from her chair, going among the worshipers and walking to her home some distance away, leaving her chair behind. Hundreds are calling at her home to learn of her cure, and she is kept walking about for their benefit. This is the first cure publicly witnessed at this shrine, which was erected a few weeks ago.

Populists Confer.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—The Populist national executive committee held two sessions here yesterday, but contrary to expectations Senator Marion Butler of North Carolina, the chairman of the national committee, was not present, and no one seemed to know whether he would come to Chicago for the meeting. Harry Tracey of Texas was the only other member of the committee who was not present. The committee discussed informally the withdrawal of Charles A. Towne, Populist candidate for vice president, but the members did not fix upon a date for the calling together of the entire national committee. The executive committee has no power to fill the vacancy. This must be done by the national committee, and it is apparently expected that it will meet before long and select Adlai E. Stevenson as the Populist candidate for vice president.

Yellow Fever Case In Port.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Health Officer Doty has given out a report concerning a patient at the Swinburne Island hospital. The patient was Miquel Paterno, aged 30 years, who was removed from the Spanish steamer Montserrat, which arrived on the night of Aug. 1. The Montserrat is a Spanish steamer which came from Havana with passengers in transit for Spain. On the morning after the steamer's arrival Dr. Doty decided to remove Paterno, who had a high fever, to Swinburne island. The case was baffling from the start, and only constant observation decided the character of the disease, which proved to be yellow fever of mild type. The patient is doing well.

Baldwin Held For Killing Miller.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Victor Baldwin, the young man who killed his opponent, Ralph Miller, in a boxing match in a barn at Richmond Hill, on Long Island, Wednesday night, was arraigned before Magistrate Connorton at Far Rockaway on a charge of homicide. He was held without bail at the request of District Attorney Merrill, who said that he wished to make an investigation. Examination was adjourned until Monday. Four young men who were arrested as aids and abettors of the fight were also arraigned and held in $1,000 as witnesses.

MURDER PLOT FAILS.

Killing of British Officers Was the Scheme.

TEN RINGLEADERS ARE IN PRISON.

Lord Roberts Reports That De Wet Has Crossed the Vaal—Severe Loss Inflicted In a Rear Guard Engagement.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—The Daily News has the following dispatch from Pretoria, dated Aug. 9:

"A plot to shoot all the British officers and to make Lord Roberts a prisoner has been opportunely discovered. Ten of the ringleaders were arrested and are now in jail.

"Probably the plot was part of a conspiracy of which the attempted rising at Johannesburg was the first indication."

Sir Redvers Buller reports the death from wounds of Captain Welby of the Eighteenth hussars, well known for his explorations in China and Tibet. Last year he explored parts of Abyssinia.

The following report, dated Pretoria, Aug. 8, has been received from Lord Roberts:

"Kitchener was informed yesterday by an escaped British prisoner that De Wet's wagons had crossed the Vaal. Afterward I heard the sound of guns, which I think must have been Methuen's, as I directed him to take up a position between Potchefstroom and Lindique, where he could intercept the enemy, who crossed the river at De Wet's drift. Kitchener is crossing the Vaal with cavalry and mounted infantry.

"Hunter reports that he made 4,140 prisoners in the Bethlehem-Harrismith district, a majority of whom are now en route for Cape Town. Three guns and 4,000 horses were captured and ten wagon loads of ammunition and 19,000 rounds of ammunition were destroyed.

"The garrison of Eland's river, which, I fear, has been captured, consisted of about 300 bushmen and Rhodesians. I had hoped that Carrington had been in time to withdraw the garrison, but it seems that Delarey, learning of Ian Hamilton's approach to Rustenburg, hurried westward and surrounded the garrison before Carrington arrived.

"Methuen telegraphs that he engaged a part of De Wet's force yesterday near Benterskroon. He drove the enemy off a succession of hills, which they held obstinately. Our casualties were seven men killed or wounded, including four officers."

Republican Leaders In Boston.

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—Chairman Mark Hanna and Treasurer Cornelius N. Bliss of the Republican national committee were in Boston yesterday for the purpose of conferring with party leaders in this state regarding the conduct of the approaching presidential campaign. One of their earliest visitors was Hon. George Von L. Moyer, the Massachusetts member of the national committee, and shortly before 1 o'clock the party was driven from the Touraine to the Exchange club, where prominent men in Republican political circles lunched and discussed matters of deep concern to the party. Among those in attendance were Senators Hoar and Lodge, Chairman A. H. Geotting of the state committee, Dana Malone of Greenfield, James P. Stearns, president of the National bank, the largest bank in Boston; Frank G. Webster of Kidder, Peabody & Co.; M. J. Whitall of Worcester, Congressman William C. Lovering of Taunton, Hon. Charles G. Washburn of Worcester and Hon. William D. Plunkett of Adams. The conference between Senator Hanna and the Republican leaders lasted nearly three hours.

Caught at Last.

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—The handsome, stylish young woman who has been eagerly sought for by hotel keepers, liverymen and tradesmen whom she has victimized in one way or another during the past week or two was taken into custody at the south terminal station last night. Although passing under the aliases of "Fanny Livingston of New York" and "Madril E. Richards of Richmond," she admits that her real name is Fanny McPherson of Worcester, Mass. When locked up, she said she wanted to plead guilty to the charges against her and be sentenced as quickly as possible, as the sooner this was done the sooner she would be at liberty again.

Steamer Wrecked; Crew Safe.

CAPE HENRY, Va., Aug. 10.—The weather bureau official, Doshet, Hatteras, reports that the remainder of the crew, 24 men, of the stranded British steamship Palestro were safely landed at Cape Hatteras by the life savers from the Creeds Hill and Cape Hatteras stations, and the entire crew of 30 men are now being cared for by Captain Etheridge of the Cape Hatteras station. The ship lies about 12 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras lighthouse on the outer diamond, and her position and condition are such that nothing can be done toward saving either the ship or cargo, and both will prove a total loss.

Powers Trial Drawing to a Close.

GEORGETOWN, Ky., Aug. 10.—It is believed the defense will complete today its testimony on behalf of former Secretary of State Caleb Powers, charged with complicity in the Goebel shooting. Colonel Campbell of the prosecution states that his side will consume only one day in hearing rebuttal proof. There will be four speeches on each side when the evidence is finished. Whether the trial of Henry Youtsey, another alleged conspirator, will be taken up following the Powers trial or will be laid over has not yet been decided.

Sale of the Harper Plant.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The Harper & Bros.' buildings at 325 to 337 Pearl street and 82 to 90 Cliff street and 79, 81 and 83 Cliff street, together with all printing presses and other apparatus on the premises and with all rights to publish the Harper periodicals, were sold at the New York Real Estate Exchange yesterday. Alexander E. Orr, ex-president of the New York Chamber of Commerce, was the purchaser at $1,100,000. The transfer was formal and made in order to get the business out of receiver's hands.

Secretary Long In Maine.

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—Secretary of the Navy John D. Long and family have gone to Buckfield, Me., where they will pass three weeks at Secretary Long's farm in the village, which is his native place. Secretary Long will take part Saturday in the Old Home week exercises.

READERS of The Press, anticipating leaving Plainfield for a summer vacation, should send their address to the business office. The Press will be forwarded without extra charge.

A statement issued by the Postoffice Department shows that the total number of postage stamps, stamped envelopes, etc., issued during 1900 was 5,283,687,010, valued at $96,687,771, against 4,917,269,025 pieces for 1899, valued at $90,151,659. The increase was 366,417,985 pieces, valued at $5,536,111, the increase in pieces being 7.45 per cent. and in value 8.36 per cent. Since 1895 the increase in pieces being 7.45 per cent. and in value 8.36 per cent. Since 1895 the increase in the number of pieces issued was 1,368,851,223 and in value $23,650,271, of 34.94 per cent. and 31.94 per cent., respectively, showing the vast increase in the postal business since 1895.

According to the New York Tribune, the outlook for one of the greatest Republican ratification meetings ever known in New Jersey, which it is proposed to hold in Asbury Park near the close of this month, was reported in Newark yesterday to be all that could be desired. Dr. Leisle D. Ward is the inspiring head of the movement, and it is noteworthy that success has generally attended whatever he has undertaken. It is expected that President McKinley, Governor Roosevelt and Senator Hanna will be among the guests at the meeting.

There are business establishments which cut down their advertising in dull seasons, says the Philadelphia Record. Others follow the course of a successful merchant, who says: "When trade falls below its normal activity I either increase my advertising or else enliven it with special offers. In dull times, as in busy, there is patronage to be gained by advertising, and I want it most when business is slack. A small gain then is as grateful as a larger one when trade is brisk."

An informal conference of Hudson county Democrats has been held with a view to selecting a successor to Congressman William D. Daly. No decision was reached, but the availability of several aspirants was discussed. Among the names presented were James J. Murphy, Henry Puster, George T. Werts, Edward Hoos, Robert S. Hudspeth and Allan L. McDermott, of Jersey City; Leon Abbett, James F. Minturn, Alexander C. Young and Elijah T. Paxton, of Hudson.

Many of the leading Democrats of Paterson have been at Senator Braun during the last two weeks trying to induce him to accept the nomination for Senator again, but he refuses to listen to their pleadings. The Senator has said time and again that he will not stand, and he means it. Those close to him say that the next nomination he accepts will be for Governor of New Jersey.

The friends of Former Sheriff David Baird, the wealthy spar dealer of Camden, and the acknowledged Republican leader of Camden county, are urging that gentleman to allow the use of his name as a candidate for elector-at-large for McKinley and Roosevelt before the Republican State Convention to be held at Trenton, Sept. 6.

Former Mayor Charles Place, of North Plainfield, has issued the call for the Congressional convention of the Third district, composed of Somerset, Middlesex and Monmouth counties. The convention will be held at New Brunswick, September 5th. It is certain that Congressman Howell will be renominated.

It is said to be probable that Congressman Dolliver, of Iowa, will be the principal speaker at the State convention, which is to name the Republican electoral ticket.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The Republican convention to nominate a candidate for Congress in the Third district has been called to meet in New Brunswick September 5th. Mr. Howell, the present member, will be renominated. The Democrats have not yet found a candidate, although James Deshler, of New Brunswick, J. A. Geissenhaimer, of Freehold, and former Senator Terhune, of Matawan, are talked of.—"Trenton" in New York Herald.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

A couple of enterprising young boys attracted considerable attention on Tier's lake the other day by a sail boat which they had rigged up in an ingenious way. The boat skimmed through the water with considerable speed and grace when there was a brisk breeze and the youthful sailors seemed highly elated over the success of their craft. One gentleman who witnessed the incident said that he lived in Plainfield fifty years and it was the first time that he had ever seen a sail boat in operation in the city.

. . . . .

The First Presbyterian church of Elizabeth is not only one of the oldest Presbyterian church organizations in the United States, and the site of many sanguinary conflicts of the revolutionary war, but, according to many, it also marks the first site of Princeton University. This latter point, however, for some time has been in dispute, and is the subject of much feeling and many pamphlets.

The Colonial Dames of Elizabeth recently unveiled a bronze tablet, on the outer wall of the church, which reads:

"This tablet marks the first site of Princeton University. Incorporated October 22, 1745. Erected by the Elizabeth members of the New Jersey Society of Colonial Dames of America. October 22, 1897."

This has led to a bitter controversy between the Dames and the church on one side and the many descendants of the Rev. Jonathan Dickinson on the other.

By the latter it is claimed that Dickinson, who was the first regular pastor of the First Presbyterian church, founded the university and opened his academy, as he called it, in Pearl street near Grove street, where a saloon now flourishes. They also claim that the Colonial Dames would not put the tablet upon a saloon, but stuck it to the walls of the church that had been the old academy's foster mother.

The descendants of the Rev. Jonathan Dickinson have issued many pamphlets, setting forth their facts and the Dames have replied through the columns of the local papers.

An Afternoon Off at Dewey Park.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Seeing a notice in your paper of a band concert at Dewey Park I decided to attend and was delighted to see so finely located a grove within 20 minutes' ride by trolley from our city. The surroundings give promise of future success, especially under the guiding hand of one of our most enterprising citizens, Silas D. Drake. The music was rendered by the Drake Zouave Band, of Elizabeth. Their selections were fine and rendered in an artistic style, which was highly appreciated by the large number of visitors. We understand that on Labor Day there is to be another free concert, only on a larger scale, and anyone visiting the park on that day will no doubt have a pleasant outing in a very agreeable manner. Now, if the born genius who conceived this new park enterprise, wanted to go on further and find a location for a lake, (not of fire and brimstone, as some of our ancient theologians would have us believe), but of water, where we might sail our small craft, all of which can be done in the environments of Plainfield, the man or men who would bring such an ideal to pass, would be held in everlasting remembranse until —"There should be no more sea."

Dear Sirs:—Some days since a package of your GRAIN-O preparation was left at my office. I took it home and gave it a trial, and I have to say I was very much pleased with it, as a substitute for coffee. We have always used the best Java and Mocha in our family, but I am free to say I like the GRAIN-O as well as the best coffee I ever drank. Respectfully yours,

Dunellen, August 10.—During the progress of Wednesday's thunderstorm a bolt of lightning struck the upper part of the residence of Benjamin Harris, on the Bound Brook road, near Lincoln. KNOWS RESTAURANT FOLK.

This Is Why the Man About Town Lives on the Fat of the Land.

"I know a dear old boy," said a man about town, relates the New Orleans Times-Democrat, "who for the last 26 years or more has eaten at restaurants of—well, say, the upper middle class—I mean the best grade under the swells. Naturally he has picked up a lot of crafty tricks and it is very amusing to take a meal in his company. The last time I did so he studied the bill for a moment and then said suddenly: 'Waiter, what kind of fish was it that you ran out of last night?' 'Tenderloin of trout,' replied the garcon, looking surprised. 'Then bring me some,' said my friend. 'It's certain to be fresh,' he explained in an undertone. 'Fish that are left over are always worked off first.'

"On another occasion he was ordering a beefsteak and was very particular to tell the waiter to bring him some 'half-Julienne' potatoes. 'Half Julienne,' if you are not up in restaurant lingo, means a sliced potato of a size between 'Julienne' and 'French fried.' 'You see, the half cut is very seldom ordered,' he said, when I asked for particulars, 'and the cook will be obliged to prepare my portion fresh. The other sizes, on the contrary, are called for so frequently that they make up a lot in advance and merely warm them over before sending them out. I am not especially partial to half Julienne, but I don't like my potatoes half cold.' Of course, the restaurants have tricks of their own, but it is hard to fool the old boy.

"I was with him another time when he ordered some soft-shelled crabs, and insisted upon seeing that they were alive before they were cooked. The waiter brought in two fine fellows, wriggling in moss, on a plate. While his attention was momentarily diverted my companion pinched off one of the claws and put it under his napkin. When the crabs were served no member was missing. 'Waiter,' said the old boy, 'here's a crab that has grown a new leg since I saw him last. I'm afraid he's too vigorous to be tender. Tell the chef to guess again.' Next time we got the right pair."

Chinese on the Warpath.

The Chinese art of war does not include the moving of troops, and 6,000 men will be purposely spread out over a line of march 150 miles long. Even these detachments, when on the march, dribble along the road in a manner that is utterly incredible. There is no column, only a string of stragglers and coolies to be seen, except a body of men carrying flags and a score or two at most of men armed with rifles, whose special duty it is to escort the officer commanding the battalion. The "soldiers" stroll or hurry along according to the taste of the individual. The men, singly or in small parties, twos and three, carry baskets, buckets, bundles and tents slung on poles, muskets or magazine rifles with impartiality, while tent poles, huge shallow cooking pans, mattresses, spades, picks, teapots, stools, paper lanterns form part of the baggage, besides umbrellas, of which each man possesses one, if not two. Some stagger under wheelbarrows, some are seated on donkeys, with the peasants carrying the rifles or muskets. Most on foot, of course, many barefooted, some footsore, and the footgear itself includes sandals (straw), shoes, and boots.—Golden Penny.

Riley's Remorse.

Mrs. Riley—Yis; before me b'y Danny wor taken sick Riley missed his collarbutton an' kicked him fer shtalin' it.

"Hivin ferbid! no. Whin Riley took aff his shirt noine weeks afther the b'y's dith the collar-button rolled out on the floor, an' the thing's prayin' on his moind."—Judge.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Provinz Westfalen.

Holsterhausen. Unter den in China gefallenen Soldaten befindet sich ein Sohn des auf der Zeche „Von der Heydt" beschäftigten Fördermaschinisten Grafe. Der Gefallene diente als Matrose auf der „Hertha" und befand sich bei dem Seymour'schen Detachment.

Soest. Für die Anlage eines städtischen Parkes hat Studiendirektor Nottebohm, welcher im vorigen Jahre schon zum gleichen Zweck 20,000 Mark geschenkt hatte, jetzt der Gemeinde wiederum 10,000 Mark zur Verfügung gestellt.

Sachsen.

Dresden. In manchen Zweigen der sächsischen Großindustrie herrscht gegenwärtig ein empfindlicher Mangel an Aufträgen. So ist in der sächsischen Möbelindustrie die Beschäftigung gegen das Vorjahr um etwa 25 Prozent zurückgegangen; auch die sächsischen Sägewerke sind sehr schlecht beschäftigt, da die Bauthätigkeit in Sachsen in diesem Sommer eine geringe ist. Eine Lugauer Kammgarnspinnerei hat sich dieser Tage wegen Mangel an Aufträgen genöthigt gesehen, 60 Leuten zu kündigen; in einer großen sächsischen Teppichfabrik, die 1500 Arbeiter beschäftigt, wurde aus demselben Grunde die tägliche Arbeitszeit um drei Stunden verkürzt. Die letztere Fabrik führt die augenblickliche Geschäftslage auf die politischen Wirren in China zurück.—Der am 1. bis 20. August hier zusammentretende Sächsische Grenadiertag wird einen glänzenden Verlauf nehmen, da der Gedanke eines militärischen Rendezvous in allen Grenadierkreisen begeisterte Aufnahme gefunden hat. Der älteste aller Grenadiere, der 86jährige Feldwebel a. D. Friedrich Schurig, wird bei dem Feste erscheinen.

Chemnitz. Die Stadtverordneten bewilligten 210,000 Mark für eine Fleischzersetzungsanstalt. Weiter wurden circa 200,000 Mark für Erweiterung des Kabelnetzes eingestellt.

Döbeln. Die Erben des durch Verunglückung verstorbenen Dr. Vogel'schen Ehepaars haben dem hiesigen Stadtrath ein Kapital von 4000 Mark zu einer „Elise Vogel-Stiftung" übergeben, deren Zinsen für die Volksküche zur Aufbesserung der Leistungen derselben Verwendung finden sollen.

Grimma. Die Strafkammer verurtheilte den städtischen Rathsbeamten Thierschmann wegen fortgesetzter Unterschlagungen städtischer Gelder in 86 Fällen zu drei Jahren Gefängniß und fünfjährigem Ehrverlust.

Leipzig. Der Ziegelarbeiter Dreßler gestand dem Untersuchungsrichter, am 29. Juni bei Borna den Raubmord an dem Brauer Haase verübt zu haben.

Zittau. In einem Anfall von Geistesstörung sprang die Postassistentswittwe Frau Menzel mit drei Kindern im Alter von vier bis sieben Jahren in die Neisse und ertrank. Die zwei ältesten Kinder blieben in der Wohnung zurück.

Thüringische Staaten.

Altenburg. Beim Kiesfahren wurde der Fuhrwerksbesitzer Heinig dadurch tödtlich verletzt, daß ihm durch Ausschlagen seines Pferdes die Schädeldecke zertrümmert wurde.

Koburg. Herzog Alfred von Sachsen-Koburg-Gotha ist im Alter von nahezu 56 Jahren einer Herzlähmung erlegen. Während der Minderjährigkeit des Thronfolgers, Herzog Leopold Carl Eduard von Albany, wird dessen Vormund, der Erbprinz von Hohenlohe-Langenburg, Graf v. Gleichen, die Regierung über das Herzogthum führen.

Meiningen. Herzog Georg der Zweite von Sachsen-Meiningen hat an die nach China gefahrenen Freiwilligen vom 2. Thüringischen Infanterie-Regiment Nr. 32 und 6. Thüringischen Infanterie-Regiment Nr. 95 aus seiner Privatschatulle ein Taschengeld auszahlen lassen, und zwar jedem Unteroffizier 100 Mark und jedem Musketier 50 Mark.

Rudolstadt. Ein 13jähriger Mörder, der Schüler Möller aus Katzhütte, ist in das hiesige Landgerichtsgefängniß eingeliefert worden. Er hatte einen Altersgenossen in den Wald gelockt, um ihm ein paar Groschen abzunehmen. THE REASON WHY RIPANS TABULES CURE NERVOUSNESS

DOCTOR. The maladies which above all others cause nervousness are dyspepsia, biliousness and constipation The great sympathetic nerve which connects the epigastric region with the brain is always injuriously affected if the stomach and bowels are disordered; a permanent disarrangement of the functions of those organs reacts by sympathy upon the entire nervous system. Ripans Tabules in restoring tone and regularity to the digestive apparatus, and overcoming constipation, permanently remedy the nervous complaints which originate in alimentary weakness or disturbances. They are the very best nervine that can be used. By eradicating the exciting cause of nervous weakness they permanently overcome the disability itself. But this is not all. By checking the maladies which cause nervousness they build up anew the system weakened and depleted by nervous disease.

A MOUNTAINEER'S RELIGION.

He Went to Church and Suddenly Discovered That He Was an "Episcopal."

Last summer Rt. Rev. Thomas U. Dudley, Episcopal bishop of Kentucky, thought he would make a journey through the mountains of eastern Kentucky and look up the scattered members of his flock and endeavor to get a foothold for his church among the mountaineers, says the New York Post. But as he journeyed from settlement to settlement without meeting a man who had ever even heard of the Episcopal church he grew somewhat discouraged. At last he came to a village where, upon inquiry, he was told that there was "an Episcopal" in the neighborhood, and so the good bishop proceeded to look him up. After introducing himself and disclosing the object of his visit, Bishop Dudley asked the mountaineer if it were a fact that he was an Episcopalian.

"Oh, yes," replied he. "I'm an Episcopal."

"Where were you confirmed?" inquired the bishop. The poor man had never even heard the word. "Where, then, were you baptized?"

"I know all about that," replied he, "though precious few folks baptized in these parts, but I don't know whether I was ever baptized or not."

"Then why do you call yourself an Episcopalian?" continued the bishop.

"Well, now, stranger, I'll tell ye," said he. "Some five or six years ago I was summoned down to Louisville as a witness in one of these 'moonshine' cases, you know. Well, we was kep' over Sunday, and after breakfast, as I knowed nobody thar and nobody knowed me, I tuk a walk down the street, from my lodgin's, and directly I saw everybody goin' into a great big fine church, and sez I to myself, I'll go too. So I went in and sat down, and in a little while the bell it stopped a-jingling; thar was some kind of big music rolled around, and then it stopped, too, and a feller in a long white gown he got up at the other end of the room from me and said something or other I couldn't hear, and then every man, woman and child in that room got down on their knees and sez they: 'Oh, Lord, we've dun the things we ortn't to ha' dun, and we ain't dun the things we orter to ha' dun,' and sez I myself, that's me. I'm one of them very kind of fellers, and when we all cum out I asked a feller what kind of a church that thar wuz, and sed he: 'It's an Episcopal church,' and so, stranger, I've called myself an Episcopal ever since that trip to Louisville."

Breeding Belgian Hares as a Sportsman's Pastime

It Is Growing to Wonderful Proportions in This Country—Its Industrial Possibilities

THAT the breeding of Belgian hares has become one of the most widely-discussed pastimes for American sportsmen cannot be denied. There is a species of true fascination about the "craze," as many of the critics call it, that is most contagious. All over the country there is a demand for information about the little animal. How to produce something superior to the parent stock seems to be the central idea of thousands who have invested money in the venture. Although the breeders confidently expect that some day the Belgian hare will be generally used by peope of the United States for food, the great majority of those who breed the bunnies now are in the business for the pure love of it. They are amateurs, but they are guided by the idea that none should breed these hares who is not actuated by the desire to produce pedigreed stock. While large sums have been paid for choice animals, they are mere trifles compared to the total expenditure of the many experimenters in breeding.

English breeders have adopted a standard by which the superiority of the Belgian hare might be established. This was absolutely necessary, for the many breeders the world over naturally desired to exhibit at pet stock shows and blue ribbons and medals could not be awarded on haphazard judging. The latest table of standards for the hare generally accepted shows the following allotment of points;

Disqualifications.—1. Lopped or fallen ears. 2. White front feet or white bar or bars on same. 3. Decidedly wry front feet. 4. Wry tail. A specimen should have the benefit of any doubt.
Color.—Rich rufus red (not dark, smudgy color), carried well down sides and hindquarters, and as little white under jaws as possible	20
Ticking.—Rather wavy appearance and plentiful	15
Shape.—Body long, thin, well-tucked-up flank, and well-ribbed-up; back slightly arched; loins well-rounded, not choppy; head rather lengthy; muscular chest; tail straight, not screwed, and altogether of a racy appearance	20
Eyes.—Hazel color, large, round, bright well-laced on tips, and as far down outside edges as possible; good color inside and outside, and well set on	10
Size.—About eight pounds	5
Eyes. Hazel color, large, round, bright and bold	10
Legs and Feet.—Forefeet and legs long, straight, slender, well-colored, and free from white bars, hind feet as well colored as possible	10
Condition.—Not fat, but flesh firm, like a race horse, and good quality of fur	5
Without dewlap	5
Total	100

It has become the custom among breeders in the United States to have the prize animals judged by competent men, and the defects of the animals judged are placed in a separate column. This is strictness with a vengeance, but the theory is that no animal can be absolutely perfect. For instance, if the hare should be a trifle off in color, about 1½ points would be deducted from the total of 20 allowed for perfect color. A grand total of 94 points, say, would then indicate an exceptionally fine hare.

Another reason why the development of the comparatively new sport will continue is its "availability." Anybody in a big city may have a rabbitry, who can spare an area of 10 by 15 feet. No one should attempt the construction and maintenance of a rabbitry, however, without seeking counsel from an expert, unless he has money to throw away.

The possibilities of this utilitarian sport of breeding Belgian hares—it cannot be called a fad, for it has come to stay—are unlimited. Some enthusiastic officials of the national organization formed to protect breeders of the hares and the purchasers of animals with carefully registered pedigrees, go so far as to say that in time the Belgian hare market will be as necessary a feature of the internal economy of this country as the beef market. There are many who are incined to doubt this optimistic view of the situation, urging the point that the broad prairies of the United States are too available for grazing to ever force continental situations on Americans.

Be that as it may, the maroon-colored bunny is the creature of the hour in the west. Thousands of dollars are offered each year in prizes at the many hare fairs. Lovers of pet animals who were formerly partial to dogs and cats and poultry have transferred their allegiance to the handsome little animal that originated, it is believed, by crossing a species of wid rabbit found in England with the domesticated animal of Belgium.

Belgian hares when grown weigh about eight pounds and are prettily marked with dark trimmings on the ears, head and back. The fur beneath the sides of the body shades into the most delicate of fawn tints. While it is true that ordinary stock may be purchased for from $5 to $10 a head, there are full-blooded animals in the United States that could not be bought for a cent less than $500. In time the breeders will have raised so many of the "eating stock" that the table may be supplied with meat that should taste like ambrosia to the epicurean, at prices below those of the meat market man.

Time and again those who have been given "pointers" on the business of raising these hares have learned that the chief aim of the Belgian hare associations affiliated with the national organization is to see that every sale made is that of an animal with a pedigree. By such vigilance only can the strains be kept pure and the stock be saved from the criticism that it is composed of "common rabbits." To pay as much for a diminutive animal as you would pay for a blooded trotter, pacer or thoroughbred may seem queer, but there are enough sportsmen in this broad country to display enough loyalty to the pretty bunny to do this.

Denver at one time seemed to be the storm center of the Belgian hare business, but recent reports from California indicate that Los Angeles now holds the pole. Better hares by far than those raised in Belgium are bred in the dry, uniform climate of southern California. The breeders realize that excellence only is the motto that they should sail under, and they are more advanced than are the sportsmen in England who breed the hares. The American breeders will not permit an animal of great excellence exhibited abroad to remain there if they can help it. Recent victors in London shows such as Fashoda, Palace Queen and Sir Dash were captured from our English cousins by enterprising American breeders.

But here is a point that the farmers of the great southwest are making against the men who are breeding the hare for the sport and pleasure they derive, which is open to much argument. "Will not the Belgian hare become a pest in the southwest as the rabbit was in New Zealand and Australia?" In the southwest the bunnies may subsist all the year around without artificial feeding and the fecundity of the species is said to be greater than that of the animal that once threatened the British colonists with starvation and ruin, but which now, happily, is a source of food and profit to the settler.

Whie in many respects the Belgian hare resembles the red hare of England, there are radical differences. The red hare has but few young and brings these forth on top of the ground, whereas the Belgian hare at large burrows for the "form" where the little bunnies are reared. There are in this country scores of animals that would delight in feeding on the young bunnies of the Belgian hare breed. The hare mother would have to be very shrewd to conceal the burrow from the weasel, the mink and other animals that would keep down the prolific hare. Besides there are eagles, hawks and such birds that are fond of lepus diet. The common jackrabbit or lepus Americanus is so swift of foot that he escapes the many pitfalls that would be dangerous for the Belgian hare. Besides, this animal changes color in winter, in which respect he differs from the Belgian hare. Let the breeders try their experiment of giving the United States a new form of meat diet—I say new form advisedly, for the meat of the Belgian hare has not been eaten to any great extent here—and I am sure the hare will not become a nuisance such as the cotton tail rabbit is.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 12—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Zeal.—Luke xvi, 1-13.

THE PARABLE.

The lesson contains the parable of "the unjust steward." A certain rich man had a steward who proved false to his trust. He called him to account for his stewardship and declared his intention of depriving him of his position. The steward was in great perplexity as to how to provide for his future. He decided finally to reduce the indebtedness of his lord's debtors, that when he lost his position they would receive him into their homes. The debtors were probably merchants who had given their notes or bonds for the amounts of their indebtedness. The steward called them together and gave them the privilege of reducing what they owed. The lord—the lord of the steward, not the Lord Jesus Christ—commended him for his prudence, but undoubtedly not for his dishonesty. The transaction was a shrewd one and yet a dishonest one. In a better and nobler sense Jesus then urges the disciples to use money and, indeed, all worldly advantages to make friends not of God's debtors, but of God's people, so that they may help them to heaven and when death comes receive them into everlasting habitations.

THE INTERPRETATION.

This is one of the most difficult parables of Christ to interpret. The different views held are many and varied. To state them even would be impossible. The best interpretation seems to be that this parable is to teach the disciples of Christ prudence and zeal in their service of God, and the lesson is taught by an illustration of the prudence and zeal of a man of the world in furthering his worldly interests. No one can imagine for a moment that Christ meant to commend the dishonesty of the steward. He simply meant to say, If a worldling used so much zeal and prudence for furthering his temporal interests, how much more prudent and zealous Christians should be in advancing their heavenly interests! This is intelligible. We can emulate a man's method of action, while we denounce its character. Christ therefore simply teaches us to use the same prudence and zeal in serving God as the children of the world do in serving the world.

THE APPLICATION.

This parable emphasizes zeal in the service of God and in the advancement of our heavenly interests. It is, alas, too often the case that God's children display less wisdom and zeal in serving Him than the children of the devil do in serving their father. The children of the world are indeed wiser, more prudent, than the children of light. But they should not be. As our aims, our purposes, are nobler and loftier, as the results at issue are more tremendously important, so our wisdom and our zeal should be more pronounced. This parable places a premium neither on ignorance nor on laziness, though many Christians seem to do so. Let us be zealous and prudent in our service of our God.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Have the parable explained, followed by voluntary participation on the topic.

BIBLE READINGS.

II Kings, x, 11-17; Neh. iv, 1-6; Ps. lxix, 9; Eccl. ix, 10; Luke xiii, 24; John ii, 13-17; I Cor. xv, 58; II Cor. ix, 1, 2; Gal. vi, 1-10; Phil. iii, 13, 14.

Aloofness to Other Christians.

Not the least valuable result of the ecumenical conference will be a lifting up or at least a lightening of the fog of complacent ignorance with which too many among us have regarded the great bodies of evangelical Christians so far as they have found occasion to regard them at all. This attitude is unfortunate. Its unconscious superciliousness no doubt attracts to our churches some social aspirants, but it is a source of widespread and not unjustified irritation and alienation from the church. The attitude of aloofness that it has fostered has been a great injury to the work that we have to do in the Christian world. No one could have attended the sessions of this conference, no one could even have read attentively the reports of them, and still believe that the solar system revolved around the weather vane on his parish spire. It was plain that here there was neither Greek, barbarian nor Scythian, but Christ was all and in all.—Churchman.

The Work That Is Being Done.

Though the love of some may have waxed cold and indifferentism and worldliness are undisguised obstructions to the progress of the cause of God, yet this reproach can by no means be a universal charge. On the same old God sanctioned and God honored lines there is earnest, honest effort. The old guards are vigilant and active, and new corps are mustering into line. Never in the history of the church was more being attempted and more being done. Babylon has not yet fallen, but angels are flying everywhere with the everlasting gospel, and sooner or later there can be but one result—the kingdoms of the earth must become our Lord's.—Christian Intelligencer.

God Will Attend to the Rest.

Wealth and scholarship are not passports into the kingdom of God. They may add a grace to the redeemed, but they are not a means of grace. The rich and cultured sinner is as vile before God as the poor woman of the streets. God is no respecter of persons. Jesus was not seeking respectable sinners to build up a respectable church. God pity the pastor who is doing that! He was seeking the lost. This is also our proper work. If we go for and bring in the lost, rich or poor, cultured or ignorant, God will attend to the rest.—Lutheran Observer.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 12, "Zeal"—Text, Luke xvi, 1-13.

"He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much."

Have an eye to the future is one of the leading lessons taught by this parable. Use present opportunities to secure future well being is the trait of business life commended as wise by our Lord.

The parable itself is one of the most beautiful gems of literature. Its pictures of oriental life and custom are so true to nature and yet so simple in wording as to make them ever interesting for study. A rich man with a trusted manager of his estates. Stories of mismanagement and extravagance. No time wasted in investigations and trial, but summary dismissal in prospect on rendering account of matters. "What shall I do?" "I cannot dig and am ashamed to beg."

He decides to make those most liable to appear against him as accusers into firm friends, who will help him in his calamity. He can do this by showing himself as their friend now in relieving them of the excessive rent imposed on them as tenants of the rich man. It was a keen thing to do just at this time. If they were the ones who had been accusing him to the owner of the estates, it forever stopped their complaints. It won their friendship for the manager as one who seemed fair minded and considerate of their condition. It might also have an appearance in the accounts rendered, favorable to the steward in showing the income to be less than had been reported, and so the accusations of squandering the revenues to be false. It was a skillful move. It quieted the discontent of the tenants at excessive taxation and withdrew all ground of complaint, secured their loyalty to the owner and friendship for the manager, relieved the rich man from all controversy with his tenants, obtained better administration of affairs by this harmony and insured for himself the confidence of all parties with commendation of his employer and gratitude of his fellow dependents. "Make friends for yourself," of your opportunities.

How to Make Friends.—That is one of the problems raised by the lesson this week. Careful study of the parable will suggest several points of value in this inquiry.

First.—Realize your need and the value of friends.

Second.—Really desire friendship.

Third.—Be willing to be friendly.

Fourth.—Resolve to pay the price, and gain friends for yourself by first being a friend to others. Give first and you shall get later. "He that would have friends must show himself friendly."

League Headquarters.

In the tallest building for its width in Chicago, the city noted for its tall and narrow buildings, the headquarters of the Epworth League are housed. The rooms of the general secretary are on the eighth floor, those of the editor of The Epworth Herald on the sixth and the mechanical departments in various parts of the building. They are models of compact convenience. The structure is 30 feet wide, 185 deep and 11 stories high, of steel skeleton construction. Marble wainscoting and quartered oak casing are used liberally throughout the edifice. It was first occupied in January, 1900. The Book Concern owns the building, and the Chicago depository occupies the ground floor. The top floor has a pleasant assembly room at the front. Fifty-seven Washington street is a busy place.

Rest Awhile.

It is a grievous mistake to be ever in a rush. Restlessness is not a sign of efficiency. So many pride themselves on always being busy, never taking a vacation. There is little merit in it at best and often much of false pride. Some never work hard enough to need any change or to deserve it. Others are too fussy to know how to profit by it. Work diligently, then rest completely and enjoyably.

Jacob Brucklacher,
Henry Krouse,
County Road Committee.

July 15, 1900.

On motion of Freeholder Farrell received and placed on file.

The same committee also reported progress in the matter of the petition relating to paving of Orchard street with asphalt.

NEW BUSINESS.

By County Road Committee:

Whereas, The Elizabeth City Horse Railroad Company on the fourth day of August, 1898, submitted a proposition to this Board for the construction of a street railroad in Westfield or North avenue, from Orchard street in the city of Elizabeth, to Richmond street, Plainfield, also on Orchard street in Elizabeth, from Westfield avenue to Morris avenue, and on Richmond street in Plainfield, from North avenue to Third street, and thence on Third street to Watchung avenue, under the provisions of an act of the Legislature of the State entitled, "An Act to Authorize Boards of Chosen Freeholders to Widen, Straighten, Grade, and Otherwise Improve Highways Under Their Control, and to Provide for the Construction of Street Railroads Thereon," approved June 13, 1898, which proposition was duly accepted by this Board by resolution passed on the fifteenth day of August, 1898, and a bond as required by said act was thereafter, on the thirtieth day of August, 1898, made, executed and delivered by the said the Elizabeth City Horse Railroad Company to this Board with John Kean, Hamilton F. Kean, Frederick L. Heidritter and Frank Bergen as sureties, conditioned for the faithful performance of said proposition in all respects, the said bond having been approved as to amount and sufficiency of security by the justice of the Supreme Court holding the Circuit Court in this county and

Whereas, It has been found to be impracticable at present to widen the streets on which it was proposed to build said street railroad which lies to the west of the line dividing the Township of Cranford by reason of the Elizabeth City Horse Railroad Company not having been able to obtain the necessary consent therefor; and

Whereas, This Board has caused commissioners to be appointed for assessing the damage for the proposed widening of the streets to be traversed by said railroad to the eastward of the line dividing the Township of Cranford from the Township of Union, and the said commissioners have about completed their work and are about to file their report, and the said Elizabeth City Horse Railroad Company is willing to pay to the Board a sum not exceeding seventy three thousand dollars ($73,000), to be used for the payment of damages assessed by said commissioners together with five per centum per annum for a period of ten years on such sum (if any) in excess of seventy-three thousand dollars ($73,000), as may be required for the widening of said road eastwardly of the line dividing Union and Cranford Townships and construct its proposed railroad from the easterly terminus thereof to the said line dividing the Township of Union from the Township of Cranford, such percentage of five per centum per annum, however, is not to be paid on such excess beyond the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000).

Now Therefore, Be It Resolved, That the said Elizabeth City Horse Railroad Company be permitted to construct that part of its proposed line of street railroad lying east of the dividing line between the Township of Cranford and the Township of Union in the manner provided in said proposition and contract, and that it be released from the obligation contained in said proposition of August 15th 1898, and guaranteed by the said bond dated August 30th, 1898, except as herein provided to pay to this Board any sum or sums of money on any of the accounts referred to in the said proposition or the said bond, or the said act in excess of the amounts already paid to the board by the said railroad company and the said sum of seventy-three thousand dollars ($73,000) to be used in the payment of damages found by the commissioners to be due to property owners by the widening of the streets over which the said railroad is to be constructed, together with five per cent interest for ten years on such sum (if any) not exceeding ten thousand dollars ($10,000) in excess of $73,000, as may be required in the widening of said road to the eastward of the said dividing line between the Township of Cranford and the Township of Union, and also from each and every obligation created by the acceptance of said proposition, said bond and contract, except so far as the same apply to that portion of the road lying to the easterly side of the dividing line between the Townships of Cranford and Union.

And be it further resolved, That the time in which the said Elizabeth City Horse Railroad Company shall be required to pay the said sum of seventy-three thousand dollars ($73,000) to this Board is hereby extended until the fifteenth day of July, 1901, said payment, however, shall be made with interest at five per cent. per annum on the said sum from the date of the confirmation of the commissioners' report of the Circuit Court of this county.

Provided, however, that these resolutions shall not become effective unless the Elizabeth City Horse Railroad Company and John Kean shall within ten days from the passage hereof file with the clerk of this Board a stipulation in writing to build and complete the said railroad from the easterly terminus thereof in accordance with the terms as stated in said proposition and the contract made in pursuance thereof to the said dividing line between the Township of Cranford and the Township of Union before the fifteenth day of July, 1901, and also to pay to this Board on or before the same date the said sum of seventy-three thousand dollars, ($73,000), with interest for the aforesaid and thereafter interest at the rate of two per cent. per annum, or such excess of said sum (if any), not exceeding ten thousand dollars ($10,000), for the period of two years from the date of the confirmation of the report of said commissioners.

Freeholder Farrell moved the adoption of the foregoing preamble and resolution and after considerable discussion the same were unanimously adopted on roll-call.

By Freeholder Farrell:

Resolved, That the sum of $45 due to Wesley Smith, now deceased, for witness fees in the Pyatt homicide case be paid on account of funeral expenses of said Smith to D. K. Ryno, upon the latter giving a bond of indemnity to this Board.

Freeholder King moved the adoption of the resolution and on roll-call it was unanimously adopted.

The following bills, properly audited and approved, were read, and on roll-call unanimously ordered paid, viz:

THE DOLLIES' PIC-NIC.

A number of sweet little dollies
Were lying close by on the shelf,
Contented to lay there together,
And not thinking at all of theirself,
When up jumped one bright-looking dollie
And cried out in a manner most gay:
Oh, dollies, let's have a real pic-nic!
And have it this day, right away!
So they got up a wonderful pic-nic,
And played till they could play no more.
If you want to see this fine pic-nic,
Look in the window of Harker's fine store.

LOVES POOR CHILDREN.

Rev. Edward Everett Hale Takes Care of Sick Babies on the Boston Floating Hospital.

Boston's floating hospital has for its president the great-hearted philanthropist, Rev. Edward Everett Hale, and he is not a mere figurehead of a president. He is genuinely interested in the work of the hospital and has made more than one trip on the hospital boat, where he goes about among the sick babies and their mothers speaking a word of cheer and carrying but his own doctrine of lending a hand to the needy and the suffering. The little tot on Dr. Hale's lap is one of the sick hospital babies, and the photograph was taken one day last summer when Dr. Hale was on board the floating hospital, which has become one of the best known and most deserving of all Boston's charities. From July until late in September the floating hospital leaves the Boston wharf every day with all of its little white beds and cots filled with sick babies who are taken away from the stifling air of the heated tenements into the cool and refreshing air of the ocean.

The hospital is a very large barge pulled by a tug boat to avoid the noise and dirt and unpleasant odor of machinery. Last year nearly 3,000 sick children were taken on trips down the harbor. Some of them were kept on board several days or until they were well enough to go back to their homes. This year the hospital began its trips with 21 trained nurses and a regular medical staff. It is supported entirely by voluntary offerings. It is a part of the work of the Lend-a-Hand society, of which Edward Everett Hale is president, and it is one of Dr. Hale's "pet charities."

Although now in his 78th year, Dr. Hale is still actively engaged in all sorts of charitable enterprises, and he is ready to speak at any time and in any place for suffering humanity. He is a striking figure on the streets of Boston with his tall and massive form, his long gray hair and grizzled beard. In the winter time he wears a cloak, and he always wears a wide-brimmed slouch hat. A stranger could tell at a glance that his was no ordinary personality.

At the age of 17 he began braking on a Wabash freight train between Lafayette and Fort Wayne, Ind., holding that position for three years, until promoted to a freight conductor. He continued in that capacity on the same route until 1882, when he was transferred to the Missouri

CYCLING COMMENT.

An announcement has been made by Fred Voight that Jay Eaton has been retired absolutely from the management of the Vailsburg track and that he, Voight, is now in full charge of its affairs. Voight has not been implicated in the questionable phases of the Eaton-Stevens race, and as his methods were eminently successful last year at the board course the announcement is calculated to restore some confidence on the part of the patrons. Voight was a quasi partner of Eaton and the continued use of the regular stationery was not calculated to reassure critics. Chairman Batchelder has been insistent that Eaton must not be associated with the track any longer than it took to sever his connection, but he explained that as Eaton was a lessee and not an owner, the track could not be closed by blacklisting without injuring the owner, who as an innocent party would have a cause for a damage suit. The punishment of Eaton is apt to be a wholesome lesson to Voight in the future conduct of the racecourse. He announces that racing will be continued Sunday and that hereafter the style of programmes will be those in vogue last year.

WHAT'S THIS? A SHARK!

Eugene O'Rielly and Patrick Muldoon Tell Thrilling Tale of Experience with a Man-Eater.

According to the story of Eugene O'Rielly and Patrick Muldoon, fishermen, who select Raritan Bay as a place to pursue their favorite sport, should be extremely careful of sharks. The two followers of Izaak Walton had quite an experience with one of these man-eaters yesterday, and Muldoon is confident that he saved a foot only by a quick movement. O'Rielly had secured a fine large weak fish and was hauling it into the boat when fish, tackle and all disappeared between the rapacious jaws of a shark. Muldoon had been sitting with his feet hanging in the water and when the shark had swallowed O'Rielly's fish it made a rush for the former's pedal extremities. In his haste to draw them in the boat Muldoon fell backward, nearly capsizing the boat. For the rest of the day Muldoon cooled his feet by pouring water over them, not wishing to have another experience with sharks.

Cut His Face.

George Wilson, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, who lives at the corner of Somerset street and Craig place, sustained a severe cut over his left eye this morning. His mother sent him on an errand, and while descending the stairs with a bottle in his hand he slipped and fell. The bottle broke and pieces of the bottle cut his face. He was taken to Powers' drug store, where Dr. Browning gave the proper treatment. There will be no serious results, although the cut was very near the eye.

Overcome by the Heat.

Miss Medora Baker, of New York, was overcome by the heat last evening just as she reached the home of her parents on Elm place. The young lady had come to this city for a brief visit and the journey proved too much for her. Dr. Jenkins was called and administered restoratives. This morning the patient is somewhat better but is not entirely out of danger.

Some time ago the Common Council ordered Assessor H. C. VanEmburgh to correct the city assessment map and make all transfers to May 1st of this year. The work required considerable time, and Mr. VanEmburgh concluded it yesterday. This morning he delivered the map to Collector F. H. Smith, who will find it a great help to him in his work.

SAD DROWNING ACCIDENT.

Nutley Young Man Lost His Life at Green Pond While Out in a Rowboat.

The news of a sad drowning accident reached Plainfield today. Recently a party of young men from this city, including Messrs. Thorn, McVoy and Barnes, were camping out at Green Pond, near Newfoundland, N. J., and while there another party of young men from Nutley who were camping out near them. In the party from Nutley was a young man Marcus De. Wawaale, aged twenty years. He was very popular and he and the Plainfield boys became fast friends.

The Plainfield contingent returned home last Saturday, while the boys from Nutley remained a few days longer. Last Monday young Wawaale in company with a doctor and his wife and another young man went out on the pond in a boat. While rowing across the deepest part of the pond the bottom of the boat fell out, allowing the entire party to go down in the water. Wawaale could not swim, but the other young man assisted him for awhile until it became necessary to assist the doctor's wife who also could not swim. The woman reached shore all right and the balance of the party returned to help Wawaale ashore. Before they could reach him he went down for the third time and was beyond rescue. The accident caused an intense gloom to fall over the camp and the members returned home the following day.

After a persistent search the body was recovered by the father of the boy who came to the camp Monday to bring some supplies to him.

ONE MAN COULDN'T SWIM.

As a Result He Came Near Loosing His Life and That of His Friend in a Watery Grave.

Two Plainfield men, who reside on Watchung avenue, narrowly escaped drowning while swimming in the Raritan river near Bound Brook last night. On account of the intense heat they decided to go bathing and selected the Raritan as the place, to which they rode on their wheels. In spite of the fact that one of them was unable to swim they chose a deep spot and the experienced man entered the water first. Upon the latter's assurance that he would catch him if he jumped, the non-swimmer sprang into the water, but immediately became frightened and a struggle followed. Both men sank several times. They shouted loudly for help, but as no one was near, their cries were unheeded. Finally after hard work on the part of the swimmer, they approached near enough to the bank to sieze some overhanging limbs of trees and draw themselves up. They sank to the ground in an exhausted condition and it was some time before they recovered sufficiently to dress. It will probably be some time before either man ventures into a deep spot the next time they go swimming.

DROVE ON THE TRACK.

Miraculous Escape of a Man on the Lehigh Valley Railroad at South Plainfield the Other Evening.

A man named Anderson, who lives near Samptown, had a miraculous escape from serious injury or death Wednesday night at South Plainfield It seems that he had been to New Market and was on his way home in a somewhat befuddled condition.

He came up the road towards Laine's Hotel from the coal storage, but when he reached the Lehigh Valley Railroad crossing his horse turned up the tracks. The driver seemed unaware of the fact and the horse continued on the tracks till he reached a bridge leading towards the station.

In some remarkable manner the horse succeeded in getting across the bridge, although it was considerably cut about the legs. Soon after some of the railroad employes discovered Anderson's predicament and succeeded in getting him straightened out and on the right road towards home.

Chicken Just Right for Him.

Becoming tired of his ordinary diet of scraps of meat and bones, a dog belonging to James Mann, of Plainfield avenue, started a foraging expedition on his own account early this morning. Mr. Mann is quite a poultry fancier and has a yard full of spring chickens. The dog's wanderings led him into this yard. Being rather hungry he was not averse to a breakfast of chicken and started in. When he had finished, thirty-seven of Mr. Mann's choicest fowls were no more. The dog had eaten his fill and then killed the rest for amusement.

RAILROAD COMPANY HALTS HELLO SYSTEM

Central Takes Down the Poles Erected by New York and New Jersey Co.

WORK DONE IN THE NIGHT.

PREVENTS TELEPHONE CONNECTION WITH NEW MARKET.

Poles Were Put Up Yesterday and it Was Thought They Would be Allowed to Stand—Section Men Took Them Down.

A merry little war is at present in progress at Dunellen between two corporations, the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company and the Central Railroad of New Jersey. The struggle has now been on for three days and the railroad people have so far defeated their opponents and are masters of the situation. They are now resting on their laurels and are waiting for the next move on the part of the "hello" company.

The trouble is all over the erection of six poles by the telephone people on Washington avenue in front of property owned by the railroad. Although the New York and New Jersey Company were granted permission by the Borough Council to build their line through the street the consent of the railroad officials was not secured. The former company commenced the work, however, and a gang of men were digging holes last Thursday when they were stopped by Station Agent Fisher. The men then went below the disputed ground and resumed work. They returned again yesterday and six thirty foot poles were placed in position. They remained standing until last night when two section gangs belonging to the railroad appeared on the scene and began the work of removing them.

It was first suggested chopping them down but on second consideration it was thought best to dig them up. A trench was dug behind each pole and it was then pushed over. Thus matters stand and the outcome is anxiously awaited by the boroughites and also by the residents of New Market who have been hoping for the completion of the line for a long time. At present the latter place is cut off from direct communication with Plainfield and it is more for their benefit than anything else that the line is being built. The completion of it will mean quite a loss in telegraphing to both the Central and Lehigh Valley Railroads.

The telephone company is determined to put the line through, however, and if necessary will change the route. A contract has already been made with C. T. Rogers, of New Market to have a pay station located at his place.

AND THE BAND PLAYED ON.

Remarkable Experience of a Farmer With a Phonograph.

A farmer who lives back of the mountains is the hero of the latest phonograph story. One day this week, having business in Plainfield, he hitched up his best team of horses to the family wagon and took along his son Abe to help him look after the team. On arriving in the city they hauled in front of a drug store, the farmer going in to purchase some medicine, leaving Abe to care for the team. In the store was an Edison nickle-in-the-slot phonograph, the first the farmer had seen. After the clerk had explained how to do it, the farmer put in his nickle and in response the phonograph started to play "The British March to Pretoria" by the Seventy-first Regiment Band. The farmer droped the tubes, rushed out of the store, shouting at the pitch of his voice, "Abe, Abe, hold on to the reins, there's a brass band coming down the street." The band played on. Abe held on, and as a reward the old gentleman is taking him along with him on the Hope chapel Sunday-school excursion to Asbury Park, on Saturday, August 25th.

Rode Bicycle on the Sidewalk.

George Monroe, colored, was arraigned before City Judge Runyon this morning on the charge of riding on the sidewalk. He was arrested last evening at 8:15 by Patrolman McCarthy while riding along the sidewalk on Webster place. The street at that point is not in good condition for wheeling and many of the cyclists who have to go that way are accustomed to take the sidewalk. Monroe explained these facts to Judge Runyon and sentence was suspended.

Three Palefaces Adopted.

At the meeting of Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men last evening three palefaces were adopted into membership of the tribe.

IN QUEST OF TREASURE.

JERSEYMEN HUNTING FOR $50,000 IN GOLD AND SILVER.

Said to Have Been Hidden Near the Whippany River in Morris County by Revolutionists.

Near the Whippany river in Morris county, and a stone's throw from the ruins of the Walker homestead at Hanover Neck, which was destroyed by fire a few weeks ago, there is said to be buried $50,000 in gold and silver which had been intended for the colonial troops during the Revolutionary War. Every day searching parties endeavor to unearth the treasure, which is said to have been buried by the wife of Aaron Kitchell, the first representative in Congress from Morris county, who, it is asserted, rode on horseback from Hanover Neck to Washington.

The congressman was an officer in the Continental army, and had the money with which to pay the soldiers. One day he received word that the British were about to march through Hanover Neck, and before leaving for Morristown, where Washington had his headquarters, he gave his wife the money, and after telling her to hide it and say nothing about it to anyone, he galloped off.

Shortly afterward Mrs. Kitchell was taken suddenly ill and died. Just before she breathed her last she tried to tell her daughter where she had hidden the money. All she could say, however, was that the money was under a big oak tree in the great meadow.

Immediately after Mrs. Kitchell's death the neighbors and friends to whom the secret had been confided searched for the money without success. The oak trees in those days were very numerous, and since then many have been cut down. From time to time others have searched, but so far as is known to no purpose.

Since the story of the burying of the money has been revived the place is visited daily by a number of treasure-seekers armed with picks, shovels and other mining implements.

WIDENING OF SOMERSET STREET.

Mayor and Borough Council to Advance Preliminary Work.

It is the purpose of the Mayor and Borough Council to still further advance the preliminary work preparatory to widening Somerset street, at the adjourned meeting next week Friday. The officials believe that the work can be completed in a month's time, and if it is started by September 1st, it should be finished before snow flies, as predicted by Mayor Smalley. The improvement that will come with this work will certainly be worth to the borough all the money it will cost to make it, and it will give a desirable and attractive entrance into the borough where the business people are located.

Wise Elephants.

The baby elephants, members of the famous Gentry Dog and Pony Show this season, are said to be the brightest specimens of their sort ever exhibited. In fact, it is said, they are capable of going through their performance without one word of command from the ring master. Their part of the programme lasts nearly fifteen minutes, and comprises some of the most difficult acts ever attempted by dumb animals. In addition to their brightness, they are the most docile specimens ever seen. Very fond of children and as playful as cats. They play many jokes upon the dog and pony members of the company, such as stealing their feed, pulling the dogs' tails, and things of that sort. They were imported direct from India by Prof. Gentry, and nursed on bottles at his farm in Indiana until they were strong enough to go on the road with the show.

To Take Down Poles.

In a short time the electric light poles on Front street in the business port of the city, that are not now used by the company will be removed and thus a great improvement will be effected. The improvement in Park avenue where the poles have been taken down has been favorably commented upon by many. It gives the avenue the appearance of being much wider and the unobstructed view now obtained is certainly desirable.

Wear no Clothing.

Residents of Westervelt and Sandford avenues that live near Green brook complain of the practices of a gang of young men and boys who disport themselves in the water there on warm days in a disorderly manner. Although they make plenty of noise of an ear-splitting kind that is not the worse of it. The most objectionable thing is that the youngsters freqently go in swimming in nude. The police will be notified of the practice.

AN EXCELLENT CONCERT.

NOTWITHSTANDING THE HEAT A GREAT CROWD LISTENED TO IT.

Cornet Solo Rendered by Ben LaVere—More Concerts Depend on Money Contributed.

In spite of the intense heat the usual good-natured crowd of music loving people assembled on North avenue last night, and for two hours listened to another excellent concert by LaVere's Band. They were well repaid for their trouble as the concert was the finest yet given, nearly every number on the programme making a decided hit. Most of the selections were catchy popular medleys, which Mr. LaVere has decided are most enjoyed by the majority of the listeners. But that everyone may have his or her favorite, classical selections always find a prominent place on the list.

The soloist last evening was Mr. LaVere himself who rendered the "Tea Flower Polka" in an excellent manner on the cornet. It was met with loud applause and for an encore he gave, "Alice, Where Art Thou." During the solos the band was directed by Al. G. Sweet. The subscriptions for the concerts are still coming in but more money is needed to complete the series as arranged by Mr. LaVere.

If possible seven more concerts will be given, provided the people contribute to their support. For the seven concerts from $75 to $100 are needed for expenses alone and this is all Mr. LaVere asks. At present the members of the band are giving their services for nothing, but they do not wish to go to any expense.

Everyone has now had an opportunity of judging for themseles the excellence of the concerts, which with the high class soloists, have earned a reputation for the band. When one stops to consider that these men receive no return for their time and trouble, that alone should be sufficient to induce anyone to contribute something, no matter how small. That already given has been secured through hustling on the part of Mr. LaVere, who would much rather secure contributions without personal soliciting. Following are the latest contributors to the fund:

SMASH-UP NEAR ROCKAWAY.

Passenger and Ice Train Collide—One Seriously Injured.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Rockaway, Aug. 11—A head end collision occurred last night on the Edison and Lake Hopatcong branch of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, between a passenger and an ice train.

The passenger train was in charge of Thomas Allen, conductor, and Mahlon Smith, engineer, and had just left Morris County Junction and was up the steepest part of the mountain, when Smith saw the ice train approaching, coming at full speed, and before he could reverse his engine, the engines came together with terrible force, derailing several cars and smashing up the engines.

Engineer Smith was picked up from the wreck. It was discovered that his leg was broken in three places and that he was considerably bruised and had sustained a severe cut on his face. Baggagemaster Willian Beaver and Conductor Allen were injured, but not seriously. A woman passenger was seriously injured by the flying glass. The crew of the ice train was badly shaken up.

It took several hours this morning before the wreck was cleared away. At present the blame for the wreck has not been placed. Engineer Smith lies in a precarious condition.

Demand for Real Estate.

A prominent real estate dealer in this city state that during July there were more inquiries for property upon which to build than in any previous July for several years. This he accounted for by the fact that there has been a drop in the price of building materials, and people having a little money laid by have taken advantage of the reduced prices in materials and the reasonable price of property and have decided to build. This is encouraging for the warm weather months when everything is usually so quiet in all lines. The dealer who gave out the above information has disposed of many lots of good size and he thinks it is an indication of far better times when people buy property so readily at this time of the year.

H. E. Bowen and family, of Watchung avenue, returned today from Woodstock, Conn., where they have been enjoying the summer.

SITUATION DESPERATE.

Latest Word From Minister Conger at Pekin—The Legations' Losses—Will Hold on Indefinitely.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Washington, August 11.—The following dispatch, communicating an additional message from Mr. Conger, was made public this morning by the State Department:

"Canton, August 11th.

"Secretary of State, Washington:

'Conger, date August 10th, Tsinan, answering my message, says that the legations are under siege by the imperial soldiery. The situation is desperate. The losses of the legations are 60 killed and about 100 wounded. There is some sickness, nevertheless the general health continues good. He concludes, 'Whatever may be the outcome we will hold on indefinitely.'

"McWade."

It is believed that the date assigned this dispatch by the Consul refers to the filing date, when the message left Tsinan, and does not fix the time when it left Pekin by courier.

DON'T WORK BOTH WAYS.

Unfair Rule About Transfers Maintained by the Management of Local Lines.

It is usually agreed that "it is a poor rule that won't work both ways," but the application of this axiom has never commended itself to the management of the trolley lines in and out of this city in respect to transfer arrangements. For instance a passenger may get on the Front, Somerset or Fourth streets lines in any part of the city and be carried to the Fresh-Air Camp at Westfield by paying a total of 10 cents. But on the return trip that rule does not work. Passengers getting on at the Fresh Air Camp are compelled to pay 10 cents and are carried only as far as the Watchung avenue switch in this city. If, perhaps, they go to the same point on any of the city lines that they started from at the commencement of the trip they are compelled to pay an additional 5 cents. Just why the company should charge 15 cents one way and 10 cents the other way—the same distance being covered—is a rule that few can understand.

The Brunswick Traction Company is up to the trick, too. One may board a Plainfield car anywhere in the city and ride to Dunellen, get a transfer and go as far as Dewey Park all for one fare of five cents. But on the return that rule does not work. From Dewey Park to Dunellen five cents is charged and when a Plainfield car is boarded another five cents is demanded.

Just why the trolley managers should charge double the amount for passengers coming into the city from those directions that they do for going out—the distances being equal in both cases—is a deeper problem than the average citizen can solve.

OUT WEST FOURTH STREET.

Another Route for the Proposed Extension of Trolley to South Plainfield.

Once more there appears to be hope of the trolley reaching South Plainfield and thereby bring the residents at that place within touch of this city. Persons interested in this line have been busily engaged in an attempt to bring about the desired result. The scheme now on hand is to run the line from the corner of West Fourth street and Plainfield avenue through the latter avenue to South Plainfield. The necessary consents along this route have been readily obtained and unless something unforeseen happens the line may be built this fall. The people along the line as well as at South Plainfield are very anxious for the trolley and are willing to do almost anything that is reasonable to secure the same.

NEARLY EIGHTY.

Mrs. Sarah L Melick Dies at the Age of Seventy-nine Years.

The death of Mrs. Sarah Melick, aged 79, wife of Dayton L. Melick, occurred yesterday at her home at Mt. Pleasant. Death was due principally to advanced aged. The deceased has lived near her home for many years and was highly esteemed for her many excellent qualities. She was a faithful member of the Baptist church at South Plainfield, where she attended when able to do so. She was a granddaughter of Dayton Melick, the milkman, and besides a husband, she leaves four sons, William, John, Walter and Lemuel Melick, all of whom live near Mt. Pleasant. The funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, from the residence of her son, William Melick, Rahway road.

DEATH OF ED MARBLE.

WELL-KNOWN SHOWMAN PASSED AWAY THURSDAY NIGHT.

Associated With George Thatcher, the Minstrel Man, for Many Years.

The news of the death of Edward Marble, which occurred Thursday evening last at 6:30 o'clock at his home in Brooklyn, will be received by a host of friends in this city with deep and sincere regret. Mr. Marble was exceedingly well known in this city and vicinity, where he made many friends during his visits to Plainfield. His death was due to diabetes, this disease having kept him confined to his room since February last. His last days were made just as comfortable as the best of care and medical skill could make them. His death brings to a close a remarkable life.

Edward Marble was born fifty-four years ago next month in Buffalo, and if there is such a thing as inheritance in the theatrical world he had his share of it. His father, "Dan" Marble, the celebrated "Yankee Comedian," was in his day noted the world over, and in Boston, his home, he was famous, and especially so in his association with the world-renowned "Salsbury Troubadors." Mr. Marble's mother was a Warren, and an actress of note and prominence. Indirectly Mr. Marble was related to the Booths, Jeffersons and many of the world's famous actors.

His association with Geo. Thatcher, the famous minstrel, brought him into prominence in this city. The two men became acquainted as early as 1870, when Marble was stage manager for the Elder Sothern. In 1884 he and Mr. Thatcher associated themselves together, when the latter formed the famous minstrel troupe known as Thatcher, Primrose and West. Mr. Marble remained with that combination until 1888. He left the troupe at that time to rejoin Mr. Thatcher again in 1890, when he wrote "Tuxedo," which was produced from 1891-92 with great success. It is stated by a close personal friend that that production netted him a profit of $60,000. Since 1892 Mr. Marble has done very little owing to his health. He added further to his laurels during the past eight years, with the exception of the past year. He wrote mythological plays which were given once a year by the students of Lafayette College at Easton.

Mr. Marble was finely educated, and it has been stated without contradiction that during his theatrical career he was never called down for the misuse of language. His talk at all times was strictly according to the book. He was a person that made many friends and held them. Another thing that gave him prominence was the work of Americanizing all of Lydia Thompson's comedies which were produced in this country with great success. Mr. Marble never prated his knowledge, and was modest and reticent in his manner. His last visit to Plainfield was in December of last year.

He leaves a wife, who has been associated on the stage with Julia Marlow, and a daughter, Mrs. Anna Irwin, of Brooklyn. A peculiar co-incident in connection with Mr. Marble's death is that he passed away about 6:30 o'clock Thursday night, and at 11 o'clock the same night his brother, John Marble, was shot in New York, taken to the hospital, where the physicians declared he could not live.

An Aggravating Letter.

Mrs. Griffin, of 419 LaGrande avenue, has just received a letter from her husband, Rev. Walter T. Griffin, U. S. Consul to Lamoges, France, which contains the surprising news that at Carlsbad, France, there was two inches of snow at the time of writing and that everyone was wearing heavy clothes and winter overcoats. Mr. Griffin stated that the place was crowded with people who had come from all parts of the world to take the celebrated baths there. He says that he is rapidly concluding his work and expects to return home soon.

Mr. Beech Resigns.

Announcement has been made that Mr. Beech, who holds the position of superintendent of terminals for the Jersey Central Railroad Company, has tendered his resignation to take effect September 1st. A VENETIAN CARNIVAL.

THE CRANFORD BOATING ASSOCIATION'S ANNUAL EVENT TONIGHT.

Great Competition for the Prizes—Judges From From Out-of-town—8 000 People Expected to Witness it.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cranford, Aug. 11—The Venetian carnival and water parade to be held on the picturesque Rahway river at this place this evening under the auspices of the Cranford Boating Association will excel in beauty anything of the kind held in Cranford during the fifteen years of the association's existence.

The river banks and bridges will be decorated with 5,000 lanterns, and colored fire will illuminate the banks during the parade. The fireworks and electrical effects will be elaborate. The Cranford Casino's pretty club house on Riverside avenue will be illuminated with different colored electric lights and the lawns in the same manner. Opposite the club house a huge balloon lighted by electricity will be suspended across the river.

The parade of more than one hundred gayly decorated canoes, boats and floats will move up and down all portions of the river twice. Professor W. N. Bartow's Asbury Park Military Band and two other bands have been engaged to furnish music for the occasion.

The lawn decorations of residents and summer cottagers will be especially elaborate. Among some of these land decorations will be representations of President McKinley and Roosevelt with colored lights, illuminated stars, a monster windmill in operation and the American flag in colors.

There will be great competition for prizes, which will be awarded for the best decorated boats, canoes, floats, and the handsomest decorated lawns. Judges for the event will come from out of town. Trains will be run from Roselle to Cranford to accommodate Newark and Elizabeth visitors and there will be special trolley cars to carry the people from all sections. It is expected that more than 8,000 visitors will come here, for in the afternoon a large Elizabeth delegation will reach here with the Elizabeth baseball players, who are scheduled to play the crackerjack Cranford team at the Roosevelt Manor ground on that day. After the game the Elizabeth team and managers will be entertained by the Cranford Baseball Association at the Casino Club, where a dance will be held in the evening after the parade.

ONLY ONE CAR NOW.

Street Railway Reduces Its Service on Arlington Avenue.

Starting yesterday the Plainfield Street Railway Company commenced to run one car on the Arlington avenue line, and a great many people living along that line and having occasion to use the trolley had great reason to complain. They think that a half hour is too long to be obliged to wait for a car, as a person can walk three-quarters the length of the line in that time. A number of persons waited a half-hour yesterday rather than walk, on account of the intense heat. The ordinance calls for better service and the traveling public should certainly get the benefit of it.

Will Defend Police.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Aug. 11—Common Council has decided to take official notice of the suit for $5,000 damages brought by Mrs. Isabella Eastburn against Patrolmen Faulkner and VanDeursen for alleged improper and brutal treatment in arresting her in April last. Common Council has arranged for counsel to look after the defendants' interests. Mrs. Eastburn is the wife of a druggist at the corner of Dennis and Church streets. In April last she went out, leaving her infant child in charge of the neighbor, who got tired of waiting for her return and went away, leaving the child alone. When she returned Officers Faulkner and VanDeursen investigated, and she resented their interference and, the officers allege, became so abusive that they placed her under arrest.

Another Operation May be Necessary.

Dr. G. W. Endicott was in town for a short time this morning but returned almost immediately to New York city, for the purpose of securing the services of a specialist with whom to consult in regard to the condition of his son George. The boy was taken with appendicitis at Copake, N. Y., sometime ago and an operation was performed by his father. It was the worst case of this kind the doctor ever experienced and the lad is not yet out of danger. It was thought best to secure the specialist to see if a second operation would be necessary.

A SWELTERING NIGHT; NO RELIEF AT HAND

Weather Bureau Declares That it May Possibly Get Cooler by Tomorrow Evening.

LAST NIGHT'S HOTNESS.

NIGHT BROUGHT NO RELIEF FROM THE INTENSE HEAT.

Warm Wave Reigns This Week—Even Storms Did Not Cool the Air—Dealers in Cold Things Reaping Rich Harvest.

Perhaps there may be a fall of temperature Sunday night. That is the only satisfaction which the weather bureau has for the multitude of sweltering mortals who have been suffering, more or less, for the past week from one of the most severe hot waves of the season. It is just as warm today as it has been and the mercury still hovers in close proximity to the hundred degree point. It's going to continue tonight and part, at least, of tomorrow, but the officials of the weather bureau are confident that it will collapse in a few days.

Yesterday was clear and hot. Warm doesn't express the situation. It was positively hot. Not that it was anything particularly new to Plainfield, however. It has been hot for nearly a week. It is usually referred to as a hot wave but the wave seemed to forget to move and it settled down on New York and vicinity, including Plainfield, and here it remains. A few thunder storms, of more or less fierceness, have wandered across the Watchung mountains but they only seemed to make it hotter than ever. There was no suggestion of rain yesterday. The rays of the sun came down without nothing to break their intensity and all humanity in this section sweltered and perspired.

The evenings have usually brought comparative relief from the heat. It was not so last evening. At 9 o'clock the mercury had only fallen to ninety degrees and people were wondering if it would ever be cold again. Around midnight, there was a slight tumble on the part of the mercury but it wasn't a very enthusiastic one and most of the city's population spent an unpleasant night of it.

The early morning hours found the thermometer among the eighties. It never registered before eighty degrees all night. Then came the morning climb and the mercury has been on its upward journey ever since. At 9 o'clock, it showed ninety-two degrees, at 10:30 o'clock, it was ninety-six, and at noon, two degrees warmer.

No one possessed of a speck of common sense will work any harder this weather than is positively necessary. Business has, in consequence, been decidely dull this week. The only people who have proved an exception to the rule are the dispensers of cold things. The ice man is in his glory with hosts of householders pursuing him and begging, demanding or stealing ice. The consumption of cold drinks, temperance and otherwise, has doubled during the week. The more you drink, the more you want. The thirst refuses to be quenched and the soda-water fountains and saloons are reaping a rich harvest in consequence.

Busy Week for Great Sachem.

Next week will be a busy one for Great Sachem William Newcorn, of the I. O. R. M. Monday evening he goes to New York to attend the meeting of the associated tribes of New York city, where he will be one of the principal guests. Wednesday evening he pays a visit to Artemis tribe at Shiloh. His annual visitation to Po Ambo tribe, of Perth Amboy, will take place Thursday. The next night he goes to Somerville to visit Naraticong tribe, and Saturday night he will be in Elizabeth as the guest of Opeechee tribe.

The Davis Association Outing.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Jersey City, Aug. 11.—The indications are that the annual outing of the Robert Davis Association, September 12, will excel any previous outing in the history of the club. It is expected that fully 4,000 men will be in line. Last year the number was over 3,000, and this year it is expected that another thousand will be added to the list.

Sprague will Settle.

John Sprague, one of the four young men arraigned before Judge Runyon last Saturday on the charge of burning a wagon on the night of July 3rd belonging to George Zepp, appeared in court this morning and said he had paid his share of the damage. He was discharged.

Mr. and Mrs. George Worth, of Grove street, are stopping at Ocean Grove.

RETIREMENT HALL.

Old Mansion in Which Revolutionary Patriots Hid Is to Be Demolished Very Soon.

The growth of business interests threatens soon to remove an interesting relic of revolutionary days which now stands on the Jersey shore of New York bay, and which is known as "Retirement hall." During the British occupation of New York city, after the battle of Long Island and until the close of the revolution, the friends of the new republic were pretty closely watched. Often it became necessary for them to go away for awhile to avoid imprisonment or even worse punishment at the hands of the military or Tory sympathizers. Just across the bay, at Greenville, N. J., below Communipaw, which in those days was a rich farm district, the friends of liberty found a safe haven and the old mansion soon became known as "Retirement hall."

RETIREMENT HALL.
(Revolutionary Relic on Jersey Shore of New York Bay.)

There, in 1760, Capt. Tom Brown, a prosperous seafaring man, with a heart kindly to the federal cause, built his home, which in war times was a shelter for patriots, and afterward for two generations was the scene of many political conferences of importance and much social gayety. It was a grand mansion in those days, with broad lawns down to the water's edge, pretty gardens, trees and shaded walks.

Although the walls of the house are as thick as a fortress and the building would stand for many years, the railroads are getting closer and closer to it, and, according to the Little Chronicle, it will not be long before "Retirement hall" will exist only in history.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Business Becomes More Stable—Advance In Wheat—The Iron Output.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Progress has been made toward a more stable position of business, with a few more heavy contracts to hold the ground already gained, but for a proper interpretation of the week's results one must look beyond Wall street operations, where, more than in any other quarter, the vacation season is leaving its impress of inactivity. Speculation is cautious, but investment holdings are being increased rather than diminished, and operators cannot see that their hesitation on the ground of politics is echoed any more in general business circles than two months ago.

Cotton fell so sharply that some recovery occurred in an oversold speculative market, and there has been a small net gain for the week, in spite of good crop reports and further reduction in consumption. Wheat advanced about a cent, helped by poor foreign crop reports. The domestic outlook is fairly cheerful, and farmers have marketed freely, receipts at interior cities aggregating 6,287,581 bushels against 3,918,216 last year, and 2,446,417 in 1898. Exports from Atlantic ports were only 1,720,963 bushels wheat, flour included, against 2,503,344 last year, although purchases on foreign account were large and promise an increased movement hereafter. Corn also gained about a cent with the aid of dry weather reports, and is 7½ cents above the price at this time last year. Both receipts and exports for the week fell more than a million bushels below the same week in 1899.

Improvement is slow in boots and shoes, with only a small percentage of eastern shops at work. Stocks decrease slowly, and new contracts are few.

Although the conference at Chicago recently failed to agree to reduce the output of pig iron, individuals have acted independently, and on Aug. 1 only 240 furnaces were in blast, with a weekly capacity of 244,426 tons, according to The Iron Age. This compares with a production of 283,413 July 1 by 284 furnaces and 267,672 a year ago by 187 plants. Present figures are the lowest since March, 1899, when the capacity was 228,195 tons. Furnace stocks are 504,341 tons against 421,038 July 1. Reduction of capacity is larger in proportion than the recent accumulation of stocks.

Railroad earnings are large. Companies reporting gained 5.3 per cent for the first week of July and 8.4 per cent for the last week. Idle cars are going into active service.

Although exceeding last year considerably in number, failures for the first week of August were little larger in amount—$1,580,997 against $1,532,728.

Failures for the week were 177 in the United States against 136 last year, and 23 in Canada against 29 last year.

Defense Rests In Powers Trial.

GEORGETOWN, Ky., Aug. 11.—In the case of Caleb Powers, ex-secretary of state, charged with being an accessory before the fact in the Goebel assassination, the defense rested its testimony yesterday. Several witnesses in rebuttal were introduced by the prosecution. The jury will be taken to Frankfort either Monday or Tuesday to view the scene of the tragedy. When it comes to considering the evidence, the jury will not have to decide the question of which side has dealt in perjury, but which side has been burdened with the larger amount of that product, as during the past few days contradiction and impeachment have been the leading feature. There are few who believe the trial will result in a conviction, but many anticipate a disagreement.

Train Plunges Through a Bridge.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Aug. 11.—A serious accident to a mixed train on the Central railroad quite fortunately did not entail heavy loss of life. The train went through Sargeson's bridge, ten miles from Norton, and was dashed into a heap of debris on the rocks 100 feet below. The bridge was a wooden trestled structure, and the whole affair seems to have collapsed as the train was passing over it. The casualty list is: Killed, John Duncan, the engineer; fatally hurt, William Morrison, fireman; probably fatally hurt, Frank Campbell, brakeman; more or less seriously hurt, Conductor Ryan, cuts and bruises, and Robert V Barker of St. John, leg broken.

The Palestro a Hopeless Wreck.

NORFOLK, Aug. 11.—The British steamer Palestro, which went on the outer Diamond shoals off Cape Hatteras Thursday morning, lies today a hopeless wreck, with her decks under water and the vessel about to break in two. The Palestro was bound from Pensacola to Liverpool with lumber and with her cargo was valued at about $300,000. The crew of 30, together with Captain Armstrong, are being cared for at the life saving station and will shortly come to Norfolk, when the British vice consul will forward the men to their homes.

Roasted to Death.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 11.—James Dugan, 35 years old, was found in the rear of Rockwell's coal yard yesterday roasted to death from the heat of the sun. He had been dead about 24 hours, and when taken to the morgue the flesh on the body peeled off as though it had been thrown into a fiery furnace. It is supposed Dugan wandered into the coal yard while intoxicated and went to sleep.

THE DOLLIES' PIC-NIC.

A number of sweet little dollies
Were lying close by on the shelf,
Contented to lay there together,
And not thinking at all of theirself,
When up jumped one bright-looking dollie
And cried out in a manner most gay:
Oh, dollies, let's have a real pic-nic!
And have it this day, right away!
So they got up a wonderful pic-nic,
And played till they could play no more.
If you want to see this fine pic-nic,

NEWS FROM CONGER.

Ministers Urged to Leave Peking Under Escort.

CHINESE DOUBLE DEALING SHOWN.

Legationers Told That Their Governments Have Repeatedly Asked That They Depart—Seven Americans Killed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—In the light of the latest dispatch from Minister Conger, received by the state department through Minister Wu yesterday, the attitude of the administration is that there is but one thing to be done in the present circumstances—namely, to press on to the relief of the besieged garrison at Peking. This was made known after extended communications between Washington and the president at Canton, O. The Conger dispatch was accepted as showing conclusive justification for the imperative demand of the United States sent to the Chinese government on Wednesday night, insisting that the imperial troops co-operate with the international forces in the rescue of the ministers, and until this condition, as well as that for the cessation of bombardment, is fully conceded by China there is no other course open but to press steadily onward in the mission of relief.

The Conger dispatch was received early at the Chinese legation, and as soon as the official day opened Minister Wu presented it to Acting Secretary Adee at the state department. It was in the American cipher and was found to be an identical note with that of the other ministers at Peking, that of the French minister, M. Pichon, already having appeared, with the additional fact that seven members of the American guard had been killed and 16 wounded. The text of the message as given out by the state department is as follows:

"The tsung-li-yamen states to the diplomatic body that the various foreign governments have repeatedly asked through the respective Chinese ministers that we immediately depart from Peking under suitable escort. The yamen asks us to fix a date for our departure and to make the necessary arrangements to do so.

"Our reply is that we will seek instructions from our governments and that in the absence of such instructions we cannot quit our posts.

"I must inform you that in order to insure our safe departure foreign troops only can safely escort us, and they must be in sufficient force to safely guard 800 foreigners, including 200 women and children, as well as 3,000 native Christians, who cannot be abandoned to certain massacre.

"We cannot accept a Chinese escort under any circumstances.

"All my colleagues are dispatching the foregoing to their respective governments. Of the American marines, seven have been killed and 16 wounded, among the latter Captain Myers and Dr. Lippett, who are getting along well."

The discussion with the president led to the determination to reply to the Conger message at once, and accordingly Secretary Root and Acting Secretary Adee conferred on the terms of this reply. The text was ready by 3 o'clock, and it was forwarded late in the day. It was announced officially and positively that this message would not be made public, either in whole or in substance. It was made plain, however, that the message was sufficiently guarded as not to further increase the jeopardy of our minister in case the Chinese have access to our cipher. As to the terms of the message, they are believed to make plain that this government will not advise, much less direct, that Mr. Conger leave Peking under Chinese escort, when the minister has advised Washington that this would mean certain death. Moreover, the reply doubtless lets the minister know that there is an unaccountable error in the statement of the Chinese government, as conveyed to him through the tsung-li-yamen, that the foreign governments had urged repeatedly that the ministers be sent out of Peking under suitable escort.

This clause contained in Mr. Conger's latest dispatch clearly shows that the Chinese government is leading him to believe that it is the wish of Washington that he leave under a Chinese escort, whereas the United States government never has entertained for a moment the idea of having the minister set out on the dangerous pilgrimage from Peking to the coast under Chinese protection.

There is no probability that the attention of the Chinese government will be directed to its apparent double dealing as indicated by the Conger dispatch. This government has transmitted to the other powers interested the note to the Chinese government intrusted to Minister Wu on the night of the 8th. It has assurances from the other powers that they have not advised their representatives to accept Chinese escort from Peking. It was officially stated at the close of the day that no further representations have been made to the Chinese government since the Adee note of the 8th and that none will be made until the Chinese government has given some indication of the attitude it will assume in complying with or denying the demands of the United States.

While the state department is continuing to dispatch messages to Minister Conger upon the assurance of the Chinese government that communication is uninterrupted, it is doing so with comparatively small hope of their delivery. This assertion was borne out last night when Secretary Root said that there was no convincing evidence in possession of this government that any of our dispatches really had reached Minister Conger. This indicates that the minister has not given a direct and satisfactory answer to any of the queries that have been addressed him by the department of state.

No additional dispatches were received bearing on the military situation either from General Chaffee or Admiral Remey, and the last information leaves the international forces at Yang-tsun last Monday night.

Earl Li to Sue For Peace.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 11.—The foreign office has received the following message, signed "De Cartier" (E. de Cartier de Marchienne, first secretary of the Belgian legation at Peking), dated Shanghai, Aug. 10: "An imperial decree names Li Hung Chang as minister plenipotentiary to negotiate peace." The foreign office has also received from the Belgian minister at Peking a dispatch identical with that received yesterday by the French foreign office from the French minister at Peking, M. Pichon, telling of the attempts made by the Chinese to secure the foreign ministers' acceptance of a Chinese escort to Tien-tsin.

Russia Desires to Crush China.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—A dispatch to The Graphic from Moscow describes the growth of the war fever against China among all classes, the feeling not being alone connected with the Peking situation. Russia, it is said, is concentrating 400,000 men in the far east for the purpose of inflicting a series of staggering blows on the Chinese. She will not commence the really offensive until success is certain. She realizes that the future security of her eastern boundaries depends upon her inflicting such chastisement as will deter the Chinese for generations from violating Russian territory.

Russian Reports.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 11.—It is reported that 12,000 Chinese troops are marching from the provinces of Hunan and Hupei toward Peking and Tien-tsin. Official reports say that three separate Russian columns succeeded in surrounding a large Chinese force at Hai-chau and that, seeing the Russians advancing from all sides, the Chinese fled in an easterly direction, leaving a dozen obsolete guns behind them. The Russians pursued the Chinese for 35 versts until they were exhausted and compelled to abandon the pursuit.

Germany to Send More Troops.

BERLIN, Aug. 11.—On apparent authority it is said here that news regarding the military movements, including the preparations for further shipments of troops to China, will be officially withheld, so as not to betray the plan of campaign in China, including the Chinese diplomatists in Europe. As a result, reports are very contradictory. However, a number of facts go to show that Germany is preparing further large shipments.

KRUGER STILL GAME.

Says War Will Continue—Stories of Boer Successes.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—According to the Lourenco Marques correspondent of The Daily Express President Kruger, in the course of an interview last Wednesday, said that the report that he intended to surrender was without foundation. He declared that the war would last a long time yet.

"A Boer bulletin," continues the correspondent, "announces a big battle between Lydenburg and Middleburg, in which the British had 500 killed and wounded. It also announces the recapture by the burghers of Heilbron, Devilliersdorp and Frankfort."

Boer reports by way of Lourenco Marques lately have proved worthy of little credence.

The Pretoria plot is the theme of many editorials this morning. All the papers decry the idea of treating the Boers too leniently.

"Examples, and stern examples," says The Daily Mail, "are necessary. Although we may not agree with Sheridan's fierce maxim, 'Nothing should be left an enemy but eyes to weep with,' yet this was the conclusion of a not inhuman officer, who thoroughly understood war."

It is persistently rumored in Lourenco Marques, according to a dispatch to The Daily Telegraph, dated yesterday, that Mr. Steyn has committed suicide.

Boers Hear Roberts Is Dying.

PRETORIA, Aug. 11.—It is said that Lord Methuen has arrested General De Wet's march. All the Boers in the field credit a rumor circulated by their leaders that Lord Roberts is dying. Roberts, however, is now in excellent health, is displaying wonderful energy and rides daily long distances.

An Ugly Anarchist.

RICHMOND, Aug. 11.—Alexander Bracchi, the alleged anarchist who was arrested here on suspicion and upon complaint that he had threatened to blow up St. Peter's cathedral during the Italian demonstration in honor of King Humbert, created a sensation in the police court by springing upon and striking the first witness against him. This incident practically ended the examination, as the police justice sentenced Bracchi to jail in default of $1,000 security. The witness the prisoner attacked was named Jacobini and while on the stand not only repeated his statement that Bracchi told him three days before the assassination of King Humbert that the crime would be committed, but said further that two years ago Bracchi told him one night when they were drinkng together that he had two barrels of dynamite stowed away near Richmond and was ready to finish some of the enemies of the people

Dr. Dowie Off to Holy Land.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Dr. John Alexander Dowie, "Overseer on Earth of the Christian Catholic Church in Zion," arrived in this city yesterday from Chicago, en route to the Holy Land. The earthly Zion of which Dr. Dowie is overseer is situated on the shores of Lake Michigan, 42 miles from Chicago, but the overseer does not live there yet, because the city is not completed. The headquarters of this sect is in Chicago where for ten years it has existed and grown despite the efforts of the Chicago churches, the board of health and a large proportion of the citizens to drive it out. Starting with nothing, it has at present, according to its leader, more than 50,000 active members and has accumulated property valued at $2,000,000

Silver Service For Hobson.

GREENSBOROUGH, Ala., Aug. 11.—In anticipation of the return of Lieutenant Richmond Pearson Hobson of Merrimac fame, his friends are arranging a reception and presentation of a testimonial at his home in this city, to take place probably early in September. The testimonial to Mr. Hobson will be in the form of an elaborate silver service, consisting of a handsome waiter and five pieces, decorated with etchings illustrating the sinking of the Merrimac in Santiago bay June 3, 1898.

Djevad Pasha Dead.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 11.—Djevad Pasha, the former grand vizier, is dead. Djevad Pasha was promoted in 1891 from the governorship of Crete to the position of grand vizier or chief adviser of the sultan. He was succeeded in 1895 by Kiamil Pasha, who was in turn succeeded in the same year by Khalil Rifaat Pasha, the present grand vizier.

Crop Conditions.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The August report of the statistician of the department of agriculture shows the following averages of condition on Aug. 1: Corn, 87.5; spring wheat, 56.4; oats, 85.0; barley, 71.6; spring rye, 76.0; buckwheat 87.9; potatoes, 88.2; timothy hay, 79.9.

TRAIN ROBBERS DEAD

Swift Punishment For the Union Pacific Desperadoes.

THREE PURSUERS ARE WOUNDED.

Identity of the Men Who Did the Hugo Robbery and Killed a Passenger Who Resisted Fully Established.

GOODLAND, Kan., Aug. 11.—Two men who on Sunday last robbed a Union Pacific train in Colorado and killed a passenger were surrounded in a ranch house near here yesterday. During the fight which followed one of the robbers was killed. Two possemen, J. B. Riggs, owner of the Commercial hotel of Goodland, and George Cullins were severely but not fatally wounded. Another of the pursuing party, name unknown, was wounded slightly. The second robber, who made his way into a sod kitchen back of the house, where he held 50 possemen at bay until 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was burned to death.

Two men succeeded in crawling up to the building and threw lighted fuses on the roof. The place was destroyed and with it the robber.

The Union Pacific Kansas City-Denver train was robbed between Limon Junction and Hugo, Colo., 90 miles east of Denver, last Sunday morning, many relieved of their money and valuables, and W. J. Fay, an aged man, who resisted, was killed by one of the robbers. The robbers dropped off the train at Hugo and escaped. Wednesday, it is learned, they went to the ranch of D. E. Bartholomew, three miles out from Goodland and 100 miles overland, and asked for food and lodging for a few days. They said they did not want to go to town, as their clothes were ragged. Thursday night a boy whom they sent to Goodland to get the Denver papers reported the circumstances. From the boy's description the men were believed to be the Hugo robbers. Yesterday a posse consisting of Sheriff Walker, J. B. Riggs, George Cullins, E. C. Biddison and several others, heavily armed, went over to the Bartholomew place.

Walker and Riggs dismounted and proceeded to the house. One of the robbers caught sight of them and gave the alarm. When Walker a moment later began kicking on the door, he was met by a volley of shots from inside. The remaining members of the posse quickly lined up around the house, and for ten minutes bullets whizzed at a lively rate. The robbers returned the fire strongly, and Riggs soon fell, hit in the breast and back. Finally one of the robbers jumped through a window and made off in the smoke. Before he had gone half a dozen steps he fell.

Sheriff Walker meantime had forced his way toward the house and was intent on getting inside. In the smoke and confusion Cullins got in the way of Walker's gun and was shot in the back and seriously wounded. While the posse were removing Cullins the remaining robber made his way to a sod kitchen near by and barricaded the door.

The robber was armed with a rifle, and every attempt to approach the house drew his fire. About 4 o'clock some men crawled through a cornfield unobserved to a shed near the house. With great accuracy they threw two railroad fuses upon the roof of the shack. In a few minutes it was in flames, but the robber made no sign of being struck by the hundreds of bullets fired at his retreat. He met death in the flames.

Both bodies were brought here last night. Their identity as the men who did the job near Hugo was thoroughly established. On the body of the one shot in the morning was found a watch, two masks and a ladies' watch chain and charm. A large roll of bills and two valises were burned.

Thrice Around the World.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Lieutenant Horace MacFarland, U. S. N., has returned to this city from Manila on the Dixie, thus completing his third voyage around the world. He is the guest here of his brother, District Commissioner H. B. F. MacFarland. Lieutenant MacFarland served with distinction in the Cuban naval campaign during the Spanish war and then went on the Oregon to the Philippines. Later he had an independent command in the captured Spanish gunboat Samar and was sent to break up the insurgent communications between the southern islands of the archipelago. In this cruise of 2,000 miles he captured or destroyed 37 insurgent vessels and received high commendation for this service from Admiral Watson, commander in chief, and other officers.

Fitzsimmons Whips Ruhlin.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Bob Fitzsimmons of Australia, but now an American citizen, met Gus Ruhlin, the Akron giant, of Akron, O., last night before the Twentieth Century club at Madison Square Garden, and Fitzsimmons won by knocking the Ohioan down and out in the sixth round. Before the fight and for some weeks past there have been many reports to the effect that Fitzsimmons was too old to successfully cope with his younger opponent. It was argued that Fitzsimmons' well known knowledge of the game and his capability of hard hitting would not be able to counterbalance the youth and strength, as well as the recently acquired ring tactics, of the Ohio man. Last night, however, all this was changed. Fitzsimmons did the trick cleanly and cleverly.

Alabama's Trial Delayed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Owing to the defective condition of drydock No. 3 at the New York navy yard, it has been found necessary to postpone the preliminary official trial of the battleship Alabama, which had been set for the 20th inst., over the government course off the coast of New England. The big ship is to be docked at New York preparatory to the trial, and it has been found that the dock must undergo certain repairs before it can be used for the purpose. It is said, however, that there will be no great delay in the matter.

Crowds at the Pantheon.

ROME, Aug. 11.—All day long an immense crowd surged through the Pantheon, where lay the casket containing the remains of the late King Humbert. So great was the crush that the assistance of troops was necessary to regulate the movements of the throng. In the afternoon King Victor Emmanuel received the heads of the diplomatic corps, including the representative of the United States.

A MOST UNUSUAL MAN.

Agent of Chicago Firm Tells of Some Queer Experiences in New York City.

"I must have been born under an unusual star, one of the sort that are jolted from fixed orbits about once in a thousand years, because my experiences are never like those of anyone whom I know," said the New York agent of a Chicago firm, according to the Inter Ocean. "I was walking down Gold street with a friend on April 1 when we saw a pocketbook on the sidewalk.

"'Not on your life,' said my friend, as he passed by, but I picked it up. It contained $60 in notes, and although I advertised it, no owner appeared. Every other pocketbook lying idle on a New York street that day had a string attached to it.

"My life has been filled with contrary incidents of this sort. An acquaintance who had occasionally borrowed money from me came to me two years ago and said:

"'Old man, you have always been white to me, and I want to do you a favor. I can't pay back the money I owe you, but I have a straight tip that is worth more. It is inside information. Rake up all the money you can and buy this stock.'

"I knew no more about stocks than a child, and I had never heard that straight tips sometimes failed. I bought the stock and sold it at 60 points profit. That was unusual, eh?

"Now, yesterday my office boy came to me and said:

"'Sir, my grandmother died yesterday, and I want to get off this afternoon to attend the funeral.'

"I always read the comic papers, and I said: 'Wait a minute, my boy, and I'll see about it.' I looked in my newspaper and found that the home team was going to play a strong western team that afternoon. My experience in unusual experiences somehow never teaches me anything, so I said:

"'William, are you sure your grandmother is dead?'

"'Sure,' said he; 'Casey, the undertaker, put her on ice yesterday.'

"'And has she never been buried before?'

"William looked at me as if he thought my mind was wandering.

"'Never that I know of, sir.'

"'Are you going to sit on the bleachers, Willie?' I asked.

"'Naw, I'm going to ride in the kerridge with the folks.'

"He's deeper than I thought, I concluded.

"'Well, Willie, you may go this time and see the game,' said I, 'but don't bury your grandmother again this season.'

"Willie told the elevator boy that the old man was gettin' 'dotty,' and off he went. Now it does seem strange, but Willie's grandmother was buried that afternoon, and Willie not only went to the funeral but his 'kerridge' was upset and he was taken to the hospital with a broken arm. I have just been up to see him, and I am so penitent at my jibes about Willie's grandmother, to whom he was really attached, that I have had him removed to a private room and I'm going to pay all of his expenses. Willie never went to a ball game in his life. Now, did you ever hear anything stranger than that? I am certainly the most unusual man of my acquaintance."

Astounded The Editor

Editor S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., was once immensely surprised. "Through long suffering from Dyspepsia," he writes, "my wife was greatly run down. She had no strength or vigor and suffered great distress from her stomach, but she tried Electric Bitters which helped her at once, and after using four bottles, she is entirely well, can eat anything. It's a grand tonic, and its gentle laxative qualities are splendid for torpid liver." For Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Stomach and Liver Troubles it's a positive, guaranteed cure. Only 50c at L. W. WHAT CARNEGIE THINKS.

United States the Only Nation In the Right on Chinese Question.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Mr. Andrew Carnegie sends to the press the following statement regarding the situation in the far east and the relation of the United States to future developments there:

"The refusal of the United States to participate in the attack on the Taku forts makes the Washington government the natural mediator between China and the European powers in Japan, but America's position may easily be forfeited by agreeing to joint action. The release of Minister Conger and a demand for compensation for injuries incurred are duties incumbent upon the government, but the United States, in my opinion, should take no steps in conjunction with European powers. I take this view because each of those powers has separate interests at heart.

"Washington has been the only government which has been right with regard to the safety of the legations. From every point of view President McKinley and Secretary Hay must be credited with having placed our country in a higher and better position than that occupied by any other.

"Probably Great Britain is committing a serious error in taking care of its special department at Shanghai. President McKinley has only to continue in the course upon which he has started to give the United States a most commanding position as the only nation disposed to give the government of China a fair trial and not to condemn it until proved guilty. Our policy is clear. European nations attack China and quarrel about the division of Chinese territory. We remain friendly and await events. We have quite enough foreign territory already."

THE CUBAN ELECTIONS.

Governor Wood Laboring to Secure Intelligent Representation.

HAVANA, Aug. 11.—Governor General Wood has returned here from Matanzas. He has been in that city in consultation with the civil governor on political questions bearing on the forthcoming elections. It is feared that Matanzas, owing to the majority of the population being colored men, will send delegates to the convention who will not fairly represent the white and better classes and that, the colored element predominating, the millions of dollars of Cuban and foreign money awaiting investment in Havana will be withdrawn, to say nothing of more serious consequences to follow.

General Wood left here today, with Secretaries Lacoste and Tamaya, on a tour throughout the island, his purpose being to point out to the inhabitants of the various sections the advisability of sending their most capable men to the convention irrespective of party.

Secretary Lacoste is also president of the Planters' association. He is conservative and level headed and will accompany General Wood throughout his tour. He has the confidence of the representative Cubans on account of his war record.

All the efforts of the military government are devoted to securing for Cuba a constitution framed by clean and capable men and not by political partisans, whose ambitions rise no higher than their own selfish motives.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The apple crop in western New York has been damaged by the hot weather.

Between 5,000 and 10,000 people were reported as facing starvation at Cape Nome.

An Italian crank tried to present a big brass projectile to the president at the White House.

The Kansas wheat crop this year has been officially put at 78,081,000 bushels, breaking the record.

Lord Russell of Killowen, chief justice of England, died in London after an operation for gastric catarrh.

Lieutenant Governor Woodruff was brought to the front again as a possible nominee for governor of New York.

Washington Turner jumped from a train near Anniston, Ala., with his wife and child. He had never ridden on a railway before.

The English Disgruntled.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—The weekly papers and the financial organs follow the dailies in severe comment upon the peculiar methods of the chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, in issuing the exchequer bonds, but they do not fail to recognize the value of the services which American bankers and the treasury have rendered Great Britain of late by helping the money markets during a trying period, the period of the stoppage of gold exports from South Africa. They also recognize the high importance of the new departure which promises to place New York at the head of the world's money markets.

Princeton's exhibit was prepared by a committee of four, President Patton, Professor Libbey, Professor Andrew West and M. Taylor Pyne.

Williams and John N. Henderson; treasurer, John W. Robbins; railroad commissioner, L. J. Storey.

Stokers' Strike Ended.

HAVRE, Aug. 11.—A settlement of the strike of maritime stokers, which had assumed large proportions and threatened to involve not only the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, but also other shipping companies, was effected yesterday. Through the efforts of Vice Admiral Bayle, acting as intermediary, the strikers were induced to accept a compromise, and the strike ended.

ARMOR BIDS OPENED.

Carnegie and Bethlehem Companies Have a Rival.

LOWER PRICE, BUT LONGER TIME.

It Now Rests With Secretary Long to Decide Between Accepting Offer and Building a Government Plant.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Bids for the armor for the eight battleships, six armored cruisers and three protected cruisers authorized by the last two sessions of congress have been opened at the navy department. The armor advertised for aggregates 35,950 tons and constitutes the largest item of its character ever opened to competition by the navy department. The Carnegie and Bethlehem steel companies, which have heretofore monopolized the production of armor plate for the use of the government, had a rival in the Midvale Steel company of Midvale, Pa. These three companies were the only bidders for armor plate, but there were two minor bidders for the bolts and nuts, amounting to 600 tons, which are to be furnished in connection with the armor plate.

The Bethlehem and Carnegie companies each bid for only half the armor to be furnished, and their bids were identical in amount, terms of delivery and other features. The Midvale company bid for the entire amount of armor at a price considerably below that of the other companies and also included in their bid a sliding upward scale for lesser amounts than the total aggregate, with the condition, however, that the bid should not be considered unless 20,000 tons or more should be awarded to them.

While their bid for the aggregate amount is lower, the period which must elapse before deliveries are to begin is much longer, 26 months, against six months, the time specified by both the Carnegie and Bethlehem companies. This long period asked by the Midvale company before deliveries are to begin doubtless is due to the fact that it would have to construct a plant for the manufacture of armor plate. When it does begin delivery, however, it agrees to furnish 500 tons a month as against 300 tons by each of the other companies.

The bids of the Carnegie and Bethlehem companies are each for 15,000 tons of face hardened armor of class A—that is, armor for battleships and armored cruisers of five inches or more in thickness, at $445 per ton, exclusive of a royalty of $45 per ton, making an aggregate of cost to the government of $7,350,000 for 15,000 tons of armor of this class. On the class B armor for the battleships and armored cruisers, which is face hardened armor of less than five inches in thickness and of which 3,800 tons are to be furnished, each bid at the rate of $400 per ton exclusive of a royalty amounting to $11.20 per ton, making an aggregate bid of $1,562,560 for this class of armor.

The rates of delivery named by the several bidders would take the Midvale company eight years in furnishing the armor for which they bid and the other two companies five years each. As the ships are under contract to be finished in three years and the government is under obligation to furnish the armor to the builders as they need it, this delay in armor deliveries probably would give rise to numerous claims for overtime on the part of the shipbuilders.

The law under which these bids were called for was passed at the last session of congress after a bitter and memorable struggle over the whole question of armor plate. It authorizes the secretary of the navy to contract for the armor of the vessels which have heretofore been authorized and which were authorized in that act, provided he could make contracts at a price which, in his judgment, was reasonable and equitable. Previous acts for several years had placed an upset price on armor which could not be exceeded, but no maximum price was fixed in the current law. The secretary, however, was empowered, in case he could not secure armor at a price deemed reasonable, to procure a site and erect thereon a government armor plate plant. For this purpose, if the secretary should so decide, congress appropriated $4,000,000. No action will be taken upon these bids until the return of Secretary Long, when he will decide whether he will accept them or pursue the alternative course of erecting a government armor plant.

Killed by the Heat.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Eleven persons died here yesterday from the excessive heat which has been torturing humanity in this locality for some days and still continues with little prospect of a let up. The greatest suffering is endured by the people of the lower east side districts, which are so thickly populated. In these neighborhoods numerous families occupy a single apartment, and many of them sleep on the pavements in front of the buildings in the hope of obtaining some little fresh air. The infant mortality is appalling. Horses are perishing all over the city, and the mortality among them threatens to equal that of the record breaking August hot spell of 1896, when so many died that business was seriously crippled.

No Word From Census Supervisors.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Apprehension is felt at the census office for the safety of Charles M. Robinson and W. G. Pine-Coffin, the census supervisors for Alaska, who, with several others, left Rampart City, Alaska, on June 9 for St. Michael's and have not since been heard from. The party went in small boats and should have arrived at St. Michael's by June 15. Up to July 20 no tidings of them had reached St. Michael's. There was a severe storm on the Yukon soon after the party left Rampart City, and it is feared they were drowned.

Mrs. Craven Again Defeated.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—Mrs. Nettie R. Craven has again suffered defeat in her battle for the millions of the late Senator James G. Fair. A decision rendered by Judge Troutt holds that she is not the widow of Fair and is not entitled to any allowance from his estate. Judge Troutt declared the pencil deeds and the alleged will, conveying to Mrs. Craven much of the late senator's estate, were forgeries.

Intense Heat In Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Nine deaths and 15 prostrations resulted from the excessive heat here yesterday. The temperature was above 90 the greater part of the day and for one hour during the afternoon touched 95 degrees.

Sanitary Wisdom.

A resolution presented at Wednesday's meeting of the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers, Gas Fitters and Steam Fitters, in session in Newark, is worthy of especial comment. In brief it strongly advocates better sanitary regulations for all municipalities and towns and a strict enforcement of such laws as are already in existence. The association, by reason of its familiarity with the practical side of sanitation, is competent to speak upon the matter, its dictum having greater weight, perhaps, than that of a good many of the theorists, who couldn't recognize a defect in plumbing or a mistake in drainage if they saw it.

There is little doubt but that the sanitary codes of most municipalities are defective. On the one hand, the "specialist" has his way in measures which are not only unduly expensive, but impracticable. On the other hand, ignorance triumphs in a lack of the most obvious and necessary precautions. But perhaps the great secret of failure lies in the carelessness with which the laws are enforced by the proper authorities. There is always and everywhere a tendency to "let matters run" when the general health is good and conditions are favorable. The enforcement of sanitary laws entails so much vigilance and consequent work upon the authorities and so much inconvenience upon the people that the tendency is not to be wondered at. Neither is it strange that an epidemic frequently results, with an immediate spasm of official activity—which again gives way to apathy after the dead are buried and the city has been "cleaned up."

In throwing the whole weight of its influence against this slipshod method in so important a matter, the association distinctly conserves the public interests. If nothing more, it at least emphasizes the necessity of strict and practicable sanitary measures and recalls sanitary officials to a sense of the very responsible duties which devolve upon them.—Newark News.

The Suburbanites' Advantages.

The ficticious trials and tribulations of the suburban resident have been a subject for funny men of the metropolitan press to thresh over in a thousand different forms of humor for years. Now and then, however, some really sensible observation on suburban life finds its way into the columns of the New York papers. Here is one of them from the New York World of today:

The jesting of the funny men at the expense of the suburban resident is perennial. There is a time for all things, and those who have tried living in the suburbs insist that blizzards afford the only rightful opportunity for wit at the expense of the rational being who is willing to pay daily a short railroad ride for a whole house and a garden in the country in place of a small flat in town with a bowling-alley hall and pantry bedrooms.

But at this season of the year and in these heats the suburban resident is king of the situation. He goes home from the hot streets to cooler if not altogether cool shades. If he is near water he can take the town heat out of himself by a swim.

Whether he has that privilege or not he lives amid herbage and foliage, where radition goes on quickly, so that while the town man is baking from the stored-up heat of bricks and stones he is getting cooler. While the town man sits at the window all night fanning himself and gasping, he is feeling the night get fresher and fresher until morning comes.

There are usually two sides even to a good joke.

In accordance with the request of the National Republican Committee a number of the Congressional conventions in New Jersey were held early, but others are still delayed. Those having Republican Representatives which have been held are the First, Second, Fifth and Eighth, and those to be held are the Third and Sixth. The two districts having Democratic Representatives—the Fourth and Sev—have not been called. The ...ity is that R. Wayne Parker ...minated by the Republi...th, and Benjamin F. ...be renominated in ...F. Salmon will be renominated by the Democrats in the Fourth, but in the Seventh they are all at sea, and will be, according to Robert Davis, the Hudson county Democratic leader, until early in September. The Republicans have made no positive selection in the Fourth district, but it is understood that John I. Blair Reiley, of Phillipsburg, can have the nomination if he will accept it. In the Seventh district the Republicans are in the same position as the Democrats. The Republican convention for the Third district has been called for September 5th at New Brunswick.

Governor Theodore Roosevelt is to speak in Newark in the latter part of October, probably at the Krueger auditorium, after his return from his western trip. The Republican county committee will probably be able to announce the exact date before very long. There will be no parade or public reception, according to present plans.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The Democrats of Somerset county say that if Middlesex and Monmouth counties will permit them to name the candidate in opposition to Benjamin F. Howel in the Third Congress District they will make things exceedingly interesting for the Republicans by nominating Samuel S. Childs, the New York dairy restaurant man, whose home is in Somerset county. Mr. Childs has had some experience in politics, and it is violating no confidence to say that probably his experience has so far been more interesting to him than to anyone else.—New York Tribune.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The highest point in New Jersey is on the summit of the peak of the Blue Mountains, known as High Point, located in the extreme northeast corner of the State, between Deckertown and Port Jervis. The elevation there is given by the geological survey as 1,804 feet above sea level, while the height of the mountain at the Water Gap on the Jersey side is only 1,456 feet above sea level.

* * * * *

The Jersey meadows rarely come in for anything but abuse. Suburban travelers who are carried over that marshy stretch of land twice a day grow to look upon it as one of the hardships of their days' journeys. At times they provoke condemnation no less pronounced than the kind usually directed toward Hunter's Point. It was this same stretch of reeds and grass that gave rise to a conundrum that was very popular for a while in front parlors along the line of a certain New Jersey railroad. The questioner used to ask why the president of the road was a generous man to his patrons. The answers used to be that he first gave every passenger a scent crossing the meadows and then passed all the oranges. Whether or not that intricate witticism is still popular along the road, it at one time enjoyed a great vogue. But there is sometning beyond the scent of the meadows to attract attention to them now. They are a-bloom from one end to another with the marshmallow flower and its dainty color adds an exquisite tone to the rank green that is usually the only color visible to the eye. Every August the flowers begin to bloom and they are usually most numerous on both sides of the narrow canals that drain the damp earth. This year their delicate pink and white blossoms are scattered over the whole range of the meadows and they have not reached their fullest bloom. Usually they last throughout the entire month and the flowers increase in size. Now they are rather small, but beautiful in their delicate shading of pink and white. The same blossoms attract less attention in other places. It is their loveliness in such a spot and their abundance that help them to give the despised meadows real beauty while they last.

Gentlemen:—My mamma has been a great coffee drinker and has found it very injurious. Having used several packages of your GRAIN-O, the drink that takes the place of coffee, she finds it much better for herself and for us children to drink. She has given up coffee drinking entirely. We use a package of Grain-O every week. I am ten years old.

ROYAL

The absolutely pure

BAKING POWDER

ROYAL—the most celebrated of all the baking powders in the world—celebrated for its great leavening strength and purity. It makes your cakes, biscuit, bread, etc., healthful, it assures you against alum and all forms of adulteration that go with the cheap brands.

Alum baking powders are low priced, as alum costs but two cents a pound; but alum is a corrosive poison and it renders the baking powder dangerous to use in food.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Oldenburg.

Vechta. Beim Baden ertrank ein Schüler des hiesigen Seminars Namens Berendmeyer aus Bühren.

Mecklenburg.

Parchim. In dem nahe gelegenen Dorfe Slate brach, wahrscheinlich durch Selbstentzündung des frisch eingebrachten Heues, in der Scheune des Lehrers Ihde Feuer aus. Die Frau des Lehrers begab sich, aller Warnungen zum Trotz, in den Kuhstall, um die Kühe loszubinden und herauszutreiben. Als sie wieder herauseilen wollte, fand sie unter dem herabstürzenden Strohdach ihren Tod.

Braunschweig. Anhalt.

Braunschweig. Vor 150 Jahren ließ Herzog Karl der Erste eine Anzahl Pfälzer Familien herkommen und überwies ihnen den eine Stunde von Braunschweig belegenen „Veltenhof," in der Absicht, hier Weinbau einzuführen. Kürzlich feierte die Gemeinde Veltenhof, in der sich Sprache, Sitten und Gebräuche der Pfälzer bis heute ziemlich unvermischt erhalten haben, das Jubiläum ihres 150jährigen Bestehens. Zum Weinbau ist es allerdings hier nicht gekommen, dagegen wird in Veltenhof, nachdem der Tabakbau auch aufgehört hat, bedeutender Spargelbau betrieben.

Schöppenstedt. Der Rittergutsbesitzer Eduard Schultze aus Watzum stürzte in den Alpen bei Disentis, Graubünden, ab und war sofort todt.

Dessau. Generalfeldmarschall Graf v. Blumenthal feierte auf seinem Gute Quellendorf bei Dessau in aller Stille seinen 90. Geburtstag. Das Offizierkorps des Magdeburgischen Füsilier-Regiments Nr. 36, dessen Chef der Generalfeldmarschall ist, versammelte sich zur Feier des Tages zu einem Galadiner.

Großherzogthum Hessen.

Darmstadt. Kaufmann Georg Schmidt, Inhaber der Firma Emil Bierheller, hat sich erschossen.—Zur Unterstützung der auswandernden rumänischen Juden hat sich hier unter dem Vorsitz Ludwig Triers ein Komite gebildet, das Sammlungen in die Wege leiten wird.

Mainz. Die Stadt Mainz hatte zum Zwecke der Wasserversorgung die Erbauung eines Hochbehälters ausgeschrieben. Die Eröffnung der eingelaufenen Offerten ergab, daß auf das auf 100,000 Mark veranschlagte Projekt die merkwürdigsten Preisunterschiede eingereicht worden waren. So verlangte eine Firma in Mülheim a. Rh. eine Summe von 55,576 Mark und eine hiesige Firma 104,576 Mark!

Offenbach. Die Inhaber der bankerotten Bankfirma Gustav Vogel u. Co., Gustav und Max Vogel, die Beide flüchtig sind, werden steckbrieflich verfolgt. Zur Last gelegt werden ihnen Vergehen der Untreue, Unterschlagung und des Betruges.

Oppenheim. Drei Gefangene brachen aus dem Gefängniß aus, nachdem sie den Gefängnißaufseher und seine Familie in das Haus eingesperrt und die Hofmauer überkletert hatten. Einer der Entflohenen wurde wieder eingefangen, die beiden anderen konnten nicht mehr eingeholt werden.

Bayern.

München. An der technischen Hochschule wurden innerhalb der letzten fünf Jahre für Bauten und Einrichtungen rund 1,500,000 Mark verwendet.—Anhier verstarb kürzlich Fräulein Julie v. Miller. Als im Kriegsjahre 1870 auf 1871 ihr Vater Ferdinand v. Miller in der königlichen Erzgießerei ein Spital eingerichtet hatte, war sie die unerschrockene, unermüdliche Pflegerin der Verwundeten. Später erhielt sie, nach Rettung zweier Menschen aus dem Starnberger See die silberne Rettungsmedaille.

Altötting. Der berüchtigte Einbrecher Michael Harner von Hochburg-Ach wurde nunmehr in Oesterreich verhaftet. Auf seine Ergreifung war durch das königliche Bezirksamt Altötting eine Prämie von 200 Mark ausgesetzt worden.

Aschaffenburg. In einer Gemeindeversammlung in Leider wurde die Eingemeindung mit Aschaffenburg einstimmig genehmigt. Dadurch steigt die Einwohnerzahl Aschaffenburgs auf 17,000 Seelen.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

There are now 59,712 Christian Endeavor societies in the world, with 3,500,000 members.

Education in Mexico is almost entirely under government direction. There are very few private educational institutions, and such are of minor importance.

Permission has been obtained from the czar to establish a sort of Young Men's Christian association among railroad employes in Russia. It is to be called "committee for the improvement of young men."

Father Leary, a Catholic priest at Chapman, Mo., has raised a fine point with regard to the dog tax. He says his dog watches faithfully around the sanctuary, and therefore is church property, exempt by state law.

There is a Hebrew court in Great Britain known as the Beth Din, which is presided over by Very Rev. Adler, chief rabbi of England. Its decisions are not, of course, legally binding, but all who come before the court are asked to sign a form accepting the decisions as final.

The Greek church has finally separated itself from Tolstoi. It has been quietly done, because Tolstoi is strong with the Russian people. It does not appear that it will affect Tolstoi very much one way or the other, except somewhat perhaps in his feelings. He had already put aside the dogmas of the Greek church and most other churches.

Although Massachusetts takes a leading place in matters educational the school committee of Boston has come to the conclusion that many of the public schools there are in dangerously unsanitary condition. There are more than 100 of such school buildings, according to the board of health, many of them in such a shocking condition that were they private property the board would order their immediate repair or condemnation. In dealing with public property the board can act only in an advisory capacity, and its advice has often been spurned by the school committee.

Among the colleges Harvard was probably the best represented at the republican national convention. Besides Gov. Roosevelt, Secretary Long, who was also mentioned for the vice presidential nomination, is a Harvard man, having been graduated in 1857. Senator Wolcott, the temporary chairman, was graduated from the law school in 1871, the same year in which Senator Lodge, the permanent chairman, was graduated from the academic department. Senator Penrose, who had an important part in the preparations for the convention, took his bachelor degree in 1881.

EXERCISE FOR THE MIND.

Frequent Chess Playing Trains the Mental Faculties to Close Application.

Perhaps the mental quality most useful to the chess player who wishes to rise to distinction in the game is concentration—the ability to isolate himself from the whole world and live for the events of the board while a match is proceeding, says the Westminster Gazette.

And yet "concentration" does not quite suit me in expressing the quality I refer to, for concentration implies narrowing, and I am satisfied that the influence of chess broadens the mind. All the leading chess masters take such an interest in events outside their own particular world as would be expected of lawyers, for instance. Some of them take up specialties for pleasure and become experts in them. Steinitz, for instance, is deeply interested in matters pertaining to the rise, progress and history of the Hebrew race, and that in spite of the fact that he gave his life to chess. That he has become insane is no reflection upon the game. He has had illness and trouble for a long time. The same may be said of Morphy's insanity. It was not due to chess.

Tschorigan is a valued employe of the Russian government; Lasker is now a professor of mathematics, having just received his degree from a German university. Tarrasch is a practicing physician. Maroczy is assistant city engineer of Buda-Pesth, and so it goes. I believe that the influence of chess itself is beneficial in so training the mind that its entire power can be wielded and controlled instantly for the accomplishment of a certain purpose. It is the mistaken notion of some of the opponents of the game that it has an effect upon the mind like the blacksmith's constant hammering upon the muscles of his arm. He becomes muscle-bound. He is strong, but can only use his strength in a certain manner. So far as my observation goes, nothing at all similar happens to the mind of the chess player.

Smallest of Army Wages.

The pay of the Chinese soldier indicates that he must be an even more economical person than the New Zealand bushman, who was able to live on £4 10s. a year, on which he kept a horse and entertained. The Chinese private at £2 8s. per annum is extremely inexpensive compared with the Englishman at £77, the Russian at £48, and the Italian—the cheapest of European soldiers—at £41. On this three halfpence a day there is little fear of bursts of dissipation, though the cavalryman has an extra 8s. a month for his horse, out of which he replaces the animal if it be killed. The Japanese gentleman who keeps up a house and two servants on £100 a year, and the Swiss who expends as much as 2 francs a day seem criminally extravagant, for in India only one man in 700 pays income tax. Why not gable over a few pounds to buy off the entire Chinese army?—London Chronicle.

CHINESE WOMEN.

How They Live, What They Wear and How They Are Regarded by Chinese Men.

BY CALLA ROBELY HAINES.

The Chinese woman is kept well in the background. In the lower classes she undoubtedly leads a life of degrading bondage, and even the women of the upper classes have only a limited amount of freedom. Of course there are notable exceptions. There is the empress dowager herself, who, according to the popular tradition, rose from a slave girl to hold sway over the whole empire.

But there are several other powerful and ambitious women in China. One of these is the wife of Kenc Sho Tsay, WIFE OF A MANDARIN.

a prominent Boxer chief. She has a most intense and jealous hatred of the dowager empress and, it is believed, would like to make herself the next "old woman of China." She is her husband's chief adviser, and it is she who has urged on the Boxer outrages from the beginning.

But, while there are rare instances where Chinese women have won power and prominence, it is the general sentiment in China that women are of inferior clay and are to be treated more as vassals than as equals. In spite of all this the feminine ideal is high in China, but it is one of the characteristics of this inscrutable race that their theories are often at variance with their practices.

From her very birth the Chinese woman has an unenviable lot. At her first appearance in the world she meets a disappointed and angry father. As a girl she is given the most rudimentary education. At 12 she is banished from all companionship to become "the young girl who sits in the house" until her marriage, when she is apt to marry some one she has never seen. Then she must obey her husband and her mother-in-law.

The doctrine inculcated in the Chinese classics is that a woman has three stages of obedience—first, to her father; second, to her husband, and, third, if her husband dies, to her son when he reaches manhood. The proverb reads: "Men wish their boys to be like wolves and fear lest they should be timid. Their girls they wish to be like mice and fear lest they should have the boldness of the tiger." The laws established 2,300 years ago are in force today, and among them are no rules stricter than those for keeping the women in bondage.

Chinese books of instruction for girls consist chiefly of exhortations to discharge their duties as daughters, wives, mothers and daughters-in-law. "The Girl's Fair Books," to which two famous emperors wrote prefaces, describe how the female mind and character must be trained. Modesty, gentleness, self sacrifice, wisdom, respect for elders and a virtuous disposition must be a woman's equipment in life. There is no pressing need for intellectual education.

About 100 women in every 10,000, however, read books of philosophy, literature, poems. Among the aristocratic classes men of letters have even been known to teach their wives and daughters not only to read, but to write, and they have as well published literary works by them. The standard book of etiquette in China was written by Lady Cho 2,700 years since. She was the widow of a distinguished literary man of north China and after his death was faithful to his memory. Her husband's brother was historian of that dynasty, but when his work was half completed he lost his sight. The emperor sent a message to him asking who could finish the book, and the reply was returned that only his brother's widow was capable of doing it. The emperor sent for Lady Cho, and she was conducted in the greatest of state to the palace. There she completed her brother's-in-law work so satisfactorily that it is impossible to tell where she took up her task.

It was not until less than two years ago that the gates of the Forbidden City were opened to let in women from the foreign legation. Of this occasion, when the exclusiveness of centuries was broken down for the time being and the first foreign women were permitted to see the glories of the dragon throne, Mrs. Conger, wife of our Chinese minister, sent home to some of her personal friends most interesting accounts. These letters have recently been made public on account of the widespread interest in the writer and in her subject.

The ladies entered the Imperial City with Lady Macdonald, wife of the British minister, as doyenne. Prince Ching, who is now reported to be befriending the foreigners, acted as master of ceremonies. The party having entered the palace, Mrs. Conger describes what followed thus:

"Our heavy garments were taken, and we were ushered into the presence of the emperor and empress dowager. Our first interpreter presented each lady to Prince Ching and, in turn, presented us to the empress dowager. Then Lady Macdonald read a little speech in behalf of the ladies. The empress dowager responded through Prince Ching; another bow on our part; then each lady was escorted to the throne, where she bowed and courtesied to the emperor, who reached out his hand to each; then a bow and courtesy to the empress dowager.

"She reached out both hands, and we stepped forward to her. She took both of ours, then placed upon the finger of each lady a beautiful heavy chased gold Chinese ring, set with a very large, fine pearl. After thanking her we backed from the throne and took our places below, as before.

"From here we were escorted by many richly dressed, highly painted, decorated young Chinese women and Chinese officials to the banquet hall, where a large table was filled to overflowing with Chinese and European food. Prince Ching, Princess Ching and five other princesses sat at the table with us. The empress dowager and Princess Ching were dressed in most exquisite embroidered rich satins and silks with large pearl decorations.

"They were not painted, and their hair was not extended to the extreme. The young princesses were beautifully and carefully dressed in rich, fine embroidered satins in bright colors. They had painted faces, their hair was extended and elaborately ornamented, and they had long gold finger protectors. They were pictures. The empress and all of her court have large feet.

"After this meal we were invited into other rooms and offered cigarettes and tea. The table was cleared away and we were invited into the hall again. There sat the empress dowager, and we gathered about her as before. She seemed bright and happy. Her face was aglow with good will. There was no trace of cruelty to be seen. In simple expressions she welcomed us, but her actions were full of freedom and warmth. She arose and wished us well. She reached both hands toward each lady and then to herself and said with much enthusiastic earnestness: 'One family. All one family.' Everything she said was in Chinese. She presented to each lady the empress, the emperor's wife, who gave her hand to each. The empress is young and what is called a beautiful Chinese woman. She wore the decorations, paint, etc., of the young women."

Of course these princesses looked very beautiful to Mrs. Conger, but that is the way all princesses are supposed to look. It is a matter of fact, however, that all Chinese women, unless they have reached the age of crooked backs and wrinkles, try to make themselves as attractive as possible. They show much art about it too.

Chinese women do not, however, wear hats and bonnets, but sometimes a band or crown. They wear jewelry, and they always make their own small shoes. Women wear shorter clothes than men, with skirts coming not quite to the knees. On special occasions the skirts may come to the feet.

FORESTRY in America

A Brief History of the Legislation and the Agitation That Have Led to Our Present System of Forest Preserves

WHILE our national system of forest preserves is of but recent origin the agitation which has led to this policy on the part of the government may be said to have begun with the first settlement of the American colonies.

The sentiment for forest protection was strong among the early settlers of the United States. In Massachusetts repeated enactments provided for the care and protection of the forests adjacent to the various communities. In New Jersey laws against forest fires took their places very early upon the statute books. In Pennsylvania the founder of the commonwealth made it a condition that, of all land acquired by him, one acre of forest should be left standing for every five acres cleared. This conspicuous care for the forest in regions where at first it was a hindrance rather than a help to the gaining of a livelihood is explained by the early associations of the settlers. They came from a country where wood was comparatively scarce, and where the penalties for its destruction were severe and severely enforced. The respect for the forest which had been bred in their ancestors by the early English game laws, and continued in themselves by enactments of extreme rigor, was brought over almost without a change to their new land, but it was not destined to last. A growing realization of the vast resources at their command, together with the bitter struggle of the farmer against the forest in the early days, gradually replaced care with carelessness, and respect with a desire for destruction. The feeling bred by the battle against the forest began to take a dominant place in the minds of the people and to prepare that mental attitude which is still responsible for the greater part of the forest destruction even yet in almost undiminished progress over by far the larger part of the United States.

IN A CALIFORNIA FOREST RESERVE.

Following the spread of forest destruction came protest and action against it. In the last decade of the eighteenth century the New York Society for the Promotion of Agriculture, Arts and Manufactures, and, in the first years of the nineteenth, the Massachusetts Society for the Promotion of Agriculture took action, inspired by a desire to protect and promote the growth of forests. In 1799 congress passed an act for the purchase of timber suitable for the use of the navy, or of land on which such timber was growing. This law, reenacted in 1817 and supplemented in 1820, 1822, 1827, 1828 and 1831, led to the purchase and partial protection of 244,000 acres of forest-bearing land in Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, and, in Florida, to some partially successful efforts at the culture of live oak.

Immediately following the civil war came a development of railroad building without parallel in the history of the world, and with it a coincident extension of the lumber trade and of forest destruction. Agitation followed it feebly and at a distance, but not without planting the seed from which the present agencies for forest protection have sprung. In 1867 horticultural and agricultural societies in Wisconsin appointed a committee to report on the results of forest destruction, and two years later the board of agriculture of Maine took action toward the formulation of a forest policy for the state. Laws for the encouragement of tree planting were passed between 1868 and 1874 in nine western and two eastern States, and in 1873, 1874, 1876 and 1878 congress passed and amended the timber-culture acts, which provided for the granting of homesteads to settlers who planted one-fourth of their entries with certain specified kinds of trees. The very mediocre results of these measures led to their repeal in 1891.
